Difficulties That Beset President at Peace Conference Related in American Newspaper Man's Diary

Head of Foreign Service of Associated Press Gives Bits of Conversation Showing How World's Statesmen Clashed.

By ARTHUR BENINGTON.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 5.

SOME of the inside history of the Paris peace conference and of the framing of the peace treaty with Germany is now told for the first time by Charles T. Thompson, superintendent of the foreign service of the Associated Press, who was in Paris throughout the negotiations and had exceptional opportunities for learning the facts. His "The Peace Conference Day by Day," just published by Brentano's, is the diary kept by him in the stirring months between the arrival of President Wilson in France on Dec. 13, 1918, and his final departure June 29, 1919.

Very early in the book he places in relief the two opposite principles, which clashed throughout the conference.

Before the President's arrival E. M. House had already noted that "European diplomacy was very carefully avoiding any reference to the President's 14 points." House had brought the question to an issue; British and French diplomats had done their best to evade it, but House had stood firm and finally presented what amounted to an ultimatum.

And so the 14 points had been accepted, very reluctantly and with the British reservation as to the meaning of the "freedom of the seas."

Clash With Clemenceau.

The first big clash was with Clemenceau over "balance of power." President Wilson, in a speech at the Guildhall, London, denounced the old principle of "balance of power." The following night in the French Chamber of Deputies, Clemenceau closed his speech with the words:

"You are about to vote, gentlemen, and you should know in voting, that this system of alliances, of a balance of power, though condemned in some quarters, is not renounced by me, and that this system of alliances will be my guiding thought throughout the peace conference, if your votes on this motion of confidence send me there."

The Chamber gave him confidence with a vote of 380 to 134, the biggest majority he had ever had. In the American peace delegation this was accepted as a defiance. House telegraphed the full text of Clemenceau's speech to Wilson in England. Two days later the President made his Manchester speech, in which he took up the challenge and replied:

"I want to say very frankly that the United States is not now interested in European politics, but she is interested in the partnership of right between America and Europe. If the future had nothing for us but a new attempt to keep the world at a right poise by a balance of power, then the United States would take no interest because she will join no combination of Powers which is not a combination of all. She is not interested merely in the peace of Europe, but in the peace of the world."

"Thus," remarks Thompson, "the stage was set for this initial conflict—covenant vs. alliance. And yet, strangely enough, both won: Mr. Wilson winning his covenant, and Mr. Clemenceau winning the Franco-British-American alliance for mutual support against Germany."

On Jan. 6 there was a commotion at American headquarters over the so-called "secret treaties," which were soon to become a burning question. House knew all about them, but it is not clear how far the President was acquainted with them. House had first learned of the treaty of London in November, when he was discussing with Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Orlando the terms of the armistice with Austria which were to be sent to Gen. Diaz.

The secret treaty of London came up again, it seems, when American warships participated in carrying out the naval branch of the Austrian armistice. And here again the United States narrowly escaped being committed to the secret treaty.

First Jolt for Open Diplomacy.

It was on Jan. 15 that open diplomacy got its first jolt when the council of great Powers decided to hold its deliberations behind the veil of absolute secrecy.

"Paradoxical as it may seem, the council has been considering 'open diplomacy' in secret session," writes Thompson, "and while the proceedings are closely veiled, it is possible to give textual extracts from the minutes. At the session today there was this exchange:

"President Wilson: I should like to ask whether there would be any objection, owing to the likelihood of leaks, to having the representatives of the press present at the peace conference, as practically nothing will be discussed in that large session, at which any statement will be little more than a public statement of what has been decided beforehand. For my part I would prefer complete publicity to publicity by leak.

"Mr. Balfour: The suggestion that the press be present at the conference is open to this prima facie objection, viz., that if this is carried out the meetings will become partly formal.

"M. Pichon: I remark that should the press be admitted to the peace conference there will be no end of speaking.

"Mr. Lloyd George: I venture to express the hope that President Wilson will not press the suggestion. I fear there will be no end to the conference if reporters are present. Small nations will want to speak at great length. * * *

"M. Pichon: It is to be observed, too, that in the study of the preliminaries of peace it will be dangerous to give the enemy too much information on the points on which there is any difficulty or particular discussion between the great Powers.

"M. Clemenceau: I feel we must be unanimous in what we do. There will be much that I will accept to maintain our unanimity. I will make sacrifices. If I go to the conference I will say nothing that might tend to divide it, but if one small Power that has not been heard in our conversations asks how France has come to accept a certain provision, then I will have to reply, and do not forget that this reply will then be made before the public.

"Baron Sonnino: Small Powers will be obliged to make large speeches.

"President Wilson: I raised the point for discussion, but will not press it."

Discussion as to Russia.

Early in January the Russian question came to the fore. Whether to attack the Bolsheviki with a military force, to besiege Russia with a cordon or to invite Bolshevik delegates to Paris was long debated. Clemenceau favored cordon, Lloyd George the invitation to Paris. Wilson suggested that the Russian factions be invited to send representatives to the Princes' Islands in the Sea of Marmora.

The Prime Minister, Lloyd George, described the scene in the council chamber leading up to the adoption of the President's plan. He said that the Danish minister, Scavenius, had declared that a large expeditionary army would be needed at once to cope with the Bolshevists.

"And who is to furnish this army?" asked Lloyd George.

"Will you furnish it?" continued Lloyd George, turning to Hughes of Australia.

"Not a man from Australia will go to Russia," answered the Australian Premier.

"And will you furnish it?" he asked of Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister of Canada.

"No; Canada would not sustain me in sending an army to Russia," answered the Canadian Premier.

"Then, will America send the army?" continued Lloyd George, turning to President Wilson and Secretary Lansing.

Both of them shook their heads, and the President remarked, decisively, "I could not ask the American Congress and the American people to approve sending a large army into Russia."

"And so," said Lloyd George, "if that is the way you gentlemen feel, it only remains for a British army to be sent to Russia, if we are to embark on the plan of subduing the Bolshevists. And what do you think Parliament would say if I rose to suggest that a British army was going to Russia after all these years of fighting our men have just been through? And what do you think our soldiers would say, and suppose Bonar Law, as chancellor of the exchequer, asked the House of Commons for the credits necessary to send such a military expedition to Russia? What would be the reply?

Lloyd George Turned Scale.

It was this appeal from Lloyd George which turned the scale against any military movement and in favor of a commission. President Wilson's draft for the meeting at Princes' Island was presented as Lloyd George finished his queries. The British Prime Minister supported the President and immediately all the others present fell in line.

The peace conference first heard of "mandatories" Jan. 29. Its members did not understand the principle.

President Wilson, speaking further as to mandatories, referred to the

"Who's Who" of Nat Goldstein

AND THE ANSWER TO

"How Did He Get That Way?"

Former Harness Maker, by Accommodating His Friends, Became Potential Picker of Judges—Not Ruffled by Lowden's Harsh Words.

"The testimony of Goldstein and Moore before the Senate committee clearly shows that they are not fit to sit in a national convention, and certainly I will not accept their support."

An intimate photograph of Nat Goldstein, taken by a Post-Dispatch photographer Friday at the Courthouse on Broadway.

SO wrote Gov. Lowden of Illinois, after Nat Goldstein, circuit clerk of St. Louis, and Robert E. Moore, a deputy under Goldstein, had told in Washington how they received $2500 each of Lowden's Missouri campaign fund. Both are district delegates to this week's national convention in Chicago.

Presidential candidates, before and after conventions and elections, have not always talked so harshly about our St. Louis politicians. When the late "Jep" Howe went to call on President Taft in 1909, shortly after the inauguration, the President is said to have declared that Howe could have anything he wanted, and that if he desired the big chandeliers in the East Room of the White House, they should be taken down and given to him. So much Taft thought of the St. Louis vote, the size of which was credited to Howe's organization, and which had swung Missouri's electors for him.

There is eariler precedent, however, for Lowden's frame of mind. During the McKinley administration, it is still remembered, a Cabinet officer declared that the Missouri politicians, including a lively St. Louis contingent, were "the damnedest outfit I ever saw."

St. Louis and the rest of the country will probably hear much of Nat Goldstein and his $2500 in the next two or three days. There is some distinction even in being well denounced, and anyone who happened in at the Circuit Clerk's office in the Courthouse last Thursday, after Goldstein returned from Washington, would have thought that he had come home covered with honors, and that his support was being sought rather than repudiated.

It was a cheery, even jovial, group that gathered in Goldstein's office. City committeemen and ward workers were there, and the Sheriff and a Circuit Judge were among Goldstein's callers. Goldstein, seemingly elated by the attention he had received in Washington was ready to talk with his visitors of what Senator Reed had said to him, and what he had said to the Senator, in Tuesday's committee questioning.

It should have been just as much "Bobby" Moore's party as it was Goldstein's, for the deputy circuit clerk had received just as much money, had done just as little with it, had been questioned by the Senate committee as much, and had been denounced by Gov. Lowden as severely, as his chief. But Goldstein was ready to take all the glory, such as it was, and Moore will probably continue to be simply an appendage to Goldstein in the campaign fund episode. Old-timers will remember how Thomas Nast, in his cartoons, used to put a tag with the name "Gratz Brown" on Horace Greeley's coat tails, when Brown was running for vice-president on the ticket with Greeley. Moore seems to enjoy about that sort of prominence, in comparison with Goldstein, in the present case.

Hence, there is a present-day interest in the question:

Who is Goldstein? How did he get that way—that is, so that his movements could upset calculations in national as well as local politics?

Goldstein is ready to tell anyone how he started in politics. He was not always a politician. He was once a harness maker, in the pre-gasoline epoch, and lived at Twentieth and Biddle streets.

"James Bannerman ran for Mayor on the Democratic ticket in 1893," Goldstein relates. "He was in the harness and saddlery business, and our harness makers' organization was opposed to him. I got out and worked against him. I worked hard. Cyrus P. Walbridge was elected Mayor, and the Democrats of the Noonan administration were turned out of the City Hall.

"When they came to give out the jobs, I was appointed an inspector of sprinkling in the Street Department. Under Mayor Ziegenhein, I got a place as deputy in the water rates office. From that, I became a deputy sheriff.

"I have been on the Republican City Committee 18 years, I think."

In the Wells administration when most Republican job-holders were dispossessed, Goldstein seemed to be safely anchored in the Sheriff's office, for there was a Republican Sheriff, Pat H. Clarke. But Goldstein was a delegate to the Republican city convention, and voted for the nomination of Louis Nolte for sheriff, and against the renomination of Clarke. Nolte won the nomination, and when Goldstein reported for duty the next morning, Clarke drove him out of the office. Goldstein went back to the harness maker's bench until after election. Then, Nolte having been elected sheriff, he got his old job back.

Fred H. Kreismann, on becoming circuit clerk, made Goldstein one of his deputies, and he was chief deputy under Kreismann's successor, Charles R. Graves, when Kreismann had become Mayor. At the same time, he was a supporter of Kreismann in the fight made on him by Henry W. Kiel and John Schmoll in the city committee When Circuit Clerk Graves died Gov. Major appointed a Democrat, and though Goldstein was elected to the office at the next state election, he had to go to court to get the place. He later sued Major for $10,000 damages for holding up his commission, but Circuit Judge Grimm dismissed the case.

The Circuit Clerk's salary is $5000 a year. Goldstein, who represents the Nineteenth Ward on the city committee, has as his official deputies five other members of the committee, at $2250 each. They are Robert E. Moore, already mentioned, of the Sixteenth Ward; Elmer Moone of the Twentieth; Gabe Roth of the Fifth, Gus Oetting of the Second and "Tub" Becker of the Eighth.

As is well known, the city has not cared very well for its Republican committmen, and only 20 of the 28 hold city jobs. Goldstein and his group, six in all, form a personal circle which can hardy be overlooked in the committee's affairs. No other member has so many of his own retainers on the committee.

Shrewd alliances have added to the strength of the Goldstein group. "Hank" Weeke, of the Eighteenth Ward, is Goldstein's ally, and so Weeke's son-in-law, E. E. Butler, who sits on the committee during the period of Weeke's civic eclipse, is aligned with Goldstein. Anton Schuler of the Sixth Ward, a deputy marshal, is equally close to Goldstein, who is now supporting him for the nomination for City Treasurer. Several other committeemen stick fairly close to this group.

The Goldstein following on the committee has been dignified by James L. Minnis, a senatorial candidate, with the title of a machine, comparable with the main St. Louis Republican machine, of which John Schmoll is chief engineer.

The odd situation which has arisen, in the pending primary election contests, is that Goldstein and his group of court clerks are endeavoring to dictate the selection of judges of the Circuit Court. They have made a slate which eliminates two of the three present judges now seeking re-election, namely Judges Grimm and Shields. They are supporting William H. Killoren, E. G. Ossing and Judge Karl Kimmel for the three nominations. Killoren lives across the street from Goldstein in the 2900 block on Dickson street. Ossing is favored by the Weeke influence. This does not mean that these candidates have no other support. Killoren has the active support of Mayor Kiel. But the nomination of the slate named will be a Goldstein victory.

The state statutes, in enumerating the duties of circuit clerks and their deputies, do not include among these duties the selection of candidates for judgeships. This is an oversight which Goldstein and his friends are doing their best to remedy.

The Goldstein machine is not always strictly partisan in its operations. The North St. Louis district in which Goldstein and Weeke have their chief strength has been the scene of some odd partisan compromises. Two years ago, it will be remembered, no Republican candidate was put up against William L. Igoe for Congress. "Jimmy" Miles and his constable, John F. Byrne, Democrats, have likewise been unopposed. Reformers and mugwumps, it appears, are not the only persons who can "rise above party" when the occasion seems to demand it.

In the Eleventh Congressional District, in 1910, Goldstein and Weeke were active in the support of Theron E. Catlin, who was elected, and who would probably have stayed elected if the Democrats had not been able to show that large expenditures were made on his campaign. Goldstein says, as to this campaign, that he did not handle the "big money," but only the smaller expenditures which were made in speechmaking rounds of the district.

Goldstein's progress, from the harness maker's bench to a potential chooser of Judges and Congressmen, has not been so easy as it may appear, for a man who began with no friends outside his own craft and his own neighborhood. It has been achieved, as Goldstein will readily tell any inquirer, by doing things for his friends, and for those whom he wishes to make his friends. A knack of making good guesses, and allying himself with the persons who could help him, has also been useful.

A job connected with the courts is a particularly good place for a man who is handy at doing things for his friends. There are always men who want to be excused from jury service—men who do not wish to give the time even to come to court and ask for an excuse. The courtroom clerk who can go to the Judge and get an excuse for the asking usually makes a friend by doing it. Such excuses, together with those which he has to grant for good cause, may leave the court short of jurors, but the Judge must not be too fussy. He may want the support of practical men, who can get out the vote, at the next election.

There are sometimes bigger services to be rendered around the courts. It is not good form to say anything to a Judge about a civil suit,

Man With the Big Idea Tells of Bryan's Misadventure in a Prohibition Moving Picture

George R. Dalton of Center, Mo., Gives Particulars of Scheme—Was Unable to Agree on Terms and Now Threatens to Sue Commoner.

GEORGE R. DALTON, of Center, Mo., a scenario writer, moving picture man and one-time actor, has given to the Post-Dispatch the particulars of William Jennings Bryan's misadventure in the moving picture field, fragments of which recently have been published.

Dalton was associated with Bryan for almost four years in an effort to bring out a prohibition film and their failure has brought about personal estrangement where there once was harmony and hopefulness of profitable partnership.

Now that the plan seems to have failed Dalton is threatening to bring suit against Bryan, and has as one of his counsel, Samuel W. Fordyce Jr., a St. Louis lawyer, who also has been active in Democratic politics, but not as a member of the Bryan wing of the party.

Was Dalton's Idea.

Dalton says the big idea of having Bryan appear as a star in a picture designed to show the evils of drink and the beauties of total abstinence occurred to him when, in 1916, he was in the moving picture business in Kansas City, and saw a great crowd going to the Coliseum to hear Bryan, then Secretary of State, speak. His showman's instinct sensed the box office possibilities of Bryan as a moving picture attraction. He first made the suggestion to Bryan in a letter written a short time before the Democratic national convention in St. Louis in 1916, and later met Bryan here at the Jefferson Hotel.

As revealed by Dalton's statement the misadventure began soon after this meeting, at which, according to Dalton, Bryan seemed "greatly impressed," and consented to discuss the subject further after the election. The chief sources of trouble appear to have been frequent changes in Brayan's statement of the terms on which he would appear as a movie star, delays in financing the project, difficulty in finding and holding a suitable scenario writer, unsatisfactory negotiations with several producing companies and inability to come to a mutual understanding as to the compensation which should be paid to Dalton.

This latter phase was further intensified by the fact that in preparation for the production of the prohibition picture play, which was to be called "Throughout the Ages," Dalton copyrighted in his own name not only the title and scenario of the play, but also Bryan's Chautauqua lectures on which the movie scenes were to be based. He now holds these copyrights as trump cards in his effort to obtain from Bryan compensation for his time and trouble in promoting the scheme and to restrain Bryan from going ahead independently and having the picture play produced.

Augustus Thomas Engaged.

Dalton tells of a meeting in New York with Augustus Thomas, playwright, who had agreed to write the scenario if the plan should ultimately be approved by Bryan. A short time later Dalton, by appointment, met Bryan at the University Club in Chicago. Of this meeting he says: "I talked with Mr. Bryan while a tailor was sewing a button on Mr. Bryan's trousers." He does not make it clear if the tailor and the trousers were present at the conference.

There was another conference in New York. Dalton quotes a letter given to him by Bryan to serve as his authority for soliciting financial support for the project. In this letter, as quoted, Bryan wrote: "It being distinctly understotod that I am to receive no remuneration whatever from the play directly or indirectly."

Bryan at that time did not seem to realize the financial possibilities of a successful moving picture play, when he met in North Carolina a representative of a large moving picture corporation who told him of the "big money" that was sometimes realized through picture plays.

Proposed $100,000 Company.

This set Bryan to thinking and he wrote a letter to Dalton outlining a plan to organize a $100,000 stock company. Under this plan no royalties were to be taken until the amount subscribed by the original stockholders should be refunded, after which 37½ per cent of the royalties were to go to the company, 37½ per cent to Bryan and 25 per cent to Stuart Blackton, a motion picture producer of New York. On this basis Bryan said he would take $5000 of the stock.

In all the negotiations Bryan insisted that the picture must be produced in a way to suit him and that he should be the sole judge of it in everything involving a question of "propriety or morals." He also specified that a part of the profits must go to the Good Templars, a prohibition organization, and to Edwin C. Dinwiddie of the Anti-Saloon League at Washington, for the general cause of prohibition.

Dalton tells of the negotiations being made more difficult by the necessity of chasing Bryan around the chautauqua circuit and by Bryan's unwillingness to devote the necessary time to rehearsals and to actual posing for the picture. Augustus Thomas, because of delays in terms, had given up the writing of the scenario, but Dalton says he had a scenario written "by an experienced writer named Lowe in Chicago, and Bryan approved it."

Introduced to Goltra.

Various plans for financing the project fell through before Bryan, according to Dalton, suggested that he had a "life-long friend, a business man, who would put up the money." This was Edward F. Goltra, to whom Dalton was introduced by Bryan at Washington.

About this time, Dalton says, Samuel Untermyer, New York attorney, who had often been an adviser of Bryan, heard of the project through Goltra and strongly advised against it, saying he was afraid Bryan would alienate prohibition sympathizers if he went into the movies. Untermyer, according to the statement, suggested it would be better to form a purse of $250,000 and give it to Bryan than to permit him to take part in such an exhibition. Bryan, according to Dalton, was told what Untermyer said, but refused to give up the plan. All was lovely for a while and it seemed that Goltra would provide the money, something more than $100,000, needed to finance the scheme, and the picture soon would be under way.

But Goltra, according to Dalton, finally refused to provide the money except on condition that Dalton would surrender to the proposed stock company the copyrights which he had obtained, "with Bryan's consent," on the scenario and on Bryan's lectures.

Bryan's Second Proposition.

With Goltra out Bryan made a second proposition to J. Stuart Blackton that the profits of the company should be divided on a basis of 35 per cent for Bryan, 20 per cent to Blackton and the company, 20 per cent to Dalton and 15 per cent to the Good Templars and Dinwiddie. This left a reserve of 10 per cent to pay for the raising of the money. Bryan said he believed he could raise the money, and if he did so he would expect to receive this 10 per cent, which would bring his share up to 45 per cent.

The answer to this was a telegram from Blackton's attorney which read: "Col. Bryan's conditions make it impossible for Blackton or his company to further entertain proposition."

Dalton says, at this point: "By this time I made up my mind that myself and friends who were cooperating with me had wasted a great deal of money—about $12,000—and time in trying to get Mr. Bryan to carry out his part of the agreement." He says that at the La Salle Hotel in Chicago in the final stages of the disagreement he offered to turn over the copyrights on the scenario and lectures if Bryan would reimburse him and his associates for the money they had spent. Bryan, he says, refused to do this, but offered to pay his fare—$10 or $12—back to St. Louis. Dalton refused to accept this, and returned to St. Louis where he made up his mind to seek redress by law.

On Oct. 16 last, he says he received a letter from Bryan, who wrote:

"My Dear Dalton: Dr. Russell tells me that you intend to resort to the courts to settle the differences that have arisen between us. That may be the best way out of the trouble in which you have led me, but I want you to know that it is not necessary unless you have some other object than justice in view.

"While there is no legal obligation enforceable at law, I have had no thought of allowing you to suffer even though your growing demands compel me to give up the picture or take the matter into my own hands. I could not risk its failure and indefinite pecuniary responsibility for myself by making the picture subordinate to your plans for yourself. I expect to go on with the picture, and the amount I am willing to give you—not in payment of any debt, but for sentimental reasons—will, I think, be more than you can secure from the picture if your plans were carried out, and I will be released from the risks that your plan involves and you can have your time to use as you please.

Denied Legal Obligation.

"As I told you, my plan is to use the first money that comes to me

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Our Interstate Commerce Commission.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

At this time, when all business men are clamoring for a sane and intelligent solution of the transportation problem, would it not be wise to consider what steps are being taken to give this greatest of subjects a careful and practical consideration?

Contrary to the opinion of the general public, transportation is a very intricately scientific business, and requires the most exact application of experience and scientific analysis. It takes years to develop a first-class transportation officer, and it takes the highest order of intelligence to master the subject. The present conditions were brought about by the public's failure to appreciate this in the past. The present problem will require a considerable amount of study and analytical capacity, before any solution at all workable can be expected. As a reader of the press, I have failed to see any real solution suggested, even by so good a purveyor of remedial legislation as Mr. Bryan. This is not a political problem. It is economical, and no place for the ordinary politician of the garden variety now blooming so luxuriously in our public life. There are a few things the layman might ask, such as: Is it wise to exclude our transportation officials from helping us work out a solution? Have we still the idea they are too dishonest to be patriotic like our holy politicians?

The recent act returning the railroads is considered a very good compromise plan. Whether or not it is successful depends entirely on the Interstate Commerce Commission. This commission has the authority; has it the ability and the knowledge of transportation?

Two new members were recently appointed, who, no doubt, by their training and experience, will supply a great deal of the deficiency in transportation knowledge required. One, I believe, was an editorial writer and lecturer on political economy in one of our colleges. The other is vice president of a stonecutters' union and vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

Why is it that American engineers, who have built the finest and best railroad systems in the world, and American operating men, acknowledged the best in the world, are barred from helping work this out? Of course, they fail in transportation knowledge in comparison with the two recent appointees. Using the same reasoning, it appears to the layman, it would have been an excellent idea to have turned the Federal reserve act over to a board from a girls' seminary.

Don't you think there is a real need for the papers to publish a sketch of these men, together with a little summary of the job that is before them?

What Can It Be Called?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A week or so ago I noticed an article in your paper saying "Few ex-service men avail themselves of opportunity to get medals."

My husband, who was overseas with the 352d Infantry of the Eighty-eighth Division, filled out an application blank, for which he applied, and mailed it to the Missouri Historical Society nearly two months ago, but has not as yet received the medal for which he applied. If making application for a medal is not "availing himself of the opportunity" then what can it be called after he made a trip downtown especially for the application blank?

MRS. J. H. K.

Due for a Fall.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The ancient admonition, so often passed to school boys, and which in our grandfather's time contained a grain of truth, that "every schoolboy has a chance to be President," should be changed or amended to read, provided he first becomes a multimillionaire, or has friends to whom money is no object. Otherwise, he better keep out of the race for President. Well, it does look that way when we come to consider the enormous "slush fund" that has been used in the present presidential primaries. The cost of the presidential primaries will not be determinable until after the conventions, possibly not until after the November election. By that time it may have been demonstrated that the presidency is not purchasable, that the mere possession of wealth, or of wealthy friends, is not sufficient to raise any man to that office in this country. It may even be shown that too much money is a fatal liability in American politics. This is what I have always firmly believed, and still believe, to be absolutely true and correct, and I want every American schoolboy to believe the same. The American people, as a whole, are not corrupt. America as a nation has a moral conscience and a high sense of real honor. Senator Newberry of Michigan sought to buy or "purchase" his election to the United States Senate with money, not only in violation of the State law, but of the Federal corrupt practices act, and he was convicted by a jury in his own State and sentenced to the penitentiary by the Court. Neither the power of money, political influence, prestige or able attorneys could save him from disgrace and dishonor or a penitentiary sentence.

GEORGE A. RITTER.

REPUBLICANS AT THE CROSSROADS.

The whole country is profoundly interested in the battle for the Republican nomination now in its preliminary skirmishes at Chicago.

The scandalizing of leading candidates through the enormous expenditure of money to gain the nomination, some of it in corrupt ways, is a party concern in which the whole people are to some extent involved, because it reflects discredit on American politics and cheapens the presidency. But it may, by the action of the convention, become a national scandal and a national menace.

The lively probability, diminished to some extent by the primary scandals, but yet strong, that the Republican party will control the next administration, makes its selection of a presidential candidate a matter of vital concern to all the people.

Wholly apart from the question of plutocratic control of politics and government, the character, capacity, policies and purposes of the man who is selected as the Republican standard bearer are of tremendous importance to the country. Rarely in history has there been so great a need for a capable, liberal, far-seeing statesman to deal with pressing problems at home and abroad, in the solution of which not only our own peace, progress and prosperity, but the peace and progress of mankind, the safety and advancement of civilization itself, are involved.

Shall we be governed by a narrow, blindly selfish chauvinism, under which we will be drawn away from helpful, co-operative relationships with other nations, and thus invite disaster and revolution, renewed militarism, exploitation and secret diplomacy, in the consequences of which we will inevitably be entangled? Or shall he take leadership in the spirit of international amity and co-operation to establish justice and liberty, through which alone peace may be guaranteed, and in the organizing of a practical movement to this end? There is no greater concern of mankind now than the rehabilitation of war-torn Europe and the establishing of peace on a basis of equity and co-operation which will minimize the chances of war and its horrors. This is the prime concern of every man, every people and of mankind as a whole. What of Mexico? Shall we be moved in our relations with our distracted neighbor by a spirit of grasping strong-armism, in which there is the probability of war and exploitation, or by a spirit of patient understanding and helpfulness? The right path of the great republic is clear, but will we keep to the right path?

Not less do we need liberality, understanding and able statesmanship in dealing with our domestic problems. The critical relations of labor and capital, the questions of employment, taxation, reconstruction, call for the highest intelligence and capacity. Blunders now may be fatal.

In the matter of money we are confronted with the menace of plutocratic control. Shall the presidency be bought? Shall it be mortgaged? Shall it be the purchased prize of a wealthy man, like Gov. Lowden, whose managers purchased delegates through party bosses? How much of this was done we do not know, but we know it was done in Missouri.

Shall the President be the creature of wealthy men who finance his personal ambitions? What was the purpose of the millionaires who met with Gen. Wood in New York and offered to finance his candidacy? Was their purpose wholly in accord with sound public policy and the public welfare? Did William Cooper Procter underwrite the Wood candidacy for $500,000 with an eye single to the public welfare, apart from personal views or special interests? Assuming that these men were honest in their purposes, what guarantee is there that their policies would promote the public welfare? Shall wealth control or influence governmental policies? Can the American people tolerate a mortgaged President? Will the republic survive?

The decision in Chicago, if it does not determine the presidency, will determine the alternative choice of the people for that office. It will go far towards deciding whether we shall have a plutodemocracy, in which the influence of money will dominate our Government under the forms of democracy, or a representative, free Government, controlled by the people. It will have a potent bearing on the question whether we shall have a Government of, by and for the people or a Government of, by and for plutocrats. It will, at least, determine where the Republican party stands on these questions. The party is at the cross-roads.

THE WORLD'S BIGGEST ZOO.

Islands are so numerous off the coast of Louisiana that many of them have no name, being designated merely by number. The largest, perhaps, of all, one whose importance entitles it to a name, is Marsh Island. On this and on adjacent territory of the mainland, the State of Louisiana will establish the biggest zoo in the world.

To private generosity is largely due this most wonderful of State institutions. Marsh Island, of about 78,000 acres, something more than 100 miles west and a little south of New Orleans, was purchased with money supplied by Mrs. Russell Sage as part of a comprehensive plan for safeguarding wild life. It separates Cote Blanche Bay and Vermilion Bay from gulf waters and is attached for administrative purposes to Iberia Parish, in which the remarkable Louisiana salt mines are located.

On the mainland near by is already located a State game farm of 60,000 acres given for State use by Edward A. McIlhenny, wealthy salt magnate. West of this in Vermilion Parish is the Grand Chenier tract of 85,000 acres, to which the State purposes to acquire title at an early date. West of this tract in Vermilion Parish and in Cameron Parish, another of the low-lying Louisiana counties bordering the Gulf, is 85,000 more acres donated by the Rockefeller Foundation. The entire area of 308,000 acres, more than 430 square miles, comes into the possession of the State, to be devoted, under State supervision, to the beasts of the forest and fowls of the air.

Nowhere else in the world has a retreat for game under human protection been established on such a scale. And we may believe that nowhere else could one be established under as favorable auspices. That it will become the special refuge of birds of myriads of families and countless individuals is most probable. The State in which Audubon was born and in whose feathered life he delighted, is marvelously rich in its fauna of the air. The combination of fresh and salt water and of stretches of forest and land and marshes under a semi-tropical climate, furnishes haunts of different sorts for birds of widely different habits and classification. That in time the mammals and other animals that will thrive in such a region will be added to the indigenous specimens may be imagined—the whole forming a great playground of natural history.

But, of course, it will be as a place for the conservation of wild life, where all sorts of animals may find a home and rear their young, secure from their natural enemies and from the hunter, that this great area extending 75 miles along the gulf will serve its chief purpose. Many specimens whose numbers have been sadly depleted or which are in danger of extinction will be preserved for the observation and study of future Americans.

THAT DEMOCRATIC CANADIAN CLUB.

As if the American people hadn't grief enough to bear in the shocking revelations of what might be called the Republican presidential sale, comes the report that a number of Democratic Congressmen are planning to return from the San Francisco convention by way of Canada. The purpose of this base, unworthy itinerary is known of all. These Democratic Congressmen are going into Canada to indulge certain gross appetites which all Americans have foresworn excepting the very rich and very reckless. They are going into Canada in the dead of summer to drink liquor.

The disgraceful project again reminds us that there is a limit to human foresight. The most painstakingly prepared precautions develop defects, or may be circumvented by the evil genius of the wicked. Surely the eighteenth amendment, as vitalized by Brother Volstead, would seem to have taken most of the joy out of life, yet these Democratic Congressmen have devised a way temporarily to be festive again. Our dry laws, organic and statutory, have failed. They must be strengthened.

How this may best be done is doubtless debatable. But whether done by constitutional amendment, by act of Congress, by the San Francisco platform or by ukase of Westerville, O.—whatever the method, it should be done promptly, so that no such spree as this Democratic Canadian Club's planning may again distress us. Pharasaic though it may seem, it should be ordained that no Congressman shall set foot on the soil of any country that tolerates the presence of the Demon Rum. Our Congressmen, like the rest of us, should be compelled to know what the Demon Prohibition is.

DIPLODOCUS.

Your reference to Diplodocus
Has veritably struck me dumb.
I've seen him, know him, but somehow
I can't exactly spot him now.
How does he look? Where is he from?
Is he a fish vivaparous?
Or something like an octopus?
Is he that Protean, annular thing
In politics ycleped a ring?
Can he inform us who will be
The presidential nominee?
And can he see beneath the ground
Just where an oil pool may be found?
Is he to gravity immune
And swiftly jumps high over the moon?
Is he the fellow on Venus or Mars
Our wireless messages sometimes jars?
Please tell me and the rest of us
Who, which or why or that or thus
Can be this strange diplodocus.

I have him now—a sauropod,
Huge, very long and very odd.
He was a lizard-footed beast
That used to forage 'round and feast
Along the shores and through the brakes
Where gleamed Wyoming's vanished lakes.
And that was not so long ago—
I'd say ten million years or so.
If with his kin he was at war,
With Brontosaur and Dinosaur,
He must have fought them with his tail;
For that was forty-two feet long
And in proportion stout and strong—
A most terrific threshing flail.
To partly balance the caudal weight
He had a neck of twenty-eight.
More moderate was the body's mete—
The length and height each fourteen feet.
And there you are—you'll find the score
From tip to tip is eighty-four.

Though senseless Greek his name may seem,
'This not as senseless as you deem;
Thus: diplo, double; dokos, beam.—
A double beam—which does, you see,
Befit the monster to a T.

What a lot of Democrats got into the senatorial race at the last minute. It is almost as great a scandal as that which dished Republican certainty of carrying the State. One blushes as a Democrat to say that no less than four men, all afraid to run when it looked hopeless for the Democrats, suddenly cast their fortunes with the party when the State was again made safe for democracy. Such an exhibition of selfishness almost makes the State unsafe again. Well, we have said what we think of it. It is in an ethical matter of this sort that our two-story thinkers shine. Editor Reedy says the same thing about it. What else is there to say? The nomination goes by default to bravery. There was only one brave Democrat in the State when the test came, and that was Secretary Long. With what amazing misunderstanding of us all do people like Bre'r Hay and Bre'r Priest oppose to that matchless exhibition of courage their own despicable cowardice! Let us be glad they came in. Only this revelation of what is unfine in them could in turn reveal what is fine in us. Each of us needs to know about the other. We know about them; they must know about us. Bre'r Hawes is stronger than any of those who decided at the eleventh hour to run. He knew what the situation had become. He knew the Republicans could no longer beat a fat man up a hill. But actuated by the ethics of good sportsmanship as he was, he turned his tremendous energy and amazing popularity into a race with Otto Stifel for Congress. Gov. Gardner is stronger than any of the safety-firsters. He kept out. He saw it wouldn't do. He knows bravery when he sees it. He knows, too, what we all think of that rare virtue. The men who piled in after the race had been won have made a political faux pas. They ask us to applaud opportunism as against a virtue acclaimed as far back as Homer.

Sir: A friend of mine here says a sign hunter has to go to St. Louis and work four years under your instruction before he can get a license and have a territory of his own. I don't believe it. I believe we learn it at home, and I am going to send you some signs we have in the South to see if you will print them. The first is at Franklin, La.:

Restrant
Fish and Tobacca

Some restaurant.

This one is on the head end of street cars at Little Rock:

M. O. P. Depot

That means Missouri Pacific depot. You have to guess hard at some of these.

Another one at Monroe, La.:

No near beer here
No beer near here

Is this doing all right? J. H. H.
Little Rock, Ark.

Sign upon a negro church during a bazar:

Come in the Lord lobe a cheerful giber

On a junk shop, St. Louis:

We buy from a needle to a steamboat

On a soft drink saloon:

Closed
I would linger longer but
I can no longer linger

One of our contemporaries carries this caption on a picture:

> MT. ORIZABA, the highest and one of the prettiest mountains in Mexico, the battlefield of the Carranza forces and the Revolutionists. Orizaba is the second highest peak in North America, about 13,500 feet above sea level.

Get out. There are no such things as mountains; this was not the battlefield of the Carranza forces and the Revolutionists, and there are a dozen mountains in Colorado all over 14,000 feet. Otherwise the caption is all right.

R-R-REVENGE!

Passing through a military hospital, a distinguished visitor saw a horribly wounded private from one of the Irish regiments.

"When are you going to send that man back to the States?" he inquired.

"He ain't going back to the States—he's goin' back to the front," an orderly informed him.

"Back to the front?" exclaimed the visitor, "but, man, he's in awful shape!"

"Yes," replied the orderly, "and he thinks he knows who done it."

BRITISH RULE IN EGYPT.

HERBERT ADAMS GIBBONS in the Century.

WE are told that the British have brought great blessings to Egypt, have made the country prosperous, have freed the common people from servitude to the ruling classes, and that if the British got out, Egypt would fall into anarchy, economic chaos, and "the old tyranny would be revived." This, after all, is the supreme justification of governing people by force against their will. It is the theory of the Imperial German Government, which we fought the war to refute. If we believe in it and advance it as a justification for the British protectorate over Egypt, then the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain, in almost all of their provisions to emancipate subject races are crimes against civilization. For no intelligent man can deny the purely material prosperity of Alsace-Lorraine, Schleswig, Silesia and Posnania under German rule. Alsatians, Lorrainers, Danes and Poles, if we take the tests by which the Egyptians are told to count their blessings, enjoyed unrivaled prosperity and perfect security under the German yoke. As portions of a flourishing industrial state, they doubled in population and quintupled in wealth. Think of the railways, roads, canals, efficient administration, public buildings, admirable news, social as well as agricultural and industrial, of imperial Germany!

CRIMES CHARGED TO SINN FEIN.

From the Irish Independent.

A WEEK ago two licensed traders of Ballinagare, near Castlerea, received notices purporting to be signed by the local Sinn Fein Club, stating that if they did not leave £20 at a certain gate on a certain night they would be made to suffer. The traders took no notice of the matter but two days later they received two further communications of a more threatening character. The two traders then interviewed the captain of the Sinn Fein club and he said he had no knowledge of the matter and that the documents did not emanate from the club. It was then decided to make up a parcel of soap wrappers and leave it at the place indicated. The Sinn Fein club had a muster of their members who were concealed near the gate. Within a short time three men approached the parcel and were seized by the Sinn Feiners. The men in question, who were subsequently liberated, had no connection with the Sinn Fein club or movement. In the list of "outrages attributed to Sinn Fein" the British Government has the following item: "Threatening letters—166." The above is an example of the foundation upon which the British Government bases its charges.

THE PILGRIM TERCENTENARY.

From the Grand Rapids Christian Journal.

IT is worth while to remind the American public of its sacred responsibility to guard civil and political liberty, especially because just at the time when the coming of the Pilgrims is about to be celebrated, the spirit sustaining these sturdy Pilgrims as torch-bearers of a new political and civil liberty, which they owed to the Dutch republic, is well-nigh gone. What remains of their free speech, free press and free assembly? What of individual liberty, the sacred rights of the people, separation of church and state, the circumscribed powers of the chief executive? What a celebration, to call the present leaders to honor those of years ago! The Dutch-Americans ought to feel grateful that the coming celebration will find them prepared to guard the sacred liberties gained in the republic of the Dutch provinces under the leadership of the great Prince of Orange. Set your house in order! Shame on the Wayne County Civic Association proposals, Lusk and Fearon bills, the Oregon bill, the prohibition amendment and hundreds of other anti-this and anti-thats.

Events in the Social World

Garden Parties and Porch Parties at Homes and Clubs Taking Their Place With Weddings Among June Social Events—Country Clubs Are Increasing Number of Informal Functions.

JUNE garden parties are sharing the interest usually devoted entirely to brides and weddings. In former years outdoor affairs of this sort have been more or less confined to clubs, but this season garden parties for both afternoon and evening have become quite a fad in society.

Last week the junior and senior classes of Mary Institute were entertained with several garden teas, among the hostesses being Mrs. Henry C. Scott, Mrs. L. Ray Carter, Mrs. Eugene McAuliffe and Mrs. Clarence H. Hughes. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot K. Ludington and their daughter, Miss Lucy Ludington, gave a garden party last Friday evening for about 200 guests, and on Friday of this week Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Johnson will give a similar affair for their daughter, Miss Ada Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cozzens and their daughter, Miss Eleanor Cozzens, entertained last Monday evening with the first of a series of porch parties to be given during the summer.

The country clubs are increasing the number of informal weekly affairs. The St. Louis Country Club is having dinner dances on Wednesday as well as Saturday evenings, and a buffet luncheon every Thursday. The Sunset Hill Country Club is having informal dinner dances on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and at Bellerive Country Club dinner dances are given on Thursdays and Saturdays. The opening dance at Midland Valley County Club was given last evening.

Last week witnessed the first of the June weddings and bouquets and rice were showered profusely throughout the entire week. Conspicuous among these was the marriage, Thursday, of Miss Helen Wulfing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Max Wulfing of 3448 Longfellow boulevard ,to Robert Meyer, son of Mrs. G. H. Meyer, 3800 Lafayette avenue, at the Church of the Unity. A small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony. The bridal attendants included the bride's sister, Miss Lucy Wulfing, Miss Margaret Benny of Sewickley, Pa., Miss Margaret Haase, Garrett Meyer, James Morris, Frederick Wulfing, Ralph Meyer, Walter Haase and Rowland Dodson. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer will be at home after July 1 at 3679 Lafayette avenue.

On Wednesday evening, Miss Marie Maull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maull, and C. Bernard Shanley were married at the residence of the bride's parents. On the same evening Miss Katherine Gunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Gunn, 5095 Kensington avenue, became the bride of Arnold Guyot, the Rev. Father P. J. O'Rourke officiating at the home of the bride's parents, and Miss Marian Greenfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Greenfield of the Hotel Buckingham, became the bride of Sylvan Jacobson, the ceremony taking place at the Columbian Club.

The marriage of Miss Helen King, daughter of Mrs. D. E. King of 6036 Waterman avenue, to Edward Pilcher Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Pierce of Webster Groves, was quietly solemnized last evening at the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church and Miss Margaret Carr Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Turner of 6900 Washington boulevard, became the bride of Raymond W. Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Peters, 6228 Westminster place, at the Westminster Presbyterian Church, the Rev. C. G. Gunn officiating.

An interesting engagement disclosed during the week was that of Miss Margaret Jane Culver to Monroe H. Rodemeyer, who resides at the Hermitage. Miss Culver is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Culver of 40 Washington terrace and is a graduate of Mary Institute, class of 1914. Mr. Rodemeyer is the son of Mrs. Mary K. Rodemeyer of Warren, Ariz. No date has been set for the wedding.

Among the other engagements announced last week were those of Miss Mildred Armstrong, daughter of Mrs. Naomi N. Armstrong of 738 Belt avenue, to Roy R. Siegel, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Siegel, 5565 Lindell boulevard; Miss Rose McRae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector McRae of 5588 Chamberlain avenue to J. Alexander Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Stewart of Montreal, Canada.; Miss Ellen Adele Kinkead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. D. Kinkead of Webster Groves, to Adolph Frank of 5899 Nina place, and Miss Laura Caroline Waltke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Waltke of 5521 Waterman avenue, to John Knox Nimcock of New York City.

Two out-of-town weddings solemnized last week, of interest here, were those of Miss Vera Jane Holcomb, daughter of Mrs. d'Arline Holcomb of Bowling Green, Mo., and George P. Silver, son of Mrs. Evelyn P. Silver of the Usona Hotel, who were married Thursday at Bowling Green. A large bridal party accompanied the couple to the altar and a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother after the cermony. The couple will make their home in Bowling Green.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Gibson Pank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Waller Pank of Evanston, Ill., formerly of St. Louis, and Miles Wright of Evanston, Ill., was quietly solemnized last evening at a church in Evanston. The bride's sister, Mrs. Harold Day, and Miss Irene Smith of St. Louis were in the bridal party.

The marriage of Miss Sadie Foster Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Robertson of 4905 Argyle place, and J. Frank Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Martin, will take place on the evening of June 12 at the Hamilton Christian Church.

Miss Marion Vinsonhaler of Little Rock, Ark., departed yesterday, after a visit with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vinsonhaler of the Claridge Apartments. Miss Lucy Ludington, 26 Washington terrace, gave a luncheon for Miss Vinsonhaler on Wednesday and Miss Hannah Bemis, 5 Kingsbury place, a bridge party on Thursday. The guests of these affairs were Misses Mary Bemis, Helen Battle, Stella Garrett, Carol Jarvis, Marion Bannister, Dorothea Cunningham, Lucy Ludington, Gloria Geisinger, Alma Clark, Anne Howe, Nan Taussig and Mrs. Blasdel Shapleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. Vinsonhaler will go to Swamscott, Mass., for the summer.

The Lambda chapter of the Alpha Pi Phi sorority has issued invitations for an informal dance to be given tomorrow evening at Glen Echo Country Club. The chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Herbert D. Condie, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Culver Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Milne, Mr and Mrs. Guy Parsons, Dr. and Mrs. P. A. Martin and Mrs. C. A. Logeman.

Miss Josephine Etzkorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Etzkorn of Kirkwood, and John J. Tulley will be married Tuesday at 9 a. m. at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Kirkwood. Miss Lilian Etzkorn, sister of the prospective bride, will be maid of honor, and Miss Helen Kerber will be bridesmaid. Little Jane and Jim Tulley will carry baskets of flowers. George Tulley will serve his brother as best man, and Frank Dolan will be groomsman. George L. Eitzkorn Jr. and Harry Aschemeyer will act as ushers. Miss Beatrice Tulley will sing.

Washington University folks are interested in the engagement of Miss Margaret Braun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Braun of Galena, Kan., to C. A. Dunham, son of Mrs. M. M. Dunham of Kansas City, recently announced.

Miss Braun has resided in St. Louis four years and will be graduated Thursday from Washington University. She is a member of the Delta Gamma sorority. The wedding will take place in the fall. Mr. Dunham is a graduate of the University of Kansas, class of 1915, and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity. Following her graduation Miss Braun will go to Galena for the summer.

The marriage of Mrs. Mozelle Price Whitford, formerly of St. Louis now of Washington, D. C., widow of Edward Ordway Whitford, and daughter of the late Simeon T. Price, to Lieutenant-Colonel Wrisley Brown, U. S .A., took place, Thursday, in Trinity Church, New York.

Only close relatives were present.

Miss Lucille Frauenthal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Frauenthal of 3801 Lafayette avenue is telling her friends of her engagement to Cliff Aubuchon, son of Mr. Charles L. Aubuchon of Clifton Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. William Albert Hirsch of 6236 Waterman avenue departed yesterday for a tour of the Canadian Rockies and the Northwest. At Portland, Ore., they will attend the Kiwanis Club convention and en route home will tour Yellowstone Park. Miss Grace M. Large, Mrs. Hirsch's sister, will accompany them.

Mrs. A. Hoffman of 6040 Washington avenue, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Fannie Hoffman, to Ben V. Zillman. Miss Hoffman is in the graduating class of Washington University and is a member of the Chi Sigma Phi Sorority. Mr. Zillman is a graduate of Washington University.

The marriage of Miss Jessie Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Barnes of 3503 Park avenue, to Harry L. Reichert of 3803 De Tonty street, took place at Christ Church Cathedral, Thursday. The only attendants were Miss Hortense Gannon and Byron Maness. Mr. and Mrs. Reichert, after a short honeymoon will be at home in the Haddon Hall Apartments.

The Missouri State Chapter, P. E. O., held its annual convention in Joplin last week. The president, Mrs. Harriet Elden Rynerson of Carthage, presided. Delegates from 104 local chapters representing a membership in Missouri of 2500 were in attendance. The organization gives to worthy young women of small means an opportunity to obtain a higher education. Those at the convention from St. Louis were Mmes. S. G. Hopkins, G. W. Coffman, Ottmar Moll, T. M. Jefforos. E. A. Hatfield, J. N. Pohlman and J. C. Figge.

The Girls' Hikers' Club of Washington University has planned to maintain a clubhouse in the country this summer, to which week-end trips are to be made. Former mem-

A Special Selling Monday of

785 Summer Dresses

of Organdies, Ginghams and Voiles

IT has been a long time since we have been able to offer Dresses of this character at such an extremely low price. They are all splendid garments.

Materials are organdie in white and high colors, ginghams in beautiful plaids and checks, and voiles in floral and fancy patterns.

Many are samples—only one of a kind. Others have very slight imperfections, such as a crooked seam, a missing button, a tiny spot—the imperfections are so slight you would not notice them unless your attention were called to them. There are all sizes for women and misses.

No C. O. D.'s, no approvals, no exchanges, no will calls.

The senior class of Lenox Hall entertained at the Artists' Guild Theater, on June 1. The Senior Farewell, an artists' album, was preceded by a miscellaneous program. The feature of the evening had not been previously announced and was a surprise to the greater part of the audience. The following girls took part: Misses Maurine Samuel, Arline Sleeth, Olive Fles, Margaret Crenshaw, Bessie Goodman, Catherine Ellabarger, Sylvia Jenson, Helen Crowley, Elizabeth Leivis, Frances Alcorn, Irene McLaughlin, Helene Sproule, Irene Woolfolk, Helen Todd, Estelle Goessling, Madge Van Dyck, Sarah Cash, Christine Edwards, Myrtle Alcorn, Josephine Tuttle, Lucille Cohn and Laura Scott.

Miss Louise Medler, 4394 Gibson avenue, has as her guests Miss Ella Meinke and Miss Dora Teske of Chicago. Saturday Miss Medler gave a reception for them. The additional guests were Misses Esther Lehr, Lydia Hilgeman, Marie Wedde, Martha Fristze, Elva Angelbeck, Florence Angelbeck, Ella Hilgeman.

The Season's Greatest Millinery Occasion

All Trimmed Hats—Half Price

We announce this semi-annual sale knowing that women who have participated in former seasons will "turn out" in full force. To those unfamiliar we have a word of explanation. The Sonnenfeld Sale involves every Trimmed Hat in this establishment, regardless of how new. It is not a method of getting rid of passe or undesirable millinery. It is a "business stimulator," and nothing more. The variety is literally limitless, as the style summary below will indicate. Vacationists and "stay-at-homes" now have a chance to get two Summer Hats for the sum they had intended paying for just one.

MORE than 1,800 ultra-fashionable Summer Hats are involved in this semi-annual event, and that's precisely where the Sonnenfeld Sale is different. Here you choose from assortments extremely comprehensive and varied, not just a handful.

—Hats of organdie
—Hats of voile
—Hats of taffeta
—banded and fancy sport Hats
—hats of leghorn
—duvetyne combinations
—Chantilly lace hats
—Hats of hairbraid
—not a single Hat reserved

—Mainly white, pink, orchid, navy, coque de roche and black.

An Astounding Dress Occasion

Planned as a companion event to the half-price millinery sale—equally as notable from the standpoint of value-giving

467 Summer Dresses from regular assortments priced up to $125,

The whole story is summed up in the headlines. We were anxious to offer a sale group of apparel as a fitting companion to the sale of hats, and hit upon this method of reducing our overstocks at the same time.

DOUGHBOYS WHO GO BACK FIND JOBS SCARCE IN FRANCE

American Legion Officials at Paris Warn Former Soldiers Against Returning Now.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 5.—Large numbers of former American soldiers, finding conditions in America unsatisfactory, are returning to France. Finding work for them in this country is quite a serious problem for American Legion officials here.

Some of the ex-soldiers have taken places as laborers at comparatively small wages, and legion officials say that "doughboys" should be warned not to return to France unless well provided with money to defray expenses while finding jobs, which are quite scarce at present.

"Since early in March," said Arthur W. Kiping, Adjutant of the Paris Post, American Legion, yesterday, "there has been a steady stream of discharged American officers and soldiers coming to France. Many of these men are without money, they have small prospects of finding work, and their knowledge of the French language is rudimentary.

"The legion has been forced to organize an employment service, which has succeeded in finding places for 95 men in the last 40 days. The return of Americans to France under present conditions is inadvisable."

LECTURE ON "ANIMALS IN WAR"

Free Illustrated Talk Thursday to Forward S. P. C. A. Work.

A free illustrated lecture on "Animals in War and Peace," will be given Thursday night at the Central High School Auditorium by Richard S. Craven of the American Humane Association of New York, under the auspices of the Humane Society of Missouri, and the public, both children and adults, are urged to attend. A conference will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Planters Hotel, to which the public is also invited.

Craven is making a tour of the United States to arouse greater interest in the prevention of cruelty to animals and will show a remarkable collection of pictures and give stories of human interest. He stated yesterday that St. Louis was far behind other cities in its efforts in behalf of animals, and that many cases of cruelty and neglect were reported.

More Increases for British Rail Men.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 5.—The National Wage Board has issued a report granting the railwaymen further increases in wages ranging from two shillings to seven shillings a week, according to their grade, in addition to the increases already granted under the sliding scale. The demands of the men for special pay for holidays and similar days were refused.

BUZZARD THAT CARRIED BELL ON NECK BELIEVED TO BE DEAD

Bird Is Said to Have Been Seen From Virginia to Peru Since 1812.

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., June 5.—The famous "belled buzzard," known all over the country, and said to have lived more than 100 years, is believed to be dead. A few days ago this buzzard was seen on the farm of W. H. Leach, near the mouth of Second Creek, West Virginia. It looked to be greatly emaciated and ready to give up its career.

When the bird was seen, other buzzards were flying overhead, as if keeping their suffering mate company.

This buzzard has a small sleigh bell attached to its neck. The bird had got its beak fastened behind the bell attachment which bowed its neck in a curve, and seemed unable to release itself from this position.

Members of the Leach family went to the buzzard's aid, but when they approached, it flew away with the rest of the flock. It is felt certain that the bird has since died.

The sleigh bell was tied around the buzzard's neck in the War of 1812. The bird has been seen as far South as Peru, though its summers were always spent in the mountains of Southern West Virginia. During the Mexican trouble several years ago the bird was on the border for two consecutive summers.

ST. LOUISANS SEEK SCHOLARSHIP

Two Washington U. Graduates Compete for Prize in Rome.

For the first time in its history, Washington University is represented in examinations in the final competition for the fellowship in architecture in the American Academy at Rome. These examinations will end this week, and the two St. Louis candidates striving for the single award that is to be made are Lusby Simpson and Ray F. Leimquehler, graduates from Washington University School of Architecture. The award will mean three years in the Academy, with $1000 expense money each year.

The only other American institutions to have as many candidates in the final examinations as Washington University are Princeton and Syracuse University. The following are represented by one candidate each: Harvard, University of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Art Institute of Chicago.

A SURE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Beautiful Women of Society, during the past seventy years have relied upon it for their distinguished appearance. The soft, refined, pearly white complexion it renders instantly, is always the source of flattering comment.

honor of Miss Marie Debus, who will become the bride of Herbert Eichborn this summer.

Harry Wand, 736 Eastgate avenue, and daughter, Miss Loretta Wand, have departed for Tulsa, Ok., where they will spend a few weeks.

A surprise luncheon was given Wednesday by Mrs. Mary Kespohl of 4271 Redbud avenue, in honor of her seventieth birthday. Those present were Mmes. C. Schroeder, H. Bieser, E. Krieger, E. Niemoeller, J. Stock, H. Hanke, E. Schaefer, E. Hanke; Misses M. J. Schroeder, V. Schaefer, M. Schaefer, A. Kespohl and Messrs. H. F. Hanke, E. C. Schaefer, E. J. Hanke.

The marriage of Miss Carmen Keune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Keune of 2909 Wyoming street, and Robert J. Waller, took place at 3 o'clock Wednesday at the Memorial Methodist Church, the Rev. Mr. Guenther officiating. Miss Elva Mausland, cousin of the bride, attended as maid of honor. She wore pale pink crepe de chine and georgette with a corsage bouquet of pink sweetpeas. The bride's gown was of heavy white satin and silk georgette, embroidered with beads. Her veil was draped French net sprayed with lilies-of-the-valley. Her bridal spray was of white roses. L. E. Maushine, a cousin of the bride, served Mr. Waller as best man. Following the ceremony there was a wedding supper, after which a reception for friends and relatives of the young couple was held. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. Bealmer, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fusch, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Whitworth, Miss Bee Hawkins, Robert Rehfuss, Mrs. G. G. Ogle, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jourden, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schlough, Mrs. C. Maushurd, Mr. E. Maushurd, Otto Keune and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker of Hermann, Mo. The young couple will be at home after June 15.

A wedding which took place last Wednesday evening was that of Miss Rose Vohs and Edwin Korte. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Vohs, 4033 Castleman avenue, after which the couple departed on a honeymoon trip to Jefferson City and Chicago. They will be at home after July 1.

Miss Garcia Van Hoagstrate, 3236 California avenue, has returned from a motor trip through the Ozarks with a party of friends. In the party were the Misses Maud and Lola Moore of St. Joseph, Mo., who returned to St. Louis with Miss Van Hoagstrate.

The marriage of Miss Jeannette Beatrice Cowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cowen of 1392 Shawmut place, and S. Lee Rinehart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Rinehart of 1424 Blackstone avenue, will take place Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. J. J. McGlynn will officate in the presence of the two families and a few intimate friends.

The auxiliary of the 138th Infantry will hold the regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the club room, Central Public Library, Thirteenth and Olive streets.

The St. Louis Women's Club will have a card party for members only, on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Any game may be played. Members desiring the table d'hote luncheon, which will be served at 1 o'clock, must make reservations by Wednesday noon.

Mrs. Clara Berg and sons, Milton, Sterling and Gordon, are in their new home at 6159 Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Zuckweiler announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Hazel Zuckweiler, to Edgar W. Vogel, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, 1934 Sidney street, Wednesday, at 4 o'clock.

Miss Arline Meyer, a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid and Frank Wallaman was groomsman. The young couple will reside at 3606 Marcus avenue.

Mrs. H. P. Painter of 6016 Waterman avenue, with her children, has departed for Denver, Colo., to spend a month. Mrs. Painter's brother, David C. Lane, accompanied them.

The next regular meeting of the Confederate Dames Chapter N. D. C. will be held at the residence of Mrs. F. H. Starr, 223 Bristol place, Webster Groves, on Monday afternoon, June 7, at 2 o'clock.

The hostesses assisting Mrs. Starr will be Mrs. William D'Oinch, Mrs. Arthur Richardson and Mrs. William M. Sloan.

Miss Evelyn Marek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Marek, 2269 Yale avenue, became the bridge of George Edward Williams, Wednesday evening. The bride's costume was of white georgette embroidered with seed pearls with tulle and orange blossoms, and the bridesmaid, Miss Anna Brennan, wore champagne georgette. The groomsman was Homer Dyson. After a wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Williams departed for their honeymoon to Chicago and the Great Lakes. They will be at home at 2269 Yale avenue, after July 1.

Miss Elda Strattman, 3942 Greer avenue, entertained Thursday evening in honor of Miss Helen E. Ehrler, whose marriage to Arthur Frank Strattman was solemnized yesterday.

Mrs. J. C. Campbell, 7417 Washington boulevard, has departed for Fort Worth, Tex., to spend a fortnight with her sister, Mrs. A. G. Evans. On her return she will take her three small children to Hollywood, Cal., to remain a year.

The marriage of Miss Mae Murphy daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas White Murphy of 1924 Nebraska avenue, and Leota Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hill of Lafayette avenue, was solemnized at 6 o'clock yesterday morning at the Immaculate Conception Church. The bride wore a dark blue tricotine suit with hat to match, and a mink scarf. She carried a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Gladys Murphy, who wore pale pink organdy with hat to match and carried pale pink roses. Mr. Hill was attended by his twin brother, Leo Hill. After a honeymoon trip East, the couple will reside with the bride's parents until their apartment is completed. Mrs. Hill was educated at Loretto Academy, and Mr. Hill received his education at Christian Brothers' College.

DAY TO DAY STORY OF WILSON'S FIGHT FOR PEACE IDEALS

suggestion that America should act as a mandatory. The people of America, he said, would be most disinclined to do so. He himself had succeeded in getting the people of America to do many things, and he might succeed in getting them to accept this burden also. But even if it were suggested that American troops should occupy Constantinople or Mesopotamia, it was evident that they could not do so as they were not at war with Turkey. Therefore, it would, in his opinion, be extremely unwise to accept any form of mandate until they knew how it was intended to work.

"Feb. 16. Several of the secret chapters of the recent negotiations are now coming to light," writes Thompson. "One of these deals with the question of religion and race. It seems that the League of Nations covenant originally had 27 articles instead of 26, as finally recorded. This additional article—article 22, dealt with "freedom of religion," requiring all nations becoming members of the league to establish complete equality as to religious toleration, and to make no discriminatory laws based on religious opinion. This was chiefly intended for the Jews, to protect them from persecution in Eastern Europe.

"But when this article 22 came up, the Japanese delegates proposed an amendment reading "racial and religious equality." This threatened to precipitate a huge issue over the Oriental question. And in order to head off the Japanese and their racial equality, the entire article was withdrawn, including religious equality and the protection of the Jews. With article 22 out the articles of the covenant were renumbered, and the document as it finally appeared has only 26 articles.

"On March 25, it was finally decided that there should be no more publicity.

"The communiques always issued at the close of each session of the supreme council or council of the great Powers, are now definitely discontinued. Also there is to be no stenographic report or any memorandum of any kind made of the council. The President's study is rigorously set aside for four persons only. No one else—no secretaries, stenographers, or the various officials who have been in the background of the supreme council—are to be admitted. It is held that the only way entire freedom of views can be exchanged is by keeping them absolutely private. This is considerable of a departure from open diplomacy. This marks the last stage in the abandonment of the first of the 14 points: 'Open covenants, openly arrived at; diplomacy shall proceed openly and in the public view.'

Trouble Over the Adriatic.

"When the Italian claims in the Adriatic began to come to the front and it looked as if a deadlock must ensue, with the Italian delegation withdrawing from the council, Col. House, after a conference with Orlando, said of this threat of withdrawal: 'It is pure bunk.'

"When President Wilson cabled for the George Washington it was a French official, M. Pueau, who showed himself the bad prophet.

"When M. Pueau was asked as to the President's sending for his ship, he said he had heard rumors that some delegations 'were going home to mother,' but he did not credit any such move. Then, when he was asked what would happen if it were the American delegation which withdrew, there was a quick rejoinder from an English source: 'There would be a great sigh of relief.' Which appeared to disclose quite naively the interior state of mind of our English cousins."

Under date of April 15, when the peace treaty had at last almost taken its final shape, Thompson comments:

"Throughout this week of crucial negotiations it has been an unequal game all the way through. All interests were pooled against the President. He was dealing with high ideals and they were dealing with intensely practical questions of self-interest. He was practically a novice in the game, just back from America, while they were familiar with every detail of the huge transaction elaborated largely during his absence. It was rather a surprise that the balance sheet showed anything left on his side. And in the great diplomatic game of ideals matched against practical ends, honors are about even."

And then he sums up the "decline and fall of the 14 points," saying those from the sixth to the thirteenth, which related to particular countries, had been "partially realized," though this would have been the case even without the "points."

League "Partly Realized."

"Of the six points involving general principles, four have disappeared entirely and two others have dropped into a state of limbo." These were open diplomacy, freedom of the seas, adequate guarantees that national armaments shall be reduced, impartial adjustment of all colonial customs, removal of economic barriers and the establishment of equality of trade conditions, and last, the League of Nations, which, Mr. Thompson says, "has been realized in part, but this is still to pass the scrutiny of ratification by the American Senate, and the result is doubtful." And he adds that article 10 of the treaty, which is almost identical with a phrase in the fourteenth point, promises to be the storm center of discussion.

In an interview on April 24, the day the Italian delegation proved that its threat to withdraw was not the "bunk" that House had called it, House said that Sonnino had never once spoken of the Italians holding Fiume.

"All Sonnino's arguments have been for carrying out the pact of London, which gave Italy Dalmatia and the islands, but did not give them Fiume."

April 30, when the Kiaochow matter was adjusted, House told Thompson that Japan would eventually get out of her own accord.

"I think all the foreign nations will get out of China sooner or later—British, French, Japanese, and all the rest," said House. "It seems to me that is going to be the natural result under the influence of the League of Nations."

"But would the English give up Hongkong?" "Why not?"

"And the English influence in the

Yang-tse Kiang region?" "There is no use taking that up now," said House, "as the subject is not up and is not being proposed, even remotely. But I believe they'll all get out of China in time, say five or 10 years from now."

At the last session of the peace conference, before the meeting with the Germans, Marshal Foch sprang a surprise by protesting that the military guarantees given to France by the treaty were not adequate.

Foch's speech disclosed for the first time an open breach between him and Clemenceau. It led Tardieu to make an unexpected announcement, that the treaty did not stand alone as a guarantee of France's security, as an engagement in writing had been made by President Wilson, Lloyd George and Clemenceau, under which the United States and Great Britain would come to the aid of France in case of an unprovoked attack from Germany. There was a buzz of comment on this announcement, which confirmed reports long in circulation but never officially confirmed.

"This is the undertaking which made Clemenceau beam with satisfaction when the crisis in the Council of Four came to a close some weeks ago," says Thompson. "It doubtless makes him recall that ringing sentence in his speech at midnight to the Chamber of Deputies last Christmas: 'An alliance of the great Powers will be my preoccupation throughout the peace conference.'

Debts to the United States.

"On June 15 one of the American financial advisers, speaking of the prospects of European nations repaying the loans the United States had made, spoke as follows: 'When M. Klotz, the French Finance Minister, once intimated to me that they wished a 'redistribution' of the war debt, I said to him: "If you really mean that, I must cable to the Secretary of the Treasury to stop all further advances to Europe until this plan of redistribution is settled."

" 'He did not press the matter. Later M. Peueh, chairman of the budget committee of the Chamber of Deputies, said to me: "If the United States does not guarantee Germany's debt to France we will have a revolution in France."

" 'To which I replied to him: And if the United States does guarantee Germany's debt to France we will have a revolution in the United States.'

" 'I have not heard anything since of the proposal for the United States to guarantee these debts.'

"President Wilson talked freely on June 27, the day before the treaty was signd. He spoke of the Fall resolution in the Senate, declaring the war between the United States and Germany at an end, and said: 'It is difficult for me to avoid profanity in referring to that resolution.'

Influence of "Interests" Small.

"The President was asked if the influence of any 'interests' had been made manifest during the conference. This led him to relate an incident which occurred when Mesopotamia was under consideration in the Council of Four. It was disclosed during the discussions that one of the big oil concerns was much interested in a certain provision. Lloyd George thereupon suggested that if the oil interest was involved the provision had better go out.

" 'And out it went,' said the President, indicating that the mere mention of a selfish interest had been sufficient to prejudice a proposition.

" 'Has the influence of the banking interests—high finance—been felt to any extent?' the President was asked.

" 'Not to any appreciable extent, and I am bound to say that very little of that influence has had a sinister aspect. The governments have, in fact, received a great deal of help from some of these banking interests, particularly in America.' "

SIGNING OF TREATY MOURNED

By the Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, June 5.—While the Hungarian peace treaty was being signed at Versailles today, the stores of this city were closed, the tramways nad the railways stopped running, work ceased in all offices and the church bells tolled as a sign of mourning.

Views Religious Work Elsewhere.

The Rev. C. P. Kirdendoll, industrial secretary of the Church Federation of St. Louis, is making a study of religious work as conducted in shops and industrial plants of Chicago and Detroit, where he went after the Church and Community convention in Cleveland, O. It is the intention of the St. Louis federation to adopt such methods of the cities visited as seem best suited to the local work.

Congratulates the Public

The wave of price-cutting that has swept over the country has performed an important mission

—it has squeezed the water out of inflated prices

—it has eliminated the middleman whose functions were not legitimate

The manufacturer, the merchant, who kept faith with the public has not suffered. His future is brighter for the storm he has weathered

The demand for Finkelstein Dresses grows as the news of their excellence spreads.

Price cutting has not been needed to maintain their popularity.

Style correctness—dependability—fair pricing—are, and always will be, their chief characteristics.

HOW NAT GOLDSTEIN BECAME A FACTOR IN LOCAL POLITICS

but in the criminal courts, some politicians believe that a Judge should be willing to listen to reason. After sentence has been imposed, it is a poor friendless defendant indeed who cannot get someone interested in getting him a parole.

Some Judges listen to these requests, from politicians as from others, when the individual case appears to have merit. Some Judges have seemed to go farther, and the result has been unfavorable, in the public mind, to the parole system.

Goldstein, three years ago, told of his activity in this line, after a note written by him, asking a Judge—in this case a police Judge—to "take care of" one of Goldstein's friends, had been made public.

"I have interceded for people in trouble many times," Goldstein said. "I will always do it once, provided the charges are not serious. Most of the time I appear in person to make my requests, and very often I pay the costs myself. I have appeared in the Circuit Court to obtain clemency, but I have never asked any Judge to dismiss a case without investigating it thoroughly."

Goldstein, in reply to inquiries about his personal machine, says it is not the rigid affair that Minnis and some others seem to consider it.

"I have some members of the committee working under me," he says. "But I don't expect them to stand with me on every proposition that comes up in the committee. As a matter of fact, they don't. I was for Senator Spencer when the others were against him. If I was a candidate, I would expect them to support me, but I don't pretend to keep them lined up for all the candidates that I favor.

"The committeemen who are employed under me all have to do their work. If they didn't, I wouldn't keep them. As long as a man with political backing does his work just as well as another man, with no political backing would do it, I don't see that anyone should complain. If the people want non-political appointments to these jobs, they can introduce the merit system here, as was done in the City Hall. But I do not believe the merit system would make this office any more efficient than it is now."

And Goldstein referred, with evident pride, to the recommendation of his work in the Circuit Clerk's office, which was used as a campaign document in the 1918 election, and which was signed by some 350 lawyers, including Thomas L. Anderson, Fred W. Lehmann, Charles W. Bates, Jesse A. McDonald, John R. Drabelle, O'Neill Ryan, A. M. Frumberg and other Demorcats. The Democratic candidate for the office, and Chairman Daley of the Democratic City Committee complained at the time of the action of the Democrats in recommending a Republican candidate. The complaint only served to bring further testimonials to the fact that the lawyers were pleased with the treatment they got in Goldstein's office.

Pleasing the bar to this extent is something to be proud of, even though there are those who say that lawyers are fond of getting other persons to do their work for them. If Goldstein had stuck to his courthouse job, and to his well functioning local machine he would apparently have been a very hard man to beat.

But in presidential politics, Goldstein seems to have failed to fit in. He was of enough importance to receive $2500 himself, and to obtain the same recognition for his deputy, Moore. But following the campaign fund revelations, his vote has ceased to be desired by the man whom he intended to vote for.

However, hard words break no bones, $2500 is $2500, and the Circuit Clerk's job lasts until January, 1923. Also, no one has filed against him for the City Committee in the Nineteenth Ward, and he will be reelected to the committee at the August primary. So, in the classic phrase of the Biddle street where he once dwelt, and from which he has never become far removed, Goldstein "should worry."

OUTDOOR PROGRAM BY Y. M. C. A.

Seven hundred persons attended an outdoor entertainment given yesterday by the industrial commission of the Y. M. C. A. for the employes of the Monsanto Chemical Works at 1800 South Second street. The children of the employes also took part in the program. This was the first of a series of outdoor events to be given by the Y. M. C. A. during the summer months at the various industrial plants of the city. Harry ter Braak will be in charge.

The Y. M. C. A. also will give outdoor entertainments at Second and Victor and at Fairmount Heights in the Italian settlement district. These programs will include vaudeville, music and moving pictures. Barney B. Maticka will be in charge of the movies, and Fred J. Fowler will lead the mass singing. Community talent will be used in many of these entertainments.

Sues Union for $4790 Damages.

Byron Lee Dewey filed suit in the Circuit Court yesterday against the St. Louis local of the International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers and several of its officers and members for $2290 actual and $2500 punitive damages, alleging that he was a member in good standing of a local of the Union in Detroit, but that when he came to St. Louis 14 months ago the St. Louis local would not honor his transfer card or permit him to work at his trade here.

Junior C. of C. on City Tour.

A tour was made by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce through Shaw's Garden yesterday afternoon. This was one of a series of civic tours conducted to educate the membership to an understanding and appreciation of the city's institutions. Visits have been made to the city sanitorium, poor house, workhouse, city jail, Central District Police Station, morgue, children's building, city hospital and Washington University. Arrangements are now being made for the annual tour to the Bellefontaine Farms.

MORE THAN 800,000 PERSONS ATTENDED ORPHEUM IN SEASON

Prohibition Chief Cause, Manager Says—Attractions at Vaudeville Houses.

The Orpheum Theater, which closes with tonight's performance until Aug. 23, has been attended during the season by more than 800,000 persons, according to Manager Sullivan. This is almost double the atendance of the theater's opening season, 1917-18. Prohibition, says Sullivan, has been one of the chief factors in the increased patronage.

Leading attractions at other vaudeville houses for the present week are: Rialto, Jessie Brown and Effie Weston in a dancing skit called "A Terpsichorean Cocktail;" Grand, Jimmie Hodges and his new musical farce, "That's My Wife;" Columbia, Nat Nazarro Jr. and his Atlantic Fleet Jazz Band, and Loew's Garrick, Trovato, eccentric violinist. On the five-turn vaudeville bill at Forest Park Highlands will be the Brads, juvenile cut-ups, and Romm and Haney, in "Nic-Nacs of 1920."

STORY OF BRYAN'S PLAN TO PUT DRINK EVIL IN MOVIES

from the picture to reimburse you for money actually expended—although I am under no legal obligations to do so—and after that to give you a percentage of what I receive until I have more than satisfied any moral—not legal, but moral—claims that you may have upon me. I shall be at Hot Springs, Ark., after Nov 4th."

Dalton says he met Bryan at Hot Springs and refused to give up the copyrights and told Bryan he meant to sue him for expense money and ask an injunction to prevent him from going ahead with the picture. To which Bryan replied: "Well, Dalton, if you stop me with an injunction how do you expect me to pay you back your money?"

"I told Mr. Bryan that I did not propose to risk the fruits of my labor in the hands of anyone else. Mr. Bryan said that nevertheless he intended to go on with the picture. I left without securing any assurance from him, but he said, 'You will hear from me.'

"I waited a month and then wired Mr. Bryan, who was in Chicago. On Jan. 14 I received the following letter written on the letterhead of Brodie & Baer, South Halstead street:

" 'My Dear Mr. Dalton: Your telegram received. There is nothing to report yet. I am still negotiating. I am expecting to see some New York parties within a week and will write you as soon as I have anything to write.

" 'Yours truly,

" 'W. J. BRYAN.'

"I then waited for another month and then began preparations to file suit against Mr. Bryan. While I was seeking legal advice I met Mr. Goltra. He then asked me what I had done about the motion picture proposition. I told him that Bryan is still acting the hog and that I was in St. Louis to arrange for bringing a suit against him. Mr. Goltra pleaded with me not to do so.

Goltra Pleaded Against Suit.

"He argued that it would not do to have a scandal. He urged me to wait until he could see Mr. Bryan and try to straighten out the matter. My meeting with Mr. Goltra was in the latter part of February last. Mr. Bryan was then at Miami, Fla. I wired him as follows:

" 'Saw Goltra. He himself willing to finance proposition. It is both unjust and unfair to let me carry the burden longer. If you will meet me at St. Louis at once I think we can arrange matters in satisfactory manner, otherwise I will be forced to file suit and issue statement why. Please answer to Center, Mo.'

"I received the following telegram from Bryan dated Miami, Fla., Feb. 26:

" 'Cannot come right now and see no reason for coming. Have explained to you that you have made co-operation with you impossible. You know what I intend to do if the picture succeeds, and must decide for yourself what course to pursue.

" 'W. J. BRYAN.'

"After receiving this telegram I consulted the firm of Fordyce, Holliday & White of St. Louis and instructed them to prepare papers in an action to compel Mr. Bryan to either live up to his contract with me or reimburse me for money and time expended in the project."

Bryan Says It Was to Be a Total Abstinence Picture.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 5.—William Jennings Bryan here today refused to discuss his plan to form a company to produce a great prohibition motion picture further than to call attention to a statement he gave out in Washington this week and to add: "It was not to be a prohibition picture. Prohibition is here. It was to be a total abstinence picture, which would go into places I could not possibly reach with my speeches. Anyway, I am more than 60 years old, and before long I must stop this traveling around. We had plans for the production of a picture, but they did not work out, and recently I have been too busy to give them consideration. I expect to have the picture produced, however."

The statement which Bryan gave out at Washington Wednesday night follows:

"About three years ago I was approached in regard to a prohibition moving picture. I refused to have any pecuniary interest in it, but promised to give some arguments to be used and was to appear in one scene in the act of signing a pledge with 1000 high school boys in Michigan. The plan did not materialize.

"After the amendment was carried and the question no longer an issue before the people I planned to appear in the delivery of a speech in favor of total abstinence, the arguments to be illustrated by moving pictures. Mr. Blackton was consulted in regard to making the picture, but the plans miscarried and he presented the play without my part.

"Mr. Goltra offered to advance the money necessary for making the picture, but afterward I decided to make other arrangements.

"I expect to have this picture produced when I have leisure to arrange for it, but the plans have not been completed. It will present the evils of alcoholic drink with pictures taken from different nations and at different periods of time.

"The permanence of prohibition rests, of course, upon the temperance sentiment back of the law, and as each generation must be taught the evil effects of alcohol, I am hoping to produce a picture which can be used for generations and all over the world.

"I am now past 60 and I cannot hope to continue for very many years my travels over the country. The picture will enable me to reach a much larger number of people and for an unlimited time.

"I regard the moving picture as a great educational medium and expect it to be used increasingly for the spread of scientific, moral and religious truth. As soon as the plans for the picture are complete I will be pleased to take the public into my confidence."

Boble School for Children.

A daily vacation Bible School, for the study of Bible stories, memory work, songs and craft work, will be held by the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Union and Delmar boulevards, for four weeks starting June 21. No admission is charged for attendance and the course is open to all children between 4 and 12 years.

13 Deaths in Week Due to Violence.

Births recorded last week numbered 201 and deaths 176. The deaths included 30 caused by heart disease, 20 by Bright's disease, 16 by cancer, 14 by pneumonia and 12 by tuberculosis. Thirteen deaths were caused by violence, including three suicides, two homecides, eight accidents and one criminal carelessness.

The Groom's Friends

Are Many Times at a Disadvantage

ALL wedding gifts are sent to the bride, and friends of the groom are placed in an awkward position many times.

It is the bride's taste that will furnish the home and it is sometimes difficult to send your gift to one whom you have never met.

It becomes, therefore, quite a problem to know what will please her. Personal gifts are out of the question. Silver is always most acceptable, but perhaps you wish to spend more than the cost of a single piece and less than a service would come to.

Our second floor Gift Store will solve this problem most satisfactorily.

We can supply gifts at almost any price that will be useful and please the taste of the most discriminating. If you haven't visited this wonderful display you've missed one of St. Louis' best gift stores.

RAIL-RIVER RATES TO SOUTHEAST AND TEXAS APPLIED FOR Seven Schedules Which Will Benefit the Entire Mississippi Valley to Be Filed Tomorrow.

COMBINE SHIPMENTS BY WATER AND RAIL

Appropriation of Money to Build Terminals Thought to Have Removed Last Impediment to Authorization.

Seven new schedules of rail-river-rail and of river-rail-freight rates, calculated to extend broadly through the Mississippi Valley the benefits of the operation of the Government river service between St. Louis and New Orleans, will be filed tomorrow with the Interstate Commerce Commission. The rates would enable shippers in towns not on the Mississippi River to use the barge line at the same saving that shippers in towns on the river now enjoy.

The rates include those so long desired by St. Louis—by river and rail to Texas and by river and rail to the Southeastern states. These and similar rates were repeatedly refused by the Railroad Administration during its control, because terminals for the cheap transfer of freight from freight car to barge and from barge to freight car did not exist at the points on the river where such transfer would be logical.

Terminals Are Provided.

The appropriation last week by Congress of $2,100,000 for the construction of these terminals is believed to have removed the last impediment to the authorization of the rates, which are as follows:

1. Extension of existing rates to and from St. Louis and the State of Louisiana to Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, the eastern portions of Minnesota and Iowa, the western portions of Kentucky and Tennessee and the south half of Missouri. The rates would enable shippers in the states named to exchange first-class freight with the State of Louisiana at a rate of 22½ cents per 100 pounds under the present rate for an all-rail shipment.

2. To and from the State of Oklahoma and St. Louis, those portions of Illinois and Indiana south of the B. & O. Railroad, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Southeastern Minnesota, Eastern Iowa and those points in Missouri along the Mississippi River. This schedule, applied by St. Louis shippers, calls for transfer from the river to rails at Memphis and will result in a rate 16½ cents lower than the present all-rail rate into Oklahoma. It is considered of advantage to St. Louis in the delivery of the freight of its jobbers and the return from Oklahoma of crude oil.

3. To and from southern Arkansas to the territory described above on the north. At present St. Louis has rail and river rates to points in Arkansas including Little Rock, but not the Fort Smith group. The new schedule would extend those rates to the Fort Smith group, reckoned as valuable St. Louis trade territory. The territory north of St. Louis now has no rates reckoned as valuable to St. Louis territory to Arkansas. The saving per 100 pounds in first-class freight is 16½ cents.

St. Louis Jobbers Aided.

4. To and from the States of Mississippi, Alabama, Western Georgia and Northwestern Florida to St. Louis, Illinois except the extreme southern part, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska east of Lincoln, Kansas east of Topeka and Missouri north of the Missouri River. The only similar rate now in existence is St. Louis to and from the State of Mississippi. This is much-desired St. Louis trade territory and a saving of 16½ cents under the all-rail rate is regarded as an aid to St. Louis jobbers in meeting the competition of New York in the territory described.

5. To and from Northern Oklahoma and Southern Louisiana. This is a rate designed to be attractive to oil companies for the export of their product. The differential established is 16½ cents under an all-rail rate.

6. To and from Texas and St. Louis, Illinois and Indiana south of the B. & O., Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Southeastern Minnesota, east half of Iowa, and the northeast portion of Missouri. No rates of this sort now are in effect. Texas is regarded as natural St. Louis trade territory, but this city now suffers by reason of cheap ocean rates enjoyed by New York City. This schedule would enable St. Louis to reach Texas with first-class freight 22½ cents per 100 pounds cheaper than by the present all-rail rate, which would be under New York with her low ocean rate.

7. This is a rate opening a few New Orleans rate points to much the same territory in the northern valley as described in schedules above.

Campaign to Aid Move.

A campaign to gain the appearance of cities in the territory affected at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on these rates has begun. James E. Smith, president of the Mississippi Valley Waterways Association, is sending broadcast through the valley a statement of the need of these rates and the necessity for shippers to urge the commission to grant them.

Good Year for North Side "Y."

The last year has been the most successful in the 40 years' history of the North Side Y. M. C. A., Grand and Sullivan avenues, according to a report issued yesterday by Executive Secretary J. F. Mocker. The North Side building was dedicated on Sept. 14, 1919, and was erected and furnished at a cost of $350,000. The dormatories of 100 rooms are filled and it is necessary to turn away many young men each week on account of lack of rooms.

The Vocalion

The Phonograph of Distinction

THE Vocalion takes its place alongside of the Aeolian Residential Pipe Organ and the Steinway Duo-Art Pianola. All are instruments of musical distinction. So it is not surprising that musicians have found in the Vocalion a phonograph that measures up to the artistic requirements of a true musical instrument.

And you'll find greater pleasure in the possession of a Vocalion. It is the phonograph you never tire of. For it brings phonographic music at its best—plus the fascinating privilege of artistic tone control by means of the Graduola.

By means of the Universal Tone Arm the Vocalion plays all records—and without cumberson adjustments.

Vocalion prices are reasonable. Conventional Styles—$60 to $350. Art Styles from $280 to $2000. Convenient payment terms. A booklet of startling phonograph facts free on request.

"Every Dollar Saved Now Will Be Worth Two Dollars in Five Years."

The slogan of the banks, "Every dollar saved now will be worth $2 in five years," has had its sobering effect.—Chicago Herald-Examiner.

That will be true only of saved dollars that are intelligently invested.

Invested in Union Electric 7 per cent preferred stock, your saved dollars will be safe against loss; their 7 per cent dividend payments will come to you regularly and they will be doing USEFUL work for the community.

More than 1,000 Missouri men and women have bought shares of the $1,000,000 issue of Union Electric preferred stock now on sale. If that happens which many bankers believe will happen, five years will double the value, or buying power, of the dollars these investors have saved and put into this business. Their gain in dollar value may be less than 100 per cent. It may be as little as 25 per cent, or 5 per cent a year for five years. Even so, 5 per cent yearly gain in value, plus 7 per cent yearly dividends, will give our investors a total gain of 12 per cent a year, or 60 per cent in five years. THIS IS THE REWARD WHICH THE PRESENT PERIOD OFFERS THE THRIFTY—provided they invest their savings where safety is coupled with a fair dividend paid regularly.

PRICE: $100 a share for cash; $102 on a ten-payment plan under which buyers draw 5 per cent interest on installment payments, and can withdraw all payments, WITH INTEREST, any time before final installment is paid.

SALES OFFICES: Room 201 Union Electric Building, St. Louis, and Union Electric's offices in Franklin, Jefferson, Perry, St. Charles and St. Louis counties.

MAIL ORDERS: Bank draft, certified check, postoffice or express money order should be sent with mail orders. Prompt delivery of shares will be made by registered mail. Address: Securities Department, Union Electric Building, St. Louis, Mo., and make remittances payable to Union Electric Light & Power Company.

Ill Health Often Due to Neglect of Kidneys and Liver

Many organs take part in assimilation of food, and a number are active in eliminating those portions of the food which are not taken into the blood for the upbuilding of the body. Of the eliminative organs, the liver and the kidneys are of major importance, and are most likely to be overworked and become diseased. When such is the case, various troubles of a digestive and eliminative character occur, and such troubles are so frequent and so common that it is absolutely necessary to find some relief. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy was compounded over 40 years ago to help equalize the work of both kidneys and liver. How successful it has been is evidenced by its widespread sale and its value is attested by an immense number of appreciative users who through these many years have put it to the severest tests with the most satisfactory results.

The experience of multitudes is sometimes worth more than the wisdom even of the brightest physicians. Hence, if you have liver or kidney troubles, you cannot do better than call upon your druggist for Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy.

"About 7 years ago I was so weak and worn out that I could hardly work. After trying other things without relief, I tried Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy. In a short time the pain left me, my urine cleared up and the rheumatism and dyspepsia vanished. We have used Warner's Safe Remedies ever since with great success in our family." O. F. Rose, Burtonville, Kentucky, U. S. A.

Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy contains no harmful ingredients and should be used when the kidneys need attention.

Sold by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and all leading druggists. Sample sent on receipt of 10 cents. Warner's Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 245, Rochester, N. Y.

Rupture Kills 7000 Annually

Seven thousand persons each year are laid away—the burial certificate being marked "Rupture." Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely taking care of the sign (swelling) of the affliction and paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment.

But science has found a way, and every truss sufferer in the land is invited to make a FREE test right in the privacy of their own home. The PLAPAO method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAO PAD when adhering closely to the body cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. To be used whilst you work and whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

Learn how to close the hernial opening as nature intended so the rupture CAN'T come down. Send your name today to PLAPAO CO., Block 557, St. Louis, Mo., for FREE trial Plapao and the information necessary. Copyrighted by F. J. Stuart.

A Man Gets What's Coming to Him

By—ELLIS PARKER BUTLER

YES, you're right about that. You're right about it as a general proposition. A man gets what's coming to him in this world. As a general rule that's right. A man gets what's coming to him—unless he gets what's coming to Condon.

Like this—I had hooked up with a fellow named Brixton. I ran across him in one of those 20-cent hotels over in Chicago when I was down to 30 cents and worrying over getting any more and nothing but my good clothes left. We took to each other right off the bat, and Brixy proposed that we work together—he was lonely. He offered to stake me to the goods—he was selling a patent screen doorstop—and said we could work together. He always had more fun out of life when he had a partner, he said. He did not have to ask me twice.

Well, it was a good game, that doorstop. A screen door hardly ever shuts clean and nice, and the way we did it was to walk right up to Mr. Door and whip out a screwdriver and screw one of these patent stops on the door frame. Then we would knock and the lady would come out and we would show her how it worked—not a chance for a fly to squeeze in. Only about once in 20 times would she make us take the thing off. Mostly she would hand out a quarter, or tell us to put one on the other door and hand us a half. We made 15 cents on each sale; 30 cents if she took two. It was a good game.

We worked out of Chicago and across the State to the Mississippi, taking life easy, seeing the roll of bills in our pockets grow fat, and then we went over into Iowa and started down the river. That's the mosquito district, and it was August, and, say! Business? We had money, all right! And then we struck this town of Riverbank.

There was a good hotel there, and a couple not so good, but by that time the best was none too good for us. We got off the interurban and went down to the good hotel and Brixy and I went in.

"Welcome home," the clerk said, but I thought it was just a cheerful josh and I reached for the pen and signed my name—Harry P. Grace—and "Chicago" after it. The clerk looked at it and then winked at me and grinned as if it was a joke of some sort.

"O, all right!" he said. "Have it your own way," and he pushed the register at Brixy.

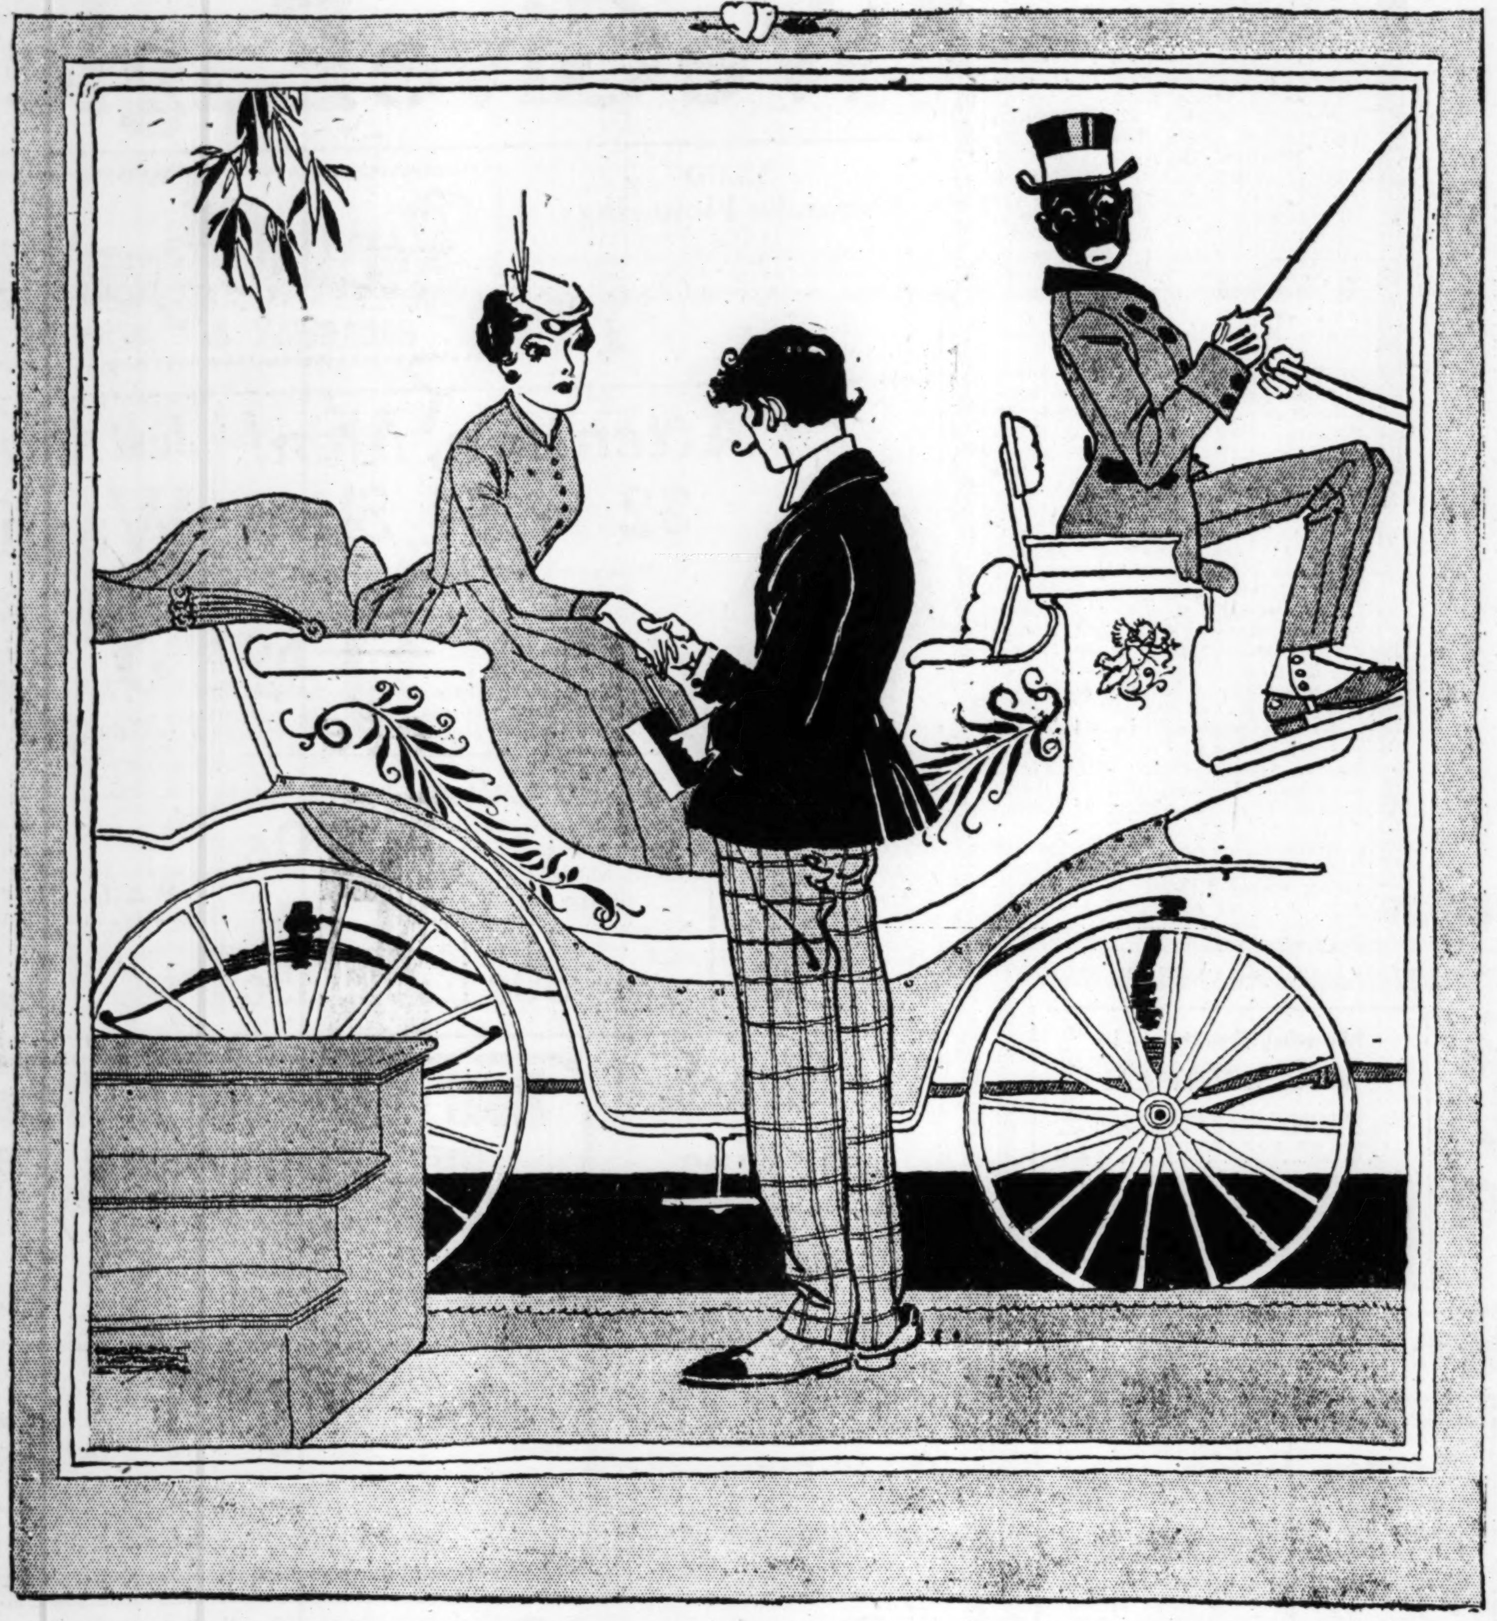
That was after supper, in the evening, and Brixy made tracks for a writing table. He had to order another gross of doorstops. So I said I would go out and look the town over a while. I liked to get the lay of a town as soon as I blew in, so we could lay out our work, Brixy taking one end and I the other.

I went out to the front of the hotel and looked at the river a minute or two and then turned up toward the main streets. It was not very lively—Friday evening—but the stores were open. I got to the main corner and stood there, looking up and down and thinking we would divide the town right there, Brixy taking to the east of the cross street, maybe, and I the west, when a phaeton with two black horses stopped on the opposite corner. It was before automobile days or it would have been one of these $8000 cars.

"Swell rig," I thought. "I bet Mr. Millionaire has a lot of screen doors on his house," and then my eye lighted on the girl in the back seat of the phaeton. "Christmas!" I said to myself.

Take my word for it, she was just a little bit on top of any girl I had ever set my eyes on. She might not have struck you that way, but she did me—she was the kind I admire. Snappy is a word for her. Dark and quick and—well, quick. And so handsome I couldn't take my eyes away.

"Christmas!" I said to myself. "If she was a hash slinger she'd be my girl if I had to fight for her," but I knew she was out of my class.



"All right," I said. "If you want to flirt, I'll flirt." And I tipped my hat.

"Ain't it a shame?" I said to myself

She got out of the phaeton and went into a store. That was all the business I had on that corner, but I stayed right there. I had to have another look at her, to cure the sore eyes I might get some time. So, in a little while, she came out and climbed into the phateton again—just touched her foot on the step and was in, like some sort of fairy. And then she looked right at me. She said something to the darky who was holding the reins, and he flicked the off horse with the whip and the phaeton started.

"Good-by, queen!" I said to myself, but the phaeton swung around and made a half circle and drew up at the curb right where I was standing.

"Hello!" said the girl.

I looked behind me, but there was no one there. She thought it was a joke, I guess—my looking behind me—for she laughed.

"All right," I said to myself, "if you want to flirt, I'm willing," and I tipped my straw hat. "Hello, yourself," I said.

"Well, won't you shake hands?" she asked. So I shook hands. It was like taking hold of a live wire from heaven. That's how it thrilled me. But that wasn't all. She didn't give me one of these touch-and-go handshakes. It was a talking one. It might have said: "Of course, I can't kiss you on the Main street corner, with Joe in the seat of the phaeton, and all, but you understand how I feel about it." So I gave her hand one that might have meant: "Put me down for all that and more."

"I didn't know you were in town," she said.

"Putting over a bluff for the benefit of the negro," I said to myself, and to her: "I didn't know I was alive until I saw you just now."

She took that all right, too. It made her smile.

"Pretty, pretty!" she said, and then: "Well, drive on home, Joe," and to me: "Come up to the house tonight, if you can."

"Hey!" I called, for the black team had jumped forward with a rush. I wanted to ask her where the house was, but she only turned her head and waved a hand to me. "O, all right!" I said to myself. "Anybody will know to whom that team belongs," and I turned to go back to the hotel. A man was coming up the side street from the hotel direction. He was a thin-faced man in a black alpaca coat, and keen, like a real estate man or smooth lawyer.

"He'll know," I said to myself, and I got ready to ask him, but he made as if to rush right at me. He did, too, only when he was right alongside of me his hand pushed out and pushed something into mine, and then he hurried around the corner and was gone. I looked at what he had slipped into my hand, and it was money—paper money, a wad of it.

"Christmas!" I said, and unwadded the cash. "Christmas!" I said again. There were $300 in the wad, all in twenties. "This is my kind of town," I said to myself. The prettiest girl in the world comes up and makes a date with me and hatchet-faced guys hand me cash by the hundreds. Come again! I've been waiting for this these many years. Virtue triumphs in the last act. A man gets what is coming to him in this world, if he waits long enough.

It had me guessing. I went on back toward the hotel, thinking hard. It was dusky now, and I thought I'd wash up and find out from the clerk who Miss Millionaire was and, maybe, make that call she spoke about. And then—bing!—on the top of my head.

You see, there was an alley right there, and whoever was in the alley handed me a clip on the top of the head with a lead pipe or something. It laid me flat. It ought to have killed me, but I must have an inch skull. When I came to I was looking up at the sky. It took a while to get together, and when I remembered who I was, and where I was, and what had happened, I lay there and thought.

"I know now," I said to myself. "I'm not getting what is coming to H. P. G. I'm getting what is coming to some other fellow. That's the answer."

So I felt in my pocket and the three hundred was still there.

"He must be an awful jealous guy," I said to myself, "slugging a guy that only shook hands with his girl. He's got a mean disposition. Just for that I'll doll up and call on his girl. And hold her hand, if she'll let me. Christmas!"

When I got back to the hotel the clerk looked at my straw, which was pretty well spoiled.

"Got another on the head, did you?" he said. "This looks like a good one."

"I'm no connoisseur," I said, "but it is as good as I want," and he grinned.

"One! Two!" he says, holding up his fingers like the fellow in the play. "Look out or it will be three strikes and out."

"I'll look out, all right," I said, and went up to our room. Brixy was loafing on the bed, smoking a cigar and reading the Chicago paper.

"This is some town," I said, and I told him what had happened to me and showed him the wad of cash the thin-faced man had handed to me. I asked him what he thought it meant.

"This is real money, H. P.," he said. "It has the silk threads and everything. Three hundred real dollars. I know what it means. It means 'beat it'!"

"Skip out?"

"Just as fast as we can," he said. "When anybody hands us $300 it is a signal to us to pay at the desk and go away from here."

"You forget the girl," I said.

"That's the thing to do," he said, beginning to throw his collars into his grip. "What is a girl? Eighty-eight per cent of all births are female. There are 23,000,000 females in the United States and only this one $300 wad floating loose."

"All right," I said; "you take $150 of this money and the other 22,999,999 females and beat it, if you want to. I'm going to stay here and find out what this is all about and hold that girl's hand again, if I have to wear an airpad in my hat to bounce blackjacks off."

"And there's that gross of doorstops I just ordered," he said, hedging. "Anyway, it's your head they want to bounce things off of. I can stand it if you can. Somebody may hand you $400 the next time."

We talked it over and it was clear enough that I had been mistaken for some other party.

"That clerk downstairs knows who," I said, "and I'll get him to tell me. We may have to give this three hundred back"——

"Unless we beat it tonight," Brixy said.

"We may have to turn it over to the proper party," I said. "I don't want any cash or any broken skulls that belong to another party. But, anyway, before that happens I'm going to make a bold dash and see that girl once more, even if her pa pushes me off the front porch. That's how I feel about that girl."

Brixy put on his shoes and I straightened my hat the best I could and we went down to see that clerk. He was all human; some hotel clerks are, and they are the best folks you ever meet.

"Hello!" he said when we leaned against the desk. "Not dead yet, anyway."

To Be Continued Tomorrow and Concluded Tuesday.

365 Girls and 265 Boys Make Up the Number of Those to Receive Diplomas

Herewith Is the List of All Those Who Will Complete the Various Courses—Six More Than Combined Classes Last Year.

Six hundred and thirty pupils will complete the four-year high school course and receive diplomas this week. This exceeds the number graduating last year by six, and is the largest number ever graduated at one time in the history of the St. Louis schools. Of the total, 265 are boys and 365 girls.

In addition to the high school graduates, there will be 68 to complete the course at the Harris Teachers' College, the training school for elementary teachers, and 15 from the Sumner High Normal, the training school for colored elementary teachers.

The Washington University Scholarship winners are as follows: Central, Joseph J. Senturia; Cleveland, Lawrence Goldman; McKinley, Robert S. Kamm; Soldan, Evelyn Gaylord Webb; Yeatman, Grace Marie Oberschelp. The graduating class at each of the high schools every half year has one scholarship in Washington University which is presented by the University Corporation to the student making the highest general average in his studies during the four-year high school course.

Dates for graduations which will be held in the auditoriums of the high schools are as follows: Harris Teachers' College, 10 a. m., Wednesday; Central, Cleveland and McKinley, 8 p. m., Thursday; Soldan, 10 a. m., Thursday; Yeatman, 10 a. m., Friday; Sumner High, 8 p. m., Wednesday; Sumner Normal, 8 p. m., Tuesday.

2000 DELEGATES EXPECTED AT JUNIOR C. OF C. CONVENTION

First Meeting of National Organization Will Take Place in St. Louis June 17.

Approximately 2000 delegates are expected to attend the first annual convention of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce to be held in St. Louis June 17, 18 and 19, according to Henry Giessenbier Jr. of St. Louis, president of the organization, who returned yesterday from a speaking tour to arouse interest in the large cities of the country.

Giessenbier visited Little Rock, Memphis, New Orleans, Galveston, Houston, Tulsa, Dallas, Pittsburg, Arkansas City and states that many of them are arranging to charter special trains, while others will charter special cars, for their delegations.

The senior Chamber of Commerce of St. Louis has adopted a resolution commending the organization, and in view of the fact that the first convention is to be held in this city, has appointed a special committee consisting of Clarence H. Howard, Melville L. Wilkinson and Paul W. Brown, to act in an advisory capacity and to assist the junior organization in the arrangements for the convention.

WELLSTON GRADUATION TUESDAY

Grade Pupils to Have Exercises Thursday Morning.

The Wellston High School will hold graduating exercises Tuesday night in the auditorium at Evergreen and Ella avenues. The graduates are Louis C. Gragg, Edith K. Eckhoff, Frederick A. Gossom, Virgil L. Hagerty, Eleanor L. Mahaffy, June I. McNerney, Laura M. Rohlfing, Mary K. Schefrik, Edna W. Scholle, Marshall G. Seibel and Frederick L. Taylor.

The eighth-grade pupils of the Wellston public school will have their graduating exercises in the high school auditorium Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

INCOME TAX INSTALLMENT BILL DESIGNED TO AID TAXPAYER

Must Be Returned Intact to Collector With Check or Money Order, Not Later Than June 15.

Bills for the second installment of income tax for 1919, due on or before June 15, have been mailed to taxpayers. Unlike those of last year, the bills are nondetachable and are expected to be returned intact, accompanied by check or money order.

Payment in this manner is particularly desirable, it is stated. It helps the taxpayer by saving him a trip to the office of the collector or branch office, and it helps the Government by avoiding congestion at the cashier's window during the last few days preceding the date of payment. There also is the fact that a check is a receipt.

Failure of a taxpayer to receive a bill does not relieve him of his obligation to pay within the time specified, failure of which carries penalty and interest. Checks or money orders should be made payable to the collector of internal revenue.

Swimming Instruction for Boys.

The Y. M. C. A. will give a series of free swimming instructions at Central "Y," Grand and Franklin avenues, beginning June 14. John Ruppel will be in charge. Last year the Y. M. C. A. taught 358 boys and young men how to swim.

Membership in the association is not essential for free swmming lessons, but any boy whose parents are willing may apply to S. C. Britton, boys' work secretary at Central Y. M. C. A., for a ticket entitling him to the entire course.

Garden Craft—Old Hickory

Out-of-Doors Furniture

THE Mathews Garden Craft Furniture has a vogue in the East, and decorates many of the lawns, gardens, terraces and verandahs of the beautiful estates owned by the social leaders of New York, Boston and other seaboard cities.

It is shown in St. Louis by this store only.

The famous "Old Hickory" Furniture you will find here in good variety — Swings, Rockers, Chairs, Tables, etc. Added to the real charm of "Old Hickory" furniture is the solid comfort one feels in its use. In it one experiences the relaxation that makes for perfect rest.

The out-of-doors has for two centuries received the attention of the proprietors of English and French estates. America is now following suit but along lines of her own developing.

Strong Nerves and Great Physical Energy that Help Men to Win Come From Rich, Red Blood

While Thin, Pale, Watery Blood Without Iron Robs Men of Their Strength and Self-Confidence and Often Holds Them Back From Reaching the Goal of Health, Success and Power—Physician Explains Why He Prescribes

Nuxated Iron To Help Make Red Blood

And give Stamina, Power and Endurance—It often Increases the Strength of Weak, Nervous, Run-Down People in Two Weeks' Time.

LACK OF IRON IN THE BLOOD

Lack of iron in the blood is the stumbling block that trips many a man at the crucial point in his career and leaves him a trembling, nervous weakling, lagging behind the strong, vigorous man who keeps his blood filled with health-giving, strength-building iron—the kind of man Nuxated Iron helps to make.

There are thousands of men of 40 and 50 years of age who can look back to younger years when they seemed to be on the road to success yet who today are nervous wrecks, business failures and physical and mental weaklings, all through a lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles.

They have lost sight of the fact that a sound, strong body, brimming over with vital force and energy is the basis of all real achievement and as a result they are aging and breaking down at a time when they should be enjoying that perfect bodily health which cries defiance to disease and failure. Let many who now have no self-confidence, lack initiative and imagine they suffer from all sort of dread ailments undergo a remarkable transformation the moment they get plenty of the right kind of iron into their blood to give increased strength, energy and endurance. Their imagined ills are forgotten, they gain physical poise and fitness, mental alertness and greater power to combat obstacles or withstand severe strains. But to take the wrong form of iron may prove worse than useless, so that if you are weak, nervous and run-down, if you lack self reliance and courage, are fearful of failure and not winning the best prizes of life—you owe it to yourself to find out why physicians below prescribe only organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to help build rich, red blood and thereby produce greater physical and mental power and that dominant energy so necessary to success and happiness.

"It is the men of blood and iron who are towers of strength and masters of circumstances," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, in commenting upon the relation of sound nerves and physical endurance to the attainment of success and power. "Every keen, active, successful man and woman of today recognizes that a sound, strong body is the basis of all real achievement and they leave no stone unturned to safeguard their health. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. I strongly advise every man who is fagged out by worry, work and other strains to build up his strength, energy and endurance by taking some form of organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for I consider it one of the foremost blood and body builders, the best to which I have ever had recourse."

Dr. J. Van Horne, formerly Medical Inspector and clinical Physician on the Board of Health of the City of New York says: "Strong healthy men and women with plenty of iron in their blood are the ones who go through life with a smile, self-reliant and fearless and their dynamic power and energy makes them virtually masters of their own destinies. It is surprising how many people who do not get along in life are in reality suffering from iron deficiency and do not know it. To supply this lack of iron and help build stronger, healthier men and women, better able to physically meet the problems of everyday life, I believe that physicians should, at every opportunity, prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for in my experience it is one of the best tonic and red blood builders known to medical science."

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which has been prescribed by these physicians with such surprising results, is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Weipert Drug Co., Pauley's Drug Store, Enderle Drug Co., and Merker's 3 stores, East St. Louis, and all other druggists.

BEGINNING Saturday, July 10, this store will remain closed all day each Saturday until September 1.

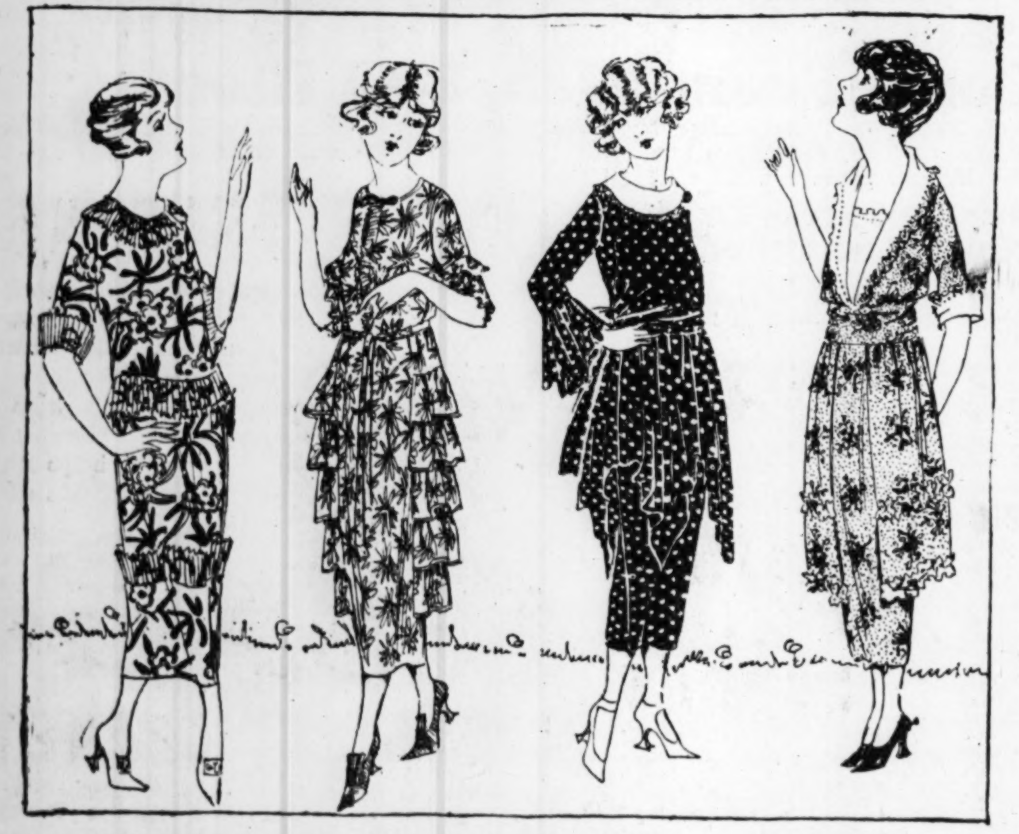
NEW BASEMENT SHOPS



Beginning Tomorrow Morning—A Sale of

400 New Voile Wash Dresses

Made to sell at $7.50, $10.00 and $12.50. Scores of different styles, dozens of patterns. All delightfully new and shown for the first time. Choice tomorrow at $5

AT no time this season have we seen or heard of such remarkable Dresses for so small a price. The styles are really so attractive that thrifty women will fairly revel in the selection. Hardly could one purchase the materials for the small sum asked for each Dress.

The manufacturer would never have made such price concessions had we not found him just at the psychological moment, during the recent flurry in the market.

The printed patterns include a well-assorted variety of both light and dark grounds. The workmanship speaks for the character of the Dresses; insures proper fitting qualities and smart appearance. There are just 400, in all sizes from 16 to 44, so we advise the earliest possible attendance Monday morning. We expect to see every Dress sold before the day is over. Choice at $5.00.

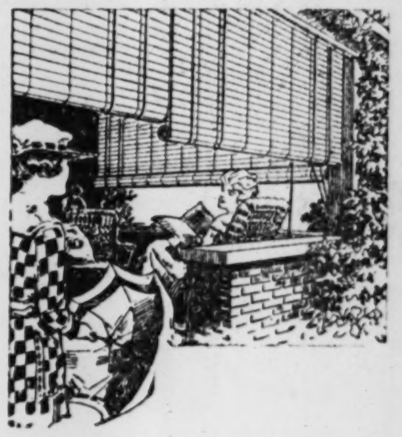
Aerolux Porch Shades

Why These Shades Are Preferred



IN keeping with our invariable rule to furnish our customers the best at the right price, we are giving special attention to this season's offering of Porch Shades.

The reasons for their popularity are varied: First, perhaps, because they are easy to hang, afford perfect ventilation and a free view; they are easily operated and do not flap to the wind.

They are firmly constructed of tough linwood splints finished with weather proof stains, and are laced with chemically treated twine. They come in green, brown or green and white. They are suitable for all porches, and are offered in the following sizes as well as intermediate ones:

3x3 ft.	$2.50
6 ft.	$6.00
8 ft.	$8.15
10 ft.	$10.90
12 ft.	$13.50

KOERNER ARRESTED SECOND TIME ON LIQUOR CHARGES

President of Merchants Catering Co. Sold Drink of Whisky to Prohibition Enforcement Agent, Latter Says.

E. A. Koerner, president of the Merchants' Catering Co., 408 Washington avenue, who pleaded guilty May 10 to a charge of selling whisky in violation of the Volstead act and was fined $500 by Federal Judge Faris, was arrested at noon yesterday, charged with a similar offense.

The Volstead law provides a penalty of a fine of not less than $200 or more than $2000 and imprisonment or not less than 30 days in jail or more than five years in the penitentiary for a second or subsequent violation of its provisions. Prohibition Enforcement Agent Digges said he would ask for a severe penalty in the event of Koerner's conviction of the new charge.

An agent of the enforcement office, who was visiting Koerner's on a tour of inspection, said he bought a drink from the proprietor, forming the basis of the charge against him.

Koerner, he said, was serving two other men at the bar from a quart bottle when he approached. When he had finished serving the two he turned to the agent, according to the latter, and asked, "What's yours?"

"A little of the same," the agent replied, and Koerner poured him a drink, which he set on the bar.

After paying for the liquor and drinking it to make sure it was whisky stronger than "one-half of one," the agent asked Koerner to permit him to look at the bottle from which the drink had been poured. Koerner declined.

"Are you Mr. Koerner?" the agent inquired.

"Yes," said the proprietor.

"Well, I want that bottle," declared the agent, displaying his badge by turning the lapel of his coat.

"Oh!" exclaimed Koerner, as he passed the bottle over the bar to the agent. He was then arrested.

KIEL OPPOSES THE LOCATION FOR NEW JEWISH HOSPITAL

Says He Will Veto Bill if Aldermen Vote to Change the Zoning Ordinance.

Mayor Kiel said yesterday that he agrees with the City Plan Commission in opposing the plan to construct a new Jewish hospital between Skinker road and the city limits, south of the Hillcrest subdivision. If the Board of Aldermen passes a bill now before it, changing the zoning ordinance in order to permit the erection of the hospital, the Mayor will veto the bill, he said.

E. J. Russell, chairman of the commission, Friday wrote to the Board of Aldermen declaring that the best interests of the city would not be served by having a hospital opposite Forest Park, and also pointing out that St. Mary's Infirmary several months ago sought permission to build a hospital on this very site, and was refused.

Under the present zoning ordinance, a hospital could not be erected on this site. Once before the Jewish Hospital Association, of which Aaron Waldheim is president, sought to have the law changed, and Waldheim called on the Mayor, accompanied by Circuit Clerk Nat Goldstein. At that time the Mayor said he would abide by the decision of the City Plan Commission.

The association plans the construction of a hospital to cost $1,500,000. It was at first proposed to build it west of Skinker and north of Hillcrest, but property owners objected, and then the proposal to obtain a site south of Hillcrest was made.

EAST ST. LOUIS GETS COMPLETE CITY PLAN

Bartholomew Points Out That Housing Condition Is Chief Problem and Hard to Remedy.

A comprehensive city plan for East St. Louis has been completed and put in pamphlet form by Harland Bartholomew, engineer for the St. Louis City Plan Commission, who was retained for that purpose by the War Civics Committee of East St. Louis. Advance extracts from it have been printed before, but the complete plan presents much that is new.

Among the worst of the city's problems, says Bartholomew's report, is the housing condition. This is due not only to many bad natural conditions, some of which are difficult to remedy, but also to lax enforcement of city ordinances. The laws governing sanitary conditions have been, in some respects, almost forgotten, he says. He points out that there are 7700 cesspools in the city, more than half of which exist in violation of the law that prohibits them when there is a sewer on an adjacent lot.

There has been almost no collection of garbage, he states, and the law recently passed providing for it does not specify how often such collections must be made. There is a great shortage of sewers, particularly in the eastern part of the city.

Solving of Congestion Problem.

The partial reports already published recommended the widening of many streets, including Collinsville avenue and State street. In the final report Bartholomew emphasizes that the reopening of that portion of the Rock road, closed a few years ago at the instance of certain property owners, furnishes the key to the whole problem of congestion in the downtown area. Unless that step is taken the problem will always remain, he says.

The establishment of 14 playgrounds is recommended. There are only four now. The need of community centers also is emphasized, and Bartholomew recommends that they be opened at the following schools: Franklin, Webster, Froebel, Emerson, Lincoln, Monroe, Jefferson, Alta Sita, McKinley, St. Elizabeth's and the high school. This, he says, can be done at comparatively small expense.

He outlines a system of boulevards and parks, which includes the establishment of a large park on the bluffs at the eastern city limits, and boulevards totaling a length of about 30 miles. He would make boulevards of Lynch, Exchange, St. Louis, McCausland and Converse avenues and Eighth street, and construct, in addition, a boulevard running along the northern city limits to the bluffs, south along the bluffs, and west along the southern city limits.

Changes in Car Routes.

Changes in the routing of the car lines are suggested, many of which would be dependent upon the reopening of the Rock road. A cross-town line that would start at the stockyards and operate via St. Clair avenue, Tenth street and south to Piggott avenue, providing a direct route for the large negro population employed at the stockyards, is urged.

A new railroad station at Twenty-first and State streets, and a subordinate station at Tenth street and the municipal bridge approach, are recommended. River terminals for the Government barge line also are suggested.

Declaring that the city hall will, in a few years, have outlived its usefulness, and pointing out that the present library building already is inadequate, Bartholomew states that it is time for the city to contemplate in the not distant future, the construction of a group of public buildings which, he suggests, should be located on the two blocks bounded by Fifth and Seventh streets and St. Louis and Illinois avenues.

Thousands Homeless in Budapest.

BUDAPEST. — Twenty thousand persons are homeless in this city and there is little prospect of finding lodgings for them, said Margaret Schlachta, the first and, thus far, the only woman member of the Hungarian National Assembly. Hundreds, she said, are living in freight cars in railroad yards.

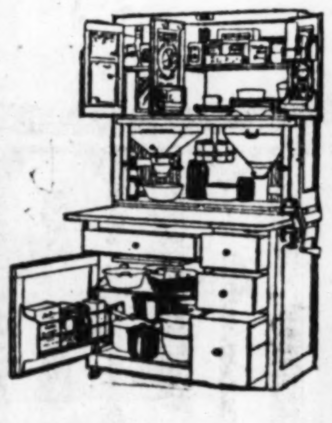
The arrangement of the work space either makes or destroys the effectiveness of a Kitchen Cabinet. For here it is that 90 per cent of your work is done. Note the scientific arrangement of Hoosier's vital section—no partitions; nothing in the way, yet the most used conveniences are centered here. The table top is extra size and can be had in either snow-white porcelain or pure aluminum.



Hours that you now spend in your kitchen can be replaced by hours of pleasurable recreation. If you have envied women who find time for social activities while you were confined by your kitchen work, do not envy them any longer. Join the Hoosier club and you, too, will find more time to devote to the things you long to do. A Hoosier places kitchen work on the same efficient basis as labor-saving devices in man's office.

Kauffman Player-Piano

The Kauffman is a remarkable player—wonderfully responsive and of unusual beauty of tone. It is full 88-note, in your choice of walnut, oak or mahogany. It has an adjustable rewind spool which assures perfect tracking. The transposing device, automatic sustaining pedal and silencer are features embodied in its construction. It is unusually reasonable in price.

VIGILANTES KEEPING WATCH ON SPEEDERS

Society Wherein Members Are Known by Number Has Existed More Than Year.

Following the report of the April grand jury urging the organization of a body similar to the Humane Society, to discourage and penalize reckless automobile driving, John A. Bruner, president of the Automobile Club and chairman of the Citizens' Vigilance Committee, stated that an organization, which is of a character suggested by the grand jury, had been in existence for more than a year and that as many as 700 traffic violations have been reported within the space of a week.

Each Member Has Number.

"The personnel of the band is known only to the chairman," said Bruner. "Each member is given a number. As a vigilante observes a violation of the traffic code by an automobile driver, he notes all the circumstances, including time, place and the license number of the offender's car. These he reports to Edward G. Marsh, secretary of the Municipal Complaints Bureau, signed only by his number.

"A letter, calling attention to the violation of the law, is written by Marsh to the owner of the car. In more than 75 per cent of the cases persons so notified answer promptly and courteously, either promising that a repetition will not occur or offering some form of explanation.

"Failure to answer the letter results in a second letter being sent to the offender and, in the event that also is ignored, a report of the case is sent to the Chief of Police and a visit by a uniformed officer to the home of the offender follows.

Where Offender Was Defiant.

"In the few cases where the offender was inclined to be defiant he was summoned to appear at a private conference with Judge Mix, the secretary of the Complaint Board and a representative of the Chief of Police.

"Only once was it found necessary to proceed further than this. In that case a fine of $10 was imposed in open court, but was stayed on promise of good behavior.

"A few of the more active vigilantes have been commissioned by the Police Board to make arrests.

"Judge Mix has told the Safety Council that the work of the committee is lessening the number of offenders."

TWO CONCERTS BY PAGEANT CHORAL SOCIETY ANNOUNCED

Will Sing "The Bells" Nov. 30 and "Editha" Legend March 1, Next.

The Pageant Choral Society will give two concerts next season, according to an announcement by the director, Frederick Fischer. One will be Nov. 30 and the other March 1.

The November concert will be distinguished by the first American performance, outside of New York and Philadelphia, of Serge Rachmaninoff's great choral symphony, "The Bells," based on the poem by Edgar Allen Poe. On the same evening will be given Rossini's "Stabat Mater." The soloists engaged for this occasion are Idelle Patterson, soprano; Harriet McConnell, contralto; Robert Quait, tenor, and Frederick Patton, bass.

The March concert will be devoted to Heinrich Hofmann's Norse legend, "Editha," which will be given with these soloists: Mme. Rider-Kelsey, soprano; Nevada Van der Veer, contralto, and Arthur Middleton, bass-baritone. The Symphony Orchestra will assist at both concerts. The society will give a river excursion on the steamer St. Paul next Saturday afternoon and evening, the proceeds to go to its deficit fund.

TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY TO GIVE CHARITY CARNIVAL JULY 1

Two Baseball Games, Races and Music to Be Attractions at Ball Park.

The Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis will give its eighth annual charity carnival July 1. Maj. John F. Oberwinder is chairman of the General Committee of Arrangements.

There will be two baseball games, one between two of the major league teams and one between two other teams. In addition to the usual boys' marathon, there will be a marathon for girls of school age. Prizes in the latter contest will be similar to those offered to the boys, silver cups and bronze medals. A program of special features, such as athletic exhibitions, music and novelties, is being planned. The program will be continuous from 1 to 6 p. m. The event will take place at one of the ball parks.

As in former years purchasers of souvenir score cards will get presents. These will range from a bottle of toilet water or a stick of shaving soap to an automobile, a ton of coal or a barrel of flour. The score cards will be sold by girls for 25 cents each.

Girls will act as ushers and barkers, and the entire ball grounds will be divided up into sections, with each group of girls chaperoned by a matron.

JEWISH EDITOR TO SPEAK

Abraham Cahan of New York Will Be at Odeon Tuesday Night.

Abraham Cahan of New York, editor of the Jewish Daily Forward of that city and representative of his paper with the Wilson party at the peace conference in Paris, will speak Thursday evening at the Odeon, on conditions in Europe today, under the auspices of a committee of the local Jewish societies.

Cahan is said to be the oldest journalist in the field of Yiddish publications in America, as he began his career 40 years ago. He will be entertained at a dinner at the Planters Wednesday evening and also will speak before the City Club during his stay.

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY ART CLASSES CLOSE FOR YEAR

Awards to Students Are Announced Following Dinner and Dance at School.

Closing of its classes for the 1919-20 year by Washington University School of Fine Arts took place last night, with a dinner and dance. Awards to the students were announced at the dinner as follows:

Certificates to those completing their work: Lillian Glaser, leather; Florence French, ceramic decoration; Gertrude Kurz, bookbinding. To Walter Hancock, bronze medal for work in modeling; to Donald Johnson, bronze medal for black and white work, also honorable mention for work in color and compositions commended.

Honorable mentions—Bert Dunn, modeling; Warren Hagee, composition; Mrs. Brunson, pottery; Ruby Tuck, weaving and metal. The jury announced that William Forrest is already hors concours and therefore not eligible for awards, and that Frederick Conway is made hors concours for excellence of work in black and white.

The work of these students was formally commended — Gertrude Kurz, in metal; Virginia Livsey and Robert Ruhe, in illustration; Gladys Alexander and Helen Coatsworth, in black and white; Robert Wright, Manuel Essman and Paul Smith, in color; Gladys Skelley, in design; Margaret Franz and Grace Ellett, interior decoration; Ruby Champion, basketry; Mrs. Anna Morton, bookbinding; Florence French, weaving and metal work.

The best work done during the entire year by students in all classes will be on display in the large hall of the school from today until next Sunday evening.

PIANO MOVERS CANNOT UNLOAD WAGE INCREASE ON PUBLIC

Old Practice of "Passing It Along to the Consumer" Blocked by Merchants.

When the piano movers asked George Geers, president of the Central Moving Co., for an increase in pay, he gave it to them, not as much as they asked, but still a raise. "I'll pass it on to the piano merchants," quoth Geers to Geers.

But he didn't. The piano merchants said they were much obliged, but they did not really care for it. So for once the rule of passing it along, with a fine chance of it getting to the ultimate consumer sooner or later, is broken.

Practically all of the piano moving in St. Louis is done by the Central Moving Co. The movers made a demand a week ago on Geers for an increase of about $10 a week and an hour and a half less work a day. They compromised on $7.50 increase and a half-hour decrease.

Then Geers went among the merchants and asked them to let him move the load on to them. Some were willing, but others demurred. These could not see their way clear to either increase their overhead or increase the charge to renters for delivery. The Music Merchants' Association had a meeting and the members decided that they would not pay the increase, but they would co-operate in cutting down overtime by clearing deliveries not later than 2 p. m. each day, with the added stipulation that the movers must wear a uniform of cap and jumper.

SANITARIUM PATIENT, BEING RETURNED, SHOOTS OFFICIAL

C. C. Van Dover of Farmington Hospital Brought, Wounded, to St. Louis.

C. C. Van Dover, 35 years old, secretary of the board of directors of State Hospital No. 4, Farmington, Mo., who was shot in the right leg and seriously wounded by George Stoker of De Soto, Mo., at Stoker's home Friday afternoon, was brought here for treatment at St. Mary's Infirmary, 1536 Papin street.

Van Dover told physicians at the infirmary that Stoker had walked away from the hospital, where he had been under treatment for a mental disorder, and had returned to his home. Van Dover was assigned to take him back to the hospital. Stoker, according to Van Dover, seemed willing to return to the hospital and left the house to get into an automobile. As they were approaching the car, Van Dover said, Stoker excused himself and went into the house. Later he came out with a shotgun and fired at Van Dover.

A message from Farmington to Van Dover's cousin, Dr. S. T. Van Dover, 3102 South Grand avenue, stated that Stoker had been taken back to the hospital by guards.

Less Fuel More Heat

Conserve the Coal Pile with a CAHILL Furnace

THERE is a secret back of the economy and heating qualities of Cahill Pipeless Furnaces. This secret is found in the castings—the parts of a furnace that count for most when the fire is laid and started. The Cahill castings are unusually heavy, thick, and carefully fitted and finished, and when once heated they retain heat longer than most furnaces, thereby saving fuel and throwing off a greater and more uniform heat. Moreover, the heavy Cahill castings will withstand wear better than castings less sturdily made, which means less replacing of parts is required in a Cahill Furnace than in ordinary furnaces.

The modern and sanitary method of heating homes, churches, schools, factories and stores. One register heats the whole house. Simple to install, economical and easy to operate. Uniform heat in every room, constantly circulating.

Write us for FREE BOOKLET fully describing Cahill Pipeless Furnaces and giving valuable information about heating problems.

Cahill Pipeless Furnaces

The Cahill Furnace is the result of 40 years manufacturing experience, and embodies the same manufacturing ideals which have given to Cahill Grates and Fireplace Fixtures an enviable reputation for quality and dependability.

7000 ST. LOUISANS SIGNED PLEDGE TO SUPPORT HOOVER

Volunter Workers Obtained Signatures in Six Weeks, Hoover Club Announces in Financial Statement.

The Hoover Club of St. Louis, in issuing a statement yesterday of its campaign expenditures, declared that in six weeks here volunteer workers obtained 7000 signatures to pledges of support for Hoover for President.

The financial statement shows that $5,803.50 was contributed by St. Louisans to the campaign and a like amount was expended under the following items: Salaries $1357.77, office rent $497.14, State Committee $1057.81, advertising $885.30, printing $262, postage 675, supplies $1068.48. It is stated that none of the contributions exceeded $100.

"The fact that such a sentiment for Hoover exists in St. Louis has been brought to the attention of the delegates from St. Louis," Stratford Morton, chairman of the Executive Committee said. "So far as we can learn from them no other sentiment of anywhere similar strength has been brought to their attention," he added.

Clarance H. Howard, president of the Commonwealth Steel Co., is president of the Hoover Clubs of Missouri. Signatures from the State were sent direct to Chicago. The St. Louis headquarters in the Hotel Statler have been removed to the Morrison Hotel in Chicago and the following representatives of the club have gone to Chicago: Morton, Horace Swope, Humphrey Sullivan, Marie B. Ames, Mrs. George Gellhorn and Mrs. Aaron Rauh.

SPECIAL SESSION URGED TO LOWER INCOME TAX

Associated Industries Request Governor to Call Legislature.

The executive committee of the Associated Industries of Missouri, a State-wide organization, has adopted resolutions requesting Gov. Gardner to call, as soon as possible, a special session of the State Legislature for the purpose of reducing the State income tax rate to conform with the actual needs of efficient and business government. The present income tax rate is 1½ per cent.

Members of the Executive Committee, who signed the resolution, were E. J. Miller, president, St. Louis Screw Co.; H. H. Allen, general manager Bemis Bros. Bag Co.; John L. Green, president Laclede-Christy Clay Products Co., and Albert J. Davis of A. J. Davis & Co.

The adoption of the resolution followed a conference in Jefferson City on Thursday between a special committee of the Associated Industries and the Governor. This committee reported that the Governor said the present income from taxation was considerably in excess of the amount needed to cover the expenses of the State Government, and that the people should not be asked to pay taxes to create a reserve.

He said that United States revenue experts, during the latter part of 1918, advised State officials that one and one-half per cent income tax would realize approximately $2,600,000, and as the loss to Missouri caused by the prohibition enactment necessitated additional avenues of revenue, it was decided to increase the tax to that rate. Experience, he added, has proven that this rate produces a larger revenue than is necessary. Figures are now available, based on the income of the State under the present law, upon which the Legislature may intelligently provide for a downward revision of the income tax, he said.

LETMAR CLUB, HOME MAKER, LOSES ITS OWN QUARTERS

Has to Suspend and Store Goods Until It Gets Possession, Next April, of Shardell Hotel.

The Letmar Club, which provides homes for girls in industry, is without a home, its quarters for the past year at 3858 West Pine boulevard, having been sold. The 25 girl roomers moved out yesterday and the furniture and equipment of the club went into storage.

The club, organized four years ago by Miss Letticia Parker and Miss Mary Semple Scott, recently purchased the Shardell Hotel, Lindell boulevard and Boyle avenue, but will be unable to obtain possession of the property before April 1 next. All efforts to obtain other quarters temporarily have failed. So the club decided the only course left was to find other good places for its girls to stay until it obtains the Shardell and temporarily suspend activity.

The Shardell was purchased with the Letmar Club's share of $250,000 raised in a joint campaign conducted this spring by it and the Y. W. C. A. It is to accommodate 100 girls who will have a large measure of home rule. The club is expected then to become self-sustaining financially. Its affairs now are administered by a board of 25 members.

CADILLAC
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

The Men Who Make the Cadillac

The group of men who have made the Cadillac what it is today, have worked in silence and almost in obscurity for seventeen years—deriving their greatest reward from the endorsement which their endeavors have won from the whole world.

Their greatness has been manifested by the fact that they have been content to remain hidden from the public eye and combine their ability for the common good of the Cadillac.

No one of them would dream of contending that the Cadillac is his creation—he would feel ashamed to filch from his fellows the fruits of seventeen years of closest and friendliest co-ordination.

They have had, all these years, a common aim, and a common standard, and all of them share and share alike in the pride and pleasure of making the Cadillac more worthy of the world's appreciation.

The Cadillac has grown and developed in goodness, as a man's character grows and develops with the years, when he dedicates his life to honor and integrity, and declines to swerve from that high standard.

When another group, equally gifted, have applied the same high principles over a long period of years; when those principles have fastened themselves like a life-long habit on the rank and file of a great organization—then, and not till then, can there be another car remotely comparable to the Cadillac.

RELIGIOUS WORKERS TO VISIT EUROPE TO RENEW CONFIDENCE

Representatives of Federal Council Plan Effort to Offset Failure of U. S. to Enter Nation's League.

Nineteen European countries will be visited this summer by 40 American clergymen and officials of various religious organizations, as representatives of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, according to the Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Armstrong, executive secretary of the Church Federation of St. Louis, who has just returned from the Church and Community convention at Cleveland, O., under auspices of the Federal Council and the Council of Church Federation Executive Secretaries.

"The objective of the visitation," Dr. Armstrong said, "is the cultivation of international friendship, and especially an endeavod to overcome the shattered confidence in the United States on the part of the peoples who have been disappointed at our failure to ratify the peace treaty and to enter the league of nations. It is also believed that the Christian Church of America should make a strong effort to develop moral and spiritual associations between the nations."

THE REV. DR. COOK NOW BISHOP

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 5.—The Rev. Dr. Phillip Cook, rector of St. Michael's and All Angels Protestant Episcopal Church, Baltimore, has accepted the Bishopric of Delaware, to which he was elected, it was announced today.

Dr. Cook came to Baltimore from St. Mark's Church, San Antonio, Tex., in March, 1916. He was born at Kansas City, Mo., in 1875. During the world war he served a year with the American forces in France, with the Seventy-seventh Division.

TRADING IN STOCKS SLOWER ON EVE OF G. O. P. CONVENTION

Some Suggest Market Also Is "Sold to a Standstill"—Key to Situation.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jun 5.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"Everyone is now aware that the break on the Stock Exchange last November—followed, after an intervening recovery, by even more far-reaching a decline in April and May—was the correct forecast of the conditions which now prevail in the money market and the markets for merchandise. Recognition of this fact might seem to give some importance to the action of the stock market this week, when flatly contradictory predictions regarding the remainder of 1920 have caused uncertainty. But the stock market has either not lived up to its responsibilities or has been as bewildered as anyone else by the conflicting arguments. Practically all that can be said of this week's market, is that it has shrunk to the narrowest proportions of any week since the similar halt of economic uncertainty in February of 1919.

"It was not wholly unreasonable to ascribe this disappearance of all initiative to the near approach of the presidential conventions. A presidential election is one of the greatest financial uncertainties often involving consequences of vital importance to a financial situation; but the presidential nominations sometimes, virtually settle the result of the election, and both are settled by causes and influences beyond the power of financial markets even to forecast with certainty.

Uncertainty Factor.

"When even the nominating conventions are surrounded with such a fog of uncertainty as is the case this year, the attitude of the markets in simply standing still and giving no evidence of what they expect is perhaps a correct reflection of the general public's attitude.

"The pause on the eve of a nominating convention may mean deference to an old tradition—that startling and unexpected accidents are possible and are on the whole rather more apt to happen in the June conventions than on election day in November. There have not been many accidents of that sort in the presidential conventions of recent years; but then the well-posted portion of the public has pretty uniformly known either who would be nominated or else the two or three candidates from whom the nominee would have to be selected. There has been no 'dark horse' nomination in 24 years. On the other hand, it is considerably more than 24 years since the conventions have met with politicians, public and delegates in such complete doubt as today concerning who was even likely to be nominated. Very possibly the Stock Exchange is hesitating because it cannot make up its mind just what this foreshadows as to the actual event in either of the conventions.

"It is also true, however, that the stock market may have come to a halt because, in Wall Street language, it has been 'sold to a standstill.'

Credit Situation.

"This would mean that its position is now steadied by the fact that holders on narrow margins, who had to sell when credit tightened, have been crowded out. If the decline was carried, under the pressure of forced liquidation, further than real financial conditions justified, then a recovery would be in order. How far such a recovery would go, would naturally depend on those outside conditions.

"Even in the very similar period of 1903, when the stock market had fallen heavily in the spring, because of overstrained credit and signs of a decline in commodity prices, there was a halt on the Stock Exchange of just this kind at just this time, followed later in June by a consiredable recovery. Yet the money stringency was not relieved and the commodity markets broke much more rapidly in the autumn than in the spring. The key to the situation now, as then, rests in the credit position itself. What that is, and how far it has yet shown signs of the relaxing of the utterly abnormal strain, every observant person knows.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET CLOSES BARELY STEADY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Prospects for improved weather over the week-end and continued nervousness over the general business outlook led to a good deal of realizing or scattered liquidation in the cotton market today. Early advances were lost, with October selling off from 36.50c to 35.90c, or 26 points below Friday's closing quotation. That delivery closed at 36.07c, with the general market closing barely steady at a net advance of 5 points on July, but generally 1 to 10 points lower.

The market opened firm at an advance of 18 to 28 points, on reports of continued rains in central and western sections of the belt and increasing crop complaints from those regions. There was some foreign trade buying, but no increased interest on the part of domestic spinners was reported and prices turned easier right after the call, under scattered liquidation and New Orleans selling. The decline was checked during the middle of the morning by buying of July, supposedly against spinners' calling, but moderate rallies met increased offerings, which became more active after the posting of the favorable weather forecast. July sold off from 38.71c to 38.36c and December from 35.43c to 34.85c, but the market closed several points up from the lowest on covering.

Week-end reviews of the goods trade indicated a continued small volume of business in the primary markets, but buyers were reported to be inquiring more freely because of the raw material outlook, with manufacturers refusing to consider bids below the market.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the close of the week was 129,000 bales, against 176,000 last year, and the visible supply of American cotton showed a decrease of 122,000 bales, against an increase of 16,000 for the like week last year.

Cotton spot quiet; middling, 40c.

St. Louis Spot Cotton.

Spot cotton was higher in St. Louis, today's quotations.

Good ordinary, 2700; low middling, 3450; middling, 4100; good middling, 4250; fair middling, 4500.

Wall Street News and Comment
—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Wall Street has given very convincing evidence all week of its liquidated condition. Bear raiding which was successful during the greater part of last month, has ceased to make any headway, on the contrary operations for short account have for the last fortnight almost uniformly resulted in loss. There is only one thing which might provoke a moderate renewal of selling and give the short interest a chance to cover and that would be the nomination by the Republican party next week of a candidate who would be classed as radical. Barring this, it is difficult to see what could happen to precipitate any important downward movement from this price level. The worst is known regarding the credit situation and just as Wall Street started last autumn to discount the troubles which did not fully reveal themselves until six months later, so now it is ready to discount the relaxation in the credit strain which it may take the rest of the year to realize, but which is looked forward to with confidence.

Perhaps too much has been expected in the shape of immediate loan reduction. It must be remembered that the Federal Reserve authorities have been chiefly concerned with preventing further inflation. They have not wished to cut off credit to enterprises that are in any way essential. They will be satisfied if commercial loans first cease to expand and then very gradually begin to contract.

The comparison between our situation and that of England is again worth bringing out in reply to those who base ultra-pessimistic conclusions upon our present banking position. Suppose our Federal Reserve system instead of having a ratio of reserve to liabilities of 42 per cent, had a ratio of less than 13 per cent. Then there would be some excuse for talking about the critical state of things. Yet the conditions here described are those of England today and are the English markets acting as if they were on the verge of a crisis? The Bank of England between period week and this last Thursday made a strenuous effort to build up its gold holdings, presumably getting ready for further shipment to the United States. In order to gather in gold it had expended its circulating note issue very heavily and as a consequence the reserve rate fell to above 16 per cent to 12⅞ per cent, which meant that it was down again almost to the record low of the war period. Yet if we may judge from the cable reports, the London stock market, except in some investment issues which have been rather weak, has gone on its course serenely. There has certainly been no general liquidating movement; on the contrary most departments of the London Stock Exchange have been steady to strong. It is a positive fact that there has been far more pessimistic talk by reckless and irresponsible persons in this country with our 42-per-cent reserve ratio than there has been in England with its 13-per-cent ratio.

Liberty Bonds.

Liberty Bonds and the bond list in general did not succeed in holding their rapid advance of the previous week. They have had what may be regarded as a normal reaction from the top. There is no reason on this account to change the view that bond prices struck bottom toward the end of last month, but everybody realizes that money will have to come down more than they have before there will be room for any large and sustained advance in bonds and other securities of fixed yield. Then, too, as is quite well appreciated, the constant output of new short-term bonds and notes at high interest rates provides a formidable competition for the older securities and tends to keep their prices down. It is gratifying in one way to see so large an offering as the $50,000,000 Belgian loan go so well. It is a proof of the presence of a large volume of investment capital ready to come in when the terms are made sufficiently attractive.

Equipment Stocks.

The stock market, what little there has been of it, has fulfilled the expectation that it will be a very discriminating one. Shares of equipment companies and high grade oils have given the best account of themselves for reasons with which the public is thoroughly familiar. The makers of cars and locomotives will be pushed to the limit of their capacity for the next year and a half to two years in order to make up the shortage in transportation facilities about which so much is being said nowadays. There is a similar acute scarcity in the production of oil. Low-priced rails are still in high favor because of the possibilities which they will have under increased freight rates. On the other hand the stocks of companies which have inventories to mark down or which are confronted with the likelihood of much reduced profits, are not attracting much speculative interest. Still we have to observe that even in this catagory stocks like the leathers and American Woolen have stopped going down. The action of American woolen shares in the face of the reports of slackened production and partial shut-down of plants and in the face also of the Government prosecution on the profiteering charge, should be an object lesson to the most bearish that stock prices can eventually reach a level where they measure the very worst that has happened or is likely to happen in the industrial situation.

SALE OF RUSSIAN GOLD IN LONDON SEEMS UNLIKELY

Special Cable to St. Louis Post-Dispatch and New York Evening Post.

LONDON, June 5.—The semiofficial statement concerning the Bolshevik commercial mission in England indicates no intention on the part of the Government to permit the sale here of Russian gold or other stolen property. The negotiations are apparently confined to the possibility of an exchange of Russian agricultural products for manufactured goods, of which the Bolsheviki are in dire need.

Their wants include machinery, boots and commercial articles. There is skepticism here as to Russia's ability to barter any appreciable quantity of produce, but Krassine is apparently planning a London branch of the Moscow co-operative union and the establishment of a Soviet Embassy.

French opinion, as you know, is hostile to these projects. It is suggested that an allied commission visit Russia later and investigate the prospects of Russian exports. On the present developments, Russian securities here show a slight improvement.

British Government securities are easier, pending a decision on the war profits levy, and because of the conviction that the Treasury is determined to tackle the problem of the floating debt. Financial demands of industry and the requirements of the housing schemes promise no relaxation in investment conditions.

Industry as a whole is undoubtedly facing a lessening of the keen demand on the part of buyers. At the same time, wage demands continue, along with low output. The steel manufacturers will probably resist any further wage demands.

The Bank of Eigland this week gained £2,000,000 from outside institutions, but the note circulation increased £2,300,000, of which £1,000,000 represents a transfer to the currency notes account. Government securities held by the bank increased £32,000,000, owing to borrowing for payment of interest on the debt.

Outstanding currency notes now total £351,000,000, an increase of £3,000,000 over last week. The "uncovered" circulation is now less than £7,000,000 below the legal maximum for the year. There is a likelihood of easy money here for a week or two, but the future depends on the note circulation.

NEW YORK BONDS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

Coal Market Review.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The Black Diamond, organ of the coal trade in reviewing the market for the week today says:

There is no improvement in the car situation throughout the country and as a result the shortage of coal is greater today than it has been in the past few weeks. With this continued shortage goes a steady high price level in all markets. Particularly in the East is this noticeable where high grade coals have frequently sold as high as $8.50 a ton.

Production throughout the country remains at between 30 and 50 per cent with the greatest curtailment in evidence in Illinois and Indiana fields, with the possible exception of certain unfavored districts of Pensylvania. West Virginia production was not better than 50 per cent, while in Ohio it ran at about the same figure. Kentucky mines are fortunate if they obtained 40 per cent supply of cars.

It is the assigned car problem which is making the situation almost unbearable. Even under present car supply conditions, it would be possible for the mines to effect some measure of relief if such cars as are available could be used in the transportation of commercial coal. As it is, there is no opportunity for the operators to make any progress. Another factor in holding down the car supply is the use of open top equipment in the transportation of commodities other than coal.

Foreign Bonds

The decline of German Exchange during the past weeks is due, in our opinion, to the Presidential Election which will be held in Germany on Sunday.

We look for a sharp advance in Foreign Exchange and Foreign Bonds in a few days.

We therefore advise the IMMEDIATE PURCHASE of German Municipal Bonds.

Investment Suggestions
The opportunity exists today (owing to present high rates of money) to invest in the 1st Mortgage Bonds and Gold Notes of many of the most IMPORTANT CORPORATIONS in the United States—and receive 7½% to 8½% on your money.
For instance:

Associated Simmons Hdw. Co.
7% Gold Notes
Due May, 1925
To Yield 7½%

B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co.
7% 5 Yr. Gold Notes.
To Yield 7¾%.

Laclede Gas Light Co.
1st Coll. Mortgage 7% Bonds.
To Yield 8%.

Monsanto Chemical Co.
7% First Mortgage Bonds.
Due Serially 1921-30. To Yield 7¼%.

Southwestern Bell Tel. Co.
7% Gold Notes
Due April 1, 1925.
To Yield 7½%.

Ohio Cities Gas Co.
7% Serial Gold Notes.
Due 1921-25 to Yield 8%

Union Electric Light & Power Co. (St. Louis)
7% Gold Notes
Due 1923. To Yield 8¼%

Are your present investments paying you what they should?

Have you PREFERRED STOCKS or REAL ESTATE MORTGAGES yielding ONLY 6% OR 7%, which may be converted to advantage into BETTER SECURITIES at a HIGHER YIELD?

Have you low Income Bonds near maturity, which you can convert into High Income Bonds for a long term?

It is most important to find out.

Based upon maturity Liberty and Victory Bonds may be bought to yield incomes not heard of since the Civil War.

However, if the market on these issues advances rapidly (as we believe it will) during the next two or three years, a yield of 8% to 10% may be realized.

Municipal, County and Drainage Issues (which normally would sell on a 4½% to 5% basis) may be bought to yield exceptional incomes.

CURB MARKET QUIET, PRICES HOLD STEADY

Oils Hold Steady—Mining Shares Dull — Bonds Little Changed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 5.—With the exception of a few issues, there was little doing on the Curb Market. Inside orders in several stocks, coupled with activity of some of the professionals, caused advances, but most of the issues traded in showed little change from the previous closing. Texas & Pacific Coal and Oil was the chief feature, being active and strong. The rights moved up in sympathy. Island Oil continued firm and there was a comparatively steady tone in International Petroleum and Salt Creek. Carib Syndicate, Columbia Emerald and Simms were heavy. White was in good demand and rose about a point. Cushing was very active and firm. General Asphalt was moderately active and rose about a point.

United Retail Candy held steady. Acme Coal continued in demand by commission houses and sold at its recent high mark.

Mining shares were less active than usual, but held steady. There was little doing in bonds and quotations were about unchanged.

INCREASED MOVEMENT OUTLOOK HAS BEARISH EFFECT ON CORN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Signs of at least some increase of the crop movement next week had a bearish effect today on corn. Prices closed nervous, ⅛c to 1⅛c net lower, with July $1.73 to $1.73¼ and September $1.60 to $1.60¼. Oats finished unchanged to ¼@⅜c down, and provisions off 2c to 17c.

Expected accumulation of receipts during Sunday gave the bears in the corn market an initial advantage. Besides, notwithstanding that today's arrivals were stinted, country offerings were liberal, and week-end profit-taking on the part of holders acted as a depressing influence most of the session. Rallies that took place proved to be difficult to maintain, although at times considerable speculative buying was indulged in, based on assertions in various quarters that the railroad traffic jam promised to get worse if anything instead of improve. As soon, however, as such buying diminished it was noticeable that the market quickly sagged. A sharp reduction in export bids on wheat was a bearish factor regarding corn, and so, too, was a report that Boston offers to resell corn were 10c under current cash quotations.

Oats were relatively firm, with receipts next to nothing.

Provisions weakened, owing to lack of support. Selling, though, was only of a scattered character.

GRAINS RULE STRONG ON FAILURE TO MOVE CROP

Railroads Warned Penal Sections of Interstate Commerce Act Would Be Invoked.

Sweeping upturns in the price of corn took place during the past week chiefly as a result of failure of efforts to hurry the much-belated crop movement.

As soon as sufficient time had elapsed for new efforts to be produced by stringent Federal orders to the railroads that more cars be furnished, the continued meagerness of arrivals of corn led quickly to a steep advance. So impetuous was the rush to buy that in a single session many cents a bushel was added to values. Subsequent warnings to the railroads that penal sections of the Interstate Commerce act would be invoked had only a temporary bearish influence. On the other hand, impediments to wheat export business in Argentine gave a fresh advantage to the bulls in corn, and so, too, did reports that the 1920 domestic grain season was 10 to 20 days later.

Oats climbed to the topmost prices yet this season. Simultaneously, receipts dwindled.

Provisions were weakened by the fact that the stock of lard at Chicago was the second heaviest on record.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

There was a very slack demand for cash grain at the week-end session. Spot wheat prices were 7c to 10c lower than Friday while spot corn dropped 1c to 5c. Spot oats were ½c to 1c lower. Sales quotations were: No. 2 red winter wheat, $2.90; No. 1 corn, $1.94; No. 2, $1.93; No. 3, $1.90; No. 6, $1.77; No. 1 yellow, $1.96; No. 2 yellow, $1.95@1.96; No. 3 yellow, $1.91@1.94; No. 6 yellow, $1.77; No. 2 white, $2.02@2.03; No. 3 white, $2; No. 6 white, $1.80; No. 3 white oats, $1.13@1.13½; No. 2, $1.14.

CATTLE PRICES HIGHER FOR WEEK; HOGS LOWER

Spring Lambs Show Decline of 25c to 50c—Mules Unchanged.

COMPARTIVE LIVESTOCK RECEIPTS.

	Last week.	Prev. week.	Last ago.
Cattle and calves	15,898	18,343	20,389
Hogs	57,389	85,514	85,560
Sheep	9,823	13,776	12,629
Horses and mules	1,329	948	2,153
Totals	85,439	118,611	121,221

A sharp reaction in the live cattle market at St. Louis the past week resulted in material advances on steers and yearlings, two classes that slumped so bad the preceeding week. A material reduction in native receipts together with an improved demand in the east and better transportation facilities were factors influencing the upturn in values. Medium to good steers finished for the week on an average of $1 higher in the native department with low grades, such as came into competition with the western arrivals, showing an average gain of 40@50c.

Medium to good and even some of the poorer butcher yearlings sold from 70c@1.25 higher. Cows were irregular and failed to score as consistent an advance as yearlings and steers, market ruling steady to 25@50c higher in spots. Canners and cutters closed with a 25c lower trend in evidence. Bulls were draggy a great part of the week and closed little better than steady.

The advance on killing steers influenced a better feeling in the stocker and feeder department and demand strengthened for light-weight feeders suitable for putting on the grass. Best feeders ranged from 25@50c higher in many instances. Stock cows sold 25c up on best, while heifers showed a betterment of 25@50c in some cases.

Veal calves averaged materially higher, choice lights selling up to $15 and fair to good sorts selling largely from $13.50@14. Southern yearlings were about steady with close last week, heavies going at $5@5.25 and lights selling around $6.

Offering of Texas steers in the quarantine division was the largest of the season, showing embracing over 5000 head. Quality averaged good on the whole, several cars of beeves selling up to $11.40. Bulk of all Texas ranged from $10.25@10.50, market averaging 50@75c higher for week on best.

Hog Prices Lower.

Receipts of hogs at St. Louis for the week just closed were a third lighter than a week ago, totaling approximately 60,000 head. Despite this reduction, however, sentiment in general was bearish and a net decline of 25c to 50c is shown for the week, mostly on light grassy hogs. The top late at $14.60, as compared with a $14.80 high mark a week previous shows just a 20-cent depreciation on topping kinds. To top, however, hogs had to be well-finished, dry-lot animals and weighing 190 to 225 pounds. A large proportion of hogs at this time are showing grass and clover, which is making the buyers seek out the more solid and better matured hogs, which, of course, calls for an animal of more weight than was so popular formerly. Hogs weighing 160 to 180 pounds, the kind that used to top, are now selling 25c to 35c below the top. Bulk of hogs during the week sold within a range of $14@14.50, light, mixed and extremely heavy hogs selling around the former figure. Pig market dull and about 50c to a dollar lower for the week.

Sheep Prices Off.

A comparison of prices prevailing at the sheep and lamb market with those of a week ago reveals a 25c to 50c lower level on spring lambs and about a dollar decline on clipped lambs and all lambs that are not fat. Fat killing ewes are also a dollar lower, while other aged grades show a flat half-dollar decline. Receipts were fair for the period, totaling approximately 10,000 head, but packers continue to stuff up on New Zealand mutton and have been indifferent buyers of native product. Choice spring lambs are quotable from $16.50@17; best clipped, $15; culls, $10@12; fat sheep, $8; canners, $2@3, and choppers and bucks, $5@6.50.

Weaker Undertone to Horses.

Trade in horses at the St. Louis market last week reflected a slightly lower undertone. Outside competition was not especially strong and buyers were thus in a position to force slight concessions in values of the medium and plain kinds in particular. Losses on better material was not very marked; in fact, it is doubtful if values declined to any material extent on the strictly top Eastern chunks.

A fairly broad call existed for express horses from local territory and chunks were in demand from the East. The South continues to take loggers as well as a few of the better chunks. Southern horses and farm mares are being neglected. The United States Government will discontinue the inspection of cavalry horses here after June 30, but both commission houses will continue receiving these types up to that time. Order continues to prevail for Cuban horses.

Mules Little Changed.

While there might have been a trifle better action on some of the extra big mules and miners the past week, general market in the mule alleys was little changed from the extremely dull trend last week. Buyers were out in small numbers and were bearish in their operations. Receipts were light throughout.

Summer Opera's Second Season Opens Tuesday; May Surpass Last Year's Improved Cast, Repertory and Settings Promised for Premiere—"The Firefly," Only Musical Comedy on List, Leads Off.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

A REVIEW of last year's season of municipal opera at the open-air theater in Forest Park, which was published in these columns on July 30, 1919, began with the following paragraph:

"Now that St. Louis' pioneer endeavor in the field of public opera has concluded with such popular and financial eclat that a second season next summer is announced as a certainty, it may be deemed not inapropos to discuss, in a brief resume of the enterprise, both its merits and defects—not with invidious intent, but solely in a friendly effort towards securing for future productions a steady progression of standards and ideals."

The writer proceeded to enumerate the praiseworthy features of the production, of which the chief was found to be the orchestra of 50 Symphony Orchestra musicians, which caused one to wonder "whether some of these operas had ever before rejoiced in so a notable an instrumental support." As the principal shortcomings, however, were listed a cast "which in several prominent instances might perhaps lay claim to competence, but not to distinction;" the management's "obstinate neglect of the Municipal Theater's very genius, its admirable aptitude for natural scenery;" and lastly, the extreme mediocrity of at least four out of the six works chosen for production.

The value of honest and well-intentioned criticism may be indicated by the probability that the season beginning Tuesday night will show a marked improvement in several respects, and particularly as to the three defects nominated above.

There are many evidences that the cast commissioned this summer will prove a distinct advance over that of last year. The selection of Miss Irene Pavloska as prima donna is one upon which the management especially plumes itself. She is young, excellently gifted vocally and endowed with attractive personality and vivacious temperament. Not only is Miss Pavloska well experienced in light opera, but she had four seasons in grand opera under the late Cleofonte Campanini in Chicago. She is to make her first appearance of the season Tuesday night as Nina in "The Firefly."

Well-recommended newcomers are Miss Eva Olivotti, who is to take soubrette parts, and Bernard Ferguson, the company's leading baritone. Miss Olivotti, who comes from San Francisco, has had a career leading from the chorus to prima donna-ship. She was understudy to Mitzi Hajos in "The Spring Maid," and was leading lady of a stock company which ran for the extraordinary length of 42 weeks in Portland, Ore.—largely, it is said, because of her clever and engaging work.

Ferguson, one hears, has been soloist with the New York, Cincinnati and Milwaukee orchestras, was a member of the Boston Opera Company and during last season had a prominent part in the gigantic church drama, "The Wayfarer." He is credited with creating the name part of an opera called "Elijah," produced some years ago by Henry W. Savage.

As the tenor has been engaged Warren Proctor of the Chicago Opera Association. He sang here last winter as soloist with the Apollo Club and concertized during the season just ended with Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini. The only singers retained from last year's cast are Miss Mildred Rogers, contralto, and Charles E. Gallagher. The former did honest and competent work all season, and her Katisha in "The Mikado" was much esteemed.

Galagher Is Re-Engaged.

Galagher, the company's basso, has been soloist at a pair of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's regular concerts, and has just concluded his second season with the Scotti Grand Opera Co. He sang the title role in that company's repetition of "L'Oracolo," two weeks ago, at the Odeon. His Pooh-Bah in last year's "Mikado" was an excellent bit of work.

Raymond Crane, the leading comedian, is well remembered through an engagement of 10 weeks at the Park Theater, a few years ago. The second comedian, Harry Hermsen, is a former St. Louisan. Miss Lillian Crosman, who is Mrs. Charles Sinclair, and who is to take second soprano parts, formerly played in light opera at the Park Theater.

Regarding the employment of the theater's natural settings, we have the assurance that not only were the operas of the present repertory chosen for their outdoor scenes, but that in every possible way advantage will be taken of the Municipal Theater's groves and vistas. This point was especially emphasized in a contest of St. Louis artists for original settings, conducted by the St. Louis Art League. The prize for "The Firefly," was won by J. A. Dwyer, whose designs will be used.

"Firefly" Only Musical Comedy.

While the choice of works has not yet reached the standard to which well-wishers of the enterprise aspire, there is little doubt that this season's repertory registers improvements over that of last year. The two most meritorious operas of 1919 have been selected for repetition, the late Reginald de Koven's "Robin Hood," and the Gilbert and Sullivan masterpiece, "The Mikado." While there may be some grumbling against "Robin Hood," it remains a fact that "The Mikado" is the most popular, as well as one of the best, of light operas.

The only musical comedy on the season's list is "The Firefly," which was chosen partly on account of the fact that it gives equal opportunities to all the singers, and will thus serve to introduce them to the public. It is a tuneful work—why should it not be, when one of its principal themes, that of "A Trip to Bermuda," bears so inescapable a resemblance to the opening melody of Chopin's Third Ballade, in A-flat Major? The other six works are light operas.

Chief among these is another Gil-

Laurenti Singing With The New Edison

Drawn from An Actual Photograph

Let us show you an exact duplicate of the phonograph that held 6,000 teachers spellbound by its marvelous realism in the daring test at Albany, N. Y., when MARIO LAURENTI, the famous baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Co., sang with

The NEW EDISON
"The Phonograph with a Soul"

Read What the St. Louis Papers Said About Laurenti, Who Sang With Scotti Opera Co.

POST-DISPATCH, MAY 26:
. . . . In Mario Laurenti the Scotti troupe presented the first adequate Silvio, in singing, looks and action, seen here in many years . . . .

ST. LOUIS STAR, MAY 26:
Mario Laurenti, in the baritone role of Silvio, village lover of Nedda, sang pleasingly, and his duet with Miss Roselle was one of the best features of the opera . .

ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT:
. . . . For the first time, perhaps, we heard the negative role of Silvio sung effectively. As the young Mario Laurenti sang it there were no slurs or botches in the work. He gave us every note in his score at its true tonal and vocal value and his love duet with Miss Roselle was a lovely contribution . . . .

The test at Albany was the strangest musical performance ever witnessed by these 6000 educators. Laurenti stood beside the New Edison and began to sing. His voice filled the auditorium. Suddenly, his lips ceased to move, but his voice continued with undiminished beauty. The New Edison by his side had taken up the song and was matching his voice so perfectly that the human ear was not aware that Laurenti had ceased to sing.

MUNICIPAL OPERA TO OPEN TUESDAY NIGHT WITH "THE FIREFLY"

bert and Sullivan work, "The Gondoliers," which is to be given in the week of July 13. This is regarded by many competent musicians as the best achievement of the two virtuosos of wit and melody. "Babes in Toyland," the concluding production, has been rewritten by Charles Sinclair, stage director. The two other operas will be "The Waltz Dream" and "The Mascot."

May Give "Carmen" Later.

Highly encouraging is the possibility, freely and hopefully discussed by members of the cast and of the Municipal Theater Association, that the grand-opera "Carmen" may be given at the end of the season. This can readily be done, it is stated, with the present cast—with Miss Pavloska as Carmen, Proctor as Don Jose, Ferguson as Escamillo, Galagher as Zuniga, and possibly Miss Crosman as Micaela.

Still more interesting is the prediction made by members of the management that, if this season ends with even a small surplus, next year may witness at the Municipal Theater the production of such works as Wagner's "Lohengrin," "Tannhauser" and "The Valkyrs," in English. Influential men in the backing of the enterprise are outspoken now in favor of promoting the summer performances to an esthetic standard which will elevate public opera in this city to national reputation. They insist, however, that repertories like that of last year and the improved one of this season are necessary as stepping-stones to higher ends.

One of the most notable advances this year is the engagement of Max Bendix as musical director. He ranks as one of the leading light opera directors of the country. He was formerly concertmaster and assistant director of the Theodore Thomas Orchestra, and concertized as a solo violinist. During the last year he has served as director of Fortune Gallo's English Opera Co.

The Improved Chorus.

Decided improvement is also promised in the chorus, which consists of 32 professionals from New York, and 40 St. Louis singers, under the experienced direction of William Parsons. There are 48 female and 24 male voices. The new policy has been adopted of paying the local singers on the same terms as the imported ones—thus avoiding the heart-burnings of last year, and also enabling the director to demand as much service from the amateurs as from the professionals. In addition, as one of the officials remarks, "the inmates of the old ladies' home" have been eliminated from the chorus, with consequent betterment to the looks as well as the voices of the ensemble.

The most popularly admired feature of last year—the orchestra of 50 musicians, mostly symphony men—will be retained. Albin Steindel, formerly of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, who joined Director Zach's forces last November as a member of the first violin section, and who enjoys considerable note as a soloist, will serve as concertmaster.

So that at least a forward step seems to have been taken towards the wish expressed last year for "a steady progression of standards and ideals." The management expresses certainty that it will not be quite so easy to describe the 1920 enterprise as "a glorified summer garden season."

Opera Season Opens Tuesday Night With "The Firefly."

The second season of municipal opera will open Tuesday night ,at the open-air theater in Forest Park with "The Firefly," by Rudolf Friml and Otto Hauerbach, which is described by its composer as "a comedy opera." Its first performance occurred on Oct. 14, 1912, at the Empire Theater, Syracuse, N. Y., under the management of Arthur Hammerstein. The part of Nina, a street singer, was taken by Emma Trentini. The musical director was Gaetano Merola, now maestro of the Gallo Grand Opera Company.

The scenes and their times are as follows: Act 1, recreation pier at the foot of Twenty-third street, New York; Act 2, the Van Dare estate in Bermuda, three weeks later; and Act 3, the garden of the Van Dare Turtles 3,000,000 Years Old.

WASHINGTON.—Petrified swamp turtles 3,000,000 years old have been found in New Mexico, Director Otis Smith of the United States Geological Survey announced. "The little ones are six inches long and the biggest 30," said the announcement. Sixteen of the 50 specimens found are new to science and have not been given names.

SUFFERED WITH SEVERE ECZEMA

Four Years. First on Arms. Spread. Itching Severe. Cuticura Heals.

"I suffered from a severe case of eczema. I first noticed a slight redness on my arms, and later it spread. The itching was so severe that I scratched, and could only sleep part of the night. The inflammation was so intense that the skin was almost purple.

"This lasted for nearly four years. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after the third application the itching was less. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Ointment and at the end of a month I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. J. E. Ratcliffe, Caledonia, Minn., Aug. 29, 1919.

Try to prevent further trouble by using Cuticura for all toilet purposes.

DISCOVERED A CURE FOR ASTHMA AND HAY FEVRE

Chemist Discovers a Simple Home Remedy For Asthma and Hay Fever and Makes a Generous Offer.

Mr. D. J. Lane, a chemist located at 375 Lane Bldg., St. Mary's, Kansas, has discovered a simple home remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever. To test it he sent some to people who had been suffering from Asthma and Hay Fever for years, and to their delight they state they were easily cured. Mr. Lane is so proud of his discovery and has so much confidence in its ability to cure that he will send a $1.25 bottle postpaid to anyone who will write for it. His offer is that he is to be paid for it if it cures. The one taking it is to be the judge and report its effect within ten days after using the remedy. If you suffer from Asthma or Hay Fever write for a bottle at once. Send no money. Just your name and address.

MUNICIPAL OPERA TO OPEN TUESDAY NIGHT WITH "THE FIREFLY"

home in New York, three years later. The work opens with an overture of seven pages, introducing many of the leading airs of the work.

The cast for the St. Louis production is anounced as follows:

Nina	Irene Pavloska
Sybil Van Dare	Marda Veit
Suzette, a maid	Eva Olivotti
Pietro, a valet	Harry Hermsen
Mrs. Oglesby Van Dare—	Mildred Rogers
John Thurston	Bernard Ferguson
Jack Travers	Warren Proctor
Geraldine Van Dare	Lillian Crosman
Jenkins, a secretary	Raymond Crane
Herr Franz, a choirmaster—	Charles E. Galagher
Antonio Columbo, a pickpocket—	Elva Magnus
Correlli, Nina's guardian—	Ralph Nicholls

Marda Veit and Elva Magnus are St. Louis members of the Municipal Opera Co. The executive staff consists of Max Bendix, musical director; David E. Russell, business manager; William Parsons, chorus master; Charles Sinclair, stage director; Ralph Nichols, stage manager, and Frederick Fischer, orchestra manager.

As the first act begins, there gathers on the pier a party of friends of Mrs. Oglesby Van Dare, a wealthy widow, who is taking them on a yacht trip to her estate in Bermuda. In the party are Geraldine Van Dare, niece of the hostess; Geraldine's fiance, Jack Travers; the latter's sprightly uncle, John Thurston; Herr Franz, a musical enthusiast; Sybil Van Dare; Mrs. Van Dare's secretary and maid, Jenkins and Suzette; and Jack's valet, Pietro. Jack and Geraldine have quarreled over the former's admiration for Nina, an Italian street singer, who soon appears on the stage. Pietro recognizes her as a former playmate. In order to rescue her from the cruelty of her guardian, Correlli, Pietro induces her to change clothes with the waif Antonio Columbo, and accompany the party as a cabin boy.

In the second act, in Bermuda, the supposed cabin boy has become a favorite with all save Geraldine. Franz wants to adopt "him" as his son. A cablegram identifying the cabin boy with Antonio, a notorious pickpocket, compels Pietro and Nina to confess the latter's disguise. All desert her except Jack and Franz.

Three years later, Mrs. Van Dare is giving a garden party, for which she has engaged the reigning prima donna of the day. She, of course, turns out to be the former Nina. All ends happily, with the betrothal of Nina and Jack, while Geraldine consoles herself with her sweetheart's uncle.

List of Musical Numbers.

The musical numbers are distributed as follows:

Act 1: opening chorus, "A Trip to Bermuda;" duet, Geraldine and Jack, with chorus, "He Says Yes—She Says No;" duet, Sybil and Thurston, with chorus, "Call Me Uncle;" solo, "Love Is Like a Firefly," Nina; duet, "Something," Jenkins and Suzette; solo, "Giannina Mia," Nina; and finale, ensemble, "I've Found It at Last."

Act 2: opening chorus, "In Sapphire Seas," Sybil and chorus; solo, "Tommy Atkins," Nina and chorus; waltz-song, "Sympathy," the best-known air in the work, Geraldine and Thurston; solo, "A Woman's Smile," Jack; trio, "De Trop," Jenkins, Suzette and Pietro; quintet, "We're Going to Make a Man of You," Nina, Jack, Jenkins, Thurston and Franz; solo, with chorus, "The Beautiful Ship From Toyland," Franz and men's chorus; and "When a Maid Comes Knocking at Your Heart," Nina.

Act 3: opening waltz, Thurston and chorus; "An American Beauty Rose," Thurston and chorus; duet, "The Latest Thing from Paris," Pietro and Suzette; concert waltz, "The Dawn of Love," Nina; and finale, "When a Maid Comes Knocking at Your Heart," by the ensemble.

The opening of "The Firefly" on Tuesday night will initiate one of the changes introduced this season. During each of the seven weeks, Tuesday will be the opening and Sunday the closing night for the opera of that period. On Monday nights the theater will be dark. Last year the operatic week opened Monday night and closed Saturday night, with Sunday night dark. Statements have been obtained from St. Louis ministers, indorsing the summer opera undertaking for its cul-

What "Upkeep" Means to Your Watch

WHENEVER an intelligent man or woman wishes to buy anything it is a natural desire to purchase the best of its kind.

We all want fine furniture in our homes, fine china, silverware, clothes; we desire a fine automobile or to own a fine watch, or whatever we have set our hearts upon possessing.

We are never really satisfied with a lower standard than we have conceived. When the time comes that we can afford it, we invariably see to it that what we have desired becomes ours.

THIS worthy ambition is particularly true of a watch. When we go to our dealer's to make what should be an eventful, life-time purchase we are not going to jeopardize our investment for the sake of a few dollars. Especially if the difference between that watch at that price and this watch at this price will mean the difference between constant repair bills, uncertain time-keeping and a watch that is faithful in its day-in and year-out dependable service.

So, when we buy a watch, let us remember that it is not always what we see on the outside but the unseen things in the "works" that really count. And common sense tells us that if a watch good enough to challenge the world in the quality of its mechanism and the hidden superiorities of its exclusive inventions, costs more than a watch of so-called similar grade, we should not hesitate which watch is the one for us to own.

THE Waltham Watch is the only watch in the world that has taken the mystery out of the "works" of a watch. But the Waltham Watch has done infinitely more than that, it has proved beyond argument that this American built timepiece excels in advantages to every owner because of the advances in watch-making embraced in its construction.

Some of these inventions and practises are remarkable. But every one of them protects the owner of a Waltham Watch against big repair bills and insures those durable services for which the Waltham Watch is internationally famous.

AND the question of "Upkeep" should always be considered. The first cost of a watch has much to do with its final cost. We would need volumes if we published the record performances of Waltham Watches that have come to us in many thousands of testimonial letters from all over the world. Watches that have kept time for years save for occasional cleaning and oiling and are still faithfully ticking time for their proud owners

We can truthfully say that no other watch in the world can show to the expert horologist the constructional superiorities contained in the mechanism of a Waltham Watch. They have amazed the foreign watch maker, as his published statements will verify.

WHAT then does the buyer of a Waltham Watch inherit? First, a watch the "works" of which guarantee horological art at its highest development. Second, a standardized watch, every part involving immediate replacement or repair and each unit of co-equal quality. Third, a watch value that is sustained by the oldest and largest institution of its kind. Fourth, the only watch in the world made under one roof. Fifth, a watch that has won the highest honors at the world's greatest Expositions. Sixth, a beautiful watch, and beauty that does not sacrifice time-keeping ability for freakish good looks. Seventh, a watch that will give maximum of service at the minimum of upkeep cost.

Last but not least, a watch that will outlive you. There are thousands upon thousands of Waltham Watches still serving the children and grandchildren of the parents, who, a long time ago, went to their dealer and came away with what the years proved to be one of the best investments of life—a Waltham.

PESKY BED BUGS

Bedbugs lay an average of seven eggs per day. Under favorable conditions they hatch in five days, of which two-thirds are females. They mature to adult size and are capable of laying in four weeks. How many bedbugs would you have in a year if you left one female or egg unmolested for one year? To rid the pesky bedbug, you can readily see how necessary it is to use a preparation that will kill the eggs as well as the live ones. P. D. Q. has been demonstrated by the leading Hospitals, Hotels and Railroad Companies that the safest and most economical way to stop future generations of bedbugs, roaches, fleas and ants is to use the new discovery, Pesky Devils' Quietus ("P. D. Q.").

A 35c package of P. D. Q. makes a quart, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas and cooties and at the same time destroy their eggs.

Impossible for them to exist when P. D. Q. is properly used. Free, patent spout in every package to get the pesky devils in the hard-to-get-at places and save the juice.

Special Hospital and Hotel size $2.50—makes five gallons of P. D. Q.—your druggist has it or can get it for you, or sent prepaid upon receipt of price by the Owl Chemical Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Success of P. D. Q. has caused imitators; genuine P. D. Q. is never peddled. Sold by Wolff-Wilson, Judge & Dolph and other leading druggists.

New Method Removes Superfluous Hair Roots!

Have you "tried everything" for that annoying hairy or fuzzy growth and about given up in despair? Well, there's just one thing more to try, and you must try it, because it is the one home treatment that reaches the very root of such troubles. The new process is not to be compared at all with depilatory, electrical or any other method you've ever heard of. It is different because it actually removes roots and all—you see the roots with your own eyes.

Just get a stick of phelactine from your druggist, follow the simple instructions and you will be delighted with the result. Phelactine is odorless, non-irritating, and can be used with entire safety—you could even eat it with impunity. It is an instantaneous method.

PILES CURED WITHOUT THE KNIFE

By Dr. Henrich's Method

TO STAY CURED

No Cutting. No Pain. No Chloroform. No Hospital. No Danger. No Loss of Time Consultation and Examination Free—Tell Your Friends

WORDS OF CHEER FROM FAR AND NEAR

MILAN, TENN., April 20, 1920.
Dr. W. P. Henrich.

Dear Sir:—I want to thank you for the cure of my case of Piles I had for 35 years. I was so bad that I could not walk 200 yards without sitting down and some days I could not go at all.

Thank God, through your wonderful treatment, I got back my health again. I think it is the best treatment on earth for those terrible diseases.

There is absolutely no cure in medicines or salves; I spent enough money for salves to have paid Dr. Henrich double for his treatment. It is a pleasure to recommend your treatment. If anyone desires to verify this statement I will gladly answer any letter or inquiry.

With kindest wishes to you and hoping you will cure all sufferers as you cured me, I am your friend.

FRED BAUER.

Mr. Bauer is so happy that he is now cured of his Piles for life that he had it published in his home paper that I cured him. He made an offer to more than a dozen sufferers who called on him, that he would pay the railroad fare for them to St. Louis, if they would get no relief from my treatment. This is no small offer, as it is 300 miles from this city.

But Mr. Bauer and hundreds of others know that "The Henrich Cure Is Safe and Sure," it never fails to cure Piles permanently without the knife or scissors.

ST. LOUIS, MO., April 21, 1920.
Dr. W. P. Henrich.

Dear Friend:—I feel it is my duty to write you a short testimonial which may help some other poor sufferer to get relief as I and many others did by your treatment, and I am more than pleased to say that you have entirely cured me of a bad case of Piles, eight years' standing, which caused me great pain.

Seeing your advertisement in the paper caused me to come to you for further information regarding your cure without the knife, as I am no friend of the knife; after consulting with you I placed myself under your care.

I had suffered great pain for a few days before the first treatment, but if I had the same case to undergo again I would not hesitate a minute in taking your treatment, as I am now free of pain and am enjoying life again.

I also consider the amount of money I paid you the best investment I ever made. I herewith cheerfully recommend your treatment to anyone afflicted with any kind of rectal trouble.

Again thanking you for the tenderness and care with which you handled me while in your care, I remain

Sincerely your friend,
HENRY NIERMANN,

tural value and wholesome entertainment.

The amphitheater's capacity is 9260, of which 1200 chairs have been reserved as free seats. The others will range in price from 25 cents to $1.50. The stage has ample room for 500 players. New lighting towers on either side are also expected to concentrate and reflect the voices and instruments.

Shelters in Case of Rain.

Automobile busses will run from the nearest street car termini, and the busses running downtown will be routed through the park and past the theater. Adequate shelters have been erected against the chance of rain.

The expense of the season, estimated now at $88,000, has been pledged by a list of guarantors. The series of entertainments is given under the auspices of the Municipal Theater Association, of which Mayor Kiel is president. Nelson Cunliff is chairman of the executive productions Committee. The committee on settings is headed by Tom P. Barnett; on lighting, by Ralf Toensfeldt; on properties, by Arthur A. Kocian, and on music, by William John Hall.

The list of operas to be given, in their order, is as follows: Week of June 8, "The Firefly;" June 15, "Robin Hood;" June 22, "The Waltz Dream;" June 29, "The Mikado;" July 6, "The Mascot;" July 13, "The Gondoliers," and July 20, "Babes in Toyland."

THE RESCUE

A Superlative Novel—the Fruit of Twenty Years Labour

The mighty pen of Conrad moves on. To the world's treasure-store of literature comes "The Rescue"—and lovers of books, lovers of adventure, lovers of Conrad, hail its advent with keen delight.

A story like "The Rescue" could have come from none other than Joseph Conrad. It has all of Conrad's characteristic vivid touch, as well as the exactness of actual experience and the magic glow of pleasant remembrances. This new story surpasses all past accomplishments. He describes the sea he knows so well and the Islands of the South Seas with an intense realism.

Conrad loves the sea. Well he knows and understands its magic. He is able to make you see the very swell of its waves, the very illusion of its calm, and to awe you profoundly with the enormity of its depth. And the mystery of the sea gives to his stories an exotic touch which pervades its atmosphere.

Born in South Poland and exiled at an early age, Conrad knew not one word of English in his youth. Of this language, which he uses today with such supreme success, he learned the first word in his twentieth year. Startling was the metamorphosis of the Polish sailor into a brilliant English novelist.

To read Conrad is to live through the adventures of the great novelist's life. The moist, stifling, fetid smell of the jungle and the dreadful tension of hidden barbarians become real. The dark, impenetrable night of the South Seas inspires actual terror. His stories read with a vividness of atmosphere and a realness of characters that only years of experience make possible.

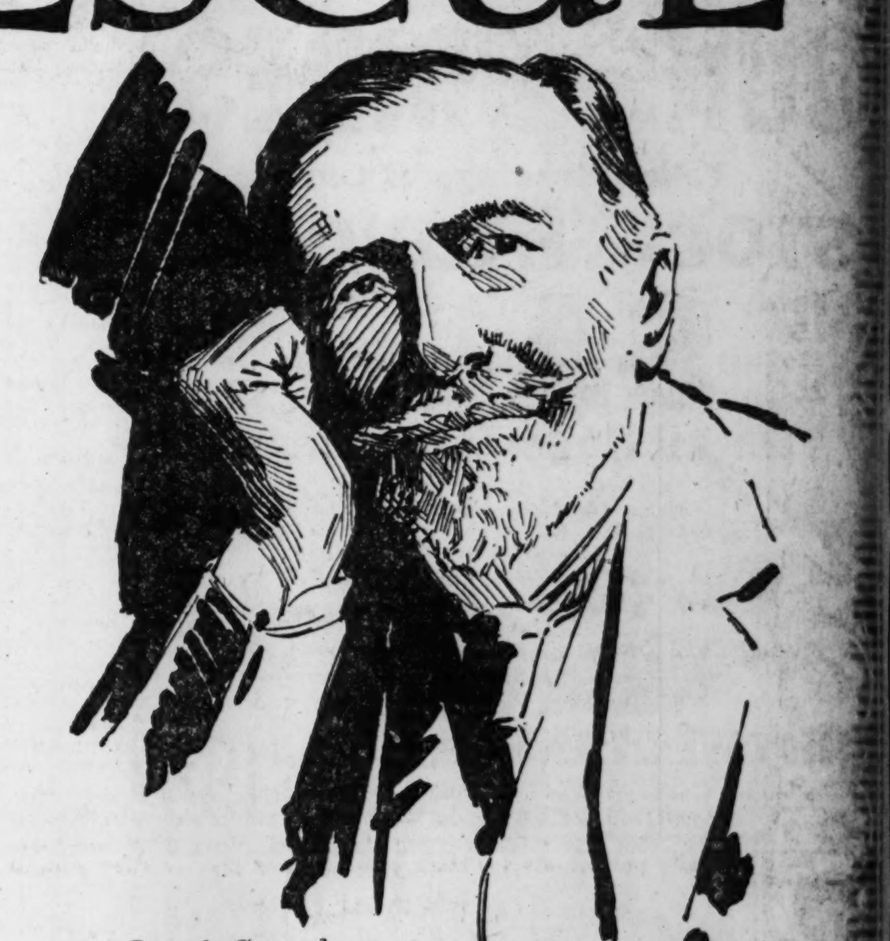
THE RESCUE
by Joseph Conrad

Conrad is at his best in this new, vigorous South Sea novel. An air of expectancy hovers over the story—an air of mystery, defeated hope, useless desire, romance. It is peculiarly, strikingly original.

"The Rescue" is a story of scheming, hatred and passion. The situation is impressive, even terrible. Its plot involves a rescue—the rescue of white people by a man who lost his soul in the attempt. And the rescue is attended by violence, intrigue, romance and sacrifice.

To his hero, Captain Lingard, Conrad gave the characteristics of crime, tenderness and devotion. In him he portrayed the glamour of a lawless life. He made him the fascinating, masterly and tragic character that only Conrad could create.

"The Rescue" is one of the most absorbing, stirring adventure stories ever written—even by the pen of Conrad. He makes you live through strange adventures, fight barbarous natives, rescue a beautiful Englishwoman. It takes you into far-off South Seas, into stinging squalls and forbidding nights. It is a story that, once read, can never be forgotten.



Joseph Conrad

Synopsis of Story

Freighted with arms for a Javanese revolution, the purpose of which was to restore to his throne a youthful, disinherited Rajah, and for the honor of his sister, the Princess, Captain Lingard's ship proceeded.

But, as if skillfully managed by the enemy to frustrate the purposes of this messenger of deliverance, with its arms and ammunition, across the path of the brig, as she approached, intruded a yacht, run aground and firmly gripped in the sand.

Back on the land unseen natives lurked and grouped, growing increasingly suspicious and resentful because of the hated presence of the white man and his yacht.

Into these circumstances Lingard came. Necessity demanded that he immediately consign the yacht's people to the inevitable attack and plunder of the natives or else bring them captive to the brig and hold them prisoners while the war went on—and while only the woman, the wife of the master of the yacht, and Lingard understood.

Travers, the owner of the yacht, is kidnapped. Edith Travers begs his rescue and Lingard promises in faithfulness to this woman who holds his confidence.

And then, suddenly, Edith Travers went, too—alone with Lingard into the night to face the natives, and because of Lingard—

What happened after this brings out the nature and courage of this remarkable woman whom her husband calls "imperfectly civilized." The devotion of Lingard to the Rajah and the princess, and the passion that stirred Lingard to the deepest depths of his soul, form a terrific struggle that grips the reader from page to page, and leads to a climax that is unguessable in this, that is called Conrad's best, production.

RUSH FOR DIVORCE QUICKLY ABATED

Fear That Winnipeg Would Become "the Reno of Canada" Proved Groundless.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba.—Canada's first divorce court, established here last September, has heard only 152 applications and granted only 127 decrees during the eight months it has been operating.

This record, in the face of the fact that before the court was opened divorce was a luxury attainable only by the rich, because every application had to go to the Federal Senate, and the minimum cost of such procedure was about $5000, and in the face of the fact that it was opened after all the soldiers had returned, many to find their homes had been disrupted during their absence—is regarded by the clergy and lawyers as conclusive evidence that divorce will never become the popular institution in this country that it is elsewhere.

Suits Decreasing.

When the news came from England that the Privy Council of the empire had decided Manitoba's Court of King's Bench possessed the right to adjudicate divorce cases the fear that Winnipeg would become "the Reno of Canada" was expressed from many pulpits and elsewhere. Even the most optimistic believed there would be a scramble, at first, by hundreds of mismated couples who had had to endure continuation of the marriage tie because of the high cost of getting it severed.

There was a rush, but it subsided before the court had been operating a month, and the rushers were mostly returned soldiers who had married in haste to repent at leisure. The average number of decrees granted during the first half of the eight months' period was 20 a month; it has since declined, until it is now 16, and the number of applications is diminishing steadily. When all cases of returned soldiers are disposed of the average will fall below five a month, lawyers predict.

As there are about 180,000 married couples in the province the number divorced in the eight months, compared with the number who have adhered to the "death-do-us-part" pledge, is as one to 1050. In other words, only about one couple out of every 1050 has sought in divorce court solace for marital woes. The number of applications the court has heard and rejected is 25.

Militates Against Wives.

Under the Manitoba law, which is the old English divorce law, there is really only one ground for divorce—infidelity. And husband and wife are not equal under the law; the husband has only to prove one charge, infidelity, to obtain a decree, whereas the wife must prove infidelity, and, in addition, desertion or extreme cruelty, to divorce her husband.

Furthermore, the wife cannot charge desertion in Manitoba if the husband is residing outside the province at the time the application is filed, even though he may have deserted her for many years, because, under the law, the wife's legal residence is where her husband lives, and she cannot sue unless her legal residence is in this province. These inequalities account partly for the fact that of the 127 decrees granted so far, two-thirds of them have been obtained by husband; the preponderance of men is attributed partly also to the large number of returned soldiers suing for separation from unfaithful wives.

DRUGGISTS TO MEET TUESDAY

State Convention to Be Held at Excelsior Springs.

The Missouri Pharmaceutical Association will hold its annual convention at Excelsior Springs Tuesday to Friday, inclusive.

A. W. Pauley, general chairman of the Convention Committee, has established headquarters in the Federal Reserve Bank Building and is urging that Missouri send a large delegation to the national association convention. This will be determined at the State conventions. It is expected that more than 3000 from every state in the Union will attend the annual convention, and Chairman Pauley is particularly desirous that Missouri will have a large representation because the national association was organized in St. Louis 23 years ago. The officers of the Missouri State Association are: A. C. Smith, Carrollton, Mo., president; H. M. Whelpley, St. Louis, secretary; William Mullebach, Boonville, Mo., treasurer.

Advises "Corn Silk"

Extract in Treatment of Kidney and Bladder Ailments

Allays Inflammation and Restores Normal Action

Just a simple extract of green corn silk compounded with other simple, well-known drugs, seems to bring results in the treatment of Kidney and Bladder disorders that might almost be classed as miraculous. Congestion and inflammation of the kidneys and bladder cause untold distress. Pains in back and hips, pain and pressure in bladder region, causing restless sleep soon wears out the patient's vitality and more serious results follow neglect.

The soothing, balmy effect of Balmwort Tablets are noticed quickly as the inflammation is allayed and the organs are toned up to act as nature intended.

Alexander T. Matya, 30 Elm street, Passaic, N. J., writes:

"I have been taking Balmwort Tablets for Kidney and Bladder trouble and find they give me the most beneficial results."

Stop your suffering and nightly distress by asking your leading druggist for a tube of Balmwort Tablets. Price, $1.00.

To Make Your Hair Look Naturally Curly

Just apply a little liquid silmerine with a clean toothbrush before doing up the hair and you will have as beautiful curls and waves as you could wish for. They will be perfectly natural in appearance and will last a long time, even in damp or windy weather. The full effect is secured within three hours usually.

A few ounces of liquid silmerine—which, of course, can be had at any drug store—will last for weeks, so it is quite economical to use. It also serves as an excellent dressing, giving the hair a delightful gloss. When the hair is combed out it will be as fluffy as though it had just been shampooed.

NO MORE TRUSS FOR ME

HURRAH! MY RUPTURE IS GONE!!

It is regrettable that so many ruptured persons daily run danger of disaster, all because they lack knowledge of the real nature of the condition called Rupture. They believe that so long as they wear some sort of a truss, they "are all right," little thinking that in wearing an unwholesome truss they are hastening the day when a harmful, ill-fitting, unsanitary, stiff, galling pressure pad will cause a greater area of weakness and the old truss "don't hold," Then the real trouble begins. Don't wait for the reckoning time. Your physical endurance will withstand just so much and no more. Your success—your future—your happiness depends upon a strong body; one free from the annoyance of a dangerous rupture. Do the proper thing now, while it is within your power.

You are "master" of your own future. It is up to you. Learn, FREE, how you may strengthen the muscles. Make them wholly self-dependent, then the "swelling" can't appear. Write today for Instructive Information. W. S. Rice (69 Rice Bldg.), 319 N. 14th St. (Opposite Public Library), St. Louis, Mo.

GERMANY HELPLESS WRECK IN STORM, INVESTIGATOR SAYS

British Editor Declares Nation Will Be Corpse That Will Poison World Unless Spa Conference Halts Decline.

GOVERNMENT ONLY SHADOW OF POWER

If Present Feeble Rule Collapses Two Extreme Factions Will Clash and Complete Ruin, He Asserts.

This is the first of a series of four articles dealing with present-day conditions within the German Empire. They are entitled to great consideration because they represent the observations and conclusions of one of England's foremost journalists, A. G. Gardiner, for many years editor of the important Liberal daily, the London Daily News. In his survey of Germany, from which he has just returned, Mr. Gardiner enjoyed the exceptional advantage of discussing the problems of the new republic with her most influential statesmen, so that the information on which these articles are based comes from the most authoritative sources.

By A. G. GARDINER.
Formerly Editor of the London Daily News.

BERLIN, May 10.—During the last fortnight I have been engaged in an attempt to find the truth about the condition of Germany, social, economical and political. I have talked with all sorts and conditions of men and women, from the Chancellor, Herr Muller; the Foreign Secretary, Herr Koester; Herr Rathenau, Herr Dernburg, Lord Kilmarnock, the British Charge d'Affaires, Gen. Malcolm; the head of the British Military Mission in Berlin, Prince Lichnowsky; Prof. Delbruck, M. Anguenin, the French economic representative; the organizers of the American Relief Mission and the English and American Friends' Relief Missions, to the people in their homes; the cabmen, the waiters, teachers, party leaders, tradesmen, university students, bankers, journalists and doctors. The detailed conclusions that emerge from these inquiries and from contact with the life of the people in all its main phases must be reserved for subsequent articles. The immediate task is to try to state the bearing of those conclusions upon the issues of the Spa conference.

In its external respect and on a surface view of things, Germany today might be said to show relatively little evidence of the convulsion through which she has passed. The machine of life still functions. The ingrained discipline of the people has survived the shock. There is the appearance of plenty in the hotel life of the cities, the theaters are full, and the Sunday crowds in the streets and the pleasure gardens are cheerful and comfortably dressed. But when one penetrates behind this facade to the realities, the falsity of the exterior impression becomes apparent. In the light of those realities Germany gives the impression of an enormous wreck that is drifting helplessly on the waters, without direction or control. All is confusion, despair and misery aboard. The captain, having brought the ship to disaster, has fled, his crew is in mutiny, the grip of the extemporized Government is so feeble that it represents only the shadow of power; the people, stunned by the enormous catastrophe that has befallen them, hungry, disillusioned, leaderless, are like a flock of sheep in panic. Outside, the storm beats on the hapless vessel. There is no power of resistance within and no visible hope of help from without. The vessel is doomed unless the waters subside and the work of rescue begins.

Still Time to Save Germany.

In a word, the issue at Spa is whether Germany is to be kept as a going concern or is to fall to pieces irretrievably. There is still time to save her, if there is the disposition to save her; but the sands are running out. If Spa does not stop the process of internal dissolution Germany will be a corpse that will poison the world. Unless this certainty governs the attitude of the allies at Spa, the conference will fail. The choice is between continuing to punish Germany as an enemy or dealing with her as a debtor. We can do either, but we cannot do both. We can destroy her, in which case we shall get nothing, or we can help her to live, to work and to pay.

Assuming that the desire is that Germany should be kept as a going concern, the policy that should be initiated at Spa is clear. The first essential is a change of spirit. The war must be ended. It is still going on. It is impossible to live here without feeling that you are in the midst of a beleaguered people. The nation is still living and dying on half rations of often unspeakable food, it is still enveloped by enemies, still cut off from free and equal intercourse with the world, still kept on the rack, not knowing from what quarter the next blow will fall. The ostracism of the nation is almost as complete today as it was in the days of the war. There is a score of English and American newspaper correspondents living here and living well (for you can get plenty of food in the great hotels), but not a single German correspondent has yet been admitted to England. One passport which had been granted has, I hear, now been cancelled. Germany's prison door still opens only from without. The war has been nominally over for more than a year and a half, but for the German people it is still raging in all the terms of hunger, isolation and revenge. No people can continue to survive in these appalling conditions of physical and mental strain. If Germany is to live and pay its debts it must have hope. Today it is a nightmare of despair.

BRITISH EDITOR SAYS GERMANY IS ON VERGE OF TOTAL COLLAPSE

Must Meet to Negotiate.

It follows that if the Spa Conference is to open a new era it must meet to negotiate and not to dictate. If it is simply a repetition of Versailles, it will be worse than useless. It will make government impossible, for no Government can live in this chaos without some measure of visible success and some evidence of support from the outside world. The present Government is weak enough, but it represents the only combination that can keep Germany internally on its feet. It stands between the reactionaries and the revolutionaries, and if it goes down the two extremes will come into violent collision and complete the devastation of Germany.

As the result of a careful inquiry as to what the conference could do to redeem a desperate situation and keep some semblance of ordered Government in being, I am disposed to put credits for food and raw materials first. I put them first because it is only through these things that new heart and new hope can be put into the people. They have been starving since 1916. They are starving still. There is nothing that would so immediately convince them that the shadow was passing away and that there was something to live for as sufficient food and the means of getting it. About their eagerness to work there can be no doubt. It is generally agreed that no belligerent people has settled down to work so industriously since the war or shown so high a power of producing as the German people. This is especially revealed in the output of the coal mines. But the general industry of the country is still paralyzed, for with the German shilling worth little more than an English penny, raw material is unobtainable. Industries, like that of cotton, wholly dependent on foreign resources, are, of course, dead. They cannot be revived on the old terms of buying and selling. The only means by which they can be set going again is some system by which external capital supplies them with material from without, receives the manufactured product and allows for labor and the manufacturer's profit. Until the exchanges find some new level there can be no approximation to the ordinary conditions of production in industries which are not fed by home supplies.

Food Only Superficial Remedy.

But while food and raw material are most immediate necessity and the quickest way of lifting the cloud of despair from the nation, they are only superfiscial remedies. Spa must cut much deeper than this to the root of the disease that is destroying Germany. That root is the indemnity. Six months have passed since the publication of Mr. Maynard Keynes' book on the economic meaning of the peace conditions. It is unanswered and unanswerable. By universal consent it showed that the terms laid down at Versailles were mere paper terms that had no relation to economic facts or possibilities. They laid on Germany a burden which she could not carry and under which she could never rise.

That was not the worst. Beyond the stated burden they set up an indeterminate claim that denied her the hope of ever recovering her economic freedom. The more she worked the more her debt increased. She was a debtor who could never clear off her indebtedness. She was doomed to permanent economic servitude. Such a condition ignored, not only economic facts but elementary human considerations. No bankrupt can work without hope of becoming solvent. Give a bankrupt a reasonable goal to aim at and reasonable conditions for attaining it and he will set himself to the task with a will. But give him an ever receding and unattainable goal and he will collapse in despair. The unlimited indemnity hangs over Germany like a blight. It saps all initiative. It destroys all enterprise. It takes away all incentive of effort. Of all the phases of the catastrophe of Paris it was the most gratitous and fatal, for it destroyed the will to work, and therefore the capacity to pay. It must go before the driving power of hope can be put into the machine of German industry.

And in addition to dispersing this shadow the Spa Conference must face the real facts of Germany and make the limited indemnity conform to the actual and potential possibilities of the bankrupt. It is an axiom that

EDITORIAL

Why Is June the Most Popular Month in the Year for Weddings?

Pick up the daily paper any day this month and notice the increased number of marriage licenses issued daily at our St. Louis City Hall.

The principal reason for marrying in June, I find, is because of the cheerful surroundings, foliage and flowers, fresh green grass, singing birds and pleasant weather; everything is right this month to make the young couples happy.

Then, too, most young people find June a good month in which to arrange for their future home and to equip it with its furnishings.

It is important to select your furniture carefully and wisely, as you expect to live with it for many of the first years of your married life.

Beautiful Actress Attributes Her Wonderful Success to Her Famous Complexion

Tells How You Also May Have One

MISS DOROTHY DALTON

New York—When Miss Dorothy Dalton, the beautiful actress who was selected for the leading role in that mammoth New York production, "Aphrodite," was questioned as to the secret of her phenomenal success, she unhesitatingly said, "My complexion." When asked further details, she explained: "Every one of my friends always raved about the texture and coloring of my skin, and I have no doubt but that my first engagement was made possible through the reputation I had acquired for a beautiful complexion. Managers are like ordinary mortals—they admire a beautiful skin as much as any-one—and in selecting their casts they naturally prefer those whose complexions are attractive. I think the best asset any girl or woman can have is a beautiful skin and complexion. It is easy to have this if one will spend only a little time in taking care of the skin. A girl may have irregular features, but if she possesses a beautiful complexion she will attract attention anywhere. I am always glad to tell any girl or woman just how she may possess a skin like mine. Here is the recipe: Night and morning cleanse the skin first with warm water, then apply a good cold cream (Liska cold cream I have found to be the best). After massaging it into the skin take off the superfluous cream with a soft cloth. Then before going out during the day or evening I apply Derwillo, a simple toilet preparation which can be purchased at the toilet counter of any up-to-date drug or department store. The first application of this wonderful Derwillo will astonish you. It imparts instant beauty to the skin and makes a rosy-white complexion—every one will talk about it. I find it excellent for my complexion, as it protects my skin in all kinds of weather. That's why I prefer it to all other toilet preparations, and am never without it. Now that short sleeves are in vogue you will want beautiful hands and arms. There is nothing like Derwillo for this purpose. Many of my professional friends to whom I have recommended Derwillo use it in preference to all other face powders or beautifiers." Just try it once before going to the theater, dances, parties or an afternoon call and note the favorable comments of your friends. Derwillo instantly puts a lifelike tint on your cheeks which defies detection. It takes the place of face powder and stays on until you wash it off. Perspiration does not affect it nor will it rub off on clothing; it also prevents the nose and face from shining. It's wonderful for a dark, sallow, rough skin, blackheads, coarse pores, oily skin, freckles, tan and for the instant beauty it imports. Over 500,000 girls and women are using it. It's absolutely harmless to the most sensitive skin. Just try it once and you will need no further argument to convince you that there is nothing "just as good," "better" or "just like it." Insist on Derwillo, then you will not be disappointed.

NOTE — Druggists and department stores everywhere sell Derwillo with the guarantee that if you don't like it you get your money back. It is the one beautifier that gives satisfaction at all seasons of the year. You can secure it at all toilet counters in this city, including Wolff-Wilson, Judge & Dolph, Johnson Bros. and the Enderle Drug Co.

BRITISH EDITOR SAYS GERMANY IS ON VERGE OF TOTAL COLLAPSE

you can get more out of a willing debtor than out of an unwilling. If Germany is given the prospect of ultimately clearing away her mountain of indebtedness, and if she has the assurance that her economic destruction is not a part of the allied policy, she will work and she will pay. But we cannot have both her destruction and her money. Carthage was wiped out, but she did not pay indemnities from the ruins.

Economy From Allied Side.

And in connection with the indemnity there should be economy from the allied side. No single fact creates more bitter feeling than the enormous waste in connection with the occupation. It is costing Germany three milliards of marks a year. One of the highest officers of the Government said to me, a little sorrowfully, that his income was just the same as that which the American private had received in the occupied territory. The private received 24,000 marks, a Sergeant 36,000 marks and a Colonel 360,000 marks. Apart from such indefensible incidents as the occupation of the right bank of the Rhine, there is no excuse for the present magnitude of the occupation. The cost could be well cut down to a milliard marks, leaving two milliards to go toward the indemnity. I venture to say that the "occupation" of Berlin by Gen. Malcolm and his modest British Military Mission is as effective as and far more beneficial in results than the occupation of the cities of the Rhinelands by great armies, black and white. And the cost is a flea-bite in comparison.

There is a third practical question bearing on the capacity of Germany to pay that should engage attention at Spa. It is that of shipping. With the loss of her mercantile marine everything from overseas has come into Germany in foreign bottoms at foreign rates and everything that is exported has to go out at foreign rates. This would not be a fatal handicap if the mark were worth a shilling. But with the value of the mark at little more than a penny it is an impossible handicap. It means that every cargo of wheat or commodities that comes into Hamburg and every cargo of exports that goes out pays more than 10 times the cost of freight. A freight of £5 in English money becomes a freight of £50 in Germany money. Add this to the cost of material bought on the same terms and it will be seen that Germany in these circumstances can neither buy nor sell. And if she can neither buy nor sell she cannot work and cannot pay. There must be some accommodations on the question of shipping that will tide her over the present ruinous exchange. She must have enough tonnage to enable her to fetch and carry her own requirements and her own products at German freight rates instead of English, Dutch or American freight rates. This is a matter in which England can take the lead.

Militarism Dead in Germany.

I must leave for a later article the question of the German army. It is an extremely difficult and complicated subject that the allies will do well to approach with great caution. It is less an external question than an internal one. German militarism as an international menace is the deadest thing in this country. But as an economic and political force within the country it is one of the most living issues, and quite the most difficult to come to a wise judgment about.

It can be left. For the moment it is enough to insist on the need of the Spa conference striking a new note in this distracted world. It must mark the end of the war and the beginning of real peace conditions. Germany must leave the dock and be brought into council to help to save Europe and its civilization. For it is not only Germany that is drifting to ruin. If she goes down Europe will go down with her.

ROTARY CLUB TO ENTERTAIN

Committee Will Receive Delegates on Way to Atlanta.

The Rotary Club of St. Louis will entertain delegates who will pass through this city on the way to the convention of the International Association of Rotary Clubs in Atlanta, June 21 to 25. A special train carrying delegates from the Oklahoma and Missouri clubs will arrive on the morning of June 18 and will leave late that night for the East. Another special train will arrive later in the day from Kansas City carrying the delegates from Kansas clubs. It is expected that close to 1000 Rotarians from the three states which comprise the seventeenth district will spend the day in St. Louis.

Entertainment feature include a breakfast, a luncheon, dinner at the Statler Roof Garden, the Municipal Theater and automobile rides about the city. The committee in charge of the general arrangements is composed of Oscar B. Fischer, chairman; Jacob Stocke Jr., H. C. Martin and Louis H. Usselman.

LAW FACULTY ENTERTAINED

St. Louis U. Instructors Guests of Night Class at Dinner.

The night graduating class of the St. Louis University Institute of Law gave an informal dinner and reception Thursday evening at the American Hotel to the professors of the department.

There was music by a jazz band and addresses by Paul Bakewell, the dean; Judges Barth and English and Messrs. Eberle, Robbins, Mulvihill, Pearcy, Neumann and Chapman of the law department staff. Steward D. Flanagan addressed the professors in behalf of the class. R. W. Hoogstraet, class president, was toastmaster.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

COCOANUT OIL FINE FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

BABIES NEED HELP DURING HOT SEASON

Arrangement Made for Ice Company to Make Deliveries Off Regular Routes for Fund's Benefit.

Although the children are not yet out of school, several groups of them have found time to think of the babies and reports are beginning to come in of Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund benefits which were arranged even before announcement of the Fund's sixteenth season was made two weeks ago.

One of these affairs was given during the past week by 11 boys from the neighborhood of the 5700 blocks on Kingsbury and McPherson. It netted $15.50 for the babies. Those who took part were: Zach W. Tinker III, Joe Swartz, Julian Grollnek, Julius Silverstone, Melvin Rosen, Robert Hunt, Ralph Jacobus, Julian Stienmark, Herman Light, Claud Schlefinger and Joe Marston.

Another show which was given recently for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund was presented at 3232 Lafayette avenue on Saturday, May 29. Laura, Jere and Elizabeth Welty of that address, assisted by Camilla and Charles Collins of 3103 Eads avenue, were the promoters of the affair, which earned $3.

Four Girls Give Show.

Four small girls, Elizabeth Markham, Lucille Jordan, Lois Haynes and Marguerite Harding, who did not enclose their addresses, forwarded a check for $2 which they made by giving a play for the less fortunate children of the tenement districts.

Frances Wacx, Sarah Garber, Bernice Gold and Marian Radloff, who live in the 2700 block on Gamble street, managed a penny show which brought in 45 cents for the Fund.

Other contributions of the past week were $2 each from Billy, Margaret and Janet Sample of Webster Groves; $2.50 from the Thursday Club and $1 from a friend of the poor babies, who requested that his name be withheld from publication.

Weather Retards Work.

The unprecedented cool and rainy weather has retarded the work of the Fund to a certain extent the last few days, for it seems to be a characteristic of human nature that only when people are hot and uncomfortable themselves do they remember and realize the fearful odds with which the little ones in the congested sections of the city have to contend. It is hoped that the public will bear in mind that hot weather will soon be here and that a sufficient amount of money must be in the fund to properly provide for the wistful little ones who will appeal for aid when the warm days arrive.

The Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co. is again furnishing the larger portion of the ice distributed by the Fund at a very reasonable rate. They make many deliveries in districts which are not considered a part of their regular routes and accommodatingly handle smaller portions of ice than is their custom with their regular trade. Attention is called to the fact that they make no charge for ice to anyone whom the fund has decided is deserving, provided such persons can arrange to call at one of the Polar Wave's regular stations for the ice.

SAWDUST "GROUND" OF FOREST AND REDWOOD TREES BURNING

By the Associated Press.

HEALDSBURG, Cal., June 5.—An unusual fire, now raging in a redwood grove at Guerneville, near here, is consuming Westover Park, and not only the big redwoods, but the very ground of the park itself.

Many years ago the plot which now constitutes the park was the site of an old lumber mill. During the years that the mill operated the layer of sawdust and old wooden refuse became thicker and thicker, until it reached a depth of 30 feet.

The action of the elements disintegrated the wood particles into soil, and young redwoods sprouted. Of late years these trees have grown to large size and the place has become a park.

About a week ago, a fire started in the dry sawdust, and the blaze spread rapidly. A sawdust fire is said to be one of the hardest in the world to extinguish, and the Guerneville fire department has been unable to cope with the flames.

Several trees have already been undermined and have fallen. The sawdust on top, burning, dries out that beneath and thus the 30-foot layer of decaying wood is gradually eating itself up. It is thought that the fire may burn for a month or two.

The "tight-squeeze"—an hourly occurrence on every crossing and on every crowded street, with cars of fifty different makes—more or less under the driver's control

How Can the Motorist Save Himself from the "Other Fellow"

NEW YORK CITY recorded over three thousand motor car collisions last year in Manhattan Island alone.

Effective traffic regulation depends on each individual driver having his car under positive control.

If every driver could be as sure of his car as the Packard owner, there would be less congestion, and only the careless driver would get into "accidents."

THE Packard people believe that first-class transportation must deliver Safety, Ability, Comfort, Economy, and Enduring Value to the highest degree.

Choose from the best sources of the commercial parts' makers—and your assembled car still will not show these features to the Packard degree.

You will get them only by starting with unified engineering in the Packard manner.

Controlling parts by specifications and tests—through casting, forging, machining, heat-treating, finishing and inspection.

Paying 12 cents a pound for your steel, instead of taking a chance with steel at 6 cents.

You will be led straight to the Twin-Six Engine, with its sure and flexible power, and a greater range of ability in high gear than any other engine in the world.

To gears heat-treated through and through—not merely case-hardened.

To clutch, brakes, universal and bearings that give you the safety of positive control—Packard designed for the Packard car.

IT makes little difference whether the other fellow is to blame, or merely subject to the whims and weaknesses of his car.

The Packard owner has all the chances of the road discounted, because he is sure of what his Packard will do.

He is riding in first-class safety and first-class comfort. It costs him less all around than riding second class!

WASHINGTON U. TO HOLD GRADUATION THURSDAY

Class Largest in History of University, With 200 Candidates for Degrees.

This is commencement week at Washington University, the exercises being scheduled for 10 a. m. Thursday, in Francis Gymnasium, on the west side of the campus. Members of the University Corporation, faculty, guests and graduating class will form for the academic procession to the gymnasium at Graham Memorial chapel at 9:30 o'clock, starting at 9:50 under direction of Prof. Walter E. McCourt as marshal.

Following announcements by President Robert S. Brookings of the corporation, Walter Miller, dean of the graduate school of the University of Missouri, will deliver the annual address on "Success and Happiness," and degrees will be conferred by Chancellor Frederic A. Hall. There are more than 200 candidates for degrees, a much larger number than in any former year in the university's history. The faculty jury has yet to pass upon the qualifications of the candidates, however.

After the exercises in the gymnasium recipients of degrees will be guests of the Women's and Men's unions of the university at luncheon under the trees along broad walk, and in the evening the senior prom will be given at the School of Fine Arts, with dancing inside and outside the building. This will be informal and open to the entire student body, except freshmen and the faculty members and alumni. Jamerson McCormack is chairman of the arrangements committee.

At 12:30 p. m. tomorrow, at the School of Fine Arts, girls of the junior class will have the senior women as luncheon guests. The seniors' picnic will be at Creve Coeur at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday and Wednesday the pilgrimage to familiar campus spots will be made by seniors at 9:30 a. m., and the senior-faculty baseball game will be at 3 p. m.

The class of 1910 will hold its annual reunion on the campus Wednesday and Thursday. On Wednesday evening a banquet will be given, and Thursday the members will attend commencement exercises, the alumni lunchon and the senior prom.

Church to Hold Homecoming.

The St. John Evangelical Lutheran Church, 3732 Morganford road, will hold a homecoming celebration from June 13 to 20. The celebration will consist of meetings, services and social gatherings. On Sunday there will be services in both German and English. In connection with this celebration the church will launch a campaign for 100 new members, an enrollment of 500 in the Sunday School and $6000 for the building fund.

INDIANAPOLIS 500-MILE RACE

Gaston Chevrolet

An American, driving an American-built Monroe special car, won the International Motor sweepstakes, May 31, on OLDFIELD Tires.

He is the first winner of this annual event to finish the entire 500 miles without a tire change.

He drove at an average speed of 88.55 miles an hour.

Rene Thomas

Europe's premier pilot, driving a French Ballot special car, finished second to Chevrolet.

He also rode on OLDFIELD Tires.

His entire race was free from tire trouble.

He drove at a speed of 86.95 miles an hour, making precautionary tire changes at 282 miles, while replenishing fuel.

Barney Oldfield

Master driver of the world, built the tires used by Chevrolet, Thomas and Milton.

To the development of these tires Barney Oldfield had devoted twenty years of study and more than 500,000 miles of racing and touring.

Tommy Milton

American, world's speed king, driving an American-built Duesenberg car, finished third on OLDFIELD Tires.

Milton's race was also free from tire trouble.

He made one precautionary change at 270 miles, during his midway stop for fuel, and finished with a record of 86.85 miles an hour.

In the Battle of the Tires

Over this historic brick-testing ground, victory has been sought by many tire manufacturers.

This year OLDFIELD Tires fought and vanquished the tires of four other competing companies.

One of these other tire manufacturers furnished tire equipment for ten cars, all of which either failed to finish or finished behind Chevrolet, Thomas and Milton.

They end corns

now in this scientific way

People who know—millions of them—now end all corns in this way.

They apply Blue-jay, either in liquid or in plaster form. It means but a touch and takes but a jiffy.

The corn pain stops. Then the Blue-jay gently undermines the corn so it loosens and comes out.

The modern way

Blue-jay was invented by a chemist who studied corns.

It is made by a laboratory of world-wide repute.

Old-time treatments were harsh and inefficient. Blue-jay is gentle, quick and sure.

Now all corns are needless. All these pains can be avoided. To let corns remain while you pare and pad them is folly.

You can stop a corn ache the moment it appears. You can end a corn completely before it can develop.

Blue-jay has proved these facts to millions. It will prove them to you—and tonight—if you let it.

Quit the old methods of dealing with corns and see what this new way means. Your druggist sells Blue-jay.

STREAM OF BRITISH TROOPS FILTERING INTO IRELAND

Army of Occupation Now Estimated at 85,000 and It Is Believed 125,000 Will Be Dispatched.

NATIVES BECOME TONGUE-TIED RACE

Fear to Speak Sentiments Because of Informers—Sinn Fein Raids on Dublin Soldiers.

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1920, by the Press Publishing Co. (The New York World.)

DUBLIN, June 5.—These are days of ominous possibilities for Ireland. Steadily and quietly a stream of soldiers of the Crown is filtering into the country. There are a thousand guesses as to the eventual size of this arm of occupation, or of "no occupation," as Irishmen generally call it.

Some believe it will finally muster from 125,000 to 150,000, and now it is not far short of 85,000. But what will happen when it reaches the point where Britain's military leaders think it sufficient to take more action to "restore law and order" in the greater part of this distracted land?

The correspondent's last trip to Ireland was at the time of the sinking of the Lusitania. It is now another country, and it is enveloped in a maddeningly uncertain atmosphere, an atmosphere of hatred and suspicion.

The compartment of an Irish train is now a dull environment. There is no longer any freedom of speech and cordiality of feeling among the occupants, because it is the part of wisdom to keep one's counsel.

"You cannot tell who is in the pay of the Government," is the pointed answer of the average Irishman when you remind him of the change.

American Accent a Passport.

An American accent, I have found, is the passport into the confidence of the man in the street. He is willing to talk to an American, though at first it is somewhat difficult to get behind his mask of reticence. Of five Dublinites I talked with within an hour in different parts of the city, I got the same answer when I asked, "Why have the Irish as a people become tongue-tied?"

These answers were that agents and informers were too plentiful. It is like being in the war zone just back of the actual firing line. It is a depressing atmosphere in which three-quarters of the Irish people are trying to pursue, in varying degrees, the normal callings of life.

In a state of "splendid isolation" the authorities of the Government are developing, or redeveloping their policy in Dublin Castle. It appears to be part of that policy lately to keep tanks and armored cars off the Dublin streets during the daylight so that the already tense situation be not more aggravated.

But there is daily show of the military regime well calculated to cause almost as much irritation as the tanks. This is the changing of the guard and the march through some of the principal thoroughfares of Dublin of fife and drum at the head of a score of tin-hatted English lads in khaki, carrying rifles with fixed bayonets.

I stopped to watch this display and its effect on the Dublinites who could not help witnessing it.

Many Vengeful Glances.

This small unit of King George's armed forces, doing a sort of modified goose-step through the busiest streets of Dublin caused many an Irish eye to narrow to a vengeful slit. The drums and fifes were too much for a nearby hurdy-gurdy man, and he broke off in the middle of the tune he was playing with its refrain, "If You're Irish You Can Come Into the Parlor."

"It's not the parlor they are reserving for us," said a wag standing beside me.

A few hours after this miniature display of khaki and bayonet, another batch of Tommies were being held up in broad daylight in Dublin at the point of Republican pistols

Says Fat People Now Rejoice

Testimony Proves Arbolone Safe, Sure Reducer.

Enjoys Wide Sale Amongst Educated Wealthy Set.

The physician who originated the Anti-Fat treatment known to physicians and druggists as "five-grain tablets Arbolone" is being praised and thanked by scores of women in the class known as "society devotees."

A literary woman in Los Angeles, being so highly elated over her success in reducing, has written a clever little poem, which recites the facts and expresses deep gratitude as well. To safely and surely reduce from 20 to 60 pounds is easily accomplished when tablets Arbolone are used regularly. They are not drastic or dangerous, used as directed, but simply and surely dissolve the fatty elements and eliminate from the system. Also, they remove the craving for such foods as are not desirable for fat folks to use. Herein, Arbolone is superior to all other anti-fat medicines, as it automatically overcomes the abnormal, perverted appetite for starchy foods, etc. Sold by all druggists in sealed tubes with full directions.

Bad Complexions Peeled Off at Home

The girl with the poor complexion complains, "I have to touch up my cheeks. I am sallow and a sight, and only my makeup saves me."

Now, as a matter of fact, more women spoil their good looks than improve them with cosmetics. The practice certainly is unnecessary, now that the virtues of ordinary mercolized wax as a beautifier have become known. It has been found that the wax has wonderful absorbent powers. It causes the faded or discolored scarf skin to flake off in minute, almost imperceptible particles, so gently, gradually, as to cause no inconvenience at all. In this way the old complexion is actually removed—likewise all fine lines, freckles, pimples, blotches, moth patches and other surface defects. A new complexion appears—a clear, smooth, youthful, healthy-hued skin such as no rouge, powder or cream can produce. Mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store in convenient size package, is applied like cold cream and allowed to remain on over night.

and divested of their arms and ammunition, including two machine guns and a Lewis gun. It seemed like a reply of that mysterious force which works with lightning speed, now in Dublin, now further south, now further west, and as unfailingly vanishes before Crown forces can be rushed to the scene of action in motor lorries or armored cars.

There was a laugh in Dublin when the full details of the daring hold-up became known, but an uneasy laugh, because such things cannot, it is felt by many, continue indefinitely without tragic consequences.

There has been one noticeable change in Dublin Castle tactics since Gen. Sir Nevil Macready and Sir Hamar Greenwood were enlisted by Premier Lloyd George to discover a panacea for peace in Ireland, that is, the abandonment of night raiding.

Soldiers Are Accused.

Sinn Feiners tell me it might be construed as a policy of not being overprovocative, but they say, however, that night raiding, especially in the rural districts, has demoralized the soldiery, because the latter have often paid more attention to whisky on private premises than anything else and when drunk got out of hand entirely. Night raiding soldiers also are accused of purloining most things portable.

There has been no relaxation of Dublin's curfew regulations. On the hour of midnight, unless one possesses a military permit, it is wise to get indoors. Dublin automatically becomes a deserted village, and any white-light night life is very inconspicuous. In the early hours armored cars issue into the streets like rats from their holes and scour the nooks and corners of some thoroughfares with searchlights now and again, relentlessly showing up someone who has stood too long in front of a bar.

I have tried to ascertain from an ordinary Dublinite his personal opinion of the British army of occupation.

"If a man minds his own business they pay no attention to him," was the general verdict. "If looking for trouble, he'll get it."

Generally speaking, there is no feeling against the individual soldier. On the contrary, numbers have been sent home because they "fraternized" too much with the enemy. Tommies, spending their off duty hours in Dublin, sit side by side with Irishmen, and watch Bill Hart in some Wild West film drama clean up one of the bad towns of the film world.

In sparsely settled districts of Southern and Western Ireland soldiers off duty are encouraged to keep indoors after darkness. They only go out in groups. This is more or less so in Dublin, but principally because they would otherwise lack companionship.

Trade Not Hurt.

Enthusiastic Republicans say that so far the presence of a huge army of occupation has not hurt ordinary trade in Ireland, except in the case of the prohibition of certain fairs and markets. This, they declare, finally hits the landlords, because when the military put the lid on these trade marts and thereby stopped the sale of cattle and produce, farmers notified the landlords that they couldn't pay their rent. Unionist landlords, fearing abbreviated rent rolls, immediately squealed for the lifting of the lid.

In some cases, though, small traders or shopkeepers have been put completely out of business and their places raided in the shooting up and smashing of some small hamlets.

In speaking of the army of occupation, the Sinn Feiners class the Royal Irish Constabulary as part of the army. I asked Arthur Griffith, head of the Sinn Fein, what were the estimated numbers of the British army of occupation. He said:

"Somewhere between 75,000 and 85,000, and 12,000 police. The whole country could be properly policed with 1,000 men, because ordinary crime is nonexistent in many parts of the country.

"They can land a million soldiers here and it will not break the spirit of the Irish people. The constabulary force is broken down. In widespread areas there is no police at all, the Sinn Fein are in full control and robberies or holdups that do take place are dealt with by volunteers and Sinn Fein courts.

Calls Constabulary "Informers."

"The constabulary was a force of informers trained by Dublin Castle in years past into a great police machine. Americans probably did not realize it, nor persons of other than British or Irish nationality, but those police kept Dublin Castle informed of all their movements while in Ireland. About 700 or 800 English recruits have been brought over recently, but they will be a complete failure because they know nothing of the country or the people.

"Some of them are robbers and thieves. In one case a recruit from England is known by us to have served three terms imprisonment for robbery."

Griffith, like many other Irishmen, sees in the enlargement of the army of occupation only a confession that Dublin Castle, or the British Government in the first place, has not hit on any other policy than the one being pursued. He added:

"An Irish Amritzar won't break the spirit of the people."

Primitive Power of Resisting Punishment

A Gillette Tire is a tire of plus value. And here is ample proof of that—second year sales of Gillette Tires were greater than the second year sales of any other tire ever produced. That tremendous demand was developed only by actual delivery of greatest mileage at least cost.

Gillette Cord Tires, like the hardy old polar, have grit, spirit, endurance—that take punishment without a whimper.

The exclusive Gillette Chilled Rubber Process toughens rubber and develops strength, endurance, recuperative quality to the greatest of mileage economy.

The Gillette Cord is built for mileage, and gives it. It has proper suspension of cords which spreads vibration and strain evenly over the entire structure of the tire. It has proper resiliency. It can have no tread separation. It can not be affected by heat or cold. It can not lose its pliancy. It can give you nothing but easy-riding, money-saving mileage on any car, under any condition.

SECURITY BENEFIT ASSOCIATION TO CONVENE HERE NEXT WEEK

Competitive Drill of Degree Teams to Be Held Tuesday—$4000 in Cash Prizes Offered.

The Security Benefit Association, a fraternal organization, will hold its 1920 convention in St. Louis next week. Headquarters will be at Hotel Jefferson.

The national council is composed of 18 national officers, 12 committeemen and 100 elected representatives. In their hands rest the selection of the national officers, who will conduct the affairs of the society for the next four years, and the adoption of the laws under which they do business. Degree work will be exemplified by motion pictures on Wednesday evening, when a class of 500 candidates secured by the councils of St. Louis will be initiated by the national officers.

Arrangements have been made for securing motion pictures of every feature of the convention, from the time the special train pulls out of Topeka until the closing hours of the session.

The national competitive drill of degree teams from all parts of the United States will take place Tuesday night, at the Palladium. Ten teams have entered so far. Dr. W. G. Cox, the national vice president, is in charge of the arrangements, and announces that $4000 in cash prizes will be awarded. Three army officers from Jefferson Barracks will act as judges. The public is invited.

O. H. Kimmel is the district manager for St. Louis. About 1000 delegates and visitors are expected.

It burns completely the lowest grades of gasoline without lessened performance.

The Stephens engine wastes no fuel, therefore it wastes no power.

Rated at 25.3 Horse Power (S. A. E.), it actually developes 57 and is the most powerful engine for its size in passenger automobiles.

This is due to the Stephens Vaporizing Wall and Superheating Chamber, which gives the Stephens engine the aforementioned advantages over other types of engines.

Add the greater value of the Stephens hand-built bodies, the recognized high standard of quality and workmanship throughout, to the greater service possible from the Stephens engine and you have the Stephens—The Salient Six.

FRENCH AGREE TO RETURN OF U. S. SOLDIER DEAD

Bodies From Military Zone May Be Brought Back After Sept. 15, Ralph Hayes, Baker's Assistant, Reports.

ONLY BODIES ASKED FOR WILL BE BROUGHT Recommends Purchase of Three "Fields of Honor" for Concentration of All Those Remaining in France.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Under an agreement reached with the French Government, the return of the American soldier dead from the military zone in France will begin after Sept. 15.

Ralph Hayes, assistant to Secretary Baker, recently returned from a mission to France to complete arrangements, has reported that French objections finally were waived, removals to be limited to those bodies for the return of which relatives had specifically asked.

Hayes reaffirms the policy of the War Department to defer to wishes of relatives completely. Returns from inquiries sent out show that 59 per cent of those who replied asked that the bodies be brought home. Those which remain in France will be "fittingly and tenderly" cared for by the Government in Fields of Honor purchased for that purpose. The report deals at length with arrangements for acquisition, location and preparation of these.

The report refers to charges that the motive behind the proposal for return of the soldier dead was "the propaganda of the undertakers and coffin makers," and the further charges that activating the movement to keep the bodies abroad was "the hope of the French to make their presence a source of constant and substantial financial revenue."

Charges Not Proven.

"Specific and sufficient data," says the report, "has not yet been adduced to indicate that either fear is borne out in fact." It adds that while some undertakers conducted a movement for the return of the bodies, they were repudiated "by the recognized association of reputable funeral directors," and that "it is not true that there exists now in France any generally prevalent effort to capitalize financially American burial places."

Commenting on the desirability of concentrating the army dead in the three Fields of Honor for which he recommended sites, Hayes said the bodies even now, after much work, were scattered in 500 different localities in France.

The report paid particular attention to the cases of those who died in the rush of the Twenty-seventh and Thirtieth Divisions, against the Hindenburg line, while serving with the British.

"I should not recommend on that account that the dead from those organizations be not brought into the central burial place of their fellow-countrymen, but it is to be hoped that at Dony or elsewhere a fitting memorial design may commemorate the distinctive service of the Second Corps with the British forces," Hayes said.

Three "Fields of Honor."

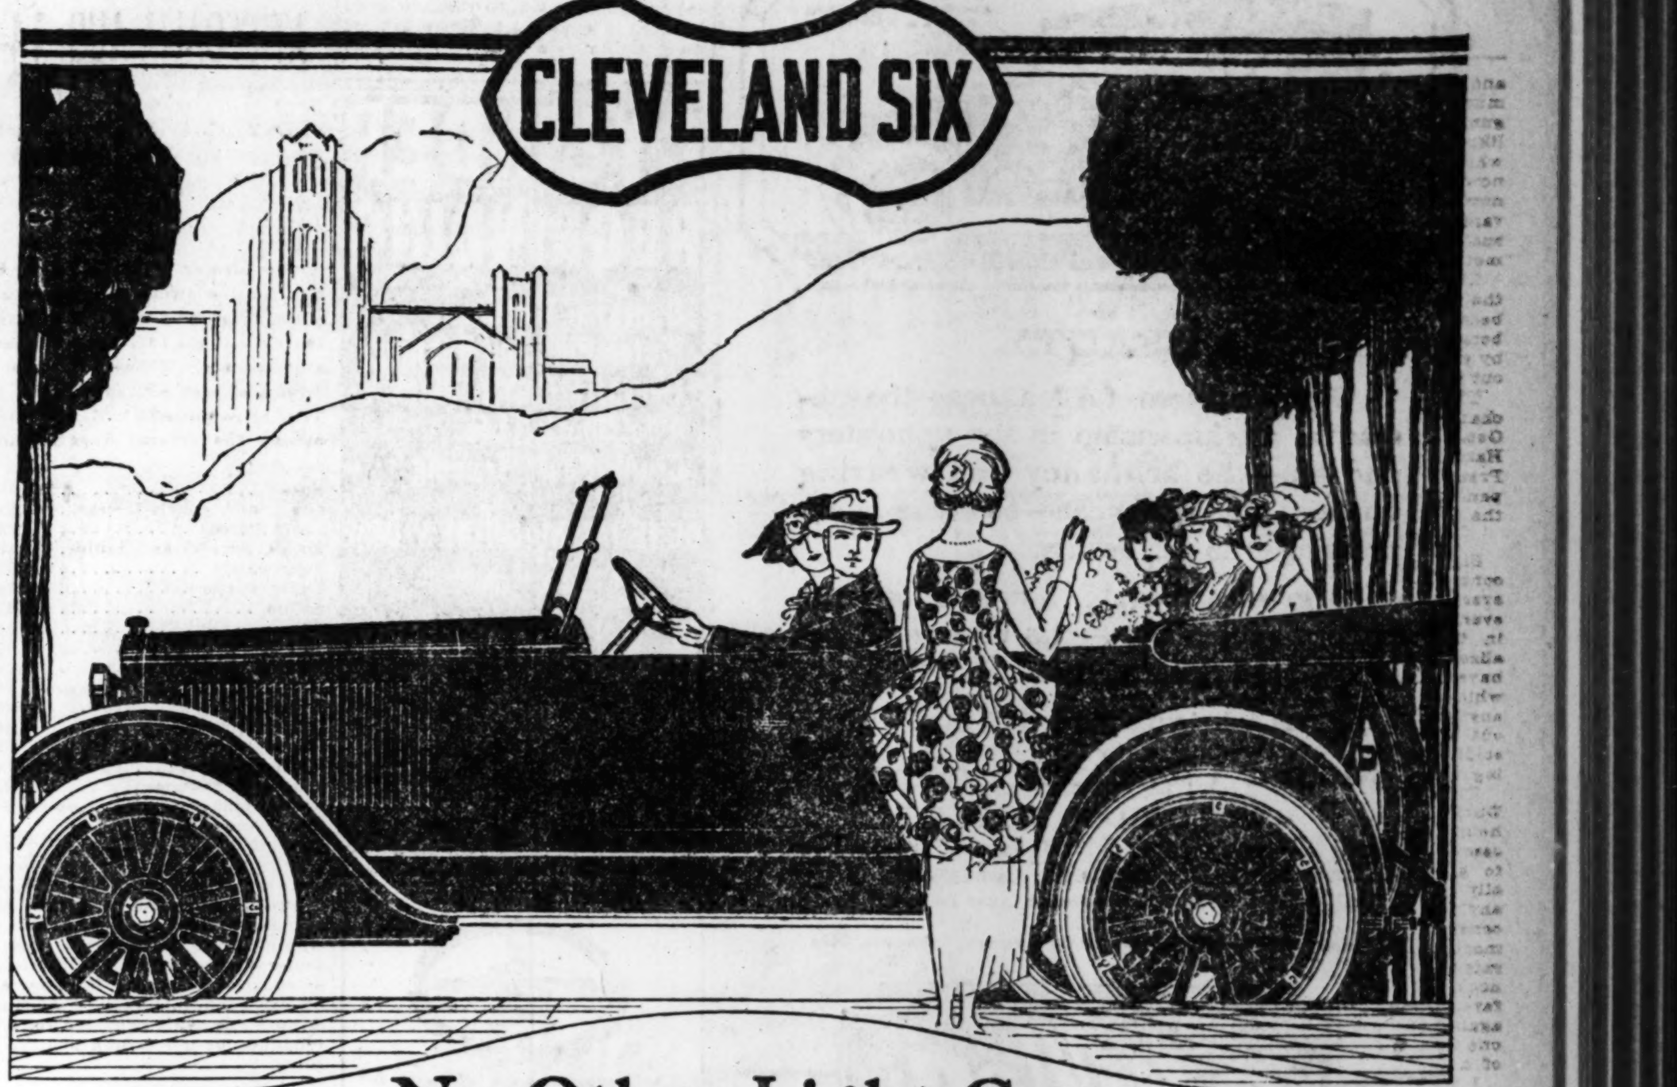
Hayes recommended that the permanent Fields of Honor be located at Romagne, Belleau and Suresnes, in France, the dead to sleep there without "segregation into distinctive locations on the basis of rank." Headstones and markers should be uniform and erected by the Government on advice of a War Memorials Council to be composed of representatives of all interested veteran and other organizations. Arrangements should be made similarly, he reported, for erection of hostess houses to accommodate relatives of the dead who visit the plots.

Describing his visit to all the points where American dead now lie in France, Hayes said he saw many touching evidences of the care individual French citizens and small communities were bestowing on the graves.

Objections of the French authorities to waiving the rigid regulations in force against removal of any of the dead of whatever nationality from the military zone were based on practical reasons, Hayes reported. These included unwillingness to discriminate between Americans and the dead of other nationalities, more numerous and much more difficult of identification; fear of the effect upon an already "badly strained civilian morale" movement of long funeral trains would have; uncertainty as to the hygienic effect so great an undertaking involved; shortage of railway equipment and the already congested condition of railroads in the military zone, due to reconstruction activities.

Under the agreement reached, Hayes reported, the American Government assumes responsibility for adequate sanitary precautions, to be approved by the French authorities and for making minimum demands on rail equipment, not over 100 cars for the purpose to be in use at any one time. These and other rolling stock and terminal facilities will be used on a rental basis.

CLEVELAND SIX



No Other Light Car Offers So Much

There is in the Cleveland Six an unusual degree of power, quick pick-up and extraordinary acceleration. It gives all the speed that any reasonable person would ever want to use, more than most drivers would ever care to use.

And with these qualities of day-in and day-out performance, the Cleveland embraces sturdiness, safety and real comfort. These are factors that you care about. They mean much in the service and pleasure which you have the right to expect from your motor car.

Throughout, the Cleveland Six is a car of high quality featured by its own exclusive motor, ease of control in driving, most positive brakes, low underslung springs that wipe out the road-bumps, bodies of dignified and graceful design.

Those Good Brakes in a
MAXWELL
are aided by special steels

Brakes seem to be one of the overlooked features of a motor car. In a Maxwell they have had the extreme of attention.

For instance, a road engineer, in about 500,000 miles of experimental driving, has constantly tested and studied them.

That is why you can check the speed of a Maxwell in an instant and bring it to a standstill either by foot brake or hand brake.

Special steels in a Maxwell are largely responsible. They give it extra strength in wear and endurance, but they make the car light in weight.

Thus when you call on it to halt, the brakes are not required to "wrestle" with superfluous weight, and the momentum of the car is easily stopped.

These are steels made to Maxwell's own formulae. They equal, pound for pound, the steels in any car built. But no car has steels just like them.

In a large measure they contribute to Maxwell's growing prestige, as expressed in figures like these: nearly 400,000 now in use; and 100,000 more for the year 1920.

Home Economics	1,328.00
Education	1,246.00
Boys' and Girls' Club work	331.25
Total	$51,191.25

Preparations for a much larger and better fair than even last year, which broke all records, are well under way. The 70,000 increase in attendance last year is expected to be exceeded this year. Accommodations are being provided for an attendance of more than 300,000 persons.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL ECONOMY TO GRADUATE 13 TUESDAY

Eighteen Also Complete Four Months' Emergency Course in Public Health Nursing.

The commencement exercises of the Missouri School of Social Economy, 2221 Locust street, will be held Tuesday night at the Second Baptist Church. The address will be by Rabbi Louis Witt of Temple Shaare Emeth.

Dr. George B. Mangold, director of the school, states that because of the demand for trained social service workers, virtually all of the 1920 graduates have already obtained positions with welfare, philanthropic and other relief agencies. The graduates include the following: Theodore H. Smith, Anne Everett Farr, Letitia Harrison, Helen E. Hilgedag, E. Virginia Hill, Mary Sukey Ittner, Viola A. Kilgen, Elva P. Lambrechts, Leonora Woodward McPheeters, Ruby Russell, Vivien Sheffer and Mary L. Wheeler. Miss Ruth Cobb will be graduated in the public health nursing course.

In addition, the following nurses have completed the four months' emergency course in public health nursing conducted by the Missouri School of Social Economy: Maude A. Byers, Jessie E. Blakey, Mattie E. Coleman, Belle Felland, Annie Gabriel, Elizabeth Ann Garrett, Bee Seymour Holles, Ella M. Jones, Martha E. Keaton, Blanche Laughlin, Nina H. Little, Hattie F. May, Winifred D. Mann, Minnie Morsching, Nina I. Shelton, Blanche Tomaszewska, Anna K. Westman and Rachel Holliday Dobbins.

OPTOMETRISTS TO MEET HERE

Twenty-third Congress of Association Next Week.

The twenty-third congress of the American Optometric Association will be held at the Planters Hotel from June 14 to 18. The congress will be held here with the object of aiding the St. Louis and Missouri Optometric Associations in obtaining an optometry law. The association will also plan ways to bring about a closer connection between the Medical Society and the scientifically trained optometrist.

The visiting optometrists and their wives will be entertained with a luncheon at one of the clubs, an automobile tour, an opera party at the Municipal Theater and an excursion Monday night on the steamer Majestic.

Cadomene Tablets Will Help You Over the Rough Period.

Cadomene Tablets are helpful to weak nerves. Weak, faulty nerves often come from strong drink. Sometimes the system is impoverished by excesses of one kind or another, such as poor digestion and faulty nutrition. Overwork, anxiety, and even grief causes abnormal nervous conditions. The strength of body declines. The strength of will power wanes. Nervousness and sleeplessness causes further weakness and loss of vitality. Years of faithful practice taught a great physician that the formula now used to make Cadomene Tablets would surely build up the health of his patients. Now, anyone can take this great medicine if needed. Mr. G. A. Hoover, R. R. No. 1, Reading, Pa., writes: "I am taking Cadomene Tablets with very gratifying results. Nervousness, overwork, and sleeplessness are my complaints."

Mr. Joe N. Herndon, 1645 Twenty-fifth st., Sacramento, Cal., writes: "I am using Cadomene Tablets and find a great improvement has been brought about in two days."

THE CAR ITSELF KEEPS OWNERS LOYAL

THE proportion of Hupmobile owners who stick consistently to the car, year after year, is really remarkable.

In any locality there is almost sure to be at least one man who has driven every model the factory has produced.

Such owner-loyalty, of course, implies a car of extraordinary qualifications—which is exactly what the Hupmobile is, and always has been.

People prefer it for its unusual power and performance, its unusual economy, its unusually long life, its unusual freedom from repairs, its unusually high second-sale value.

They prefer it, not because it excels in any one of these things, but because it excels in combining them all—in other words, because it is an uncommonly good motor car.

SPANISH KING MAY BE FIRST TO VISIT ITALIAN RULER

New Encyclical Issued by Pope Considered One of Most Important Since Fall of Temporal Power.

CATHOLIC KINGS MAY NOW GO TO ROME

Voluntary Imprisonment of Pope in Vatican Is Now Only Papal Protest That Survives.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, June 5.—An encyclical document was published last Monday announcing an arrangement whereby Catholic sovereigns will be permitted by the Pope to come to Rome to visit the King of Italy. This paper is considered one of the most important that has appeared since the fall of the temporal powers.

Indeed, it is only surpassed in importance by that issued by Pope Pius X giving Catholics permission to vote in political elections and serve as deputies in Parliament.

Prior to that the watchword was "neither electors nor elected," and in the general elections it was the custom of Catholics to send their ballot papers to the Pope as a sign of loyalty.

The present document is of international importance while the other was merely of the national character.

Never Returned Visit.

The former document forbidding them to visit Rome had momentous consequence. Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, despite the alliance with Italy, never returned the visit King Humbert and Queen Margherita paid him at Vienna in 1881, because the King of Italy insisted that the visit take place at the capital of United Italy, to which Francis Joseph refused.

This incident contributed to becloud the Austro-Italian relations, which became strained to a menace of war between these two partners in the triple alliance. Germany is credited with having intervened to avert this.

King Carlos of Portugal, brother-in-law of King Humbert, started on a visit to the latter at Rome once, but was stopped at Paris by the threat that if he continued his journey the clericals of Portugal were ready to join with the Republicans in his overthrow. King Humbert, indignant, thereupon broke off diplomatic relations with Portugal.

Broke With France in 1904.

Word that President Leboudt of France had decided to visit the Italian sovereign at Rome in April, 1904, led to the breaking off of diplomatic relations between the Vatican and France. Other attempts made by the Kings of Belgium, Spain and Saxony to obtain permission to come to Rome were frustrated.

Count Romanones, Spanish Premier, during the peace conference at Paris, began negotiations with Premier Orlando of Italy and the Papal Under Secretary of State for a visit to King Alfonso to Rome contemporaneously with the King of Belgium, who through Cardinal Mercier, had expressed a desire to visit the Italian sovereign.

These efforts resulted in the encyclical issued today, and the King of Spain is expected to be the first to take advantage of the Papal concession.

Of all the Papal protests translated into action, which the Holy See proclaimed after the fall of the temporal power, only one survives—the voluntary imprisonment of the Pope within the walls of the Vatican. A strong feeling exists among Catholics, that he should desist from this form of protest, which, it has been urged, is of no further advantage under present conditions.

Overland

A Sign of Service to St. Louis

THE service attention you get, the spirit in which it is given and the resources behind it, are important factors in governing your choice of a motor car.

Every Overland car in St. Louis is protected by a million-dollar investment in St. Louis' Great Automobile Establishment.

On Locust Street at Twenty-third, this service plant centers its capacity and ability in giving unusual service to every Overland owner.

Its immense resources add measurably to St. Louis' industrial greatness; while its stability is a permanent pledge of the exceptional service policy we are pursuing.

Overland owners are part owners in Overland service.

Every day scores are attracted by the new Overland 4 with its new Triplex Springs—the greatest improvement in riding comfort since pneumatic tires.

We will be glad to show you Overland 4 at any time. Come in and see us.

Austria Fixes Grain Price.

VIENNA.—Appropriations aggregating 800,000,000 crowns have been voted by the Government to meet demands by farmers for higher prices for grain, running from 200 to 1000 crowns per 100 kilograms. Peasants have agreed to the new prices, but are now agitating for the adoption of the requisition of textiles, leather and other necessaries, which they hold should be sold only to agricultural societies, which in turn would dispose of them to private traders.

OKLAHOMA COUNTY HAS ONLY WOMAN SHERIFF IN WEST

Mrs. William Cates of Duncan Appointed to Office Upon Deathbed Request of Her Husband.

IS MOTHER OF SEVEN CHILDREN

Declares She Is Not Afraid of Oil Field Crime Wave and Already Has Seized Three Moonshine Stills.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DUNCAN, Ok.—Stephens County, Oklahoma, boasts of the only woman Sheriff in the Southwest. She is Mrs. William Cates, 43 years old, whose appointment to the office was recently announced by the Stephens County Commissioners.

Mrs. Cates was appointed to succeed her husband, a veteran Oklahoma law enforcer, who died here several weeks ago. Sheriff Cates on his deathbed called the three County Commissioners to his home and asked them to promise that they would appoint Mrs. Cates Sheriff in case he died. His request was granted.

When Mrs. Cates assumed charge of the Sheriff's office here, she made her debut in public life. She is the mother of seven children.

However, the duties of chief law enforcer in a county which is fast becoming one of the State's oil-producing centers do not appeal to Mrs. Cates and she has announced that she will not be a candidate for re-election in August, although she hsa been urged to run.

Mrs. Cates and her family will probably move to their little farm near Duncan after the expiration of her term.

Mrs. Cates has confined her duties to her office. Deputies Young, Rhine and Sporling are doing the field work. Mrs. Cates is continuing the policies of law enforcing established by her husband.

"I do not fear the crime wave which usually follows the discovery of big oil pools. I am going to see that every law on the statute books of Oklahoma is enforced in this county. Illicit distilling of intoxicants will be suppressed vigorously," said Mrs. Cates in discussing the affairs of her office.

Three stills have been seized since Mrs. Cates assumed charge of the office.

Mrs. Cates has favored woman suffrage for many years, although she has always been bitterly opposed to the radicalism displayed by suffrage leaders while the "war for woman suffrage" was in progress in the East.

Her husband was at one time a wealthy Stephens County rancher. He served as a law enforcer here one year before and three years after statehood. He was elected to the office of Sheriff of Stephens County in 1918 and was active until two months before his death.

DYER'S ACTION CONDEMNED BY GOVERNMENT OF INDIA

LONDON.—The Government of India, reviewing the finding of the special commission investigating recent disorders in India, declares that "Gen. Dyer (the British commander in India) exceeded the reasonable requirements of the case, and showed misconception of his duty, resulting in lamentable and unnecessary loss of life."

This judgment, it is announced, has been communicated to the Commander in Chief, with the request that he take appropriate action.

The Catholic Archbishop of Simla, Mgr. Kenardy, has sent a letter to the London papers defending Gen. Dyer. He says that hesitation by the authorities "would have meant the general murder of European men, the outraging of women, the loss of public buildings and the desecration of Christian churches."

NEW YORK HAS 5,621,151; BOSTON, 747,923

Census Shows Increase of Only 17.9 Per Cent for Metropolis and 11.5 Per Cent for Bay State Capital, Which Is Farther Behind St. Louis Than in 1910.

NEW YORK'S GAIN SMALLEST IN YEARS

Manhattan Borough Shows Decrease of 2 Per Cent—Recent Estimate for London Is 4,000,000—Buffalo Has 505,875.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The 1920 populations of New York and Boston were announced by the Census Bureau tonight, as follows:

New York City, 5,621,151, an increase of 854,268, or 17.9 per cent.

Boston, 747,923, increase 77,338, or 11.5 per cent.

The figures for the New York boroughs are as follows:

Manhattan, 2,284,103, decrease 47,439, or 2 per cent.

Bronx, 732,016, increase 301,036, or 69.8 per cent.

Brooklyn, 2,022,262, increase 387,911, or 23.7 per cent.

Richmond, 115,959, increase 29,990, or 34.9 per cent.

Queens, 466,811, increase 182,770, or 64.3 per cent.

Increase Smallest in Years.

The rate of growth for New York was smaller than ever before in the city's history, except the decade ending in 1870, while the increase numerically was smaller than in either of the two decades preceeding 1910.

The small increase in the growth of New York City in the last decade is attributed by census officials to the almost complete stoppage during the war of the influx of immigrants, and to the heavy emigration of foreign-born residents.

The Borough of Manhattan, formerly New York City, proper, with a population of 2,283,103, showed a decrease for the first time, the actual falling in population being 47,439, or 2 per cent of that in 1910. The boroughs of the Bronx and Queens, which since 1910 have been brought closer to the city by more rapid means of transit, showed the largest gains in their history.

Brooklyn's increase was not as large as during the decade ending in 1910, when the increase was 467,769.

Boston's Gain Under St. Louis'.

The increase in Boston's population was not so large as that of St. Louis, whose total population is 773,000. St. Louis in 10 years increased its lead over Boston from 16,500 to 25,000. In 1870 St. Louis took rank a sfourth city, with her population 60,000 more than Boston's. Boston's population exceeded St. Louis' in 1880 by 12,000, Boston ranking fifth and St. Louis as sixth. In 1890 St. Louis passed Boston with a population 3000 larger, St. Louis taking fifth and Boston sixth. In the census of 1900 St. Louis took fourth and Boston fifth, St. Louis leading with a population about 14,300 larger than Boston. Brooklyn, which ranked as fourth in 1890, had been incorporated into New York City, causing the two rival cities to move up in rank. The census of 1910 showed St. Louis with 16,500 more people than Boston and holding fourth rank.

Buffalo's Population 505,875.

Other census figures announced tonight and today were:

Buffalo, 505,875, increase 82,160, or 19.4 per cent.

Buffalo, ranking as tenth largest city, in 1910, had a population of 423,715, which was an increase of 71,328, or 20.2 per cent over 1900. She ranked just ahead of San Francisco and just below Detroit in 1910.

Boston Still Behind St. Louis; Was Fifth in 1910.

The Boston census figures, compared with the population of St. Louis, which is 773,000, show that Boston is still behind St. Louis in population, as it was in the 1910 census. In 1910, St. Louis was fourth among American cities, with 687,029, and Boston was fifth, with 670,585. The margin in St. Louis' favor is larger this year than 10 years ago.

It is still too early to assign the rank of St. Louis in this year's census, as Detroit and Cleveland are still to be heard from. Cleveland was sixth in 1910, with 560,663, and Detroit was ninth, with 465,766. To exceed St. Louis this year, Cleveland would have to show a gain of 37 per cent for the decade, and Detroit would have to show an increase of

BILL TO EXCLUDE DANGEROUS ALIENS SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

Open or Passive Advocacy of Overthrow of Organized Government Ground for Deportation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The bill designed to exclude dangerous aliens from the United States was passed today by the House and later signed by the President.

Under its terms, mere membership in organizations advocating overthrow of organized government or sabotage would be sufficient ground for the deportation or exclusion of aliens.

Minor Senate amendments to the bill were approved by the House without debate.

Chairman Johnson of the Immigration Committee, author of the measure, said it was intended to strengthen existing laws so as to make possible the deportation of alien agitators, whom he blamed for the recent radical activities over the country.

The bill also makes subject to deportation or exclusion aliens who write, publish or knowingly circulate and keep in their possession written or printed matter opposing organized government, advocating its overthrow or supporting destruction of property, or sabotage. It also brings within its scope alien members of organizations publishing the prohibited literature.

NORMAN K. DAVIS TO SUCCEED POLK IN STATE DEPARTMENT

Native of Tennessee, Who Has Been Treasury Official, to Become Under-Secretary June 15.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Secretary Colby tonight formally announced that Norman K. Davis of New York, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in charge of foreign loans, will succeed Frank L. Polk as Under-Secretary of State When the latter retires, June 15. Davis has been actively identified with the Government service since shortly after the entrance of the United States into the war. He came to the Treasury Department as one of the Secretary's advisers and several months later was sent as special financial delegate to Spain, where he concluded arrangements for a credit for the United States.

7 ALCOHOL CASES TREATED

Largest in Any One Night Since Prohibition Became Effective.

Seven men suffering from acute alcoholism were received at the City Hospital last night, the largest number in one night, the doctors said, since prohibition went into effect. They were assigned to the alcoholic prison ward.

They were picked up by the police between 7 p. m. and midnight in the downtown section.

PRESIDENT SAYS CONGRESS FAILED IN DUTY TO PUBLIC

Charges Body Took No Action to Remedy High Cost of Living and Regarded Only Political Expediency.

EXECUTIVE SIGNS 100 BILLS IN RUSH

Suffers No Bad Effects From Day's Work; "In Best Form Since He Became Ill," Says Dr. Grayson.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—President Wilson scrutinized and signed more than 100 congressional bills and other documents today, in the frenzied rush to let Congress adjourn at 4 p. m. He devoted the whole day to business and tonight was reported by Dr. Grayson, his physician, as being in "the best form I have seen him since he became ill."

Congress was charged today by the President with failure to take "important remedial action with respect to the cost of living" and to give serious "consideration" to the revision of the tax laws and the problems of peace.

Telegraphing to the heads of 16 railroad brotherhoods several hours before Congress adjourned, the President said "it must be evident to all that the dominating motive which has actuated this Congress is political expediency rather than lofty purpose to serve the public welfare."

Message Reply to Brotherhood.

The President's message was in reply to one from the brotherhood officials protesting against the adjournment of Congress. Mr. Wilson said that "in the light of the record of the present Congress I have no reason whatever to hope that its continuance in session would result in constructive measures for the relief of the economic conditions to which you call attention."

The President added that "the protracted delay in dealing with the problem of the railroads, the problem of the Government-owned merchant marine and other similar urgent matters has resulted in unnecessary burdens upon the public treasury and ultimately in legislation so unsatisfactory that I could accept, if at all, only because I despair of anything better."

The President was well prepared for the "jam" in which he found himself because of the delay at the capitol, as Secretary Tumulty and the heads of the various departments were in readiness to receive the belated legislation and made quick reports and recommendations. Advance reports were available for such bills as required examination, and the President worked calmly and carefully in his study.

A Busy Day for Him.

All day long messengers hurried back and forth between the capitol and the White House, while clerks from the different departments, particularly from the State Department and the Department of Justice, carried to the executive offices large envelopes containing open opinions and memoranda for the use of the President and Secretary Tumulty.

It was 3:53 p. m.—seven minutes

Specialists
Who Will Report
The Chicago Convention
FOR THE POST-DISPATCH
Supplementing the Associated Press and our staff reporters:

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, whose long experience, wide acquaintance and years of leadership cause most persons to regard him as the foremost judge and master in America of convention politics, machinery, signs and omens.

IRVIN S. COBB, a good reporter and distinguished author who is regarded as the country's leading humorist. He usually produces each day a connected story in which the accounts of prosaic occurrences are used as relief for his humor.

DAVID LAWRENCE, a free-lance Washington correspondent whose work has impressed itself on a wide following. He is a good reporter, specializing in the field of national politics.

FANNIE HURST, a fiction writer of great power of analysis and keen insight into human motives. It is expected that her accounts will be rather more ornamental than those of the political experts.

RING LARDNER, the pick of the later crop of funny writers. He seldom attempts to go beyond his own form of comedy, which has saved many a printed page from dullness.

The full report of the Associated Press will give the moving news of the convention over two wires from the Convention Hall into the Post-Dispatch office.

M'JIMSEY ADMITS HE GOT $1000 OF LOWDEN MONEY

Candidate for Republican Nomination for Governor Says Babler Sent Him Checks of $500 Each.

DIDN'T KNOW SOURCE OF MONEY

Considered It Personal Contribution to His Campaign Expenses by National Committeeman.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 5.—E. E. E. McJimsey, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, issued a statement here tonight admitting that he received two contributions of $500 from J. L. Babler, Republican national committeeman, but said that he believed the money to be a personal contribution from Babler. McJimsey issued the statement before departing for Chicago to attend the Republican national convention.

Telegrams from Chicago today said Babler stated "a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor received $1,000 of Lowden money, and the candidate was not Arthur Hyde."

F. A. Wightman, McJimsey's campaign manager, was asked last Wednesday if he knew of any Lowden money being received here from Babler or his associates, the question being put to him after the announcement by Babler that Roscoe Patterson of Springfield, Republican State Committeeman, and candidate for Congress from the Seventh District, had received $1000 from the Lowden fund. Wightman presented an emphatic "I don't know" to all questions.

Silent on "Cleanup."

McJimsey was asked today if he favored a cleanup of the Republican party in Missouri, the housecleaning to include the resignations of Nat Goldstein and R. E. Moore of St. Louis, as delegates to the Republican convention and the abdication of Babler and Cole from boss positions in the party. He declined to discuss the matter. McJimsey's full statement follows:

"Mr. Babler gave me early in January two personal checks for $500 which I understood was in fulfillment of a voluntary promise on his part, made four years ago when he urged me to become a candidate for Governor. He said then he would be glad to make contribution to help bear the expense of the campaign and this statement was renewed when it became known that I had definitely decided to become a candidate this year.

"I had no knowledge or intimation that this contribution from Mr. Babler was in any way connected with Governor Lowden's campaign for the presidency, and I am sure Mr. Babler did not understand or intend it. I accepted Mr. Babler's contribution as I have accepted the voluntary contributions of a few friends, some of whom are Democrats, in Springfield and a few friends in other quarters of the State with no obligation except the implied one on my part to conduct a vigorous, straight-forward campaign for the gubernatorial nomination and with no strings on me if elected.

"Nothing to Conceal."

"At the proper time my campaign manager, Mr. F. A. Wightman, will make a full and detailed statement of every dollar used in my campaign, as well as the sources of all outside aid. My books are open at all times, which means I have nothing to conceal. I believe the public will feel that I have just grounds for not being ashamed of those who have taken enough interest in my political ambitions to help voluntarily in bearing the inescapable burdens of a primary campaign extending over a period of many months and in one of the very big states of the Union."

KIDNAPING SUSPECTS RELEASED

Parents Have Received Five Letters Demanding Ransom for Child.

By the Associated Press.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., June 5.—Catherine Dundon and James Malone, suspects arrested in the kidnaping of Blakely Coughlin, 13-months-old son of George H. Coughlin, were released today. The District Attorney said there was no evidence on which they could be held.

The child was stolen from its crib at 2 a. m. Wednesday. Since then there has been a widespread search for it. Rewards aggregating $7500 have been offered for its return. Seven anonymous letters have been received by the parents. Five of them bear evidence of having been written by the kidnapers. They contain brief statements that the baby is safe and demand specified sums for his return.

LOWDEN WEAKENED, WOOD NOT GAINING, JOHNSON CONFIDENT

MOORE, HERE FROM CHICAGO, SAYS HE HAS NOT RESIGNED

Twelfth District Delegate Who Got $2500 Lowden Money Asserts He Will Be at Convention.

"HANK" WEEKE FOR OUSTING BABLER

Father of Mrs. E. E. Butler, Eleventh District Delegate, Says She Will Vote for Senator Johnson.

Robert E. Moore, delegate from the Twelfth Congressional District to the Chicago convention, returned from Chicago last evening. At his home, 3223A Eads avenue, he said that he had not resigned as a delegate, as was reported in yesterday's Chicago newspapers. Moore's acceptance of $2500 of Lowden money, and Lowden's denunciation of Nat Goldstein, Eleventh District delegate, who also got $2500, and Moore, as being "not fit to sit in a national convention," were the causes assigned in the Chicago papers for the expected withdrawal of both Goldstein and Moore.

Goldstein, however, said he had not resigned. "I am going as a delegate," he said. "I've got the railroad tickets for me and my wife in my pocket, and I expect to get my delegate's badge when I get to Chicago."

Moore said he had no statement to make, and that he had made no statement to anyone. "Nor sent any communication to anyone?" he was asked. "No," he said. "Then you have not resigned?" "I have not," he said.

Moore Going to Convention.

Moore said he expected to return to Chicago tomorrow night. That is the time when most of the local delegates, and others planning to attend the convention, are to leave. When asked whether he expected to stay through the week, Moore said he had nothing more to say.

Circuit Judge Almon Ing of Poplar Bluff, a delegate from the Fourteenth District, who was in St. Louis yesterday on his way to Chicago, declared that the Missouri delegation should meet in Chicago and "clean house from cellar to garret."

"All who have given or received any money to be used improperly should be excluded from the delegation," he said.

"It would be a farce to exclude Moore and Goldstein without forcing Jacob L. Babler to resign as National Committeeman.

"These men ought to consider the interests of the party, and get out voluntarily without forcing the delegates to oust them."

Resolution Sidetracked.

Judge Ing on the occasion of the caucus of the Missouri delegation here last week presented a resolution to defer the election of Babler and members of the convention committee pending an investigation of the campaign fund disclosures as affecting Missourians. He was thwarted, however, by Louis P. Aloe, president of the Board of Aldermen of St. Louis, who offered a substitute resolution, while sitting on the proxy of Senator Selden P. Spencer, which resulted in the re-election of Babler and in a general statement to the effect that the widest publicity be given the money transactions.

Ing, who lunched with Edward W. Foristel, delegate-at-large, said that he was opposed for election as delegate by B. L. Guffy of Hayti, who was supported by Babler. He also called attention to Babler's testimony before the Senate Committee in which an "A. L. Guffy," address not given, had received $1000 from Babler.

Mayor S. A. Chapelle of Monett, Mo., a delegate to the convention from the Fifteenth District, said that the delegates should lose no time in reaching a decision regarding the men who received Lowden money.

Weeke Against Babler.

"Hank" Weeke mingled with the politicians at the Planters Hotel last night and remarked more than once than his daughter, Mrs. E. E. Butler, who is a delegate, will vote for Johnson.

"Babler should be ousted from the LEAGUE OF NATIONS PLANK CHIEF SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION AMONG REPUBLICAN LEADERS

Most Practical Politicians Agree That Any Group Presenting Successful Solution Will Dictate Nomination.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The contest between the various aspirants for the Republican presidential nomination is momentarily obscured by a preliminary contest over platform planks.

One is the League of Nations plank and the other is the industrial relations plank. The latter is acknowledged to be loaded with dynamite and the former is so surrounded by counter claims that it has not been arranged and the real truth of the situation is not apparent.

Most of the practical politicians, however, were predicting today that any coalition of party leaders which presents the successful solution for the League of Nations plank will be able to nominate their candidate for the presidency.

Indiana Plank Discussed.

The League of Nations plank in the Indiana State Republican platform brought here by Senator Watson, who is the foremost candidate for chairman of the Resolutions Committee, seems to be the nucleus around which the discussion is centering and it may provide the basis for the agreement. It declares in effect that the Republican party denounces the League of Nations covenant as it was brought from Versailles by President Wilson, but it does not close the door to its acceptance with reservations.

At that point the reservationists of various degrees and the irreconciliables appear as the elements to be brought into harmony.

Most of the party whips seem agreed that the convention cannot take any action which could be construed as a repudiation of the Republican leaders in the Senate. Compromise seems to be inevitable and the predictions of the field marshals is that the compromise will develop the candidate.

Scrimmage Among Leaders.

On the side lines of the big fight there is a scrimmage going on between the leaders of the party throughout the states. Many of the latter have come to Chicago openly expressing the feeling that Senators and Representatives here had too much to say in the decisions of the party's affairs and that some consideration must be given to the chieftains from the provinces.

The statement by Gov. Beekman of Rhode Island that he was not sure whether he was going to a "Republican convention or a senatorial caucus" has been construed as a notice from the Governors and State leaders that they will demand to be heard.

Judging by their degree of pre-convention activity Wood, Lowden and Johnson might properly be designated the "big three." On one proposition their managers are fully agreed. They all claim victory. They differ on how it is to be achieved or on what ballot it is to be but they assure all inquirers there is no doubt about it.

Seventy-two hours before Senator Lodge's gavel drops in the big Coliseum a composite talking machine record of the expressions of the managers would say: "We are perfectly satisfied with the situation. The strength of our candidate is steadily increasing."

Expressions on Street.

The sentiments expressed on the street, presumably reflecting the views of the man up the tree, are as many and as varied as the number of candidates. One hears with the greatest degree of finality, "Lowden or a dark horse," and "Johnson after the third ballot," or "Wood after all the others have been eliminated."

Convention time brings to Chicago a small army of political writers who feel that by analyzing the cross-currents in the muddy and turbulent stream which swirls about the hotel lobbies and in and out of the inner coves of the campaign managers' offices, they can discern the course of the tides and predict with certainty to the folks back home what is going to happen.

Any predictions at this time are the results of analysis, deduction and opinion rather than information.

If there is a single man in Chicago who knows what the Republican national convention is going to do he hasn't appeared with any proofs of his knowledge.

One straw which may show the way the wind blows would be a caucus of uninstructed delegates. About the only place in Chicago large enough to hold it is the Coliseum itself, and the indications are that the first caucus of uninstructed ones would be held there some day next week, when, preliminary business having been disposed of, the clerk begins to call the roll.

Result of Preliminaries.

A seeker after information made it a point today to ask each of the managers what the week of preliminaries had brought forth. They all gave the same answer. It was:

"There are some things going on under the surface, but they haven't been disclosed as yet."

According to the best indications, what has been going on has been an attempt to get all elements together on a harmonious platform and at the same time estimate the strength and staying qualities of the various forces so that plans might be made accordingly.

Monday and Tuesday and probably Wednesday will be exhibition days at Convention hall. Organization will have to be perfected as a matter of course, and while the delegates are being entertained by the big brass band up in the balcony and by keynote speeches and the best orators and entertainers the party has, the resolutions committee, working night and day, will be striving to bring out the basis of an acceptable agreement and the various whips will have their scouts out recording the preferences and leanings of the uninstructed delegates. They will also be keeping a close eye on the instructed delegations to make sure that they do not break away. In some cases already, the Johnson, Wood and Lowden forces among themselves are claiming the delegations.

Staying Qualities to Count.

The adjournment that follows the second or third ballot probably will find the conventon iready to go over the top and noon of the next day will be zero hour. That will be the time to be prepared for surprises. By then, it is expected, that the large delegations from the most populous states will have assessed the strength of the candidates, the sticking qualities of their delegations, and be ready to come in with an agreement among themselves on some of the candidates or possibly a dark horse, who can be put over.

Tonight, while the boards of strategy are pouring over their plans and the fighting forces are undergoing a last-minute inspection, the convention swirl around the hotels and on the streets is gathering momentum. The delegates and visitors are pouring in on every train. Equipped with cheer leaders, song leaders and almost every other contrivance human and otherwise, that is likely to appeal to the emotions of an assembly of 10,000 people, they all hope that at the psychological moment they will be the center of a winning wave.

Old-time convention habitues wag their heads at the modearn ideas that go nowadays with boosting a presidential boom. There used to be spellbinders, flag-wavers and torchlight paraders. Now there are brigades of ballet singers, piano play-

HAYS AND COMMITTEE NO LONGER FOR GOVERNOR

Dollar Mark Has Made Him Seemingly Unavailable, but His Delegates May Be Held Together for Use by Leaders of Party.

CHAIRMAN HIMSELF AS A DARK HORSE

Dissension in Wood Camp Shown by General's Refusal to Indorse Protest of Senator Moses, in Behalf of Hitchcock.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Candidates, personally or through their managers, continued today to lash out at one another in the free-for-all scramble for the Republican nomination; evidences were visible of a row between Frank H. Hitchcock, expert rounder-up of Southern delegates for the Wood forces, and Chairman Hays of the National Committee; internal dissension broke out in the Wood camp.

The scraps among the leaders were not reflected in the good-natured, gossiping crowd that milled ceaselessly about the hotel corridors in an atmosphere growing ever bluer with cigar and cigarette smoke. Even the sulphuric statement of Senator Moses, Wood's Southern manager, charging the National Committee with steam-roller tactics, and the equally sulphuric reply of the National Committee, failed to arouse the rank and file to any violent show of partisanship. They seemed to regard the charges and counter-charges merely as part of the game.

The Lowden people were in better spirits than for several days past. In their view of the "situation"—the word that crops up inevitably in this pre-convention changing of views—the reaction from the first shocked surprise occasioned by the Missouri campaign disclosures has set in. Delegates are beginning to realize, they say, that Hearst propaganda is at work to defeat the Illinois Governor, and that he, personally, had nothing whatever to do with any improper use of money in Missouri. His repudiation of the $2500 delegates, Nat Goldstein and Robert E. Moore of St. Louis, is pointed to as evidence of his own insistence upon clean methods. The Lowden delegates will stick, the Governor's supporters say.

Dollar-Mark on Lowden.

A more unprejudiced view of the matter—a view shared by a number of astute political observers—is that behind the screen of Lowden's candidacy delegates are being accumulated and welded into a cohesive mass for whatever use the powers in control shall see fit to make of them. These powers, meaning Will S. Hays and the National Committeemen in sympathy with him, had determined to nominate Lowden. It is possible that they could still do so, but they will not dare to put up a man who has laid himself open to the dollar-mark cartoon. Such is the reasoning leading to the conclusion that the chances of a very fine man, of proved executive ability, to become President of the United States, have been irretrievably ruined by a train of circumstances going back to the small and unsavory machinations of St. Louis politics. The deflation of the Lowden boom from this pinprick is cited as one of the curious ironies of politics.

What are Johnson's chances? This question is on the lips of every arriving delegate. The best opinion is that Johnson has gained strength. That is the most than can be said. He hasn't the delegates now, and whether he gets them in the convention may depend on the phychology of the moment. Gov. Lowden has announced that he will remain in Springfield during the convention, and Gen. Wood will go Monday to

LOWDEN TO WORK FOR PLANK AGAINST RE-ELECTION OF A PRESIDENT

LOWDEN GAINS 65, WOOD 18 VOTES BY CONTEST DECISIONS

Republican National Committee Completes Hearings of Controversies Involving 137 Convention Seats.

FOUR GO TO JOHNSON, 31 UNINSTRUCTED

In Kansas City Case Involving Two Missouri Seats, Both Factions Were Rejected Entirely.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Delegate contests which have furnished spectacular features of the pre-convention period were finished tonight by the Republican National Committee with decided advantage to Gov. Lowden.

Although on actual instructions of the 137 contested delegates Wood received 12 and Gov. Lowden seven, with 116 uninstructed, the reported leanings of the disputed delegates favor the Illinois Governor.

The committee in two Missouri contests refused to seat any delegates.

All of the 11 district delegates from Virginia aligned with the Slemp faction were seated. The committee rejected pleas of negro contestants for seats and also decided separate anti-organization contests in the Third and Eighth districts in favor of the Slemp faction.

Effect of Decisions.

According to the reports of the candidates favored by the delegates seated, the 135 delegates involved were distributed as follows:

Wood, 18; Lowden, 65; Johnson, 4; Judge Pritchard of North Carolina, 17; uninstructed and scattering, 31, with the two Missouri contests rejected entirely.

All contests are expected to be appealed to the convention Credentials Committee and subject to revision by the convention.

Today all the Georgia cases were disposed of and Wood delegates were seated in four districts. They included State Chairman Pickett, who was opposing the delegation counted in the Lowden column.

Green Loses in Texas.

In the Texas contest the delegation headed by Col. E. H. R. Green, son of the late Hetty Green, was thrown out, and the delegates headed by National Committeeman McGregor seated.

The last case on the docket was Virginia.

A sharp controversy between white and negro contestants was followed by the adoption by the committee of a resolution authorizing a subcommittee to investigate conditions in the Southern states with a view to reorganizing the Republican party into a more effective organization. The resolution by National Committeeman Jackson of Maryland had the support of Southern committeemen. It said:

"Whereas, it is increasingly apparent that the so-called solid South is in fact an economic issue strongly inclined to the principles of the Republican party, and

"Whereas, it is obvious from repeated contests before the National Committee and other facts no less noteworthy that Republican votes in many of these states are not increasing in proportion to the increasing belief in Republican principles;

Three on Committee.

"Resolved, That the chairman of the National Committee appoint a special committee of three of its members, one of whom shall be from the South, who shall very carefully and impartially study the whole political situation in the South and also its relation to that of the North, with a view of reporting at the next meeting of the National Committee or as soon as the special committee thus appointed shall be ready, how the Republican party in states of the South shall be reorganized or constituted to make it a more effective agent for the spreading and recording of Republican principles and of election of Republican electors."

Chairman Hays of the National Committee will be an ex-officio member of the sub-committee.

Actual Instructed Line-Up.

The committee's decisions left the actual instructed line-up on the convention temporary roll, without regard to uninstructed delegates' known leanings, as follows:

Wood, 124; Johnson, 112; Lowden, 72; Harding, 39; Poindexter, 14; Sproul, 76; Sutherland, 16, and Judge Pritchard of North Carolina, 22.

The resolution for reorganization of party affairs in the South followed acrimonious battling today between whites and negroes during disposal of 43 contests, of which there were 23 from Texas, 15 from Virginia and five from Georgia. In nearly all the negroes charged, and the white delegates denied, racial discrimination.

The race dispute was staged before several women proxies and a large audience, composed mostly of negroes. Several women sat through clouds of tobacco smoke, hours of heated controversy, and considerable strong language from the negroes. In the discussion there was talk of "strong-arm" aid by police to exclude negroes from white convention halls, tales of flying bottles and bruised faces and of alleged "incendiary" speeches by the negro organizers.

Despite the arguments of the negro contestants, the committee seated all so-called regular, or organization, delegates from both Texas and Virginia. In the Virginia contest a straightout fight between whites and negroes, Henry W. Anderson of Virginia, candidate for the vice presidential nomination, declared frankly for the white party domination in the South.

Senator Moses Criticised.

The final day's proceedings of the committee were marked by an attack on Senator Moses of New Hampshire for his charges that "steam roller" tactics had been employed against Wood delegates.

H. B. McCoy, national committeeman from the Philippines, brought up the Moses charges and declaring he was a Wood supporter, denounced Senator Moses' statement as "absolutely unwarranted."

National Committeeman Highland of West Virginia, who also said he is for Wood, made similar statements.

Neither Wood nor Col. William C. Procter, his campaign manager, support charges of Senator Moses that the National Committee has used "steam roller" methods in its contest decisions, McCoy declared.

Chairman Hays was defended by National Committeeman McGraw of Oklahoma. National Committeeman Kean of New Jersey interjected that "Gen. Wood must be a great man because his friends can make so many mistakes." That there have been no "sinister or personal motives" in the committee's decisions was asserted by National Committeeman Stanley of Kansas, another Wood partisan. National Committeeman Work of Colorado also came to the committee's defense. "I'm surprised that in these piping times of prohibition to see such a statement from a United States Senator," he said.

Text of President's Telegram Assailing Record of Congress

By the Associated Press.

Washington, June 5.

FOLLOWING is the text of the telegram sent by President Wilson today to the railroad brotherhoods' officials criticising Congress' record.

"I received your telegram of June 3. You call my attention to matters that I presented to the present Congress in a special message delivered at a joint session of the two houses on Aug. 8, 1919. In nine months this Congress has, however, taken no important remedial action with respect to the problem of the cost of living on the lines indicated in that address or on any other line. Not only has the present Congress failed to deal directly with the cost of living, but it has failed even to give serious consideration to the urgent appeal, oft repeated by me and by the Secretaries of the Treasury, to revise the tax laws which in their present form are indirectly responsible in part for the high cost of living. The protracted delay in dealing with the problem of the railroads, the problem of the Government-owned merchant marine, and other similar urgent matters has resulted in unnecessary burdens upon the public treasury, and ultimately in legislation so unsatisfactory that I could accept it, if at all, only because I despaired of anything better. The present Congress has not only prevented the conclusion of peace in Europe, but has failed to present any constructive plan for dealing with the deplorable conditions there, the continuance of which can only reflect upon us.

"In the light of the record of the present Congress, I have no reason whatever to hope that its continuance in session would result in constructive measures for the relief of the economic conditions to which you call attention. It must be evident to all that the dominating motive which has actuated this Congress is political expediency rather than lofty purpose to serve the public welfare."

The letter to the President from the brotherhood chiefs said:

"As the responsible heads of railroad labor organizations, representing more than 2,000,000 workers, we protest most earnestly and most emphatically against the proposed adjournment of Congress next Saturday, in accordance with the plan reported in the public press. We call attention to the fact that despite the revelations as to the profiteering scandal Congress has done nothing to check the evil nor has a single remedial measure been passed, and that there has not been even serious consideration of constructive legislation dealing with the serious problems of industrial unrest.

"In the circumstances it appears to us incredible that the responsible leaders of the Government at Washington can assent to this seeming agreement to continuation of a do-nothing policy which means that the grave economic problems of the people are to be made the plaything of politics and politicians for the next five months. It invites political chaos and business disaster. Congress should remain in session."

Republicans Would Further Reduce South's Representation.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Representation of the Southern States in future Republican national conventions would further be reduced under plans to be urged on the national committee.

Many of the Northern committeemen feel convinced that the last reduction did not reach the mark at which the committee was aiming, and they cite the crop of delegated contests brought to the national committee from the Southern States with accompanying "cooked-up evidence," packed or secret conventions and stacks of affidavits which some delegates before the committee charged had been obtained at "$5 a throw."

PRESIDENT SIGNS 100 BILLS; CHARGES THAT CONGRESS FAILED PUBLIC

before Congress adjourned—when the congressional messenger arrived with the last of the bills for the signature of the President. There was order, but likewise tension in the executive offices, but one of the messengers fairly flew over to the study of the President, and because he was in possession of the advance information regarding the legislation, the chief executive gave his signature within the fixed time.

Measures Approved.

Eleven bills and resolutions passed by Congress in its closing days, including the water-power measure and the joint resolution repealing most of the wartime laws and proclamations, were killed today by President Wilson through a "pocket veto." Fifty-eight measures were approved.

The President explained that the measures which died did not reach him in time. The water-power bill had been referred to the Interior and War Departments for their opinions, while most of the other matters reached the President today. Among other measures which received the "pocket veto" was a resolution authorizing appointment of a committee to confer with the Canadian Government on restrictions on pulp wood coming to the United States. Most of the other bills were minor ones.

The most important of those signed were: The naval appropriation bill, carrying $436,000,000, the army appropriation bill, the sundry civil bill, the District of Columbia bill, the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, and the third deficiency bill.

The army reorganization bill.

The merchant marine bill.

The post office pay increase bill.

A bill providing for the exclusion and expulsion from the United States of aliens who are members of anarchistic organizations.

An act to pension soldiers and sailors of the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection and the China relief expedition.

The industrial vocational rehabilitation bill.

A bill permitting Government-owned radio stations to handle private and press messages.

Bill Affecting Aliens.

An act amending the trading with the enemy act to permit restoration of seized property to returned enemy aliens and to residents of former enemy countries now residents of new countries set up under the peace treaty.

An act to establish a woman's bureau in the Department of Labor.

An act granting pensions and increase of pensions to certain sailors and soldiers of wars other than the Civil War and widows and dependent relatives of such persons.

An act authorizing enlistment in the Federal forces of non-speaking English citizens and Aliens.

An act regulating immigration of aliens to and their residence in the United States.

Altogether, it was a "big day" for the staff in the executive offices of the White House, but President Wilson seemed not a bit disturbed over the turmoil. During the day he submitted to an examination of his eyes by Dr. George de Schweinitz, the Philadelphia oculist, who has paid periodic visits to the White House for several years.

There was much gratification in administration circles over the adjournment of Congress, as it means something resembling a complete rest for the President, although, according to Dr. Grayson, he seems to thrive on a lot of work.

Dr. Dercum Denies President's Condition Is Worse.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—Reports that President Wilson's condition has taken a turn for the worse were denied today by Dr. Francis X. Dercum, in this city. Dr. Dercum, who has frequently been called into consultation, said:

"They are silly rumors. When I last saw the President he was in such good condition I did not think it necessary to return to see him. I have discontinued my regular visits to the President."

CONGRESS CLOSES; IMPORTANT BILLS LEFT 'UP IN AIR'

Budget Measure Fails and Others Receive "Pocket" Veto Because of Lack of Time for Action.

RECORD A FAILURE, GARRETT DECLARES

"Humiliating," Is Tennesseean's Characterization in Reply to Mondell's Praise—To Meet Again Dec. 6.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Sixty-sixth Congress ended its second session today, adjourning sine die at 4 p. m.

Unless a grave emergency arises which makes necessary a special session, it will not meet again until Dec. 6.

The close of the session was marked by none of the hectic rush that generally attends a get-away of Congress. But there was the usual applauding and cheering in the House chambers after Speaker Gillett's gavel had released the members for the first long vacation Congress has had since the United States entered the war.

The House cleaned up its work early in the day and twice recessed to await possible Senate action on pending measures. The Senate remained in continuous session and, as the result of a small-sized filibuster there, the bill to establish a national budget system failed of passage.

Mondell Praises Congress.

Final sessions of both houses passed without the plethora of political speeches which had been expected by many since Congress was quitting on the eve of the national political conventions. Just at the finish in the House of Representative Mondell of Wyoming, the Republican leader, delivered an address praising Congress for the work accomplished at this session. Representative Garrett, Democrat, Tennessee, replied, declaring that this Congress had been a "humiliating failure."

Virtually the only action by the House during the day was to pass the budget bill after amending it to meet the President's objection that it took from the executive authority to remove the Comptroller-General and Assistant Comptroller-General, officials appointed by him under the measure.

Republican leaders abandoned their plan to call for a vote on the resolution refusing President Wilson's request for authority to accept a mandate over Armenia. The measure already had been adopted by the Senate. Chairman Porter, in a formal statement, said Democratic members of the House would have blocked transaction of all other business had the resolution been brought up.

The House was in a restless mood today and efforts of many members to have taken up special bills failed. Near the close the House settled down to give close attention to the addresses of Representatives Mondell and Garrett.

Mondell declared this Congress had made a saving of $2,374,460,817. Eight appropriation bills that passed the House in the Sixty-fifth Congress, but failed in the Senate filibuster were reduced $940,510,598, he said, and the estimates submitted by the Government departments for the next fiscal year were reduced by $1,433,850,218.

Several laws were cited by Mondell as "constituting a record unequalled in American history." He included the transportation act, the woman suffrage amendment, the merchant marine bill, the mineral land leasing bill, the water power act, the civil service retirement measure, the Volstead prohibition enforcement law, the extension of the war-time food control act to punish profiteering, the repeal of practically all war laws and other measures.

"Take it all in all, the record of the Congress is one of which every member may well be proud," he declared, "it is a record that commends the Congress to the favorable judgment of the American people."

Referring to the Republican applause which followed Mondell's speech, Garrett said the Republican leader had spoken "to the only audience in the United States where his speech could receive applause."

He declared it was "absurd" to say that the work of this Congress "measured up to any of the past."

Turning to the Republican side, Garrett continued: "You seldom paused in the midst of doing nothing except to do something worse."

This session of Congress began Dec. 1. Important legislation enacted included:

The army reorganization bill providing for a peace time army of 297,000, a National Guard and a reserve force.

The transportation act designed to assist the railroads over the period immediately following their return to private control March 1.

The oil leasing bill by which thousands of acres of oil and mineral lands in the west and south were thrown open to development.

The merchant marine bill providing for the ultimate sale of the vast Government-owned merchant fleet.

The Sterling anti-sedition act and the Johnson bill providing for the deportation and exclusion of dangerous aliens.

The Edge bill authorizing formation of corporations to finance American export trade.

The civil service retirement bill.

The postal pay increase bill.

Measures Which Failed.

Important measures which failed to pass included:

The soldier bonus bill, passed by the House last Saturday night, and not taken up by the Senate.

The budget bill, which President Wilson vetoed and which the Senate failed to pass after the House had amended it to meet his objections.

The bill to regulate and control the meat packing industry.

The cold storage bill.

The bill to abolish the housing corporation.

The annual rivers and harbors supply measure, left in conference.

Congress finally passed the water-power bill, pending for 12 years, but it was killed automatically with adjournment through the failure of the President to sign it.

Much of the session was occupied by another unsuccessful effort to agree on a peace settlement. The treaty of Versailles, laid aside after the first session in November, was brought back before the Senate early in February and a final vote on its ratification was reached March 19, after all efforts to bring about a compromise had failed.

As an alternative both houses later passed a joint resolution formally declaring a state of peace, but it was vetoed and when Republican leaders sought to repass it the House failed to muster the necessary two-thirds majority.

Other Measures Vetoed.

Besides this measure and the budget bill, the President vetoed three other measures, and none was passed over his veto. They were the legislative, executive and judicial bill, a bill to prohibit interstate shipment of obscene motion pictures (disapproved because an engrossing clerk made an error in transcribing it), and a bill to pay claims in Alabama growing out of a flood of the Warrior River.

In addition to the water-power measure, the President gave a "pocket veto" to the resolution repealing many special wartime laws and to several other minor measures.

More investigations were conducted at this session than probably ever were undertaken at any recent session. The five major war investigations started at the previous session were continued, and in addition the Senate investigated campaign expenditures, the spread of Bolshevik propaganda, the railroad strike, the navy's conduct of the war, the award of naval medals, the print paper situation, shoe prices, Mexican affairs and many others.

The Senate also authorized investigations of the Federal Trade Commission and the Ford-Newberry election contest, but these have not been started.

The principal investigation by the House, aside from the war inquiries, was that on sugar.

The exodus of Senators and Representatives began almost immediately after adjournment. Many Republicans of both houses are heading for Chicago to attend their party convention there. Some of the Democratic members also will attend that convention.

Senator Knox Comes Out for Gov. Sproul

WASHINGTON, June 5.

SENATOR KNOX of Pennsylvania, who was recently indorsed by his colleague, Senator Penrose, for the Republican presidential nomination, came out tonight for Gov. Sproul.

Senator Knox also formally announced he would not attend the Republican national convention, to which he had been chosen as a delegate-at-large, because of "private business." His proxy, he said, would be Judge A. R. Reed of Pittsburg.

SENATE ORDERS FUND INQUIRY OVER ENTIRE CAMPAIGN

Investigation to Cover November Election—Action Taken on Pomerene Resolution After Debate.

SENATOR CHARGES "FAVORITE PLAYING"

Borah Says Men of Wealth Seek to Control Party and Advises G. O. P. to "Clean House" Before Saturday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Investigation of expenditures in the presidential and congressional campaigns which will end with the November elections was ordered today by the Senate.

The inquiry will be conducted by the same committee which has been hearing evidence as to pre-convention political financing. The committee heard one witness in that phase of its investigation today, and then adjourned until July 9.

Senate action today was on the resolution of Senator Pomerene, Democrat, Ohio, member of the committee, and was taken in the closing moments after brief but spirited debate. Senator Pomerene attacked the contingent expense committee for delaying its report, and asked for immediate consideration. Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, objected, declaring that under the rules the resolution would have to lie over a day.

Senator Pomerene declared that he was not deceived "by these methods of procedure," and said the Senate could not "play favorites." He added that the Democrats were not going to say that it was none of the people's business where campaign funds came from or how they were expended, and that the Republicans dared not do so.

Borah Supports Proposal.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, author of the resolution, also supported the Pomerene proposal. Referring to Senator Smoot's objection to immediate action, he said he feared this might be found by November to be an "error of judgment." The feeling against excessive expenditures was not confined to any party, he declared, and warned the Republicans to "clean house" between now and Saturday, or some other party might be selected "to protect the American flag and American institutions."

Charging that men of wealth were seeking to control the parties, Senator Borah asked if the party once led by Abraham Lincoln could afford to object to the consideration of such a resolution so "they won't be under surveillance between now and next November."

Senator Kenyon, Republican, Iowa, chairman of the Investigating Committee, presented a table giving contributions which he said were made in the last campaign by those supporting President Wilson, and declared a number of the contributors later were appointed to diplomatic posts. Senator Smoot withdrew his objections.

Says Press Magnifies Statements.

"If we had a public press that did not magnify every statement made there would be no objection to a fair investigation," Senator Smoot said.

Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, asked why Senator Smoot intimated such an investigation would be unfair when the Republicans had a majority on the committee.

"I only meant that the press was unfair," was the reply.

After hearing Col. E. H. R. Green of Texas, son of the late Mrs. Hetty Green, the committee adjourned its sessions until July 9.

Chairman Kenyon, after a consultation with members of the committee, said that all witnesses still unheard would be called at that time. It was the decision of the committee that no more work could be done until after the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

Col. Green was called to tell what he knew about the selection of delegates from Texas to the Republican national convention. He said he had contributed money to the "mixed" faction of black and white Republicans in Texas, but denied that he was working for Gen. Wood or any other presidential candidate.

Chairman Kenyon announced that William Loeb Jr., who collected $225,000 for the Wood campaign; Alfred J. Greenbaum, treasurer of the Hiram Johnson campaign organization in California, and several witnesses from Missouri, had not responded to committee summons.

ALIEN EXCLUSION BILL PASSED

Makes Membership in Violent Body Ground for Deportation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The bill designed to exclude dangerous aliens from the United States was passed today by the House and sent to the President. Under its terms, mere membership in organizations advocating overthrow of organized government or sabotage would be sufficient ground for the deportation or exclusion of aliens.

Mrs. Swan Sits With National Committee, Hearing Contests

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.

WOMEN sat in the deliberations of the Republican National Committee today, taking part for the first time in making convention decisions. Mrs. S. S. Beggs of Kansas, Mrs. Vennono Swan of Missouri and Mrs. J. S. Beasley of Tennessee held proxies of the national committeemen from their home states and sat in this morning's session.

Apparently taking a hearty interest in their new found privilege, the women sat placidly in the clouds of tobacco smoke, closely following the arguments and voting in the decisions.

Mrs. Swan, who for 20 years was cashier of a Joplin bank, said today:

"I came uninstructed, and I am for Gov. Lowden. The women are not misled by the talk of buying delegates. Women interested in this campaign know that the money given to the two men who are accused of being bought was given for legitimate campaign purposes, and it is a dastardly political trick this trying to make it appear that Gov. Lowden bought them.

"How could he know that they chose to put it into the bank instead of spending it in the way directed? Spending money for campaign purposes is not a fault confined to one candidate. It is a necessity, and they all do it."

PENROSE TO BE IN TOUCH WITH CONVENTION BY PRIVATE WIRES

Senator's Condition Such That Two Famous Doctors Are Called in With Trio Attending Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—U. S. Senator Penrose will not attend the Republican national convention at Chicago. This was officially announced this afternoon by physicians attending him.

Simultaneously word went out that the Senator had taken a turn for the worse. This belief was strengthened by the fact that two famous doctors, in addition to the trio who have been attending him, were called hurriedly to his home. They are Dr. John B. Deaver, a noted surgeon, and Dr. Edward Martin, head of the State Department of Health.

Following the conference Dr. C. B. Penrose, a brother of the Senator, denied that the patient was gravely ill. "He is holding his own," was the only statement he would make.

"In view of the private telephone and telegraph apparatus installed in the Senator's house," said Leighton Taylor, his secretary, "Senator Penrose has been and is in direct touch with Chicago. He will handle matters as efficiently as if he were present. A corps of operators has been installed at either end of the telegraph wire. The Senator is in constant touch with the situation, both by message and personal conversation."

Arrested on Speeding Charge.

Charles H. Morrill, 4534 West Pine boulevard, connected with W. H. Markham & Sons, insurance brokers, was arrested at 6:30 o'clock last night at Forsythe boulevard and Pennsylvania avenue on a charge of speeding at the rate of 35 miles an hour. He was ordered to appear before Justice Stecker at Clayton tomorrow.

ONE 4-YEAR TERM URGED TO INSURE GREATER SERVICE

Governor Says Executive, Unhampered by Wish to Succeed Himself, Could Accomplish All He Desired.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Gov. Lowden this afternoon announced his intention of urging upon the Resolutions Committee of the Republican national convention the inclusion in the platform of a plank pledging the party to the submission of a constitutional amendment making a President ineligible for re-election. His declaration in favor of limiting the presidency to one term was at his regular afternoon meeting with newspaper correspondents in his suite at the Blackstone Hotel.

The Governor said he saw no occasion to extend the term of the presidency to six years, believing that a President unhampered by a desire to be re-elected could accomplish in a term of four years about all that could be expected of a man.

"In each Congress of which I was a member," he said, "I introduced a resolution for a constitutional amendment providing that the President should be ineligible to succeed himself.

Arguments for Change.

"The chief executive of the State or nation who knows that he could not succeed himself would, in one term, make more real achievements than in eight years if in his first term he was considering being renominated, which he must, as it is only human.

"When I went to Springfield as Governor I registered a vow with myself that I would not seek renomination, and whatever I have achieved is because I have adhered to that resolution.

"In this crisis the next President confronts serious and perplexing questions, and if he does his duty he must do many things which will be unpopular for the time being to people interested in politics. Nothing will so strengthen his as the knowledge that with the end of his term will come the end of his political life."

Lowden was asked by one correspondent if he had considered the matter in connection with such a situation as existed at the time of the second nomination of Lincoln.

View in Case of Lincoln.

"Yes," he said, "if there had been such a provision in the Constitution at that time we never would have had Andrew Johnson for President of the United States. Lincoln would not have been the President a second time and the President, in all probability would not have been assassinated.

"With the exception of President Washington, I do not believe there has been a time in the history of the country when it would not have been just as well to have had the presidency limited to one term."

He saw no objection, he said, to a man becoming President a second time if a four-year term intervened because he would not have the advantage of a political machine built up during his term. He said he believed that the President should force out of his Cabinet any member who became a candidate for the presidency without resigning from the Cabinet.

ALTERNATES MAY TAKE GOLDSTEIN AND MOORE SEATS

Lowden Managers Hear of Scheme for Two St. Louis Delegates to Remain Away From the Convention.

CONFERENCE TODAY TO WORK OUT PLAN

Goldstein on Arrival in Chicago Will Confer With Morse, Babler and Emmerson.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Information which reached the Lowden headquarters this evening indicated that, instead of resigning or being ousted from their seats in the Republican national convention, Circuit Clerk Nat Goldstein and Deputy Circuit Clerk Robert E. Moore of St. Louis, who admitted receiving $2500 each from the Lowden campaign fund, will merely stay away from the convention and that their alternates will sit and vote for Lowden.

This would relieve the two delegates from going down in Republican political history as the only delegates, at least in recent years, denied seats because of the acceptance of money from a candidate, or who were forced to resign for that reason. It would also make certain, it is said, that Lowden would not lose two votes, and in the present situation no candidate is throwing away any strength.

It was deemed good politics by Gov. Lowden to announce that he did not want the votes of either Moore or Goldstein, and to declare that they were not "fit to sit in a national convention," and his managers gave consideration to a plan of the National Committee that they be unseated. This plan, it was said tonight, had been abandoned, the politicians having worked out the other scheme which would not be quite as humiliating to the two delegates.

"Now History," Says Lowden.

Gov. Lowden, asked this afternoon by a Post-Dispatch correspondent whether there had been any developments in connection with the proposal to unseat the delegates, said there had not been.

"I judge that is now history," he said, turning away to close the interview, which followed a general interview he had with a group of correspondents.

E. L. (Liv.) Morse of Excelsior Springs, who was Lowden's representative in distributing campaign funds to Missouri delegates and politicians, expressed conviction that Goldstein and Moore would resign as delegates. He said they had agreed to do so and that letters containing their resignations would reach the National Committee headquarters by Monday. Morse admitted, however, that the resignations had not yet been sent in. He said yesterday they would arrive today. Morse has been working for the Lowden managers in the endeavor to straighten out the Missouri situation in a manner which would lessen the criticism being directed at Lowden, and originated the plan to obtain the resignations. In furthering that plan he summoned Moore to Chicago and laid the matter before him. Moore is understood to have communicated with Goldstein and other political friends in St. Louis and to have taken the position that neither he nor Goldstein wanted to resign.

According to information received her tonight, Goldstein will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning. It is expected that he will confer with Morse, J. L. Babler, National Committeeman, and with L. L. Emmerson or others in Lowden's confidence and the exact plan to be followed will be worked out.

Rough Ejection Opposed.

There is nothing to indicate that either Moore or Goldstein was greatly offended by Lowden's statement that they were not fit to sit in the convention, but the Lowden men are known to fear that they may become offended if they are roughly ejected. That might cost Lowden two votes, even though the $5000 paid to the two delegates has not been returned, and it may be stated on fairly reliable authority is not expected by the Lowden managers to be returned.

It is known some concern is felt at the Lowden headquarters that even if the plan for them to merely remain away from the convention is agreed upon, the two delegates may have a change of heart, and that the only way their absence can be absolutely assured is for them to be denied seats both by the National Committee and the Credentials Committee.

The Lowden managers are said to feel that after the statement issued by the Governor denouncing the two delegates it would subject the Governor to much criticism if they sat in the convention and voted for Lowden. They feel that there must be no uncertainty.

There also must be taken into consideration the meeting of the Missouri delegation Monday. While in some quarters the opinion has been expressed that the other members of the delegation will insist that Goldstein and Moore resign, the belief more frequently heard expressed here is that the Missouri delegation consists, with a few exceptions, of "hard boiled" politicians, who will be willing to have the situation disposed of in the quietest way possible.

Kansas City Committee Wants Babler, Cole and Others to Quit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 5.—A call was issued today to the Republican City Central Committee to meet at 4 a. m. Monday to adopt resolutions against Jacob L. Babler, Missouri National Committeeman; W. L. Cole, State Chairman, and other State leaders involved in the presidential slush fund scandal. The call was issued by Wentworth E. Griffin, vice chairman, in the absence of Justin D. Bowersock, chairman.

Griffin was presented today with a petition signed by nine anti-boss members of the committee, urging that the city committee go on record as opposed to the actions of the State leaders.

The petition urges other Republical committees throughout the State to take official action on the matter.

The petitioners ask:

"That the committee be called to consider the damaging disclosures before the Seante Investigating Committee in Washington, which have involved the chairman of the Republican State Central Committee and the Missouri member of the Republican National Committee in alleged improper use of money in the interest of aspirants for the nomination for President of the United States.

"We regard this matter of the deepest interest to every honest Republican in the State of Missouri, and feel that our City Central Committee and every other State should meet and take official action in condemnation of the indefensible conduct of certain Republican leaders in this State as developed by the inquiry above mentioned."

At a meeting last night of the Fourteenth Ward Anti-Boss Club, a resolution was adopted asking Cole to resign as State chairman 'a'nd thus relieve the party of the stigma he has brought on it."

NEBRASKAN POINTS TO THREE FACTORS THAT MAY BRING NEW DAY IN POLITICS

Declares Woman's Conscience and Common Sense Must Be Taken Into Account—Platform Declarations Disappointing.

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

(Copyright, 1920, by W. J. Bryan.)

CHICAGO, June 5.—Did you ever attend a national convention? It is well worth while. There is nothing else quite like it in this country, and no more interesting conventions in any other country.

A national convention of a political party deals with subjects of great moment. It writes a platform upon which the party bases its claim to the suffrages of the voters, and it nominates candidates for the highest office within the gift of the people of the world. No hereditary ruler could be trusted with the exercise of the power that a confiding people put into the hands of the chief executive of the nation. To hold the office for which the successful candidate is nominated is the ambition of a multitude in each generation.

The men—and now the women also—who act as delegates in a national convention are the pick of their party in their several communities. If the delegates of the two leading parties in attendance at their national conventions could be brought together and photographed in a group, the picture would present a more perfect representation of the political life of the nation than could be seen at any other time or in any other form.

At Washington one can look down from the Senate gallery upon two representatives from each State; from the House gallery one can look down upon the chosen representatives from more than 400 Congressional districts; but the national conventions of the leading parties are made up of the Senators, the Congressmen, the Governors, the legislators and the leading citizens of all the States, assembled for a great purpose and, as a rule, duly impressed with their responsibility.

Candidates Active on Scene.

The Republican convention about to assemble in this great city by the lake is no exception to the rule. The candidates have established their headquarters and several of them are on the ground. The modesty that used to keep the leading candidates away from the convention city seems to have disappeared, and three of the leading candidates are already in personal charge of their campaign. Others will soon be here. Gen. Wood, with his manager, Col. Procter, is receiving the friends that call in a steady stream—some delegates who will vote for him on the floor of the convention, others who will shout their approval from the gallery and march in parades if they are encouraged to do so, while still others come out of curiosity to see one of whom they have heard and who may be the "next President."

Senator Johnson is commander-in-chief of the Johnson candidacy, and his rooms are already thronged with admirers. If the contest were to be decided today, and the election based upon the number who make themselves at home in the respective headquarters, the Senator from California would be an easy winner. It is noticeable that the women are more numerous at his headquarters than at the rooms where the other managers hold forth. Johnson is a magnetic man, and his positive character makes his friends as devoted to him as his enemies are antagonistic.

Gov. Lowden is for the present handicapped by an illness that denies him the pleasure of meeting all of the adherents who call. His cause will be stronger when he is able to meet his visitors face to face and greet them with the cordiality that has drawn so many to him since he entered public life.

Foresees Disappointment.

I spent the first day in calling upon the candidates and establishing lines of communication. I propose to give my readers an opportunity to know day by day just what the candidates are saying to the public. I have invited them to speak as freely as they will in regard to themselves and in regard to the platform. So far they do not seem disposed to make claims or announce the number of votes they expect to receive on the first or subsequent ballots. I have the promise of some statements on the issues and they will be presented in the platform, although I am somewhat disappointed to find that the emphasis is not placed upon platform declarations to the extent that I had hoped it would be.

Senator Johnson is more aggressive than the others, so far as I am able to judge from present indications. I have the promise of a statement from him which I hope to present with comments in my second article. I am even hopeful that, using his initiative, I may be able to secure like statements from other leading candidates, and thus foreshadow the platform before the Committee on Resolutions completes its work.

Right here candidates are apt to be misled by political friends. The delegate to a national convention is apt to place an exaggerated estimate upon the value of harmony. He is so afraid that the candidate of his choice will alienate somebody, that he will make his candidate colorless and seemingly indifferent to principles and policies. As a matter of fact, the strength of a man in public life is almost entirely due to the strength of the things he advocates. A man makes friends by fighting for what he believes to be right; he loses them when he begins to dodge or trim.

Marks Passing From Old to New.

This convention is interesting because it marks the passing from the old era to the new, although it is not yet certain whether it will be the Omega of the big corporation in politics or the Alpha of the reign of the people. Three new forces combine to work a revolutionary change in political methods.

First, we have the disappearance of the saloon, the most corrupt influence American politics has ever known. In national, state and city, big business has furnished the money used by the political machine for the control of the vote that could be influenced by drink or by purchase. With the closing of the saloon the number of those whose votes are purchasable is very perceptibly decreased.

Second, woman has entered politics and her conscience, as well as her practical common sense, has to be taken into account. She will have to be reached by persuasion. Her conscience will have to be answered and answered fairly.

Third, the spirit of democracy has grown in this country as well as in Europe. As soldiers, bearing the burdens of the war and assuming the risk of battle, manifest a disposition to assert their rights, so do also the toilers in the factory and upon the farm.

The Republican leaders, who have been accustomed to secret conclaves and to the issuing of orders, will have to adopt modern methods. They must counsel with their political associates instead of commanding. The evidences of rebellion are manifest. We have yet to see whether the inevitable change will come soon enough to make this convention the herald of the new day.

MRS. O'HARE'S ARTICLE ON PRISON REFORM DELAYED

The first of a series of articles by Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare on her observations and experiences while serving a sentence under the espionage act in the Missouri penitentiary and her conclusions therefrom on the necessity of immediate radical reforms in prison methods which the Post-Dispatch advertised for publication today has been delayed unavoidably in preparation.

MORSE CONFERS WITH MANAGER FOR JOHNSON

"Paymaster" for Lowden Believed to Be Planning to Land Missouri for Californian as Second Choice.

BOOM FOR KNOX LOSES ITS FORCE

Delegation Expected to Agree to Cast Its 36 Votes as Unit After First Few Ballots.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Negotiations between E. L. (Liv) Morse of Excelsior Springs and Angus McSween, manager of the campaign of Senator Johnson, designed to swing the Missouri delegation in the Republican national convention to Johnson if Gov. Lowden fails to develop strength in the early balloting, were under way today, Morse and McSween having several conferences, the first at breakfast at the Congress Hotel, which also was participated in by Jake Hamman, newly-elected national committeeman from Oklahoma, who is with Morse for Lowden if he can be nominated.

Through the development of some Knox strength in Missouri, the first tendency toward a second choice was Knox, but this came to rather a quick stop, following the meeting of the Pennsylvania delegation in Pittsburg Wednesday, when a decision to stand with Gov. Sproul of Pennsylvania for the nomination for President was reached.

Confirmation today of reports that Senator Penrose, Knox's chief backer, would not attend the convention, and that Penrose, because of ill health, probably would be unable to take a leading part in politics for a long time, if ever again, served to weaken the support from Missouri which Knox would have had if Penrose had been able to attend the convention.

Negotiations Are Denied.

Although Morse and McSween denied, in speaking for publication, that there was anything in the nature of negotiations on for the Missouri delegation, McSween said Johnson would be glad to have Missouri votes, and that he believed the Missouri delegation would be for Johnson when it broke away from Lowden, as he confidently said he expected it would.

Morse insisted that he had no second choice, that he would stand with Lowden, and that he had no fear that any appreciable number of Missouri delegates would abandon the candidacy of the Illinois Governor. In fact, it will not be surprising if Morse does control a few delegates for Lowden, even if it appears in the balloting that Lowden cannot win. Four years ago Morse held two delegates for Senator Weeks on the last ballot, even after it became certain that Weeks would lose.

All of which is a part of playing the game, and of maintaining a reputation for sticking to an agreement.

There is not a sufficient number of Missouri delegates in Chicago, only four or five, to reach any conclusion as to how much of the delegation Morse and the organization could control for Johnson if the organization should definitely decide to go to him.

Delegates May Not Stick.

Although most of the delegates were chosen as dependable organization men, that is, dependable from the standpoint of the organization, there already have been some losses and there is no certainty in the minds of the organization leaders as to just how many of the delegates can be relied upon to follow where they lead.

It is understood that Morse will cause to be brought up at the meeting of the delegation in Chicago Monday the question of a second choice and that an effort will be made to obtain an agreement of the delegates that they will stand together after they have voted on the first two or three ballots.

Morse and other party leaders from Missouri are prepared to explain at the conference of the delegation that they cannot hope to accomplish anything for Missouri, by which, of course, they mean for the organization, if the delegates will not vote together.

Value of Unit Vote.

It already has been drilled into the minds of the delegates that if Missouri can have a delegation acting as one whole of 36 votes, it can wield a power in the convention which will force candidates to recognize the State by promising at least one Cabinet position and a liberal supply of jobs. If the delegation should agree to vote as a unit after the first few ballots, the State leaders then would be in a position to trade with any candidate who obtained strength which would make him a serious contender, and if at any time a candidate could be nominated by 36 votes, the leaders feel, they could demand almost anything and get it.

This is a part of the politics of the national convention. It is through such agreement that party leaders retain their influence in national politics, and make themselves the individuals who must be dealt with by candiates in advance of conventions.

Johnson and McAdoo Leading Candidates in 'Book' of Wagers

NEW YORK, June 5.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

THE Republican candidates in the Chicago convention, which opens Monday, have gone to the post with Johnson an even money favorite and Wood leading Lowden a bare fraction.

One broker quotes the following odds:

Republican — Johnson, even; Wood, 7 to 5; Lowden, 8 to 5; Hoover, 4 to 1; Harding, 8 to 1; Butler, 10 to 1; Hughes, 5 to 1; Knox, 10 to 1; Coolidge, 8 to 1; Allen, 6 to 1; Davis, 7 to 1.

Democratic—Edwards, 6 to 5; McAdoo, even; Cox, 2 to 1; Clark, 4 to 1; Wilson, 20 to 1; Bryan, 20 to 1; Marshall, 10 to 1.

This being the era of big profits, the maker of the "book" does not leave much to chance. The Republican book at post odds shows a profit of something over 132 per cent on all money handled, the Democratic "book" a winning percentage of 90. This means that with all candidates played so the book would stand to pay out the same amount on each for every $100 thus paid out the "book" would win $132 on the Republican slate and $90 on the Democratic slate.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE TURNING FROM LOWDEN; JOHNSON GAINING

his post at Fort Sheridan, but Senator Johnson said yesterday that he will make no pretext of going away, but will be here on the job "every hour and every minute."

Johnson's Chance to Gain.

The political scenery exposed to the view of the incoming delegate is such as to improve Johnson's chances. The delegate sees the dollar stripe on Lowden; he sees unrest and disintegration in the Wood camp. Where shall he turn? To Harding? Harding does not appeal. One rarely hears his name mentioned except in the Harding headquarters. Outside in the lobbies it is whispered that Harding is really not running for the presidency, but for the vice presidency, or a Cabinet job. That may or may not be true—one can hear anything in the lobbies—but it is indicative of the general attitude towards the candidacy of the Ohio Senator.

There are left then for the consideration of the open-minded delegates, Poindexter, Hoover, Butler and Johnson. Neither Poindexter nor Butler is seriously regarded. Hoover's name is almost never heard. But all over the place the delegate hears about Johnson, and at the Johnson headquarters he sees swarms of people, and feels a certain "pep"—Johnson's own word for it—in the air. It is quite conceivable that the delegate is impressed and begins to think that Hiram, after all, is the man for the party to win with.

Reference has been made to the disintegration in the Wood camp. Evidence of that condition was furnished when the statement by Senator Moses, attacking the National Committee, was repudiated by Wood himself.

A Fight on Hitchcock.

Moses, it appears, had taken up the cudgels for Hitchcock, who has stood daily in the anteroom of the Coliseum and seen his Southern delegates ousted in favor of Lowden men. The National Committee, dominated by Hays, was and is after Hitchcock's scalp. Moses, from the Wood headquarters, let out a yelp, and Wood declined to back it up. It looked to wise ones as if the New Hampshire Senator had seen the beginning of the end of the Wood movement.

The last paragraph of the Moses statement attracted particular attention. In it he declared that the action of the National Committee was making inevitable, a coalition of the Wood and Johnson forces against Lowden. The day before he made the statement, it was recalled, he had a long conference with Johnson.

Wheels within wheels!

Then there are the dark horses—Sproul, Allen, Coolidge, Hughes—you can find at least one wiseacre to pick any one of these and several others. A veteran political writer, after casting about for information, said that it would be Sproul, but added that the prediction of the rankest amateur in politics was as good as that of the oldest-timer. There isn't any "inside" information, for the simple reason there is no "inside" to get it from. The announcement that Senator Penrose would not be able to come to Chicago, destroyed the last hope that some leader would appear to whom bewildered delegates could turn for instruction—some leader, perhaps, who could make them his own and dictate the nomination.

There's still another possibility. Will Hays, himself. A thin little bird-voice whispers it about that Hays is the man. And the friends of Hays lament that he is not a little taller, while recalling for their comfort that Napoleon was short.

Hays Is Suggested.

The window-dressing at the Wood headquarters is the best. The General has taken a whole ballroom of the Congress Hotel, and had it partitioned off, down the sides, into offices for his lieutenants. He himself at the far end, receives the delegates and reporters and tells them that he is quite satisfied with the outlook. The general effect of the room, with the offices along the side and a parade ground in the center, is that of a country fair. Women present visitors with feathers and various colors, labeled "Wood," to stick in their hats.

Samuel Adams of Chicago, editor of a horticultural paper, who is running for Vice President, has a popular booth in the same hotel. One may get an apple there and a circular with the pictures of Adams and his ancestors, Charles Francis Adams, John Quincy Adams and the rest. It is mentioned as one of Adams' claims to consideration that he was married in the South.

The Poindexter posters have blossomed out in large numbers since the Washington Senator's arrival. He is, it is stated, "the man who is like Lincoln."

To Nominate Hoover.

As a bit of definite news, one learns at the Hoover headquarters that Hoover will be placed in nomination by Nathan L. Miller, ex-Judge of the Court of Appeals of the Northern District of New York. He is from Syracuse, and is said to be the boss of Republican up-State New York.

The Lowden and Harding headquarters offer nothing distinctive. Let us pass to those of Johnson. The Senator is receiving the press.

"Things are moving gayly along," he says. "I grow happier with the passing hours."

Asked if he will accept the nomination if the platform approves the League covenant with the Lodge reservations, he says he is not crossing any bridges till he gets to them, and adds the prophecy that the platform will be entirely what it should be in respect to the League of Nations.

Parenthetically, it may be added that Will Hays said today there would be no row over any plank in the platform, with the possible exception of the League plank.

Johnson's Ready Wit.

Getting back to Johnson:

"Have you anything to say, Senator," asked a reporter, "about the reported resignation of the paid Lowden delegates?"

"Do you mean to tell me," asked Johnson, "that the whole 126 have resigned?"

Thus the verbal battle goes gayly on, while the delegates mill about the lobbies.

4 1-2 Cornered Fight for G.O.P. Nomination Foreseen

Shortage of White Paper Will Be Aggravated by Demand for Prescriptions for Visiting Firemen.

This is the first of the articles on the Republican convention in Chicago by Ring W. Lardner—"You Know Me, Al"—who will attend the G. O. P. gathering and give his impressions of the convention day by day exclusively, in St. Louis, for the readers of the Post-Dispatch.

By RING W. LARDNER.

RING W. LARDNER

CHICAGO, June 5.

Well, friends, here we are back in old Chi and in a couple more days the fireworks starts out to the old Coliseum, and by next Thursday night I expect to walk out of the convention hall with the highest honors that a man can get in the old U. S. A. next to three-cushion billiard champion. If the writer is not nominated it means that something is rotten in the State of Illinois as I spent most of the last yrs. of my life there and never exchanged a cross word though a great many big rough necks tried to pick a quarrel with me but I pretended like I didn't hear them. Live and let live is my slocum.

But before we get down, or up, to politics several of my admirers has asked me to prophesy in regards to the convention on acct. of me picking Willard to win last 4 of July and the White Sox the same in Oct. Well, friends, if they's one thing I know more about than athaletics it is politics, and I will venture to predict what will happen here in Chi every day beginning Monday. On Monday they will be a run on the drug stores and an increase in the shortage of white paper on acct. of prescriptions for the visiting firemens.

Tuesday a. m., about 11 bells, the convention will be open by a prayer and heaven knows it will need it and the longer the better. About 1 o'clock the Committee on Credentials will go out to the nearest drug store for reinforcements and when they come back the key note speech will be delivered by Mr. Lodge, our only English speaking Sen. This will be unintelligible to the visiting delegates and give them a chance to catch up in their sleep.

How States Will Nominate.

Wednesday a. m. bright and early along about noon, the boys will start the nominating speeches. This is always done in alphabet order according to States and I expect Alabama to present the name of Wm. H. Taft or Gov. Coolidge of Mass. Either one of them hasn't got a chance.

Next in line comes South Dakota which will nominate who ever's name they can still remember by that time. This will last till about 11 o'clock Wednesday night and that brings us to Thursday which will be the big day and I wouldn't be surprised if it ended up in a landslide for the writer and maybe smother me. But the way I figure the dope for Thursday is like the following:

Somebody from Ohio will get up and present the name of Sen. Harding in a few well chosen sentences that end up with adverbs, and a lady in the upper deck will begin to scream and try and landslide the convention in favor of Sen. Harding. When that's over the fight will develop into a 4½ corner battle between Wood and Hoover and Johnson and Lowden and myself. Here is where I have got the edge gents, because if I see I am being double crossed I will quit the convention and the G. O. P. and nobody will yelp where as if any of my rivals walked out they would be a big holler from the old guards and tackles.

About Thursday evening at 7 bells wile everybody has gone to sleep or out to lunch at a drug store I will be placed in nomination by one of my relatives witch the committee on credentials has overlooked and I wouldn't be surprised if maybe the convention would stampede and probably crush me.

Now several of my admires has also asked me to state in print my qualifications for this high office in comparison to my rivals. Well in the 1st. place what other candidate has got a place to sleep outside the Coliseum except myself and Gov. Lowden? Personly I have got relatives that have taken me in and the Gov. is connected with the Pullmans so as he can go down to almost any R. R. yards and crawl in an upper. But where is Hoover and Johnson and Wood going to sleep outside of the convention? About all that's left is a flop house where you can go for 10 cts. and undress by takeing off your shoes and then you half to stay awake the rest of the night to see that nobody cops them.

Now leave us take myself and rivals man for man. In the 1st. place I and Leonard. Where did he spend the war? In Kansas. Where did I spend the war? In this little old Chi, maybe 500 miles closer to the western front.

Next, how about I and Herbert? What was he doing during the war? Feeding Belgiums at our expenses What was I doing dureing the war? Feeding 4 Americans at my own expenses.

Now take myself and Hiram. He lives in the Golden State of California and I live in the gilded State of N. Y. Every time he goes to and from home it costs the Govt. 10 cts. per mile outside of upper berth. I can run down to Washington over night and be there for a ouija board Cabinet seance in the morning and the expenses is about $40.00 exclusive of berth as I usually set up in the smokeing car and get acquainted with the boys.

Take myself and Gov. Lowden. There's no comparison.

All and all, you can bet your life that a dark horse will win this nomination and speaking about a dark horse I was out to the race track at Jamaica about 3 wks. ago and bet on the darkest horse in the race and this horse got tangled up in the barriers at the start of the race and carried them along with him on his hind legs and they was still there when he finished witch was about 2 days later.

DR. BUTLER URGES THAT DELEGATES GO UNINSTRUCTED

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of New York, presidential candidate, who arrived today, issued a statement on presidential primaries and the League of Nations.

"The presidential primary," he said, "is a fraud on the Amercan people. It is participated in by a very small minority of Republicans and by a number of Socialists, Communists and a few Democrats who want to make trouble for us. I am in favor of sending an uninstructed delegation to the convention.

"I will not uphold President Wilson's stand for the League of Nations, but I shall do my utmost to compel the Republicans to uphold the tradition of the party for constructive measures instead of confining itself to mere destructive criticism. The situation demands that we protect ourselves and then go ahead aiding in the reconstruction needed throughout the world."

THREE MEN HOLD UP THREE SALOONS, ESCAPE IN AUTO

Three saloons were held up last night by three men, who escaped after each robbery in an automobile.

At 9 p. m. the robbers entered the saloon of Patrick Cunniff, 5388 Natural Bridge avenue. Two had revolvers and lined the proprietor and four customers against a wall. The third man took $95 from the cash register, $9 from Fred Young, 3414 Arlington avenue, and $2 from Milton Hulen, 3137 Arlington avenue.

At 10:30 p. m. three men, two carrying revolvers, entered the saloon of William Schewe, 3301 North Eleventh street. They took $35 from Schewe and $45 from Thomas Atkins, 3318 North Eleventh street. John Hibbert, 3305 Klein street, made a facetious remark and was hit on the head with a revolver. Nothing was taken from him.

At 12:15 a. m. the police of the Angelica Street District were informed that three men in an automobile had held up the saloon of Ben Heger, 4600 Florissant avenue, and had escaped with more than $500.

G. O. P. COMMITTEE TO RAISE $5,000,000 UNDER HAYS PLAN

Missouri's Quota in "Decentralized Giving" Scheme Is $180,000.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 5.—On top of whatever is raised for the use of State and country organizations, the Republican National Committee expects to collect $5,000,000 for national presidential campaign under the plan of "decentralized giving," worked out by Chairman Will Hays.

Hays today scouted the idea that the National Committee was seeking $500,000 from Missouri. He thought that the State's quota was about $150,000. The guess of the national chairman tallied closely with the figures in Fred W. Upham's "Bible" produced for the inspection of the Post-Dispatch correspondent at the headquarters of the treasurer of the National Committee.

In this little black book are set down the quotas for the states. Missouri's share of the national fund was placed at $180,000. Officials explained that the apportionment had been made not according to the degree of doubtfulness of the states, but on the basis of their industrial, agricultural and banking resources. Hayes likened the method to that followed in Red Cross drives.

The following quotas for various states show how the plan reduces itself to figures: New York, $2,000,000; Illinois, $700,000; Kansas, $60.000; Pennsylvania, $750,000; Iowa, $75,000; Alabama, $25,000; Georgia, $25,000; South Carolina, $10,000; Oregon, $25,000; Idaho, $15,000; Arkansas, $15,000.

"Five million dollars is not a large sum," said Hayes, "when you consider how the cost of everything has gone up. The Democrats expect to spend $10,000,000. Our idea is to get the money in small amounts from all over the United States. We have accepted no contribution of more than $1000, and expect to stick to that policy"

No estimate could be had from Hays or from Col. William Boyce Thompson in charge of the drive for funds, or from the Upham headquarters to the total amount to be spent in the nation or in Missouri.

The procedure in fixing quotas for the country unit was explained thus: The National Committee decides what a State should give to the National fund and passes the word down to the State Committee, the State organization adds the amount that it wants for State campaign purposes and on that basis fixes the quota for the counties, then each county organization adds the bit that it will need locally.

National, State and county organizations are thus cared for in one consolidated drive. The fixing of Missouri's State quota was in the hands of Walter S Dickey of Kansas City. Checks are rolling into the Upham offices here. A lot of them were exhibited to the correspondent. All were for comparatively small amounts, the largest being for $1000 contributed by George W. Niedringhaus of Granite City, toward the Illinois quota. The drive "to make everybody a shareholder in the Republican concern," it was said, had taken a slight slump during the convention period, but would be pushed with new vigor immediately after the nomination.

BOSTON STILL BEHIND ST. LOUIS, CENSUS SHOWS

66 per cent. As Baltimore and Pittsburg have been heard from, Cleveland and Detroit are believed to be the only remaining contenders with St. Louis for fourth place.

London Proper Estimated to Have Population of 4,026,901.

The race for largest city in the world will be undecided until London's official census of 1921 is announced.

Estimates for the metropolitan district of New York, consisting of the city proper and the territory 10 miles from its boundaries, are about 8,200,000. These estimates are computed on the Census Bureau's method of arithmetical progression shown by experience to be nearer in accuracy in the majority of cases than any other formula. The figures for the metropolitan district will not be available until some time later.

London's population, according to the latest available statistics which are estimates for 1917, give the population for Registration London, the London for census purposes, as 4,026,901 and for Greater London, comprising the city and metropolitan police districts and covering a radius of 15 miles from Charing Cross, as 6,276,753.

Many factors have entered into the growth of both New York and London since their last official counts were taken. The war, officials here believe, has had its effect on the growth of both cities. New York is believed to have suffered from the stoppage of the stream of immigration, a large portion of which in previous decades has settled there. War industries are thought to have added to New York's population and also to a greater extent to that of London, where huge war plants were erected by the British Government. London's losses of her men at the front were considerable and these are expected to affect her total population to some extent.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A very heavy earthquake estimated to have been centered 3800 miles from Washington was recorded today on Georgetown University seismographs. The tremors began at 11:41 o'clock last night, reached their maximum intensity at 12:25 o'clock this morning and ceased at 1:30 a. m.

40 IN 'GRADUATE' CLASS AT CHILD WELFARE CLINIC

Diploma Awards to Boys and Girls Watched by Municipal Nurses for Two Years Indicate Health.

TEN CLINICS IN 'COMMENCEMENT'

Room at 2338 South Broadway a Bedlam of Chatter, Infant Laughter and Occasional Crying.

Commencement exercises for 40 boy and girl "graduates" two years old were held yesterday afternoon at the municipal child welfare clinic at 2338 South Broadway. Full 75 "undergraduates," or infants less than 2 years old, looked on, as well as a number of "post-graduates," children of almost school age.

The award of diplomas indicative of a high standard of baby health was the occasion of the graduation. An admiring woman visitor compared the "graduates" with their counterparts in colleges this month. In the case of the little ones, however, she said the A. B. degree signifies "able baby."

Commencement for once was the proper term for a graduation, for the municipal nurses, who conducted the affair, predicted that the clinical care the 40 children had received during the short spans of life they have passed marks the beginning of long, healthy lives.

Monthly, from a short time after birth until their present age, the children had been brought by their mothers to one or another of the 10 child welfare clinics conducted by the city under the guidance of Miss Grace Anderson, superintendent of the Municipal Nurses' Association. The doctors and nurses at each clinic determined the fitness of each child and gave him or her a percentage rating, based on physical condition, his or her feeding and the care shown to have been exercised on the mother's part. The 40 represent those who had percentages above 75, but most of them were in the 90's or upper 80's.

First Combined Graduation.

It was the first combined graduation for the 10 clinical centers, eight of which have been established less than a year. Heretofore individual ceremonies have been held semi-annually. The combined ceremonies will be recurring events.

The "graduates" were seated on their mothers' laps on a tiny stage at the front of the room. Before the stage was a garland-covered rope, the better to set off the heroes and heroines of the day. There was one smiling father on the stage. With him was a curly-headed boy whose smiles and fetching pink suit caused more than one feminine comment of "darling."

The little ones ranged from demure maidens to boys already possessed of the viking spirit. One red-headed lad was the seemingly proud possessor of a large, fresh cut on forehead and nose.

"Sheepskins" Presented.

Mrs. John M. Wulfing, a directress of the association, presented the diplomas. Each clinic center represented had chosen a color the shade of which was used in ribbons on the diplomas and worn by the children. Some of the toddlers curtsied in a fashion as Mrs. Wulfing stopped and bestowed their sheepskins. Others looked a trifle scared, but for the most part they failed to appear moved by the presentation, which was natural considering their age.

Each baby was given a bouquet of sweet peas also. These were the gift of Frederick Roth, husband of another directress.

There were a number of short talks by workers and friends of the clinics. Dr. Gustav Lippmann, medical director of one clinic, was the first to talk. His clinic, the Lillie Busch, had more "graduates" than any other.

A number of others made congratulatory remarks or talked about child welfare, including Miss Anderson, the superintendent, who said that the 10 clinics are now watching over the health of 6000 children from 3 weeks to 5 years of age.

The eight clinics established during the past year were started by the generosity of individual donors. The city later took up the expense of maintenance. The donors are Benjamin Gratz, Mrs. Ames Cushman, Mr. and Mrs. George Warren Brown, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Hill, Benjamin and Marcus Harris, Mrs. J. Louis Swarts, Mrs. Lillie Busch and Mrs. Albert Brueggeman. The clinics are named after the donors or as memorials to relatives. Sewing circles for mothers, pre-natal clinics and Americanization classes are among the activities.

Graduation for 25 negro babies 2 years old will be held June 17 at Zion A. M. E. Church, 613 North Garrison avenue. The negro babies could not be accommodated yesterday for lack of space.

War Hero Dies From Gas.

Irvin Cobb Bets Himself $10,000 Convention Will Shy Away From Dry Issue

By IRVIN S. COBB.

EN ROUTE, Mich., June 5.

IRVIN S. COBB

ON board this train is one of those persons who believes that in six days the Lord created heaven and earth and spent the seventh framing up a bet with Satan on the issue of how long it would be before the Garden of Eden displayed a To Let sign. This person is a typical example of a large and prominent class in our country who think the only proper and suitable answer to any argument is an offer to bet you're right and the other fellow is wrong. He would bet you on anything—on your blood pressure, on your grandmother's maiden name, on whether Cleopatra was as good-looking as Lillian Russell. He would just as leave bet you $10,000 as $10. He told me so himself only a few minutes ago, shortly before we parted.

He first tackled me when we were just the other side of Albany and all the way through to Rochester and points west he was shoving attractive betting propositions at me. If I had covered all of them I estimate that we would now have staked at least $300,000 apiece and I'd be wiring back home for the remaining $295,900 needed in order to cover my bets with cash. I brought a hundred with me.

Influential by the Pound.

I was sitting in the club-car as we neared Albany, trying to think up a suitable beginning for this dispatch when he breezed in from the diner. He was using a private gold toothpick, thus stamping him as a person of undoubted culture, and as though to denote that expense was absolutely no object to him, he had a few morsels of caviar adhering to his mustache. By the pound, he was probably the most influential person on the train. He had three extra chins and a mezzanine; and I judge they must measure him for his waistcoats by the front foot. He sat down alongside of me and said in that informal way which so many of our countrymen while traveling adopt toward persons they never saw before:

"Well, who's going to get the nomination out at Chicago this coming week?"

When a man has authentic information upon a subject which is of interest to the entire country I believe he should divulge it freely for the benefit of the masses generally. So I said:

"Besom will be the nominee."

"Whaddeye mean, Besom," he replied. "Who's this here Besom?"

"Jasper K. Besom," I explained. "The New Broom of the Miami Valley. Motto: 'He'll sweep clean.'"

"Never heard of him," he said. "Anyhow, I don't take no stock in all this dark horse stuff. The way politics is handled nowadays them dark horses all run for Sweeney. I'll lay you even money right now in any amount that it's Wood inside of the four ballots."

I declined. My idea of a sporting venture is to pick a favorite and then wait till the race is over and if my man has won then to spend a pleasant evening figuring how much money I'd have if I had only put up a few ducats on him at the prevalent odds. But this thing of chancing your cash before the returns come in does not appeal to me—there's too great an element of risk in it. I'm adventurous but I'm not foolish with my money.

Gave Up in Despair.

Finally he gave me up in despair and moved off down the car. The last I saw of him—and heard—he was offering to bet a delegate from Ohio $5000 at 5 to 1 that U. S. Grant could have licked Von Hindenburg the best day Von Hindenburg ever saw.

After he had left me I fell to making mind bets with myself. I am still engaged in that pleasant pastime. I have just bet myself half a million dollars that by this time next Tuesday Chicago will be so jammed that the overflow will have to stand out in the lake. Three nights hence the fellow who gets a cot in a hotel hallway will be the lucky one, because he will sleep by himself, whereas nearly all the rest of us will be bunking in with parties unknown and probably will not be on good terms with them, either. Politics certainly does make estranged bedfellows, especially at a national convention. And you must intimately and affectionately have known a man for a great many years before you can lie all night about six inches away from him and he sleeping with his muffler cutout open, and still continue to care for him. In the case of individuals whom you never saw before, it just naturally cannot be done.

I have made another large bet with myself—which I confidently expect to win—that throughout the week, starting Monday, Chicago restaurant prices will reach a pinnacle hitherto unapproached in the annals of civilized mankind. If, in proportion, they are as high this year as they were four years ago in this same town upon a similar occasion, I figure that they will charge about a dollar and a quarter for a lesser amount of scrambled eggs than a careless feeder in the old days would have worn away from the breakfast table on his shirt front.

Considers This Bet Won Now.

When a national convention is coming to town it is customary for all the leading hotel keepers to enter into a solemn compact not to raise the rates and then, immediately after affixing their signatures on the agreement, to start doing so. So I consider this bet as practically the same as won now.

Also I have posted with myself a mental waged that the ovations for each and every favorite son who is nominated will last for a longer period of time than ever they have previously, going upon the basis that they invariably do. Likewise my right-hand trousers pocket has just bet my left-hand trousers pocket $50,000 at odds of 50 to 1 that there will be more self-picked candidates for the vice presidential nomination bobbing up than ever before in the history of our country. The confidence of my right-hand trousers pocket here is inspired by the fact that the census returns for 1920, although as yet incomplete, show generally a large increase in our population.

But here is a bet I am absolutely certain to win myself from myself. Cobb bets Cobb $10,000 that the convention will shy away from the prohibition question. The first Cobb personally is of the opinion that the eighteenth amendment should be enforced on the principle of the selective draft, with exemptions for certain favored classes going upon the theory that intoxicating liquor is a bad thing for some people and a blamed sight too good for some of the others. The second Cobb agrees in the conclusion but is not sure what the Republicans will do.

It isn't in reason and it has no backing of precedent to expect that a national convention will take a chance by committing itself to one side or the other of any new national issue until the leaders find out which way the cat, in their opinion, is liable to jump. See America Thirst is a good enough shibboleth for any professional politician so long as he has a well-stocked cellar of his own. That's what the first Cobb says.

This is as far as I have gone in the matter of bets with myself. I shall leave the matter of picking the winners to the professional forecasters, and then I carefully shall copper all their selections because it has been my observation that next to being a forecaster the most consistent thing a political prophet does is being wrong.

By all accounts there is going to be quite a crowd of onlookers in Chicago. I heard somewhere the other day that 150,000 applications had already been made for the 8000 or 10,000 gallery seats, and I am sure the figures could not have been overdrawn because from the condition of my car and the adjacent cars I gather at least 75,000 convention visitors are aboard this train. In every Pullman tonight we shall be sleeping two deep and in some cases two abreast. Apparently nearly everybody of consequence, either nationally or to themselves, is headed for the convention. Owing to an unfortunate series of circumstances Mr. Nickey Arnstein of New York will be detained at his present residence, but I should not be surprised to find that other and equally well-known world-traveler, Mr. G. Cleveland Bergdoll of Philadelphia, circulating freely among the throng.

'AD' MEN TO DEPART TODAY FOR INDIANAPOLIS MEETING

Special Train Also Will Carry Missourians and Arkansans—Breakfast at St. Louis Club.

A party of 110 persons, consisting of the members of the Advertising Club of St. Louis and their wives, and members of the Women's Advertising Club, will depart at 8 o'clock this morning for Indianapolis to attend the conveiton of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. The convention begins with an inspiration meeting this afternoon and will continue through Thursday.

The St. Louisans and delegates from Kansas City, St. Joseph and Joplin, Mo., Pine Bluff, Ark., Tulsa, Ok., and Columbus, Ga., will travel on a special train on the Big Four. The visitors will be the guests of the St. Louis Club at breakfast on the special train.

The St. Louis club has indorsed John Ring Jr. for re-election as vice-president of the fifth district and Miss Mary Wheat, president of the Women's Club, is being supported for president of the women's conference. Marvin E. Holderness, president of the men's club, will be in the party and Mayor Kiel also will attend.

11 MEN CAPTURED IN RAID ON CLUBROOMS ARE RELEASED

Prisoners Taken After Police Break Down Three Doors Are Discharged by Court.

Police Judge Ittner yesterday released, for lack of evidence, 11 men whom the police arrested Friday night in a raid on the Fifth Ward Democratic Club, 605½ Chestnut street and charged with gambling. One of the men had $2000 in his pockets, and some of the others had several pairs of dice in their hats when searched.

It was necessary for the police to break down three doors to get in. This took some time, and caused considerable noise. When they finally got in, they found the men peacefully playing pool. They denied they had been gambling. The one with $2000 gave his name as Charles Bennet, a broker, and his address as 20 North Broadway, which is the courthouse.

John Brennan, manager of the club, said it had not been in use for some time, and he supposed the men arrested were members who had retained their keys.

SENATORS URGE ACTION AGAINST PAPER MILLS

Investigating Committee Declares Scarcity Is Due to Illegal Practices.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Holding that scarcity of news print paper which has handicapped newspapers to be "more the result of artificial obstructions than of natural laws," the Senate committee which investigated the paper situation today recommended that the Department of Justice institute proceedings under the Sherman and Clayton acts against paper manufacturers.

Manufacturers were charged with "unjust, illegal and discriminatory" practices. Present prices were held by the committee to be "excessive and unwarranted."

Other recommendations made include:

Establishment of a Federal news print board "to supervise the manufacture and distribution of print paper," should Government efforts to maintain a reasonable price fail.

Amendment of the Lever food control act to penalize profiteering in news print paper.

Tax on Big Papers Favored.

Imposition of an excise tax of ten cents on Supnday newspapers weighing more than 1.28 pounds, a copy, so as to limit such editions to 80 pages until an adequate supply is secured.

Appropriation of $100,000 to experiment with substitutes for wood pulp.

Establishment of 1 cent a pound on sheet print paper to any part of the country when sent by parcel post without increasing the present limit of 70 pounds provided under the postal regulations.

The committee also recommended that consideration be given by the Government to the establishment of a news print paper mill to supply the Government's needs, with any surplus paper to be sold to small consumers.

SUGAR TO BE RATIONED TO THE CONFECTIONERS

NEW YORK, June 5.—A joint distribution committee to ration sugar to confectioners throughout the country will be formed here within two weeks, Armin W. Riley, special assistant to Attorney-General Palmer, announced today.

Characterizing the sugar situation in the United States as more critical than at any time during the war, Riley said an effort would be made to have bakers economize on its use in pastries and to have hotels and restaurants ration sugar to their patrons.

Riley's sttaement concerning creation of a distribution committee was made after a conference here today with a committee of six appointed by the National Confectioners' Association at its recent convention in Minneapolis. The new committee will comprise representatives of sugar brokers, refiners, confectioners and soft drink and ice cream manufacturers, and will operate under the direct supervision of the Government flying squadron of profiteer hunters, Riley said.

Riley declared that if his efforts to enforce the proper distribution of sugar through refiners and brokers failed, he would endeavor to have their licenses revoked. At the conference one of the committeemen alleged that housewives were hoarding sugar, fearing another drastic shortage.

GIRL'S ABDOMEN PIERCED BY SINGLE-TREE IN RUNAWAY CRASH

Helen Hardy, 13 years old, of 1144 North Union boulevard, daughter of William Hardy, an electrical contractor, is at the Baptist Hospital in a critical condition as the result of being impaled on a broken single-tree when a team attached to an ice wagon ran away in an alley in the rear of the 5100 block on Raymond avenue.

The broken end of the single-tree pierced the girl's abdomen and tore away muscles from other parts of the body.

The police reported the driver of the wagon, Thomas Dobrich, 4512 Newberry terrace, employed by the Merchants' Ice and Fuel Co., left the team and wagon standing in the rear of 5120 Raymond avenue, when the child climbed to the seat and picked up the reins. The team ran away, crashing into a telephone pole at the rear of 5177 Raymond avenue. In the collision with the pole the single-tree was broken and the girl thrown from the seat down on the broken end. She was taken in an automobile to the hospital, where doctors said her injuries might prove fatal.

TWO BOYS ON A BICYCLE SERIOUSLY HURT BY AUTO

Path of Car Driven by Woman.

Paul Brumby, 8 years old, son of William V. Brumby, editor of the United Railway Magazine, and Nathan Waters, 8, both of 14 S. Taylor avenue, were seriously injured at noon yesterday when a bicycle on which they were riding was struck and dragged 20 feet by an automobile driven by Mrs. Louise A. Lake, 530 Big Bend road, Webster Groves, at the West Pine and Lindell drives, in Forest Park.

Brumby was seated on the handle bars of the bicycle while Waters was propelling the machine. The latter was taken to Barnes Hospital, suffering from internal injuries and scalp wounds, and Brumby to St. John's Hospital, suffering from cuts and bruises and internal hurts.

Mrs. Lake drove to the Newstead Avenue Police Station, but was not held, as witnesses told the police she attempted to avoid the bicycle when it was ridden directly in the path of her machine.

Hoover to Be Put in Nomination Informally in Case of Deadlock

CHICAGO, June 5.

By the Associated Press.

HOOVER headquarters tonight authorized the announcement that according to present plans a nominating speech for Herbert Hoover would be dispensed with, but that if it were decided to have one made, it would be delivered by Judge Nathan L. Miller of Syracuse, a New York delegate.

The strategy of the Hoover managers, it was said, was to depend on the convention failing to cast a majority for any candidate and to place Hoover in nomination probably without a formal speech, at which they consider to be the proper moment.

Miller is former Judge of the Court of Appeals of New York. He lives in Syracuse and is closely affiliated with leading business interests of the greater city.

National Committee," said Weeke. "It has to be done for the good of the party."

John Schmoll said that he was not prepared to make a statement regarding his attitude toward the recipients of Lowden campaign funds.

There was considerable speculation as to who would succeed Babler in the event he is ousted from the National Committee. The names of Henry S. Caulfield, Spencer's campaign manager; Edmond Koeln and Thomas K. Niedringhaus were frequently mentioned.

Rodenberg Also Here.

Congressman W. A. Rodenberg of East St. Louis, who is to place Lowden in nomination, was at the Planters last night. He said that his presence there had nothing to do with the discussion of delegates. He said that he believed that Lowden has the best chance of any of the candidates who have been prominently mentioned. If Lowden is not nominated, Rodenberg said, a "dark horse" will be named.

Ing's attitude was taken by Republican leaders here to mean that the Missouri delegation is sure to go into the campaign disclosures, for they believe that Ing is so firm in his opinions that no pressure upon him would serve to change his determination to give the situation a thorough "airing."

City Collector Edmond Koeln of St. Louis, after an hour's conference yesterday at the Planters Hotel with Hyde and Foristel, announced that he would not support any candidate in the primaries who to the slightest extent was involved in the distribution of presidential campaign money. He said also that he would be for no one who received any Lowden money.

Further Breaks Probable.

Koeln's decision, it is believed, will lead to further breaks in the solidity of the local Republican machine. Koeln and Mayor Kiel have been supporting E. E. E. McJimsey, while Foristel is for Hyde. Koeln split with John Schmoll, chairman of the Republican City Committee, and a Kiel ally, over Schmoll's candidacy for the Republican nomination for sheriff, Koeln supporting City Marshal Charles E. Mohrstadt.

The Missouri delegates and numerous Republican politicians from out in the state, who began arriving in St. Louis yesterday, will depart for Chicago tongiht. More than 170 reservations have been made on a special train, arranged for the state party, which will start from Union Station over the Wabash at 11:37 p. m. About 40 St. Louis Republicans have arranged for three special Pullmans on the Chicago and Alton passenger train departing at 11:30 p. m. Both trains will reach Chicago at 8 a. m. tomorrow. The Missourians will make headquarters at the Morrison Hotel.

Statement by Wood League.

The officers of the Leonard Wood Republican League of St. Louis last night issued a statement saying that the "situation in the Missouri delegation to the Republican National Convention is nauseating to every honest man.

"The men who perpetrated this sorry scandal, and those delegates who are free from the taint of it, owe it to the people of Missouri, and particularly to Republicans whom they have grossly misrepresented, to repent and make amends in the only way possible—by casting their votes for Gen. Wood, who they admit to have been the choice of Missouri Republicans prior to the distribution among certain Republican leaders of a $38,000 slush fund."

Auditor Hackmann Says Cole and Babler Should Resign.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 5.—George Hackmann, Republican, State Auditor and candidate for re-election, has joined other leaders in demanding that Chairman Cole of the Republican State Committee and National Committeeman Babler resign. Hackmann believes that the candidacy of W. W. Phillips, his only opponent for the nomination, was inspired by Cole and Babler. He learned from the State Department that Phillips' declaration of candidacy was forwarded here by Cole, enclosed in official stationery of the State Committee.

Confectioners' Excursion Thursday.

The annual river excursion of the St. Louis Jobbing Confectioners' Association will be Thursday, on the St. Paul. Approximately 18,000 pounds of candy will be given away at the affair, according to William E. Krueger, president of the association. The candy, Krueger explained, has been donated by manufacturers.

ROBBERS SHOOT YOUTH OUTSIDE BEVO MILL

Excitement Among Dancers When Victim Tries to Pull Highwaymen Off a Car.

An exciting encounter took place in front of Bevo Mill, Gravois and Morganford roads, at 11:30 o'clock last night, when a victim of two highwaymen pulled the robbers from a street car, and was shot by one of them. A man from the restaurant fired six shots at the highwaymen, but they escaped.

More than 300 persons were in the restaurant and in the garden, and the shooting caused a disturbance among them. Others who were departing and arriving dodged behind automobiles and telephone poles while the shooting was going on.

Clarence Metter, 20 years old, son of a soda manufacturer of 4111 Chippewa street, was held up at Gravois road and Taft avenue, several blocks north of the Mill, and robbed of $3.35. Without waiting to unscrew a diamond stud, valued at $50, from his shirt, they ripped the shirt off, taking the stud. Then they proceeded leisurely in the direction of the Mill. Metter followed some distance behind.

At the butcher shop of Frank Weiss, on Gravois, he appealed for help, and Weiss and a helper got into their delivery truck with Metter, and followed the robbers. They overtook them directly in front of the Mill, as the men were boarding a southbound Cherokee car. Metter jumped out and pulled the highwaymen off the car. One of them fired two shots, one of which struck Metter in the right ankle.

A man leaving the restaurant took a revolver from his automobile, and fired six shots at the robbers as they ran east, but apparently missed them. Most of the people outside the restaurant ran inside, and a good many of those inside ran out.

A physician examined Metter and found that he was not seriously hurt. He was taken home. In 10 minutes the dance floors at the Mill were filled again.

Shortly afterward, William Klines, 19 years old, appealed to passing automobilist in that neighborhood to take him to a hospital, declaring that he had been shot. At the city hospital, he was found to be suffering from a bullet wound in the left thigh.

He told the police he had been to Forest Park Highlands, and had gone for a car ride before returning to his home at 2104 South Eleventh street, and had got off in that neighborhood. His story was somewhat confused. Klines was held for investigation.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS PLANK CHIEF WORRY TO THE REPUBLICANS

ers, rhymesters, glad-handers, social service workers and any number of persons who might be found desirable under Noah Webster's definition of factotum extraordinary.

Free Autos and Advice.

A presidential candidate at this convention comes equipped with a service station. If Mr. Delegate can't make a good job on his butterfly bow, a pretty lady will deftly help him out and probably vamp him a bit in the operation, finishing up by putting a "somebody for President" button on his coat lapel. The service department will help Mrs. Delegate find a good room, or pick out a new hat—it will do anything but give the real low down on who's going to be nominated.

In these days when everybody has something to say about the high cost of living an observer at a convention is constrained to ruminations on the high cost of being pleasant to delegates. There are free automobiles for everybody, free advice, free information, free helps, there would probably be free drinks if Congress and the eighteenth amendment had not intervened and the candor and honesty which should characterize the efforts of a reporter forbid that this dispatch should give an impression that there are not some of these. About once an hour a shower of canned interviews and statements come out of the headquarters of every candidate, and if there is a paper shortage it doesn't exist in the convention arena.

But the candidates themselves relieve the press agents by meeting the assembled newspaper correspondents twice a day, answering questions and making statements first hand.

Senator Johnson announced that he had no intention of leaving Chicago during the convention.

Johnson Growing Happier.

"I will be on hand every minute of the time, and I hope to make my presence felt," he said. "I am growing happier and more hopeful with the passing of the hours."

When asked concerning his idea of the length of the convention Johnson said:

"I can see no obstacle that would prevent the finish by Saturday night. The only fight that I can anticipate is on the platform and the only plank in the platform that there probably will be a fight on is that concerning the attitude of the convention on the League of Nations. I do not anticipate that will last long."

When asked if he would accept the nomination with a platform indorsing the League of Nations covenant with reservations, Johnson said; "I will cross that bridge when I come to it."

It was explained to the Senator that during his morning conference he was understood to have said that he would accept the nomination on a platform containing the indorsement of the League of Nations covenant, but with the Lodge reservations attached. His answer was:

"I will cross that bridge when I come to it."

Wood "Thoroughly Satisfied."

Gen. Wood expressed himself as being thoroughly satisfied with the situation.

"I am thoroughly satisfied," said the General. "We have a hard working, harmonious staff, and reports are good. I will stay here until Monday night, and then retire to a near but invisible spot.

"I have nothing to complain of at the present time."

Candidates "Pussyfooting" on Prohibition, Hinshaw Says.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Reporting on his inquiry among Republican presidential candidates, Virgil G. Hinshaw, Chairman of the Prohibition party, said tonight that most of them were "pussyfooting" on the prohibition issue. Gov Lowden has come the nearest to making a statement of real meaning of any candidate, he said.

Hinshaw's statement was made after visits to presidential row. He reported that Gen. Wood told him he was waiting for the Platform Committee to act. Hinshaw made several calls at the Johnson headquarters without result, he said.

"There seems to be few outstanding leaders with reference to the mightiest moral victory won in the ages who are in line for presidential honors," his statement said. "We are hoping that before the Republican convention proceeds far it will forget the indefinite ones and seize upon someone who is hopeful for the success of the national prohibition amendment."

BODY OF MAN DROWNED IN MERAMEC SUNDAY RECOVERED

Found Floating Near Lemay Ferry Road Bridge and Towed to Clubhouse by W. C. Weaver.

The body of Leo A. Hillner, 24 years old, of 5963 Romaine place, assistant sales manager for the Corno Mills Co., who was drowned in the Meramec River, about a mile west of Valley Park, last Sunday, was found yesterday afternoon floating at a point where the Lemay Ferry road bridge crosses the river south of St. Louis.

William C. Weaver, 1215 Mississippi avenue, was in a launch with his wife and daughter when he saw the body, clad in a bathing suit. He towed it to a nearby clubhouse and notified Coroner Denny of St. Louis County. Weaver will receive a $100 reward which was offered for the recovery of the body.

Hillner's mother, Mrs. Philomena Hillner; three brothers and a sister survive. Hillner was a Corporal in the Ordnance Department for 14 months during the war. He served seven months overseas.

Century Boat Club Decides to Entertain Army Patients June 19.

Instead of the automobile reliability tour given annually by the Century Boat Club, it will give an outing tour this year on June 19 for wounded service men at the army hospital, 5800 Arsenal street.

All the men who are able, and 50 accompanying nurses, will be taken to Fort Bellefontaine. The machines will leave the hospital at 2 p. m. and return at 7.

SUITOR, 63, SHOOTS WIDOW, THEN HIMSELF

Woman Says She Refused His Attentions When She Learned He Was Married.

After shooting Mrs. Nora Bishop, 46 years old, of 1216A Tiffany avenue, a widow, in the breast last night because she refused to permit him to court her any longer, Benjamin Ames, 63 years old, a teamster living with his wife and two children at 821 Chambers street, tried to end his own life.

He fired two shots at his head but inflicted only flesh wounds below and under his right eye. He told the police that his poor marksmanship was due to nervousness brought on by the fear that he had killed Mrs. Bishop. She was taken to the city hospital in a serious condition.

Mrs. Bishop told the police that Ames had been courting her for 11 years and that recently when she discovered that he was married she told him that she wanted nothing more to do with him.

At 9:30 o'clock last night, she said, when she was returning from a visit to her daughter, Miss Daisy Bishop, of 1306 Sarsfield place, Ames stepped from an alley near her home and said he wanted to speak to her. When she declined, she said, he followed her and as she was about to enter her home he drew a revolver and fired two shots at her.

Ames then ran into the alley and neighbors heard two more shots. A private watchman found a revolver with four empty shells in it in the alley. A policeman was sent to Ames' home and when Ames appeared there an hour after the shooting he was arrested.

He admitted having shot Mrs. Bishop, and said he did it because she had jilted him for another man. His intention, he said, was to kill her and himself.

Mrs. Bishop's son, Charles Bishop, residing at the Sarsfield place address, is in the city jail awaiting trial on three charges of highway robbery.

TRUNKMAKERS' STRIKE ENDS AFTER 8 WEEKS

Employes Get Wage Increase and Shorter Week, But Accept Open-Shop Policy.

The strike of trunk-makers and other leather workers in the seven trunk factories of the city, which began April 10, ended yesterday, having lasted exactly eight weeks. The strike was called by Local No. 66 of the Leather Workers' International, in an effort to do away with alleged discrimination against union members.

In a proposed agreement the union offered a clause stating: "There shall be no discrimination, but all workers shall be treated alike." The manufacturers changed this to involve the question of unionism. Settlement was reached by eliminating this clause. It is understood that an open-shop policy will be followed without objection, but union leaders point out that there are no skilled leather workers here who are not unionized.

It was also agreed that the workers will receive a flat increase of 15 per cent in wages and a reduction of the working week from 50 to 48 hours, with continued Saturday half-holiday. This had previously been agreed to.

STRONG WATERWAY PLANK LIKELY IN G. O. P. PLATFORM

Recommendations of Sub-Committee to Claim Credit for Starting Development in 1907.

SHIPPING HELD TO DEMAND RIVERS' USE

Building Up of Inland Transportation System Declared to Be Essentially Republican Policy.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 5.—If the findings of the advisory committee on policies and platform are accepted, the Republican national platform this year will carry a strong declaration in favor of development and greater use of the inland waterways.

The report of the advisory committee, it was learned by the Post-Dispatch correspondent today, will contain a section declaring that the railroads are unable to meet the transportation needs of the country, pointing out the benefits to be derived from utilization of the canals and rivers of the country, and giving credit to the Republican party for starting "the planned and orderly development of our waterways." The section on waterways was prepared by a subcommittee headed by Gifford Pinchot and Daniel C. Jackling. With the recommendations of the other subcommittees, it will be laid before the Resolutions Committee of the convention as a guide in the building of the platform. The full advisory committee was composed of 173 members, who were divided into subcommittees, and gathered data on 19 subjects by holding hearings and sending out thousands of questionnaires. Ogden L. Mills of New York was chairman.

Report for Waterways.

Concerning waterways, the report to be handed the platform makers will read as follows:

"Our transportation needs have grown beyond the capacity of our railroads alone to supply. Because of this fact and out of the emphasis placed by the Roosevelt administration on a comprehensive waterway program, has grown the demand for a national policy looking towards the develpment of our waterways.

"We have a finer system of natural waterways than any other continent. Our inland waterways—rivers, canals, lakes and protected coastwise channels—have a combined length of about 60,000 miles. Only half of this mileage is used at all for navigation. Waterways are neither constructed nor used in this country as freely as they are in Europe. Most of the early canals were abandoned because our transportation needs of the last half of the twentieth century did not reasonably occupy both railroads and canals. Now, however, the magnitude of our inland shipping would amply support both. It was found in France and Germany that water transportation improvement, instead of destroying or injuring parallel railroads, made them more prosperous.

"The waterways carried the heavy slow freight, and the railroads were devoted to an increasing carriage of higher class, better paying commodities.

"When the channel of the River Elbe was improved, about 1890, the freight carried by water increased five times in 15 years, and the business of competing railways increased 11 times. When the River Main was improved, in 1886, its traffic increased over 100 per cent in two years and that of parallel railroads increased 94 per cent.

Benefits From Development.

"Beginning with 1887, France made a large development of her rivers and canals. The northern railway of France in direct competition with 43 per cent of all these inland waterways, was the only French railroad that did not need to ask for Government aid during the next 20 years. Until the war, each year saw new growth of water transportation in Europe.

"The channel of the Monongahela River for 131 miles above Pittsburg has been improved as a waterway and carries millions of tons of heavy freight annually. Nevertheless, two prosperous railroads follow the two banks of this much used waterway, and the resulting industrial development along the river is remarkable.

"Experts believe that it would pay the nation to spend the amount necessary to improve thoroughly the beds of our principal rivers, connect them up by means of high capacity canals, and complete inland waterways capable of carrying ocean-going vessels along the Atlantic Seaboard from Maine to the Gulf of Mexico and from Chicago, Kansas City and Pittsburg to the Gulf.

"The planned and orderly development of our waterways, when it comes, will owe its origin to the appointment of the Inland Waterways Commission by a Republican President in 1907. Under the next Republican administration it was followed by the National Waterways Commission, whose findings in general were the same.

Claims for Republicans.

"One of the more important findings of the Inland Waterways Commission was: 'We recommend that hereafter plans for the improvement of navigation in inland waterways, or for any use of these waterways in connection with interstate commerce, shall take account of the purification of the waters, the development of power, the control of floods, the reclamation of lands by irrigation and drainage and all other uses of the waters or benefits to be derived from their control.'

"A Republican administration achieved the Panama Canal. A Republican administration undertook the reclamation of the arid lands of the West.

"A Republican administration, that of President Roosevelt, first made the development of the Mississippi River and its great tributaries a vital national question. Two Republican Presidents, Roosevelt and Taft, traveled down the Mississippi for the purpose of bringing the whole problem of inland waterway development to public attention. A Republican President said: 'One of the greatest of our conservation problems is the wise and prompt development and use of the waterways of the nation.'

"The development of inland transportation by water, under a broad and comprehensive plan, which shall include all the uses of the waters and benefits to be derived from their control, is a policy essentially Republican."

COUNTY TO ASK FOR BIDS ON REPAIRS TO ROADS

Highway Engineer Ordered by County Court to Relocate Fox Creek Road.

The St. Louis County Court has announced that it will advertise for bids for the construction of 1½ miles of telford base and water-bound macadam surfacing on the Reaves Barracks road from the present improvement to the Green Parks road, for 7354 feet on the Mason road south of the Clayton road; for 2833 feet on the Conway road from Denny road to the Watson road; for one-half mile on the Susan road; and for grading, construction and bridges on Page avenue from Spring avenue to the Link road, 3½ miles, at an estimated total cost of $56,700.

The Court gave an order to construct the Rock Hill road from the Big Bend to the Watson at a cost of $10,356, provided the petitioners fulfilled their agreement with the Court and paid in to the county treasurer $1706 as their share of the cost.

The Court also ordered the highway engineer to re-locate the Fox Creek road in the western part of the county. This road, sought out because of the scenic beauty through which it passes, has for years been the bane of automobilists. When relocated it will offer a water level route from the Manchester road to Eureka, Allenton, Pacific and points west.

CANDIDATES FOR JUDGE OF ST. LOUIS COURT OF APPEALS

A list of candidates for the August primaries given out as complete by the Secretary of State's office in Jefferson City yesterday omitted the candidates for Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals.

The candidates on the Republican ticket are Judge George D. Reynolds, incumbent, and Charles H. Daues, City Counsellor. The Democratic candidates are Hickman P. Rodgers and Lew R. Thomason. All reside in St. Louis.

ERNHARDT TO ADDRESS WOMEN

C. S. Ernhardt will address the Women's Advertising Club at the regular meeting tomorrow on "Motion Picture Advertising."

Sixteen members of the club are attending the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World at Indianapolis to campaign for Miss Mary Wheat for the presidency of the Woman's Conference of the A. A. C. of W. Reports from the delegates will be read at the meeting tomorrow.

OVERZEALOUS UNIONISTS FIRED

Two employes of the city hospital were discharged yesterday by Dr. Rolla Henry, manager of that institution, for insubordination, following discovery that they had been threatening new employes who failed to join the Municipal Employes' Union. The men discharged are August Schroer, an elevator operator, and Drew Rurak, an attendant.

Hospital Commissioner Shutt, in announcing the dismissals, said that investigation had been started after it was noticed that new employes were resigning after short periods of service. A watch was set and Schroer and Rurak were seen to approach new employes and ask them to join the union, making threats if they refused. Both men had been in the hospital service for several years.

TWO OF SCHOLARSHIPS IN FAMILIES THIRD TIME

Honors Went to Sister and Father of One Winner and to Two Brothers of Other.

Two of the graduates of the five St. Louis high schools, to whom Washington University scholarships will be awarded at the semi-annual graduation Friday, are each the third in their respective families to win such honor. The scholarships are presented by the corporation of Washington University at every graduation to the student at each of the high schools with the highest general average for the four-year course.

Miss Grace Marie Oberschelp, 16 years old, 726 Eastgate avenue, daughter of Henry H. Oberschelp, an attorney, the winner of the Yeatman School scholarship, is the third in her family to win a scholarship. She completed the four-year course with an average of 95.6 per cent, the highest grade ever made by a student at Yeatman, according to Principal William Butler. Her sister, Miss Vera Oberschelp, made the highest average in her class at Yeatman last January. Their father received a scholarship at Central High School in 1893. The Misses Oberschelp will enter the university next fall, and will specialize in history and romantic languages.

Lawrence Goldman, 17 years old, who will be graduated at Cleveland High School, with an average of 94.5 per cent, is the third son of Louis Goldman, 4317 Eichelberger avenue, to win a Washington University scholarship. His brother, Walter Goldman, completed the course at Yeatman High School when he was 16 years old in 1917 with the highest average in his class, and is at present a junior in the School of Commerce and Finance.

Another brother, Alfred Goldman, received the scholarship at Yeatman in 1913, and will be graduated Thursday from the Washington University School of Medicine. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary fraternity, and two honorary medical societies. Lawrence Goldman will enter the university in the fall, and will take the regular academic course. He took the scientific course at high school.

The others who will receive scholarships are Evelyn Gaylord Webb, Soldan; Joseph J. Senturia, Central, and Robert S. Kann, McKinley. The grades of the honor graduates for this year are exceptionally high, Kann having a four-year average of 94.95 per cent, Miss Webb 94.5 and Senturia 94.3.

Usually more girls than boys receive the Washington University scholarships, but this year three of the five are boys.

Miss Webb is 17 years old and is the daughter of C. S. Webb, 5571 Enright avenue. She will be graduated from the classical course and will take the regular college course at the university. Miss Webb was the president of the Round Table, the girls' literary club, and a member of the Dramatic Guild.

Senturia, who is only 16 years old, is the son of Nathan Senturia, a tailor, 4942 Fountain avenue. He was the president of the literary club at Central and took part in the senior play. He was also a member of the school tennis team. He began his high school course at Soldan, but entered Central after two years.

Kann, 18 years old, is the son of Robert Kann, 3431 Pestalozzi street, president of the Robert Kann Lumber Company. He completed the general course in three and a half years and will enter the university in October, where he will take the requisite course for entrance into the School of Commerce and Finance.

NAFZIGER BIPLANE FORCED TO LAND; TWO OCCUPANTS INJURED

St. Louisan's Machine Descends in Illinois Cornfield When Engine Misses Fire.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DECATUR, Ill., June 5.—J. R. Dow, pilot of the Curtiss biplane owned by Roy Nafziger of St. Louis, was forced to land unexpectedly in a cornfield near here today when his engine missed fire, and he and his passenger, a Decatur business man, were slightly injured. The airplane was badly damaged.

The machine was one of a fleet of six used by Nafziger in Middle Western States for exhibition flights and occasional delivery of his bakery products. The machines were utilized for deliveries especially during the early days of the switchmen's strike. Dow's airplane was booked for Illinois and St. Louis County exhibitions.

MISS MARY M. WOODS..

UNIDENTIFIED MAN FALLS DEAD

Falls Near Broadway and Market Street—Paint on Clothes.

An unidentified man, about 45 years old, and wearing clothes bespattered with paint, fell dead on the sidewalk near Broadway and Market at 2 p. m. yesterday. The body was taken to the Morgue. Police found $7.41 in the man's pockets but no papers that would serve to identify him. An autopsy will be held.

The man wore tan army shoes, a striped shirt and a derby hat. He is described as 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighing 165 pounds, full face, dark brown hair and reddish mustache.

FOUR MARY INSTITUTE CLASS PRIZES WON BY MISS WOODS

Will Begin Studies at Washington University This Fall on Captured Scholarship.

Miss Mary M. Woods of 5470 Clemons avenue, who was graduated from Mary Institute Friday, captured four of the prizes offered in the class. She took the Washington University scholarship awarded to the valedictorian of the class, a cash prize from the College Club, and prizes for good work in English and Latin.

Miss Woods has attended Mary Institute for 11 years, starting there in the primary grade and finishing the course in the regular time. She will begin her studies at Washington University in the fall.

A class of 55 students was graduated Friday. A luncheon followed the commencement exercises and the pupils presented a play in the afternoon.

AGED POLICEMEN TO RECEIVE LARGER RETIRING BENEFITS

Police Relief Association Amendments Also Increase Sickness and Death Payments.

Amendments to the constitution of the Police Relief Association, increasing retiring benefits for 35 and 40 year policemen, increasing death benefits and sick benefits with a corresponding increase in dues and assessments, were adopted at an election in the police department Friday.

The new schedule will increase the benefits of the 35 and 40 year men from $1500 to $2000; will increase the death insurance from $2000 to $3000, the sick benefits from $1.50 to $2.50 a day; advance the dues from $1 to $2 a month and permit an assessment of $3 when necessary.

At a previous election held last month the amendments were voted down. The Board of Police Commissioners advised the second election after explaining to the policemen the advantages to be derived from the amendments.

Cardinals Spot Cubs Six Runs, Then Put on Rally And Win by 11 to 6 Score

Knot-Holers' Fifth Inning Storm Against Martin, Bailey and Hendrix Produces Six Hits, Sacrifice, Walk, an Error and Eight Tallies—Haines Chased in First.

BRANCH Rickey's Cardinals spotted the pennant-seeking Chicago Cubs six runs in the first inning yesterday afternoon and then went out and demonstrated for the edification of 6500 cash customers and 2000 members of the Knot-Hole Gang that a six-run handicap was as nothing in their slugging young lives.

Elwood Good Martin, Abraham Lincoln Bailey, Claude Hendrix, Nick Carter and "Gee" Gaw, men of more or less euphonious cognomens who are allowed to stay at the same hotel with Grover Cleveland Alexander and Jim Vaughn, essayed to hold that six-run lead, but their essaying did not assay very high. Before the last Cardinal had been retired the Rickeymen had collected 13 hits and 11 runs.

Meantime, William Sherdel, who is constructing a niche in the hall of fame as the iron man of the age, relieved Jess Haines in the terrible first inning and thereafter made the Cubs lie down and be dead.

Cardinals Put on Storm.

Memory fails to produce a recollection of a more rampant rally than the Cardinals' fifth inning. Six hits were gathered in the course of the inning and eight Cardinals crossed the home plate. A walk, a sacrifice and an error contributed to the total.

Jess Haines was not right yesterday. He was not hit hard, but he apparently had nothing on the ball and the first four Cubs to face him connected for singles. Flack started by punching one just out of Hornsby's reach. Hollocher poked another dinky one to right field. Barber bunted and was given a hit when Haines, in his haste, stumbled as he fielded it. Jess followed by throwing yards wide to first and Flack and Hollocher scored and Barber went to third. Robertson picked on the first ball and lined to right for a single, scoring Barber. Haines departed and Sherdel took up the burden. And it looked like a considerable burden, mates.

Merkle sacrificed and then Deal got the first real hit of the inning, a smash to the left-center wall for three bases. Terry grounded to Lavan and O'Farrell duplicated Deal's wallop, getting credit for four bases when Smith's return to the infield eluded Hornsby. Martin wound up the frame by striking out.

Heathcote Raps Out Triple.

Clifton Heathcote, the individual swatting hero of the day, who was inserted because McHenry is weak against curve ball pitchers of Martin's ilk, vindicated Rickey's judgment in the first frame by banging a triple along the left field line. He scored on Stock's infield out.

Another run was added in the second when Barber dropped Fournier's liner, giving Jacques two bases. Schultz grounded out, but John Lavan, the master in a pinch, placed a single in short left, scoring Fournier.

Smith opened the third inning with a single to right, went to second on Heathcote's second hit—a single to center—and took third on a wild pitch by Martin. Smith scored on Hornsby's infield out.

But the fifth was the one grand inning. Heathcote started the shindig with his third safety, a single to center. Stock doubled to right, Heathcote stopping at third. Hornsby smashed a liner too hot for Hollocher to handle and Heathcote scored. Fournier singled to left, Stock scoring, Hornsby going to second and Martin to the showers. Bailey, who always takes up what Martin never can finish, went to the hill.

Squeeze Play Goes Through.

Joe Schultz hated to do it, but he sacrificed perfectly. The squeeze play was ordered and for the third time in two days Johnnie Lavan was there with the technique. The doctor bunted to Merkle and Hornsby beat the throw home. Clemons singled to left, scoring Fournier and puting Lavan on third. Bailey gave Sherdel a walk and took one himself, Hendrix mounting the hill, which by this time was warm enough to excuse a printer if he made a typographical error. Smith hit a slow roller to Hendrix and when Claude fumbled, Lavan scored and the bases were still filled.

Heathcote, who had started the juicy rally, put on the finishing touch by clearing the bases with a line double to left center. Cliff tried to make third on the blow and was out, Barber to Hollocher to Deal. Stock ended the slaughter by flying to Barber.

There was the ball game. Sherdel was only in danger once. In the fourth he walked two men after one was down, but he put on the brakes and prevented the Cubs from adding to their six.

Lavan Makes Star Play.

The prettiest play of the game was manipulated by Johnnie Lavan in the fifth inning. With Robertson on first Merkle smashed a hot grounder off Sherdel's bare hand which caromed straight for the second sack. Lavan skirted the bag, took the ball as it hopped over the sack, stepped on second and made a lightning throw from a stoop position, completing the double play at first.

Final With Cubs Today.

This afternoon the Cardinals will conclude their stand at home, meeting the Cubs in the final game of the series. Tyler probably will pitch for the Bruins, while Goodwin or [illegible] will do duty for Rickey. To enable the Cardinals to catch an early train for the East today's contest will be started at 2:30 o'clock. The Knot-Holers will open a four-game series at Brooklyn Tuesday.

MINETREE, W. M. A. STAR, SHUTS OUT BELLEVILLE WITHOUT HITS OR RUNS

Harmon Minetree, star pitcher for the Western Military Academy baseball club of Alton, Ill., reached the climax of a successful three years' scholastic baseball career, yesterday, when he shut out the Belleville high team, 16—0, allowing his opponents neither a hit nor a run, and pitching the entire innings without issuing a base on balls.

His support played errorless ball so that not a man of the opposing team reached first base, only 27 men facing Minitree.

It was Minetree's second no-hit game, he having blanked East St. Louis High in a similar manner last year.

In the three years that he has played with the Western nine, he has won 23 and lost only two games. The teams that defeated him were college nines, not scholastic, Concordia gaining one victory and Washington University the other.

Minitree graduates this year and has already announced his intention of attending Illinois University.

KILLEFER HAS FRACTURED FINGER, X-RAY SHOWS

An X-ray examination of Bill Killefer's right hand yesterday morning disclosed that the Cub catcher suffered a fracture of the index finger when he stopped a foul tip in Friday's game with the Cardinals. The injury is a severe blow to the Cubs, who recently put on a spurt and were crowding the National League leaders.

O'Farrell and Daly will now have to do all the catching. Daly is just recovering from a fractured finger and has been confining his efforts recently to warming up pitchers. Killefer's fracture is a slight one, physicians said, but will keep him out of the game for a week, at least.

73 RUNS ARE SCORED IN FOUR GAMES PLAYED IN MANUFACTURERS LEAGUE

Sluggers in the Manufacturers' League had on their batting clothes yesterday, when a total of 93 hits, an average of a little more than 23 per game, were made. These safeties, coupled with 29 passes and 18 errors, enabled the clubs to score 73 runs, an average of more than nine per team.

The heaviest hitting clash was that between Triple A and McElroy-Sloan, which the former won, 20—11, thereby gaining first place. In this battle there were 33 hits, including five doubles and three triples. The Great Westerns defeated the Dittmans, 12—8, scoring four runs in the ninth. Columbia beat Emerson, 10—2, and the Fultons won from Butler Bros., 6—4.

66 Hitsmiths in Two Majors Have Averages of .300

39 in American Are in Select Circle, While National at Present Owns 27.

Unprecedented hitting is going on at present in both major leagues. Unofficial averages, including games played last Thursday, show there are 66 clouters in the two circuits with .300 averages. Of this total, 39 are in the American and 27 in the National. In the National, three pitchers are at .400 and better. Grimes has .520, Eayrs .500 and Alexander .400. Zachary, a Washington twirler, is swatting .481 in the A. L.

Rogers Hornsby, the Cardinal second sacker, is still the leading walloper in the Heydler circuit with .392, a loss of 14 points during the week. Dave Robertson of the Cubs, who gained 55 points, is second with .370.

In the American League the feature in swatting was the climb of Tris Speaker from eighth place to the top. Last week "Spoke" was hitting .339, while his figure up to last Thursday's games was .389, a gain of 50 percentage points.

George Sisler replaced Bill Jacobson as the Browns' pacemaker with .353. "Baby Doll" was at .338.

The Cardinals .269 are second in team batting in the National, and the Browns with a figure of .282, tied for third in the A. L. Pittsburg, the club low in swatting, owns a .240 average.

TRAFFIC TRUCKS TAKE SIXTH SUCCESSIVE GAME

With the score 24 to 0 in the fifth inning the National Highway team of the Traffic Truck League refused to continue the game and the Traffic Truck team was declared winner at O'Fallon Park, yesterday. This is the sixth consecutive victory for the Traffic Trucks.

The other game of the Traffic League was played at Harlem Park and resulted in a victory for the Good Roads team. The Transportation crew was defeated, 16 to 11. The game was interesting and featured by heavy hitting.

Shocker Allows Three Hits and Browns Win, 6-0

Burkemen Take Second Successive Game From Indians, Pounding Niehaus and Faeth.

CLEVELAND, O., June 5.—Urban Shocker's great pitching and some timely hitting, intermingled with errors by the Indians, enabled the Browns to win their second successive game from the league leaders here today, 6 to 0. The clubs were originally scheduled to play a double bill, but only one was possible because of inclement weather.

So effectively did Shocker twirl, that the Indians obtained only three safeties, scattered over as many frames. Jamieson banged out a single in the first; Johnston got an "ace" in the second and O'Neill doubled in the fifth. That was the total damage the pace-makers, who now are only half a game ahead of the Yankees, could do to Shocker's "spitter."

The shut-out victory for Shocker gives him a record of two consecutive whitewashes, the White Sox having been blanked Memorial day.

Browns Look Like Leaders.

Today the Browns looked like league leaders. They had pitching, batting and played with their heads up all the way. Against this, Speaker's clan played slovenly baseball. The hitting punch, which has been one of the features since the club returned from the East was entirely lacking.

Burke's charges started scoring in the first inning. Tobin opened with a single and went to second on a wild pitch. Gedeon's ace sent Tobin over. Gedeon tried to make the pivot station, but was out. Sisler singled, but Jacobson hit into a double play.

The Browns tallied again in the second and drove Dick Niehaus, the former Cardinal southpaw, to cover. Williams singled and was sacrificed to second by Austin. Gerber tallied Williams with a single. Here Tony Faeth replaced Niehaus and Severeid hit into a double play, ending the inning.

Burkemen Put on Storm.

The Burkemen put on a real storm against Faeth in the sixth. Tobin opened with a triple, his seventh consecutive safety, and walked home on Gedeon's double. Sisler sacrificed and after Jacobson had gone out, Williams walked. On a double steal, Gedeon scored and Williams reached third when O'Neill missed Wamby's return. Austin scored Williams with a single. Austin reached second when Wamby dropped O'Neil's throw to catch him stealing, but Gerber failed.

The Browns' final run came in the eighth, when with two down Williams walked, stole second and third and tallied on Austin's double against the right field wall.

Tobin's hitting streak was stopped by George Uhle in the ninth, when he hoisted a fly to Speaker.

The clubs are scheduled to play a doubleheader tomorrow. Burke intends to use Carl Weilman and Dixie Davis, while Stanley Coveleskie, who has rejoined the Indians after an absence of 10 days, because of the death of his wife, and Ray Caldwell are scheduled to hurl for Speaker.

Lo, the Poor Indian!

AUSTIN, Tex., June 5.—A bill proposing to create an Athletic Commission and legalize boxing contests in Texas was rejected by the Lower House of the Legislature today. The vote was 74 to 23.

Homer by Ruth Once Cost Browns' New Coach His Job as Manager

LEE FOHL, who in Cleveland yesterday was signed by Manager Jimmy Burke of the Browns, as coach of the pitchers, is probably the only manager on record in present day major league baseball, who was knocked out of a job by a Babe Ruth home run.

This happened to Fohl on July 18, 1919, when he was leading the Cleveland Indians and "Babe" was then with the Red Sox.

In the game mentioned, which was played at Cleveland, the Indians went into the ninth inning with a lead of three runs. The Red Sox filled the bases and then Fohl sent the unreliable Fritz Coumbe, southpaw, to the hill to replace a faltering mate. Ruth was the first batter to face Coumbe.

All the "Babe" did was to hammer the ball out of the park and win the contest for Boston, 8 to 7. In the fourth round of the same clash Ruth had batted a homer against Hi Jasper with one on, so in all he was responsible for six of the tallies scored by the Barrow men.

Criticism of Fohl, which followed this tilt, caused Fohl to resign, before the Indians had participated in another contest, and Tris Speaker was named as his successor. Most of the "raps" came because he had sent Coumbe, a weak flinger, to the hill to oppose Ruth.

Before being made manager of the Cleveland club, Fohl acted as scout and coach of the pitchers. He himself is an old mask and pad man, and Manager Burke expects him to bolster up the faltering flinging corps of the Browns. Fohl came to the Indians from the old Eastern League, where he managed the Hartford club with great success. It was there that Fohl brought out Guy Morton, the Indians' right-hander.

Rock Church and Visitation Teams Battle for Title

Championship of Parochial League and Post-Dispatch Trophies at Stake.

The Rock Church and Visitation Teams, survivors in the elimination games of the Parochial School League, will battle for the championship, tomorrow afternoon at Fairground Park, at 4 o'clock. The victors will not only gain the title, but may be given a game with the Public School league race winners, for the junior championship of the city.

The league started the season with 20 teams, in five divisions of four teams each. The Sheridan diamond for boys was used throughout and gave wonderful satisfaction, according to the league promoters. The shorter running and throwing distances were in keeping with the physical powers of these minims.

The champions of the league will receive individual medals and a team trophy, to be presented by the Post-Dispatch.

Rocks Beat Sacred eHart.

The last elimination game was played Friday by the Sacred Heart and the Rock Church teams. The Rock Church proved to be the victor, 5 to 1. The Sacred Hearts had plenty of chances to score, but could not produce the punch with men on base. The Rocks are above the average size of players for this organization and gave a fine exhibition. Murphy of the Sacred Hearts was the only pitcher during the league race to hold the enemy in check, to the extent of five runs.

Kansas Wins From Ames, 5 to 4, And Takes M. V. Title

Lonberg's Scratch Hit Gives Jayhawkers Winning Run In the Ninth Inning.

LAWRENCE, Kan., June 5.—Kansas made it two straight by winning over the Ames Aggies here this afternoon, 5—4. Iowa State had piled up four scores before the Kansas machine got into working order, but they came from behind, scoring three in the eighth and two in the ninth.

The Jayhawkers gave Slawson excellent support in the pinches and the Kansas captain, although wild at times, steadied down and worked hard when it was necessary. Iserberger was the hero from a batting standpoint, clouting out two hits in four times up. However, it remained for "Dutch" Lonberg, Jayhawker third sacker to drive in the winning run with a scratch hit in the ninth.

By winning Kansas took the Valley championship from Washington University.

WEBSTER BEATS GLASGOW IN PUBLIC SCHOOL TILT

Webster defeated Glasgow, 15—14, in the final game played in Group H of the Public School Baseball League at Public School Field yesterday. The winners made 13 hits and the losers nine. Casey, with three safeties, starred for the winners.

Webster used the following players: Casey, Busby, Dugan, Steiner, Taylor, Thurston, Simms, Brackett and Tebbe. Glasgow had Andrews, Duske, Kessler, Verdi, Larken, Londe, Mantler, Gitt and Pollack.

Tremaine to Fight Rosner.

CLEVELAND, O., June 5.—Carl Tremaine, the Cleveland bantamweight, who recently scored victories over Frankie Mason and Pal Moore, will meet Johnny Rosner of New York in a 10-round contest here tomorrow. The match will be staged in League Park, the home of the Cleveland base ball club.

Millers Oppose Maxwells.

Today's schedule in the Missouri-Illinois Trolley League brings the Ben Millers of St. Louis and the Maxwells of Belleville together in the opening contest of a double header at Polo Park in East St. Louis, while the Tri-Cities of East St. Louis and the Wiles-Chipmans meet in the final attraction of the twin bill. The East St. Louis club will meet the Belleville Bs in Belleville, while the Dupo Hustlers travel to Collinsville to clash with the Maroons.

If There's Anything in a Name, Paul Jones Will Make Man O' War Strike His Colors

Manion and Lord Tie With 77 for Low Medal Score

Only Three Players in District Qualifying Round Turn in Cards Under 80.

KENNEY PLAYS FINE GAME

Extra Putts on Four Holes Spoil His Chance for Medal Honors.

James Manion of Midland Valley Country Club, and Roger Lord, the Algonquin Club's golfing ace, set the pace in the qualifying round of the St. Louis Golf Association's annual championship tournament, yesterday afternoon, on the links of the Westwood Country Club at Kirkwood. Each had a card of 77, with Chris Kenney the only other golfer of the 176 entrants able to finish under the 80 mark.

The Sunset Hill reliable turned in a card of 78. But for requiring three putts on no less than four holes, Kenney would have been low medalist. His game was almost faultless, aside from the bad efforts on the green in the instances mentioned.

As compared with the best work in last year's event, the showing of this year's leaders was excellent, considering that Clarence Wolff, district champion, Stuart Stickney, four times district title holder and former Trans-Mississippi champion, Sterling Edmunds and other good players were not competing. In the 1919 tourney six cards were under 80 as compared with three yesterday, while the low qualifying score of Roger Lord last season was 73—four strokes better than that of yesterday's medal play. The 1919 tourney was held later in the year when all the contestants were at their best.

Three 87 Scores Qualify.

The general play of the entrants yesterday was, however, better than that of the previous season, when three cards of 89 were admitted to the qualifying round. Yesterday 11 cards were turned in for a qualifying tie at 87. Three of these were permitted to qualify by drawing from a hat.

The cards of the tied, low-qualifying men were as follows:

Manion.

Out .... 4 4 5 3 6 4 4 4 4—38
In ..... 5 4 6 4 3 6 3 4 4—39—77

Lord.

Out .... 6 4 4 3 6 5 3 5 4—40
In ..... 5 4 5 4 4 4 3 4 4—37—77

Two of the surprises of the tournament were supplied by S. L. Jurden of the St. Louis Country Club, and Lawson Watts of Sunset Hill, who delivered cards of 80. Equally surprising from another viewpoint, was the failure of those veterans of many tournaments, Sidney Overall, L. C. Smith and Louis Rosen, to qualify.

High School Boy Qualifies.

The most commendable performance of the day perhaps was that of the 17-year-old Soldan High School boy, Bernard Werthan, entered from Westwood, who turned in an 84. Werthan showed a wonderful tee shot yesterday, getting drives fully as long as any of the old-timers. He made a favorable impression on the scouts who keep tab on future greats.

The freakiest score among the qualifying players was the contrast afforded by the erratic rounds turned in by J. W. Morrison of Algonquin. Morrison went out in 48 and came home in 36, a difference of 12 strokes for the same number of holes.

Of the 176 who started, 30 failed to turn in cards, while a number of players could not make the course in as good as 100.

The course was in splendid condition, and the greens were almost perfect. The Westwood links are not considered difficult, and the par is 72.

Karl Bock, runner-up to Clarence Wolff in last year's district championship, who had intended to make the trip to Rock Island for the Trans-Mississippi qualifying round there, next Monday, announced last night that he would remain and finish play in the district championship.

Midland Valley, Algonquin and Sunset fared about as well as any club in qualifying candidates with a fighting chance for the title. Dick Bockenkamp, Jimmy Manion and John Bowman for Midland, Chris Kenney and Karl Bock for Sunset, and Lord and Morrison for Algonquin, were the best bets of the respective clubs.

MANION BRINGS $100 IN POOL OF $925 ON DISTRICT GOLF RESULT

Following the announcement of the pairings for the District Golf tourney first round match play, last night, pools were sold at the Westwood Club house on the probable showing of the various candidates. A total pot of $925 resulted, with the various stars quoted as follows:

James Manion $100, bought by Louis Rosen; Christian Kenney $90, bought by C. H. Lorenz; Roger Lord $90, bought by F. Arnold; Dick Bockenkamp $60, bought by E. Levis, and Arthur Stickney $45, bought by L. Risen.

Other players sold as follows: J. W. Morrison $30; Walter Kossman $25, Eddie Limberg $25, S. Jurden $20, Lawson Watts $15, Andy McCreery $15, Carl Bock $10, A. S. Martin $8, J. W. Bowman $5, C. C. Pangman $5 and the field $20.

Play in the first round is scheduled for tomorrow, but it is probable that a number of matches will be completed today.

Hagen, With a 70, Lowers British Golf Course Mark; U.S. Amateurs Play Well

American Open Champion Cables That England Is Keenly Interested in Coming Title Tilts Against Invaders, First of Which Begins This Week.

By Walter Hagen.
United States Open Golf Champion.

LONDON, June 5.—The strong showing of American golfers in practice over the courses near here leads me to believe that they have a good chance to be well up in the amateur championship tournament of Great Britain, which begins at Murfield, Scotland, next Tuesday.

Gardner made a fine 72 over the Walton Heath links, a few days ago, while Nelson Whitney turned in a 74. Gardner then played St. George's Hill in 73, while Whitney turned in a 75 at Addington Park. Gardner, in particular, is getting a long ball off the tee and is playing sound golf from end to end.

The 11 amateurs entered, left last night for Scotland. Two or three drew byes, and will not compete in the first round.

Howard Whitney, a former secretary of the U. S. G. A., must meet Maj. Hazlet, the Irish champion, who also was runner-up to little Larry Jenkins, who won the amateur championship in 1914, the last time it was played in, the first round. Otherwise the Americans have none of the worst of the draw.

Hagen in Wonderful Form.

I played my first round over an English course at St. George's Hill a day or two ago, and turned in a 70, one stroke better than the record now held by Duncan. The fairways are baked out, which gives a long roll to the ball and some of the greens are tricky, but on the whole it is a fine course.

Jim Barnes was not quite up to his best form, but he is hitting a long ball off the tee.

Getting back to the amateur championship, which begins next week, it should be recalled that Walter J. Travis came over from the United States and won the title in 1904. Other Americans, including Chick Evans and Jerome D. Travers and Francis Ouimet, have failed. But what has been done can be done again.

Travis was a dark horse in 1904, in spite of the fact that he had won our own championship three times. He was not considered dangerous because of his short driving; be he won, and since then golfers over here have held Americans in higher respect on the links.

The American invasion is mush talked of, and every good golfer in England wants to get out and help turn the invading Yankees back. The tournament this season will hardly be as sensational as that one was with Ouimet, Evans and Travers in line, to say nothing about several other good ones. If I remember rightly, the late Fred Herreshoff was in the tournament and lasted a round longer than anyone of the big three. Harold Weber was another contestant and he was fortunate enough to stick it out longer than anyone of the American party.

Besides Travis' victory the story is also told of the playing of Heinie Schmidt, another American golfer who came over in 1913 and surprised Americans as well as Englishmen by lasting through to the semifinals. This was the year that Hilton won, but had to play extra holes to dispose of the American. Schmidt had never done anything in our own championship. Just to show that the game of golf is uncertain at its best, Schmidt made a wonderful showing abroad, but the same season, in our own championship, at Garden City, failed to qualify.

KENTUCKY JOCKEY CLUB SUED BY MAN EJECTED FROM LEXINGTON TRACK

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 5.—The Kentucky Jockey Club was made defendant in a suit for $10,000 damages, filed here last evening by George F. Florea, a New York traveling salesman, who declares he was damaged to that extent when ejected from Lexington Track, during races on May 3 by track police and threatened with arrest if he attempted to reenter.

Florea also asks that the Jockey Club be required to refund his admission of $2.20. Attorneys for Florea say he was mistaken for a Chicago pickpocket and, under this misapprehension, forcibly ejected.

Scholz Wins Both Sprints From Big Conference Fields

St. Louis Boy Also Ties Big Ten Record, in Capturing 220 Yard Dash.

ANN ARBOR, June 5.—Scoring in 11 of the 16 events, the University of Illinois team triumphed in the twentieth annual outdoor track and field championships of the Western conference, on Ferry Field today, with 40 points, Michigan, although weakened through the loss of Capt. Carl Johnson, in the dashes and hurdles, landed second place with 30.

Wisconsin fought its way into the third place with 25½ points, while Missouri, chiefly though the prowess of Jackson Scholz, who scored 10 points, landed fourth, with 14½. The all-star team from the University of California, bagged fifth place with 11½ points.

Remaining point winners were:

Notre Dame and Nebraska, 10 each; Chicago, 7; Purdue, 6; Kansas Aggies, 5; Minnesota, 5; Earlham, 4; Cornell, 3; Ohio, 2½; Indiana, 1, and Ames, 1.

The meet was so evenly contested that Michigan and Illinois were tied at 27½ points after 13 events had been decided. Wisconsin was dangerous, but the showing of the California squad was a disappointment. The coast team was weakened through the failure of Jack Merchant, all-around star, who did not qualify in the broad jump. He also failed to place in the shot-put, discus and javelin. He won the only first for the Californians, taking the hammer throw with a heave of 150 feet, 7 inches.

Wolverine Breaks Javelin Record.

Hoffman of Michigan broke the only record when he heaved the javelin 172 feet 10 inches, beating his mark made in the trials yesterday by one foot three inches.

Two conference records, however, were tied. Scholz, Missouri sprinter, equaled the mark of 0:21 3-5 in winning the 220-yard dash, and the Illinois team tied the score of 3.21 4-5 in winning the one-mile relay.

Individual honors went to Scholz, who is rated as one of the premier sprinters of the country. The St. Louis boy landed victories in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, beating out an imposing array of starters.

8000 Spectators Drenched.

Half an hour after the meet started a thunderstorm suddenly swept the field, drenching the 8000 spectators. Three or four events were decided in the rain. The storm passed, however, and the meet was finished with ideal weather.

Summaries:

ONE-MILE RUN—Yates, Illinois, first; Burke, Notre Dame, second; Ferguson, Ohio State, third; Ramsay, Wisconsin, fourth. Time—4m. 28 2-5s.

440-YARD RUN—Emery, Illinois, first; Brethall, Cornell College, second; Butler, Michigan, third; Donohue, Illinois, fourth. Time—48 4-5s.

100-YARD DASH—Scholz, Missouri, first; Johnson, Minnesota, second; Maleckar, Wisconsin, third; Spetz, Wisconsin, fourth. Time—10s.

RUNNING BROAD JUMP—Won by Johnson, Michigan; Sundt, Wisconsin, second; Cruikshank, Michigan, third; Keeling, Indiana, Fourth. Distance, 23 ft. 7½ in.

220-YARDS HURDLE—Won by Knollin, Wisconsin; Gallaher, Kansas Aggies, second; Wright, Nebraska, third; Andrews, Wisconsin, fourth. Time 25s.

TWO-MILE RUN—Furnas, Purdue, first; Wharton, Illinois, second; Watson, Kansas Aggies, third; Rathbun, Ames, fourth. Time—9m. 33s.

HAMMER THROW—Won by Merchant, California; Bennett, Illinois, second; Wilson, Illinois, third; Higgins, Chicago, fourth; distance, 150 feet 7 inches.

ONE-MILE RELAY—Won by Illinois; Michigan second; Notre Dame third; Missouri fourth. Time, 3m. 21 4-5s. (Ties Western Conference record.). Runners on winning team: Donohue, Prescott, Spink and Emery.

POLE VAULT—Won by Andres, Wisconsin; Westbrook of Michigan, Slaughter of Michigan, Merrick of Wisconsin and Peterson of California tied for second, third and fourth at 12 feet. Height of winner, 12 ft. 3 in.

220-YARD DASH—Won by Scholz, Missouri; Massengale, Missouri, second; Johnson, Minnesota, third; Cook, Michigan, fourth. Time, 21 3-5s. (Ties conference record.)

HIGH JUMP—Osborne, Illinois, and Ivey, Earlham, tied for first and second; Liter, Michigan, third; Shidecker, Ohio State, and Williams, Missouri, tied for fourth. Height, 6 ft.

880-YARD RUN—Won by Meehan, Notre Dame; Sprott, California, second; Spink, Illinois, third; Nash, Wisconsin, fourth. Time, 1m. 54 1-5s.

KOLEMAINEN, WINNER OF MARATHON, IS INELIGIBLE FOR U. S. OLYMPIC TEAM

NEW YORK, June 5.—Hannes Kolemainen of Brooklyn, triple winner in the last Olympic games at Stockholm, won the 26½-mile marathon race run today at Travers Island under the auspices of the New York Athletic Club, in which long-distance runners from principal cities east of Chicago competed.

Plowing through mud, Kolemainen did the distance in 2h. 47m. 49 2-5s. Joseph Organ of the Pittsburg Athletic Association, was second, and John Tuomikoski of the Quincy (Mass.) Athletic Club, third.

The next seven men to finish after Tuomikoski were as follows: William Wick, Quincy, Mass.; Jack Weber of Pittsburg; William Kyronen, Brooklyn; Charles Mellor, Chicago; Edwin White, New York; Hugo Kauppineu, Finnish A. C., and Cliff Mitchell of St. Christopher.

The race was one of the tryouts for the American Olympic team, but Kolehmainen, born in Finland, is ineligible to represent the United States. Organ, a half mile behind Kolehmainen, covered the distance in 2:51:06 1-5 and probably will be considered by the American Olympic Committee in the selection of runners.

Kolehmainen used a steady gait and permitted the others to keep the lead in the twenty-fifth mile when he passed Organ after which he quickened his pace.

Jack Dempsey Is Training Hard to Retain Condition

World's Champion, Uncertain When He'll Fight, Is Not Deteriorating.

FIT TO BATTLE ANY TIME

Titleholder Will Not Go Way of Predecessors for Want of Taking Care of Self.

By ROBERT EDGREN.
Copyright, 1920, by the Press Publishing Co. (The New York World.)

Jack Dempsey is one champion who never will be caught napping when the time comes to defend his title I've seen them all for quite a little while, and not one of the big title holders ever lived half as carefully as this Dempsey lad. He loves a hard contest and is too much of a natural athlete and sportsman to neglect keeping in the best possible condition.

Other champions have put on fat and have lived the life of ease when their title battles were few and far between. But Dempsey isn't happy unless he can work every day. I have just spent two hours watching him in a little club in Los Angeles, the Western A. C., and I find that the champion looks as fit right now as he did two weeks before he met Willard at Toledo nearly a year ago. There is no superfluous fat on him. There isn't a spot or a blemish on his skin. His muscles are full, round, bulging, elastic. His waist is small, and no fold of loose skin shows at the belt line. He has the cheerful smile of a man who's perfectly fit.

In that little gymnasium Dempsey is just one of the boys. He hasn't changed a bit since he became champion. His voice is no louder and he puts on no airs. He doesn't try to show off.

Dempsey boxed a couple of rounds with Joe Benjamin and two or three more with Benny McCoy, another New Yorker, and with Leo Houck and some other little fellows. He encouraged them to come in hard and fight him, and he moved around with cat-like quickness, swaying and bobbing and avoiding blows, blocking with quick thrusts of his arms and tapping lightly in return. Fifteen rounds of boxing is about his daily stunt. But he does other things.

Dempsey Still Has His Punch.

After leaving the ring Dempsey went over to a heavy punching bag great, padded bag swinging from the ceiling on a long rope—and for 15 minutes drove terrific rights and lefts into it. Dempsey's hitting is impressive. His huge arms plunge in with every blow, the forearm squarely behind the drive. He never swings or hooks or uppercuts. His whole intention seems to be to perfect the delivery of a short, powerful blow, shot to the mark along the shortest line, with all his weight behind the fist and forearm.

To wind up the bag punching he asked one of the heaviest of the onlookers to lean against the bag to keep it from swinging away from him. Then Dempsey put more power into his blows, and each plunging drive jarred the man behind the bag, protected as he was by fully a foot of heavy padding.

"Some punch," said Kid McCoy. "See how straight he shoots them in. I never saw a man hit better. Not even Fitzsimmons. No wonder Willard went down."

Kid McCoy Helps Dempsey.

The bag punching over, Dempsey roughed around with McCoy, who stripe in astonishingly good shape for a veteran, and who hasn't forgotten any of the tricks of using wrist or elbow. Then came a roughing session with "Bull Montana," the heavyweight wrestler, a great, powerful fellow with bulging muscles, crumpled ears, scarred head and face and neck like a pillar. They say when Bull puts on a collar he buttons the ends together in front and drops it over his head into place.

Dempsey could cut loose with Bull Montana, and he did. They moved and pushed and roughed around, Bull going in head down and Dempsey's thick hands turning and twisting and shoving him off balance. Now and then Bull caught a grip and Dempsey broke it with seeming ease. Montana was soon bleeding from ears and forehead, but from his wide grin it was evident this was a mere detail in his profession. When Dempsey was through Montana turned and invited McCoy to take a hand and the Kid elbowed and roughed valiantly.

Dempsey was sweating freely after an hour and a half of work, and he went in for a bath and a rub with a coarse towel. But he liked the work too well to stop, so came back again for five or 10 minutes more of bag punching.

Wishes He Could Fight Often.

"Gee," said Jack when he was through, "I wish I had a bout on tonight! I'm longing to get into the ring. It's been a long time since I had a fight. I can't get back to boxing soon enough to suit me. Fighting is the greatest sport in the world. I love it.

"Yes, I hear Kearns has matched me for a bout. I haven't heard from him. No, I don't care who it is—Fulton or anybody who can fight suits me. Jack's coming back next week, and I suppose he'll tell me then. I leave all that to him. If I had my way I'd box every week. That's the tough thing about being champion—a fellow can't get so many bouts. I'd rather fight 10 bouts for $100 each than get $1000 for one fight. I used to fight once or twice a week. Those were the happy days!"

Imagine that—from a champion!

How Paul Jones Won Second Big Stake in a Month, the Suburban

FOURTH race—SUBURBAN HANDICAP, for 3-year-olds and up; one mile and a quarter. Time .52, 1.17 3-5, 2.09 3 5; $5000 added; value to winner $6350. At post 4.14; off at 4.16. Start good for all but Upset; won driving; place easily. Winner br. g. 3, by Sea King-Mayflorence. Owner, Ral Parr. Trainer, W. Garth.

STARTER.	W't.	St.	¼	½	¾	Str.	Fin.	Jockey.	Betting.
PAUL JONES	(106)	1	1^5	1^5	1^6	1^6	$1^½$	(Schuttinger)	4-1, 6-5, 1-2
BONIFACE	(115)	2	3^1	$4^{1½}$	$3^½$	4^2	2^{10}	(Sande)	7-1, 5-2, Evn
EXTER'TOR	(123)	4	5^3	5^3	$5^½$	$3^½$	$3^{1½}$	(Rice)	11-5, 4-5, 1-3

Paul Jones, breaking with the track, was all out at the end. Boniface ran to outer rail, after rounding stretch turn, and closed with high turn of speed. Exterminator shut off badly at five-eighths pole, closed gap gamely. Upset, away slowly, tired after being rushed up in early running.

Overweight—Upset 1½. Scratched—Corn Tassel 110, Donnacona 108, Wildair 106, Cleopatra 97, David Harum 96.

Missouri Woman Golf Champion to Defend Title Here

Miss Carolyn Lee and Strong Delegation From Kansas City Due Next Week.

The last weekly tournament of the Women's District Golf Association scheduled to be held before the State title tourney opens, will take place at Bellerive Country Club, Tuesday morning, starting at 9:30 o'clock. The usual blind bogey event and a handicap flag tournament, with a prize for low gross score, will feature the morning's play.

These tournaments have been so popular that the women's association is expecting a fine entry for the State championship, which will start the following week.

Thus far assurances have been received that Miss Carolyn Lee, the present State champion in the women's division, and Mrs. R. E. Morrison, runnerup last tournament, will attend the championship here. In addition, Mrs. H. L. Harmon, Mrs. R. L. Greenlease, and other Kansas Cityans will be here. The Hillcrest Club of Kansas City and probably the Blue Hills Club will be represented in the team contest.

The weekly tournaments here have attracted an average of about 90 players, indicating that this year's local entry will establish a record.

Glen Echo Country Club held a mixed foursome event last Thursday in which 18 couples took part. The event was a handicap affair with Col. S. A. Walker and Mrs. J. A. Corbett winning the prize for the low gross score, while Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Woodward were successful in scoring the low net card.

The mixed foursomes will be held on the first Thursday afternoon of each month.

LOYOLA MINIMS BEAT SHAW SCHOOL NINE, 4-0

Shaw School, prospective champions of the Public School League, suffered their first defeat of the season at the hands of the strong Loyola Minims, 4—0. Herbert Lehr, who has won a few no-hit games during the season, struck out 14 of the Loyola batters, but was unable to hold them scoreless. Heinkel, after striking out eight batters and giving no hits in four innings, gave way to Marsh. Marsh gave them four hits in three innings.

This is the thirty-first game played by Loyola Minims, of which they lost only one. Chaminade Minims beat them, 3—1. They were defeated later by Loyola Minims, 7—4.

BABE ASHER MATCHED WITH PATSY WALLACE

Sam Eckert announced this morning that Johnnie "Babe" Asher had been matched to box Yankee Sullivan of Omaha, Neb., at Scott's Bluff, Neb., June 16. The bout will be 12 rounds to a decision.

From Scott's Bluff Asher will go to Philadelphia, where a bout with Patsy Wallace has been tentatively arranged. Only matter of purse and percentage remains to be agreed on. Eckert and Asher will depart next Saturday.

Pewee Kaiser to Box Kramer; Must Weigh 110 Pounds

Difference in Avoirdupois Will Not Exceed Two Pounds in Bantam's Favor.

John "Pewee" Kaiser, the Jimmy Wilde of local boxing circles, who on numberless occasions has proved his right to leadership of all St. Louis amateurs in skill, generalship and all-around efficiency, has been matched to box the only local boy of his class with the slightest chance to beat him—Mike Kramer, Western A. A. U. champion in the 108-pound division.

In order to clinch this feature, Roger Cornell, matchmaker for the National Sporting Club, had to use his persuasive powers on Tommy Bramell, Kaiser's adviser, to gain his consent to a 110-pound weigh-in at 6 p. m.

Kramer battles in a class below Kaiser, whose last affair was in the 115-pound division. It was given out at that time that Kaiser weighed 113 pounds. He appeared "fine," and his friends were rather surprised when he consented to do 110 pounds.

The bout is set for Thursday, June 17, at the Armory.

Another match announced for the same show is a heavyweight amateur affair with George Mayes, Western A. A. U. title-holder, opposing Jimmy Murphy, a "find" of Tommy Bramell's. Mayes weighs 170 and Murphy 180 pounds. Both boys are six-footers.

Paul Jones Wins Classic Suburban By Half a Length

Boniface, After Losing Six Lengths, Almost Overtakes Victor.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Paul Jones won the Suburban Handicap, a race steeped in turf tradition at rain-soaked Belmont Park, today, just as he won the rich Keitucky Derby four weeks ago at Churchill Downs, Louisville.

The son of Sea King raced right to the front at the start, opened up a lead of two or three lengths, forced all the pace and won driving by a scant half length from Boniface in 2:09 3-5 for the mile and a quarter.

Three or four lengths back Exterminator ,the favorite and a Kentucky Derby winner himself, beat Upset, the strong second choice, a neck for third money, while Thunderclap, the only other starter, finished last, 10 lengths back.

20,000 See Classic Run.

Close to 20,000 men and women braved the cold, persistent rain to see this classic of the thoroughbred turf run over a sloppy, slippery track. Paul Jones added $6350 to his earnings of the Kentucky Derby, while giving Ral Parr, his owner, one of those thrills which come only with the winning of a race of this kind—one of those thrills which many sportsmen have paid huge sums in the hope of getting.

J. K. L. Ross missed the joy of winning, just as he did one year ago, by one of these bitter twists of fate. Boniface was the best horse at the weights, and under the conditions, but he bolted to the extreme outside rail at the turn for home, and lost thereby a good six lengths, and perhaps more. He also lost the race, the purse, the glory and a place in the select and exclusive list of winners.

Just one year ago, almost to the day, Boniface did the self-same thing in this self-same race, and Corn Tassel, then owned by R. T. Wilson, carried off the prize.

Boniface Makes Game Bid.

Sande, who had the mount on Boniface, could not be blamed. As well try to harness and to hold Niagara Falls as to keep a strong horse from bolting if he takes the bit in his teeth. Boniface was fully six lengths back when he made the turn and had lost at least six lengths more by his erratic flight; but he closed fast along the outside rail. So gamely did he try to overcome the handicap of his own self-willed mistake that Schuttinger was forced to ride out Paul Jones to the last ounce of his fading strength to win by a scant half length.

Association Results.

KIRKWOOD OFFICER TELLS OF EAGLE BOATS

Lieutenant Commander Scott Was in Charge of Three of Them in Russian Waters.

Lieutenant-Comamnder Norman Scott, U. S. N., of Kirkwood, who was second in command of the destroyer Jacob Jones when it was sunk by a U-boat Dec. 6, 1917, told at his home last night of his experiences with the first of the Eagle boats for anti-submarine warfare, which were not delivered until after the armistice. Though he sailed half the Seven Seas in command of a division of Eagle boats, he saw nothing unusual in the experience.

He took Eagle boats 1, 2 and 3 from an Eaystern port to North Russian waters a year ago, this being the first trial trip of length for boats of this new and untried type. After doing dispatch carrying in the White Sea for months he took his division southward and went to the Adriatic for patrol duty in connection with the Fiume episode. Thence he went to the Dardanelles and to the Black Sea on dispatch duty.

"It was nothing but bloodless battles," said Commander Scott.

Scott is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Scott, 186 West Bodley avenue, Kirkwood.

Commander Scott took the three Eagle boats to North Russia without difficulty, he said. Each was manned by 70 sailors. The boats are 200 feet long, burn fuel oil and have steam-turbine drive.

"The American and Allied anti-Bolshevik army was up there when we arrived," he said, "and we merely ran a dispatch service until they evacuated last August. We ran between Kem, Archangel and Murmansk, a distance of 1100 miles, the boats being spaced at regular intervals. We carried officers of the various armies, messages, sometimes provisions and did any necessary emergency work.

"The ports are on the White Sea, with the exception that Murmansk is on the Kola inlet to that sea. It is Russia's only year-'round ice-free port except those on the Black Sea.

"We returned to England and found orders to send us to the Philippines. We went to Brest, France, to fit out for this and while there the Fiume question arose. In September we went to the Adriatic and joined our fleet based 100 miles south of Fiume. There we had a hard experience with a 'bora,' a gust of mountain wind that tears things up badly. We weathered it, but the propeller of Eagle No. 3 was damaged.

"Orders again were changed and I took Eagle No. 1 and No. 2 to Constantinople. Our fleet there, under Admiral Bristol, who was also high commissioner to Turkey, was in communication with Col. Haskell of the army, high commissioner to the new Georgian Republic, at Tiflis. We had a destroyer at Batum, at the east end of the Black Sea.

"The Eagle boats were ordered home and I was put in temporary command of a destroyer at Constantinople. Eagle No. 1 went aground for a time at the entrance of the Dardanelles. I was relieved later and returned to the United States a month ago."

Commander Scott said that the Eagle boats would have been successful against U-boats, had the war continued. He said their utilization is a problem in peace-time but that they may be converted into gunboats.

He made few comments on the lands he had visited. "North Russia is pretty desolate," he declared.

"Turkey is the same as always, I guess—interesting and dirty.

"The Dalmatian coast about Fiume is beautiful. The mountains are ruggedly picturesque.

"Tiflis is in good shape, but the country has gone Bolshevik since I was there, I think.

"On our way to the Dardanelles we visited Corfu, where the palace the Kaiser formerly owned is now used in part for a Greek military hospital. Part of the palace is sealed. It is a wonderful place. While there we stole—that is, we took—some of the Kaiser's oranges. They were good.

"I think the people in all the countries I saw were getting plenty of food. Unrest was noticeable in the southern cities."

Commander Scott departed last night for San Francisco, where he will superintend the outfitting of the destroyer Stoddert being built there.

Commander Scott was a Lieutenant when on the Jacob Jones. His heroism when that boat was sunk gained him promotion in the fall of 1918 and for a time he was naval aid to the President. He worked under the chief of the Bureau of Naval Operations in Washington during 1918.

RAILROADS TO SEEK ADVANCE IN COAL RATES TO ST. LOUIS

Schedule to Be Presented at Washington Tomorrow Provides for an Increase of 22½ Cents a Ton.

ENTIRE BELLEVILLE DISTRICT AFFECTED

Consumers Here Greatly Concerned Because Retailers Already Have Announced Prices Are Going Up.

The railroads, in their quest for $1,017,000,000 additional revenue, through increased freight rates, will suggest to the Interstate Commerce Commission at the advanced rate hearing which is to be resumed in Washington tomorrow a plan of increasing rates for hauling soft coal from the Belleville district to St. Louis and from the Southern Illinois field to Chicago.

Proposed increases in rates from mines in Illinois and Indiana to other destinations in Western Trunk Line territory also will be submitted. The comparative table of rates to St. Louis and Chicago are taken from the general plan as follows:

FROM	To	Average Distance.	Present rate.	Proposed rate.	Percentage of Increase.
		Miles.	(Per ton.)
Belleville District	E. St. Louis.	22	72.5c	95c	34.4
Southern Illinois Field	Chicago.	310	$1.55	$1.95	25.8

Note: Rates on coal to St. Louis are based on a differential of 20 cents per ton over East St. Louis.

Rates on coal to points west of the west bank of the Mississippi River to be increased 24 per cent.

Operators Advancing Prices.

Recently it was announced that retail coal prices would be advanced on account of alleged overcharging on the part of the operators in the standard field.

In the last few days the operators have been pushing up their prices, demanding as much as $4.50 a ton for screenings, $4 to $5 for mine run and $4.50 to $5 for lump, egg and nut.

The retailers so far have been selling from stocks purchased before the operators began increasing the price. As soon as the old stocks are exhausted they say they will have to adjust their retail prices to the new prices of the operators.

The increased railroad rates will in all probability be allowed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, according to P. W. Coyle, traffic commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce, because the railroads have represented that the increased revenue is necessary to meet the present basis of wages, costs, interest and a sum for dividends and improvements. The new transportation act, Coyle said, fixes the rate of return on railroad valuations for a two-year period at 5½ and 6 per cent.

The Chamber of Commerce, Coyle said, has forwarded to the Interstate Commerce Commission a resolution urging that it do all in its power to assist the railroads in improving their freight-hauling facilities.

Interested in Differentials.

The coal operators are not interested in the plan to increase the coal hauling rates only to such extent as it might possibly interfere with the present differentials in effect on coal from the various groups; for example, to East St. Louis the rates on coal from the Belleville district are 15 cents per ton under the rates from the Southern Illinois field. To other points there are differentials of a similar nature in effect as between the different coal fields, and it is understood the coal operators will make an effort to have these differentials protected.

E. J. Wallace, former official adviser to the St. Louis Fuel Commission, expressed surprise when told of the proposed increase in coal hauling rates. He said that the coal dealers had not been apprised of the proposed schedule. He said the railroads should be made to explain the psychology of charging higher rates for shorter hauls. He added that more than 80 per cent of the coal used in St. Louis comes from the Belleville district.

The interests of St. Louis and East St. Louis manufacturers will be represented in Washington by R. W. Ropiequet and William E. Rosenbaum of the St. Louis Eastern District Freight Traffic Bureau.

WIFE WANTS $1500 RING BACK

Suit for Separate Maintenance Says Husband Took It.

Mrs. Mary A. Alt yesterday filed a separate maintenance suit against Albert A. Alt of 5211 Maffitt avenue. She asks for $75 a month for her support and that Alt be made to return a $1500 engagement ring which he gave her and took back. The petition says Alt is a railway mail clerk at a salary of $174 a month.

They were married May 31, 1919, and separated April 20 last, at which time, the petition says, Alt drove his wife from their home.

FAMOUS PLAYERS SUE KOPLARS IN ROW OVER THEATER

Injunction Sought to Restrain Defendants From Interfering With Management of Arco House.

A controversy over ownership and control of ten moving picture theaters in St. Louis between the Famous Players Company of Missouri and the Harry Koplar interests led to the filing of a suit yesterday by the former company to enjoin Koplar and others from interfering with its management of one of them, the Arco Theater, 4011 Manchester avenue. Judge Davis issued a temporary restraining order and set the case for hearing on next Thursday. The defendants are Harry Koplar, Sol E. Koplar, Nat C. Koplar, all of the Greater Amusement Company; Police Lieut. McKenna, Police Sergt. George J. Brennan, Matthew J. Walsh, manager of the Arco, and George Carico, watchman there, whom the police placed in charge Friday night after going to the theater to quell a disturbance between the Koplars on one side and a representative of the Famous Players Company on the other.

The petition alleges that the Koplar interests sold the Arco, along with nine other motion picture houses, to the Famous Players Company last March and that the latter concern took possession March 17. The sale was under a contract by which the purchase money was to be paid at stated intervals and the contract has been faithfully lived up to, according to Frederick L. Cornwall, president of the company. The sum of $64,000 was the consideration for the Arco, he said.

On Friday night, it is said, representatives of the Koplar interests went to the Arco and attempted to get control of the theater. In the disturbance which followed policemen ejected representatives of the Famous Players Company, it is alleged. The police placed Carico, the watchman, in charge. Matthew J. Walsh, the manager, is named as a defendant because he is aligned with the Koplars, it was explained by counsel for the plaintiff.

A. M. Frumberg, attorney for the Greater Amusement Company, denied to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the Famous Players Company has carried out its contract. He said that the money was to be paid on or before May 10, and that his client had not received "one cent in a property deal involving $1,640,000," which, he said, was the price for the ten theaters.

According to Frumberg, the action in the Arco matter is the forerunner in an attempt by the Koplar interests to recover all of the theaters in the deal. He said that Cornwall's company has been operating these theaters since March 17. Tomorrow the Koplars will file suit to enjoin the Famous Players Company from continuing in control, Frumberg said.

The theaters besides the Arco are the Kings, Pershing, Shenandoah, Juniata, Novelty, Lafayette, Gravois, Cherokee and Royal.

In the Famous Players' petition it is alleged that the contract specified that the three Koplars were to be employed by the plaintiff, Harry Koplar at $7500 a year and the others at $5500 each, and they have been receiving this compensation. Cornwall appears as co-plaintiff in the suit.

$12,533 CLAIM OF MULLIGAN IS ASSIGNED TO HIS COUNSEL

Vincent McShane Expects to Realize $500 on Account From Man Convicted of Forgery.

An allowance claim of $12,533.09 in favor of Charles G. Mulligan against the County Sales Corporation, which is in bankruptcy, was assigned to his lawyer, Vincent McShane, before Referee in Bankruptcy Coles yesterday.

Mulligan, who was president of the company and also a cotton broker, recently was sent to the Missouri penitentiary for five years after pleading guilty to a forgery of bills of lading for cotton amounting to $160,000.

His claim against the sales company was based on money he advanced the concern from time to time to pay current bills. McShane said that it was assigned to him to compensate him for legal services to Mulligan, and that he will not be able to realize more than $500 on it after other claims have been paid pro rata. Mulligan lived at 5128 Maple avenue.

BIG WOOLEN MILLS TO SHUT DOWN 2 DAYS

American Woolen Co., Employing 15,000, to Operate but 4 Days a Week.

BOSTON, MASS., June 2.—The American Woolen Company, employing 15,000 persons, with mills at Lawrence and elsewhere, today announced that it will operate but four days a week. The order is to become effective immediately and the mills close tomorrow night for the remainder of the week. The announcement of the curtailment comes as a disappointment and a surprise to the thousands of textile employes, in view of the fact that William M. Wood, head of the company, made the statement a few days ago that no cut in the company's operating hours would be made, in his opinion.

The four-days-a-week schedule is made necessary, it is stated, because of unsatisfactory and uncertain conditions prevailing in the trade throughout the country, due to a large extent to the railroad congestion. Officials of the company express no opinion as to how long the four-day schedule will be continued.

The American Woolen Company, though the largest, is not the first textile concern in this section to reduce its operating hours. Recently the Brightwood Manufacturing Company, with mills at Lawrence and Andover, dropped down to a five-day-a-week schedule, and others have acted similarly.

The action of the American Woolen Company is a further reflection of unstable merchandising conditions created by the price-slashing campaigns now under way in retail stores throughout the country.

We Depend on Your Good Judgment

Don't Miss This Opportunity We're Giving You

The reason we can make you this wonderful offer is this—we have just received a big shipment of woolens—staples, blue serges, grays, blacks and fancy fabrics—that were ordered in the early part of 1919. But because of the shortage of materials the manufacturers were unable to deliver them until now. We have secured them at the original price quoted over a year ago; we in turn offer you this extraordinary bargain in MADE-TO-MEASURE ALL-WOOL SUITS.

HUDSON SUPER SIX

This is the Secret of Hudson Supremacy

The Super-Six Motor Is Exclusive

The Super-Six performs its duties with such reliance and ease, one is apt to overlook the causes for its supremacy.

Drivers and passengers of a Hudson are seldom conscious that there is anything mechanical in its smooth transportation. It never obtrudes its mechanism.

So, from time to time, it is necessary to call attention to the Super-Six motor and its exclusive patented principle, which accounts for this fact.

This Is What It Does

Judge how complete is its advantage. Merely to think of the way thousands of Hudsons, year after year, are giving uninterrupted and economical service inspires the confidence owners have in the Super-Six.

Such performance depends upon more than good workmanship and good materials. Other cars possess those qualities. But they differ in this.

Forces which cause early motor destruction are converted to the useful agency of propelling the car. Vibration is practically annulled. The smoothness that results is not only appreciated in riding ease, but it means absence of strain and friction that conserves years to the life of the car.

It means freedom from fatigue to passengers. It explains why the Hudson rides so pleasingly and endures so long against the hardest service.

That is Why no Car Has Ever Rivalled Hudson's Records

It will be years before we can know the final limit of Hudson endurance. But already it is evident that endurance is doubled through this exclusive principle. More than 100,000 cars in service and nearly five years experience reveal the character of Super-Six endurance.

The proof is also shown in Hudson's unequalled records for speed, hill-climbing, and acceleration. They cover the field. Can there be any question of its supremacy in these respects.

Also a Leader in Beauty

If it had no other appeal than its distinctive beauty, the Super-Six would hold high position. That is recognized in the way Hudson has set motor car styles. Its exclusiveness in that respect is maintained by creation and advancement. Others can always be just behind its mode. But with its motor there can be no imitation. There it holds a monopoly.

Strive as they may to accomplish the same results, no one has as yet by official proof shown that any motor equal or satisfactorily supplants the Super-Six in those qualities for which it is famed.

OUTLOOK FOR CITY TO GET MORE BIG PLANTS FAVORABLE

Automobile and Rubber Goods Concerns and Wholesale Drug House Mentioned as Principals.

ONE AN INDUSTRY FOR NEW DISTRICT

Mercantile Concern Said to Plan Occupancy of Entire Block Near Old Southern Hotel.

By Berry Moore.

According to the real estate fraternity, new and important plans are on the calendar for industrial and commercial plants in St. Louis. Specifically, these contemplate the establishment of major factories here by two of the foremost automobile and rubber goods concerns in the country, the one to be located in the industrial section on Natural Bridge road, and the other on Forest Park boulevard, adjacent to the Wabash Railway. Another concern plans to erect a building to occupy an entire block in the locality of the old Southern Hotel, for a long-established wholesale drug concern.

Negotiations have not reached the stage where it would be permissible to disclose the identity of the concerns, however, the agents believe. The sites under consideration for improvement in this connection include a tract of 55 acres on the south side of Natural Bridge road, opposite the plant being constructed at the northwest corner of Natural Bridge road and Union boulevard for the General Motors Company, and recently acquired by the Mars Realty Company, of which Richard A. Boyle is president and James E. Fogg secretary.

Offered to Dodge Brothers.

This is the largest single tract on Natural Bridge road facing the General Motors site. It was recently offered to Dodge Brothers as available for an automobile factory on a big scale, J. F. Schopflin, industrial commissioner of the Mercantile Trust Company. Making several trips to Detroit, the headquarters of these automobile manufacturers, at the instance of owners of the tract. But this is mentioned only as an eventuality in this district. Boyle and Fogg are negotiating with the Terminal Railway Association for terminal connections with their property, without which it would not be eligible for industrial purposes on a large plane.

The other tract mentioned as being scheduled for improvement on an extensive scale is situated on the south side of Forest Park boulevard, between Boyle avenue and Sarah street. This tract, which is owned by a syndicate of which R. A. Boyle is president and James E. Fogg secretary, has connections with the Wabash Railway on the south, and is in a district that is being rapidly built up with high-class industrial concerns. The Goodyear Rubber Co. is mentioned as being interested in this tract as a new big plant site.

Big Downtown Improvement.

A large site, including the southeast corner of Broadway and Elm street, is said to be the choice of a wholesale drug concern with extensive building plans. The location is opposite the old Southern Hotel block, bought a few months ago by John F. Queeny, president of the Monsanto Chemical Co., who is now advertising the building in outside papers with a view to interesting some large concern having plans for a centrally located establishment. Efforts have been made, it is understood, to lease this building to the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., which, it is said, is seeking larger quarters.

There have been various ideas advanced for the conversion of the Southern Hotel block, which is of stone and steel construction and fireproof to the extent that no fire insurance has ever been carried on it. The most pretentious of these contemplates its use as a passenger station for eastern railroads and another, as a depot for the Manufacturers' Railway, operated by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing interests, which, it is understood, has plans for enlarging the functions of this South St. Louis enterprise, according to realty and financial circles.

Three-Family Apartment Sold.

The Weisels-Gerhart Real Estate Co. announces the sale of the three-family apartment known as the Belmont, 5601 Waterman avenue, for the Drannek Realty Co. to D. B. Reid, represented by Edward L. Bakewell. The Belmont was erected several years ago by Oscar A. Elmo. Each apartment contains seven rooms, two baths and sun parlor, and is on lot 40x205 feet. The annual rental is $3500.

ORATORS WARM UP FOR CONTEST, FIND ST. LOUIS ISN'T ENTERED

One Speaker Loses Voice Practicing and "Pinch Hitter" Is Ready When Blow Falls.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 5.—A. P. Schollmeyer of St. Louis came to the National Real Estate convention this week prepared to put the committee to sleep with a speech on St. Louis. Schollmeyer practiced the speech so much at the Hotel Muehlbach that he developed "orator's sore throat,' 'and could not speak above a whisper.

Isaac Hedges was called on to save the day. Hedges asked for five minutes to make some notes and a half hour to "warm up," and said he would be ready to "knock 'em cold and carry home the cup," offered for the city that made the best showing in a five-minute talk. And Hedges went to work. In due time he had memorized a five-minute speech, which Schollmeyer said should win a cup, with a saucer and spoon included.

Five-minute addresses were being delivered and there was intense interest in the contest when Hedges and Schollmeyer reached Convention Hall, where the contest was being held. Word was sent to the chairman that "Mr. Hedges will speak on St. Louis instead of Mr. Schollmeyer, as originally announced."

And the chairman sent back word "St. Louis is not entered in the contest." The city should have filed before May 20 ,and failed to do so."

Chicago Gets Realty Convention.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 5.—Chicago was chosen over Baltimore for the holding of the 1921 convention by a vote of 73 to 40, in the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards here today. New York received five votes. Balloting was by cities. Fred E. Taylor of Portland, Ore., was elected president; Tom S. Ingersoll, Minneapolis, was re-elected secretary and E. E. Workman, Akron, O., was elected treasurer.

PRETTYMAN RETURNS TO OPEN BIG BEVERLY HILLS ADDITION

Harold A. Prettyman of the Knoblock-Prettyman Real Estate Sales Organization returned from the national real estate convention at Kansas City yesterday with increased appreciation of St. Louis and the future of St. Louis real estate. Seen at the company's new sales office, 711 Locust street, Prettyman said:

"I had to hurry back for the opening of our new addition to Beverly Hills, embracing 99 acres of land in St. Louis County, adjoining the original Beverly Hills tract on the south, fronting on the Lucas and Hunt road, and extending east to within a half mile of the city limits.

"St. Louis has come into its own. It is recognized by manufacturers as the most central city in the United States, with wonderful possibilities for rapid distribution of manufactured goods by rail and water. Big business men of the country have seen its possibilities, bought land here and spent millions of dollars to erect new factories.

"The movement is only in its infancy, but its far-reaching influence has been felt by the real estate, industrial and financial interests of the city. The big manufacturers of the country have set the seal of their approval on St. Louis by the investment of millions of dollars in manufacturing plants."

PIERCE'S KINGSBURY PLACE HOME BOUGHT BY MRS. N. B. KAUFFMAN

Mrs. Nellie B. Kauffman has purchased of Clay Arthur Pierce, vice president of the Pierce Oil Corporation, 23 Kingsbury place.

The house has 15 rooms, including a large living room and a sun room, and four baths. The premises include a garage for several machines. The lot has a frontage of 100 feet.

The price paid was not made public. The sale was effected by Albert T. Terry & Co.

CHOUTEAU AVENUE PROPERTY SOLD TO MOVIE THEATER TENANT

John Patrick Murphy has bought, through the C. M. McDonald Real Estate Co., the building at 1457 Chouteau avenue, the first floor of which is a motion picture theater. The sellers were Benjamin Lane and I. W. Levitt.

Murphy is the proprietor of the picture theater referred to. The sale was negotiated by Arthur C. Mayle, salesman for the McDonald Agency.

FLORIST BUYS WEST END SITE FOR STORES AND APARTMENT

Joseph Witeg, a florist, has purchased 51 feet of ground on the south side of McPherson avenue, just east of Euclid avenue, for improvement with a building to comprise stores and apartments. One of the stores will be occupied by the purchaser with a florist shop.

The sale was made by the John S. Blake & Bro. Realty Co., for the McPherson avenue Development Co.

SHOE CONCERN LEASES SIXTH STREET CORNER

Feltman & Curne Company to Have New Four-Story Building at St. Charles Street.

The Feltman & Curne Shoe Stores Co. has leaser the southeast corner of Sixth and St. Charles streets as a site for a four-story building. The lease was affected by the Martin-Breitt Real Estate Co. as agent for the lessee, while Charles A. Roe, represented the owner of the property, the Missouri Botanical Garden Association, of which he is secretary.

The corner is occupied by an old two-story building, the home for many years of Nagle's restaurant, and which will be torn down to make way for the proposed structure. The lot is 66x90 feet.

The shoe stores company has one or more retail shops in most of the principal cities of the United States.

The site, which is in the heart of retail St. Louis, is regarded as especially well situated for a large store, especially for shoes.

MAN IN PROVING HE IS HONEST IS ROBBED OF $140

Visitor From Fort Dodge, Ia., Permits Himself to Be Searched by Confidence Man.

It cost Antonio Ciulla of Fort Dodge, Ia., $140 to prove that he was an honest man yesterday afternoon. He related his experience to detectives, and a search for two confidence men followed.

Cuilla was on his way to visit his cousins at 821 Carr street. He was carrying a grip when a stranger stopped him at Eighteenth and Pine streets. The stranger volunteered to direct Cuilla to his destination.

As they walked east along Pine street a man just ahead of them dropped his handkerchief. Ciulla's companion picked it up. Suddenly the man ahead stopped, felt his back pocket, slapped his forehead and started on a run toward Ciulla.

"Did you find a handkerchief?" he gasped, apparently much perturbed over his loss.

"I did," said Ciulla's companion, and he handed over the handkerchief.

"Robber!" shouted the owner of the handkerchief. "Where is my money? I had $1000 in Canadian bills rolled up in this. It is gone. Give it back or I'll call the police."

"You can search me," said Ciulla's companion, elevating his hands. The owner of the handkerchief searched him.

"How about you?" he demanded, turning to Ciulla.

"You can search me, too," said Ciulla. "Here is my pocketbook. Look inside."

The owner of the handkerchief examined the pocketbook carefully and returned it to Ciulla.

"That's funny," said the man with the handkerchief. "My money has disappeared."

He walked away. Ciulla and his companion continued their journey. When Ciulla reached his cousin's house he told what had happened. His cousins suggested that he examine his pocketbook. He did, and discovered that $140 was missing. There was a folded page of a railroad timetable in place of the money.

LEASE ON LOCUST STREET TAKEN BY NEW AUTO FIRM

A lease has been executed for a term of years for the premises at 3205-7 Locust street, to the Lafayette-St. Louis Motors Co., a corporation which has been formed to handle the new Lafayette automobile in the St. Louis territory. The place is now occupied by the Southwest Nash Motors Co., which is to move to its new building at Garrison avenue and Locust street.

The officers of the Lafayette-St. Louis Co. are S. W. Ramsey, president, and W. H. Tyler, vice president.

J. W. LEWIS PURCHASES WALKER RESIDENCE IN HORTENSE PLACE

Joseph W. Lewis has bought 12 Hortense place, owned by G. H. Walker, who recently removed to New York. The house has 12 rooms, four baths, a sleeping porch and a sun parlor. It occupies a lot with an 80-foot front and with a side drive. The improvements also include a garage for several automobiles.

The sale was made by Albert T. Terry & Co.

19 LOTS IN WEST MAPLEWOOD SUBDIVISION SOLD PAST WEEK

W. L. Ems reports a brisk demand for lots in West Maplewood subdivision, which he is marketing.

The tract is beautifully situated and attractive for homes, especially of the bungalow type.

Nineteen lots were disposed of the past week, according to Ems.

LOT FACED BY SCHOOL PURCHASED BY HOWARD

Steel Man to Convert Ground Into Park for Advantage of Principia Academy.

Clarence Howard, chairman of the board of directors of the Commonwealth Steel Co., has purchased the V-shaped lot extending west from Belt avenue and bounded on the north by Page avenue and on the south by Etzel avenue.

The lot, comprising about half an acre, will be converted by the purchaser into a park. It is opposite the Principia School, on the north side of Page boulevard in which Howard is interested.

The sale was effected by D. L. Dyas of the Dyas Realty Co., for Hiram Lloyd. The price paid was $30,000.

The Principia School recently purchased, through the Dyas Realty Co., the Lodge Hotel, a four-story building at the southwest corner of Etzel and Belt avenue, owned by the Tyrol Monument Co., for $100,000. The building contains 50 rooms, in addition to a spacious lobby, and is to be converted into a dormitory and practice room for boys.

The Lodge and the Principia School, which comprise an entire block, face the V-shaped lot, one from the south and the other from the north.

The Principia recently completed a dormitory for girls on its grounds at a cost of $100,000.

HIGDON DEFENDANTS SUSTAINED BY RULING OF JUDGE FARIS

Effect of Decision on Exceptions Is to Put Plaintiff Out of Court Temporarily.

A decision by Federal Judge Faris handed down yesterday sustaining exceptions by the defendants in the suit of John C. Higdon, a patent attorney, against the St. Louis Merchants Bridge Co. and others, again put the plaintiff out of court, temporarily at least, in litigation instituted by him in 1910 against David R. Francis and the Terminal Railroad Association. He charged that Francis and the officers of the defendant corporations had "combined and confederated to sell the Merchants Bridge to the Terminal Association," thereby making possible the "arbitrary" bridge charge maintained by the railroads on freight from the east.

Judge Faris' decision was against Higdon's second amended petition. He sustained the exceptions, he said, because he is of the opinion the action for forfeiture of the bridge rights granted by an act of Congress should have been brought by the Government, and could not be maintained by an individual.

In his original petition, Higdon asked permission of the court to have other individuals and several civic organizations, which he named, join him in the suit.

FIRE CAPTAIN FOR 18 YEARS DIES ALONE IN DAUGHTER'S HOME

John F. O'Donnell, Who Has Served in Department for 30 Years, Succumbs to Apoplexy.

John F. O'Donnell, 52 years old, Captain of Fire Engine Co. No. 52, a motorized company at Clayton and McCausland avenues, was found dead in bed last night at 6 o'clock by his daughter, Mrs. Rose Dee, with whom he lived at 1014 Hodiamont avenue. A physician said that death was from apoplexy.

Yesterday was O'Donnell's day off. His daughter is employed and departed from home at 7 a. m., expecting that her father would follow his custom on his day off of coming home about 9 o'clock, sleeping for an hour or two and then going downtown.

She was surprised, upon her return, to find him still in bed. Her efforts to arouse him failed and a physician was called. He said that O'Donnell had been dead several hours. Men at the engine house said he was apparently feeling well when he left there. He was a widower.

O'Donnell served in the fire department about 30 years, during 18 years of which he held the rank of Captain.

U. R. CARMEN'S WAGE DISPUTE SET FOR HEARING HERE JUNE 24

Public Service Commission, as Arbitrator, Will Conduct Inquiry at the City Hall.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 5.—The Public Service Commission today set June 24 as the date for hearing the wage dispute between the United Railways Co. and the Street Car Men's Union. The hearing will be held at the City Hall in St. Louis.

The United Railways carmen are demanding 75, 80 and 85 cents an hour. Their present rate of wage is 50, 55 and 60 cents an hour, the majority receiving the top scale. They further demand continuous eight-hour runs and eight hours pay for less than eight hours work in one day. Receiver Wells has said that the full granting of the demands would require a 10-cent car fare in St. Louis.

CITY REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

NO PLACE LIKE AMES PLACE

For three reasons Ames Place is without a competitor in the field of high-grade residence vacant.

FIRST—No other lots are for sale in the neighborhood just north of Washington University.

SECOND—No other lots are for sale in such handsomely improved and well restricted surroundings.

THIRD—No other lots are for sale with equal access to city and county boulevards and car lines.

Every purchaser of Ames Place ground has profited by it and there are only a few lots left.

Our sales representative is at Pershing and Pennsylvania avenues every Sunday afternoon.

SUBURBAN PROPERTY FOR SALE

NORTH-POINTE

The Most Beautiful Subdivision in North St. Louis Will Be Opened

NEXT SUNDAY

Laid out by the leading engineers and landscape architects in this section of the country

It is located on three wide, main thoroughfares, one of these being a 130-ft. boulevard.

THE ENTIRE TRACT is now being graded to the permanent grades established by the city authorities, and SEWERS, GAS, WATER and SIDEWALKS put in.

REMEMBER—EVERY LOT IS WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS, giving you the advantage of all city improvements and protection.

NORTH-POINTE IS TO BE A SECTION FOR HOMES—you do not have to WAIT for the property to be built up—rows of houses are already under construction.

MANY MORE HOMES WILL BE STARTED IMMEDIATELY, and as every building enhances the value of the adjacent property, THE EARLY BUYER WILL REALIZE A HANDSOME PROFIT ON HIS INVESTMENT.

This property has splendid street car service, and in addition, interurban train service to Main and Olive sts., in thirty minutes, for a 5c fare. Can you beat this?

A WONDERFUL PLACE TO BUY—A BEAUTIFUL PLACE TO LIVE.

A visit to this beautiful tract will convince you that this is a real opportunity.

NORTH-POINTE Next Sunday

THE BECK REALTY DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, Carleton Building, with a force of 100 TRAINED SALESMEN, will be the Selling Agent for this property.

WATCH IT GO!

Olive 6390 Central 1930

Winners of Name Contest

In the contest for a name for this subdivision, the judges did not find any name suggested in accordance with the original requirements that, in their opinion, would have made a desirable name—one that would remain with the subdivision permanently, and also one that contained good selling or commercial value; therefore, it was decided to divide the original $250.00 prize offered for names nearest to the suggestions mentioned in the advertisement, and a name was selected that was offered by two different contestants—the name of "NORTH-POINTE"—it being the opinion of the judges that this name would be permanently identified with the subdivision, and in addition, had splendid commercial value.

An additional $250.00 was divided equally between the two persons offering this name.

The entire list of prizes offered, together with the names of the winners, is given below:

NORTH-POINTE,	$125.00	Miss Hilda C. Fruth

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

At Every Man's Door at Some Time

The man of narrow vision, fearful of his judgment, does not recognize his chance, but the man with red blood, nerve and vision will accept fortune's challenge and ride to financial success on a wave of fortunate circumstances.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY IS HERE AND NOW

T. A. Knobeloch and H. A. Prettyman announce the opening of an addition of 99 acres to Beverly Hills, the wonderful residence subdivision at the intersection of Natural Bridge and Lucas and Hunt roads.

The addition adjoins the original Beverly Hills tract on the south and has a frontage on the Lucas and Hunt road extending back to within a half mile of the city limits.

In the tract is included much of the highest and most beautiful ground in St. Louis County. The entire tract is being improved on the same standard as the original Beverly Hills Tract. The first sale of lots in this beautiful tract will be held today—

SUNDAY, JUNE 6th

Early buyers will be let in on the ground floor. The man with red blood and nerve will be given a chance to make big money on his investment. These lots will advance rapidly in value.

We challenge you to find lots in the whole St. Louis district which will compare at all favorably, in price, in natural beauty, in advantage of location, in future development, in possibility for big profits with these.

Take a day off and visit other properties, then come to Beverly Hills and buy.

St. Louis is growing. Yes, it is growing right westward, into the County, out Natural Bridge road.

Thirty million people in St. Louis commercial territory are sending their money here in exchange for our merchandise and manufactured articles, making our city one of the great commercial and financial Gibraltars of the Country.

One million people are toiling in the great city and suburbs to advance the value of all real estate in the line of the city's growth. Get your lots now. Get in on the ground floor. You will make big money in

If you are a laboring man and love your wife and babies, then you do not want to raise your family in a rooming house or a flat like pigs in a pen. Go out to beautiful

Motor Heights

OR OUR

Durant Park

Both are right in the heart of the great New Industrial District where one hundred million dollars are being expended on new factories, and where fifteen to twenty thousand people will work daily at these plants. Buy a lot and we will help you to build. Then let your babies romp and roam in homes of their really own, away and free from grouchy landlords.

Take Union car to Lillian Av., then walk one block east to Durant Park. Take Cass Av. car to end of line—see MOTOR HEIGHTS.

If you can't get out today, phone for circular. Olive 535. Central 537.

Don't Throw This Opportunity Away

100,000 New People Are Being Congested in St. Louis' New Industrial Section.

A New City is being built with Business and Apartment House Centers. Thousands of homes must be erected to take care of the teeming population pouring into this section.

PROFITS ARE BEING MADE—ENORMOUS PROFITS CAN BE MADE if you buy NOW, WHILE THEY LAST—Apartment and Business Lots in

DURANT PARK

—AND—

MOTOR HEIGHTS

—the two most centrally located properties in the NEW WONDER INDUSTRIAL SECTION where ONE HUNDRED MILLIONS OF DOLLARS are being invested by the business men of the U. S.

Apartment House Lots as Low as $935.00.
Business Lots as Low as $1450.00

Think of it! Only one-fourth cash is required, the balance can be paid monthly out of your salary. 5% off for cash.

St. Louis is BOOMING. Remember, it is easier to go from its present population to a million than it would be to go from a million to a million and a quarter population. While this great influx of new population is pouring into St. Louis and new apartment house and business centers are being created YOU MAKE YOUR PORTION OF THESE ENORMOUS PROFITS.

You have heard of the profits made in Detroit's great BOOM. You know the big prices property within a short distance of Ford's big plant in Detroit brings.

When you buy in Durant Park and Motor Heights YOU HAVE NO COMPETITION. You are in the center of THIS TREMENDOUS ACTIVITY.

Upwards of FIFTY BIG TOWERING MANUFACTURING PLANTS are only two to six blocks away from Durant Park and Motor Heights. These two properties occupy and command the principal approaches of St. Louis' New Wonder Section. Apartment and Business Lots here are SENSATIONAL BUYS. Have you the NERVE TO BACK YOUR JUDGMENT on St. Louis?

Phone for circular on both of these properties. Really know what is going on in this wonderful new section. It is your loss if St. Louis builds and you make no money. Your friends and neighbors are buying right now. Come to the office and really see the names of prominent people who have bought one or more lots in both Durant Park and Motor Heights.

Durant Park is one block east of Union avenue. Take Union car to Lillian avenue. It runs to King's highway, from Theckla on the north to Bircher on the south. It comes right down to the viaduct on Union. Every big plant within walking distance.

Motor Heights extends from Clara to Goodfellow, with St. Louis avenue, 80 feet wide running through it. Not only is the General Motor plant and the other enormous factories right across the front of it to the north, but only two blocks west are such plants as the Leschen Rope Co., the Curtis Mfg. Co., the Plumb Tool Co. and that large manufacturing section. Take Cass avenue car to end of line.

Buy to your limit in both Durant Park and Motor Heights. No other property of this kind can ever be developed in this Wonder Section, for there is no other near these plants.

Profits will be made in many sections of St. Louis. BUT ENORMOUS PROFITS WILL BE MADE IN DURANT PARK AND MOTOR HEIGHTS.

COME OUT TODAY. Our phones are Olive 353 (two trunks), Central 537. Get the circular, study it, even if you can't purchase at this time. If you have $250, the necessary down payment, or if you can borrow it, MAKE PART OF THESE PROFITS.

CARRSWOLD

70 ACRES
OF BEAUTIFUL LAND

N. E. Cor. Hanley road and Clayton car line—directly across the road from the old St. Louis Club grounds.

Ideal location for an institute or a gentleman's country estate.

The ground is in the direct path of the development of the city, being just west of Brentmoor and Forest Ridge, and upon completion will have Wydown bl. on the south, two car lines in easy reach and possibly steam interurban service.

Its nearness to Washington University is a highly advantageous feature.

The price is unusually reasonable as compared to other areas in this district.

A MIGHTY THRONG OF Clean Headed Americans

HERE IS OUR OFFER

PARISIAN SAGE

AS FREE FROM DECEIT AS THE HEAD OF A PARISIAN SAGE USER IS FROM DANDRUFF

¶ If Parisian Sage, used as directed, does not remove all Dandruff, stop Falling Hair and Itching Scalp, and stimulate new hair to grow, the cost, small as it is, will be refunded.

Is that Proof Enough?

We authorize every druggist to sell Parisian Sage on the money back plan. Not only do we make this offer but claim that it will quickly make dull, harsh, unattractive hair doubly beautiful—lustrous soft and fluffy. We do not "prove it" by somebody a thousand miles away, but say and we mean what we say—prove it at our expense. Get a bottle today—it's inexpensive. If it does not do all we claim it costs you nothing. That's the best proof, the real proof—that's the kind of proof that's easy to prove.

Prove It Yourself

If you want a clean, cool scalp, and beautiful, soft, thick, lustrous hair, by all means use Parisian Sage. It's a scientific preparation that supplies all hair needs—an antiseptic liquid, delicately perfumed, not sticky or greasy, and guaranteed not to color the hair or scalp. Try it tonight—you will not be disappointed.

Stewart Custom Built Necessities

They're More Than Accessories

Ford Bumpers, $10 and $12

Specially designed for installation on Ford cars. It is quickly and easily put on without cutting of metal or drilling of holes. Cannot work loose or get out of alignment.

Miss Stewart Custombilt

Ford Speedometer, $15

Positively the highest grade instrument ever offered the motoring public. It is built in a special department by hand-picked experts from selected materials. Stewart Magnetic principle makes it the most accurate and dependable.

Spotlight, $7.50

The bane of all fine mechanism is substitution in making repairs. Pirate parts cannot take the place of genuine parts, and if used prevent that delicate adjustment so necessary to perfect and reliable performance.

The Stewart Speedometer is as finely made as a high-class watch and even more susceptible to mal-adjustment.

None but genuine Stewart parts should ever be used, and none but a Stewart factory-trained man should install them or adjust them.

You will save time and money by bringing your Stewart Speedometer trouble to this Authorized Stewart Service Station, where it is our sole business to take care of those indispensable aids to safe and satisfactory motoring.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Frank M. Brooks, departed this life June 3, 1919; age 64 years. She was a good Christian, member of Naomi Lodge No. 2, D. R., I. O. O. F., Aegis Temple No. 3, P. S. K. of P. May God bless her spirit forevermore So mote it be. Amen.

In memory of Amalie Murphy, who died four years ago, June 7, 1916.

Just four years ago you left us;
How we miss you, Amalie dear,
And remember all your kindness
As we drop a silent tear.
Your aunt. MRS. F. SCHUMANN.

In loving memory of my darling, my only child, Le Roy George Bucher, who departed this life four years ago today, June 6, 1916:

My darling, how I miss you;
God in heaven, only knows.
You are gone, but not forgotten
By the ones who loved you most.
MAMMA, MRS. L. M. SHIPLEY, AND GRANDPARENTS, MR. AND MRS. HACKER.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone. Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

O. K.—We do not find the toast you mention.

J. H.—The local bank clearings are printed daily. See a paper of that date.

A CONSTANT READER.—Jack London died Nov. 22, 1916, at his ranch at Glen Ellen, Cal., of uremic poisoning.

READER.—Write to the St. Louis Artists Guild or the St. Louis School of Fine Arts for information on Missouri artists.

ELAINE.—It would not be wrong for you to deduct the cost of the quilt from the money made in raffling it. However, when a person donates an article for a benefit they usually bear the original cost.

MIDDER.—We would suggest that you play bridge, euchre, five hundred or any other card games your guests like. In a party of this kind, where only adults attend, ordinary games are rather inappropriate.

D. S. C. C.—The cargo of a ship necessarily depends upon its tonnage. There are some ships on the Great Lakes larger than ocean ships, and there are also ocean ships larger than the Great Lake ships. The tonnage passing through the Detroit River is estimated to be greater than that of the ports of the British Islands.

MAYBELLE.—The latest gazetteer lists about 100 separate divisions of Governments of the world. However, that does not allow for the new nations organizing as a result of the war. A world's international court is being organized under the League of Nations at the present time. Approximately 43 nations have joined the League, which is now maturing.

MRS. A. C.—Eggs are often packed in lime, salt or other products for winter use, but such eggs are very far from being perfect when ready for use. Authorities declare that water glass more closely conforms to the requirements of a good preservative than any of the substances commonly employed. A 10-per-cent solution of water glass is said to preserve eggs so effectively that at the end of three and one-half months eggs still appeared to be perfectly fresh. In most packed eggs the yolk settles to one side, and the egg is then inferior in quality. In eggs preserved in water glass the yolk retained its normal position in the egg, and in taste they were not to be distinguished from fresh eggs. Of 20 methods tested the three which proved most effective were coating the eggs with vaseline, preserving them in limewater, and preserving them in water glass. The conclusion was reached that the last is preferable, because varnishing eggs with vaseline takes considerable time, and treating them with limewater is likely to give the eggs a limy flavor.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(Prepared by a member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

REGULAR READER OF THE P.-D.—The man and woman can be prosecuted. Report the facts to the Prosecuting Attorney.

CONSTANT P.-D. BOOSTER.—The insurance policies can be collected by the beneficiaries without same having been mentioned in the will.

F. M.—As it is against the law for first cousins to marry in Missouri, we do not publish a list of states where such marriages are legal.

A. A. A.—Your husband will have to live in Oklahoma one year before he can sue you for divorce. You may be served by publication, without actual notice.

JOHNNIE BULL.—Under the conditions, you being a minor, the contract was not binding on you, and the company has no ground for a suit against you.

B. M. K.—You can have the operation of the new decree, granting sole custody of the child to your wife, suspended, pending your appeal. See a lawyer.

MRS. MINNIE P.—The man cannot get a divorce if the facts are as you state. He and the woman can be prosecuted. Report the facts to the Prosecuting Attorney.

P. R.—A man marrying a second time, having a lawful wife living, has committed bigamy, and if the second "wife" got a divorce it would have no effect on that offence.

OUT OF LUCK.—We suggest that you see Dr. Witte, 625 Century Building, or the Home Service Section of the Red Cross, in the Equitable Building. The only way to have the temporary rating changed to a permanent one is through Dr. Witte.

MRS. E. G. C.—Christmas, Feb. 22, July 4 and Thanksgiving day are commonly called "National holidays." Legal holidays are made so by statutes in the states, and vary in different states. There are no national hodidays under the acts of Congress, except Labor day in the District of Columbia.

REGULAR SUBSCRIBER.—A man divorced in Illinois and remarrying six months later in Missouri is not legally married in Illinois and it is doubtful whether he is legally married in Missouri. See answer to Anxious Mother which appeared with the legal information in this column on May 22, regarding common law marriages.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

(Answers prepared by a physician of authority. Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses on treatment of individual cases will not be given. Questions that cannot be publicly discussed, if showing evidences of sincerity, will be answered when accompanied by stamped envelope.)

X. Y. Z.—A safe way to remove warts is to apply a mixture of 15 grains of salicylic acid in 1 ounce of glycerin once or twice daily, covering with a thin layer of absorbent cotton. Parts must at all times be kept scrupulously clean.

A READER.—For excessive perspiration of the hands, have any obvious deviation from health corrected. Take a level teaspoon of precipitated sulphur in milk twice daily. Bathe the hands in very hot water and then with one drachm of salicylic acid in alcohol. After drying use a dusting powder of equal parts of starch, zinc oxide, boric acid and salicylic acid.

PERPLEXED.—We do not recognize the condition from your description. If these are warts, and anyone should be able to recognize a wart, apply with the tip of a wooden toothpick enough oil of cinnamon to moisten the top once daily. If these are small capillary blood vessels, no larger than a pinhead, they may be scraped or cut off and alcohol applied, maintaining pressure over them for a time.

SUFFERER.—While no exact statistics are, of course, available, we would not question the statement that 68 per cent of the people have syphilis, basing this claim on Wasserman tests made of several hundred people. Under the conditions you state we would say that person was cured and marriage would be safe. No medicine is necessary to eliminate medicine. One of the very best tonics and tissue builders is a pure cod liver oil, in small teaspoonful doses.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of our dearly beloved son and brother, Charles Sanders, who departed from us June 5, 1914.

Surrounded by friends, we are lonesome,
In the midst of pleasures we are blue,
A smile on our face, still a heartache,
Aching and longing for you.
There are griefs that cannot find comfort,
And wounds that cannot be healed;
Theer are sorrows so deep in the human heart that cannot be half revealed.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND SISTERS.

In loving memory of Private Walter E. Swenson, 83d Company, Sixth Regiment, U. S. M. C., who made the supreme sacrifice June 6, 1918, in the battle of Belleau Wood:
"Those of us who are permitted to live on in the world set free by such sacrifice will need to use to the fullest our powers for good, if we are to be even remotely worthy to live in a world for which such young men died."
Sadly missed by,
MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHER.

In sad, but loving remembrance of our darling daughter and sister, Veronica Fischer, who passed away one year ago, June 4, 1919:

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still.
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

Like a beautiful rose that hath bloomed for eight short years, and then one early dawn hath faded at my side. Sleep on, dear Veronica, thy sufferings are o'er, thy little heart shall ache no more. Sadly missed by her mother,
MRS. MARY FISCHER, SISTER AND BROTHERS and her many relatives and friends.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Emma Bohle, who departed this life 10 years ago, May 31, 1910.

A loving mother, true and kind,
No friend like her on earth we'll find.
God called her home—it was His will—
But in our hearts she lingers still.
For all of us she did her best.
God grant her eternal rest.
Sadly missed by HER CHILDREN AND THOSE WHO LOVED HER.

Notice.

Notice, members of Brilliant Lodge, No. 55, Knights of Pythias, are requested to attend the funeral services of Brother Alex McDowell, at residence, 6701 Idaho avenue, Sunday, June 6, 1920, at 2:34 p. m.

Hundreds to pick from; "oh, big boy," we thought of you; a big lot of 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50 sizes; also mohair suits; we are still playing around that $25, $30 and $35 mark. We claim a $5 bill profit is all we need on "a suit." "Out-of-the-high-rent district." "No heavy expenses." 10 years we have saved thousands of dollars for the clothes-buying public. "What the Drummers' Sample Clothes Shop means to you." These fine garments are made by the manufacturers for display or modeling purposes for traveling salesmen; they are made much better than the regular goods; after they show them off we buy them at a big discount; we give you the benefit of our immense buying capacity; this policy enables us to save you money. All we ask you to "go shoping around" first and come here last, and we will certainly get your "dough." "Buy more, pay less." Vandeventer, Market, Sarah, Manchester, Chouteau and all other lines transfer to our door. We again announce our "Trade-in-Sale" Department. We will make you a liberal allowance on your old clothes for new ones. "Abrams," "The Place to Buy Clothes," 923 S. Vandeventer av., near Chouteau. (c)

QUALITY NEWELL SAINT LOUIS

A Good Display of Used Cars at the Coliseum

(Washington—Jefferson—Locust)

For a limited time we will display our splendid and comprehensive assortment of Exchanged Cars at the Coliseum.

The display will be the most complete we have ever offered to the public. It embraces practically every type of car from a Ford roadster to a luxurious limousine, and the range of price is such as to meet every requirement.

BUICK ROADSTER—1918 good paint, cord tires, Winter and Summer top; exceptional buy at the price.

MITCHELL ROADSTER — 1918; good value at the price.

OVERLAND SEDAN—1918; 4-90; in good mechanical condition; new paint.

PAIGE—7-pass. touring; with wire wheels. This car was specially painted the very latest color in gray and trimmings finished in emerald green. All parts have been renickeled, including bumper. We suggest you see this car at the price offered.

STEARNS—5-pass. 1920 demonstrator. Used very little; repainted Stearns blue, natural colored wheels; cord tires; price that is right.

VELIE—Light six, 5-pass. touring; newly painted; good mechanical condition; 5 horseshoe tires. At a moderate price.

WESTCOTT—1917 7-pass. touring; wire wheels, cord tires, new paint; all trimmings renickeled; channel bumper; good, serviceable condition; at a good price.

STEARNS — Late model 5-pass. touring, used only a limited period, newly painted brilliant vermilion. This car is in excellent condition.

PAGE CABRIOLET—1918 light six. This car is repainted, parts renickeled. This car is equipped with Fisk cord tires, front and rear bumper. Secure our price.

JORDAN — Late model 7-pass. touring. This car has been repainted; good tires. Car of exceptional value. Low price.

BUICK—1918 touring; with Summer and Winter top.

STEARNS — Late model 5-pass. touring; newly painted, color elephant gray, trimmings and running gear finished in an emerald green; has the appearance of a new car.

MARMON TOWN CAR — High-class motor car; in pink of condition; beautifully painted with maroon color; wire wheels, Miller tires and other accessories.

MISCELLANEOUS—We have to offer several touring cars with electric lights and starters, which need some work. We would rather sell them as they stand than put same in condition. Look these Automobiles over.

Stock consists of high-grade makes demonstrating tires; many show less than 500 miles' use. Guaranteed to give good mileage at a big saving to you. Also 2850 red and gray tubes at half price. This stock will show for itself. Call and satisfy yourself as you cannot afford to miss this chance to reduce your tire cost. A mighty good reselling price to dealers in lots of $200 or more as this stock will please your customers. Wheels, rims and parts of all makes. Also Ford demountable wheels. Send us your vulcanizing. GLENN TIRE AND VULCANIZING CO. Grand and Pine.

GREATEST VALUE IN TIRES

GOODYEAR, GOODRICH and other standard-make adjustment tires obtained direct from their respective factories.

GUARANTEED

They contained surface defects which have been corrected by our expert mechanics in CHICAGO. The inner carcass is flawless and perfect. None of them has gone more than 500 miles, some less. They are solid and sturdy, and are good for thousands of miles. We pledge their worth. Save yourself more than 50 per cent.

$1 Tire Sale
$150,000 Worth of Tires and Tubes

This sale is being continued for an unlimited time, and is the most sensational ever held in St. Louis.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE OF THESE WELL-KNOWN MAKES:
Fisk, Cupples, Batavia, Warner S. S., Firestone, Kokomo, Boone, National, Summitt, Savage, Duo-Cords, Lehigh, and 30 other well-known makes to choose from. Come in and we will satisfy you.

This offer includes sizes from 30x3 to 37x5, and we guarantee every tire from 3500 miles to 8000 miles. First choice is best choice, so take our advice and buy now, and buy liberally for future needs, for another increase in the price of tires and tubes very soon. Some makes in certain sizes are limited in quantities and sizes. Prices quoted subject to stock on hand. We therefore reserve the right to limit quantities sold. We give you service with the tires we sell, absolutely free. Mail orders accompanied by $2.00 deposit will be filled promptly. Open evenings and all day Sunday.

Here is the proposition: If you buy a Tire at the regular retail list price, we will sell you another Tire for $1.00. Think of it. Practically two tires for the price of one. You can pay a small deposit on the tires you select and we will hold them thirty days for you.

72 CANDIDATES IN PRIMARY RACE FOR 17 COUNTY OFFICES

Contest for State Senator Between Incumbent Gardner and Richard Ralph Most Interesting.

When the filing period expired Friday night, 51 Republicans, 12 Democrats and nine Socialists had formally indicated their intention to seek nomination at the primary election to be held in St. Louis County, Aug. 3, to choose nominees for 17 offices. Five present members of the Republican County Central Committee have filed for re-election, while 20 Democrats will contend for places on the Democratic Committee.

The contest attracting greatest interest is that between A. E. L. Gardner, the incumbent, and Prosecuting Attorney Richard Ralph for the Republican nomination for State Senator. Ralph is Fred Essen's candidate, Essen having split with his old associate, Senator Gardner.

There also is dissension in the Democratic ranks, the Daly-Bruce faction having filed 11 candidates for membership on the County Central Committee, while the faction headed by John F. Mooney has filed nine. Mooney says Daly did not notify some of the committeemen of the meeting to select candidates until after it had been held.

John F. Willman, Marshal of University City, is announced for the Republican nomination for Sheriff. He told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday, in reply to a question, that he is opposed to gambling in the county, and will not permit it if elected. There has been a great deal of it during the administration of Sherif Bopp, who also is a Republican.

Offices and Candidates.

The offices and those who are candidates for the nominations follow:

Representatives in the Legislature—First District, Rep John A. Nolan, Edwin McD. S Alfred Wilson, Walter Stahlh Pierce Barnard; Democrat, F Johnson; Socialist, Samuel Ra Second District, Republican: G Hegge, Frank Bleitz and Wallach; Democrats, Reuben and Henry Wessels; So Thomas Delmore.

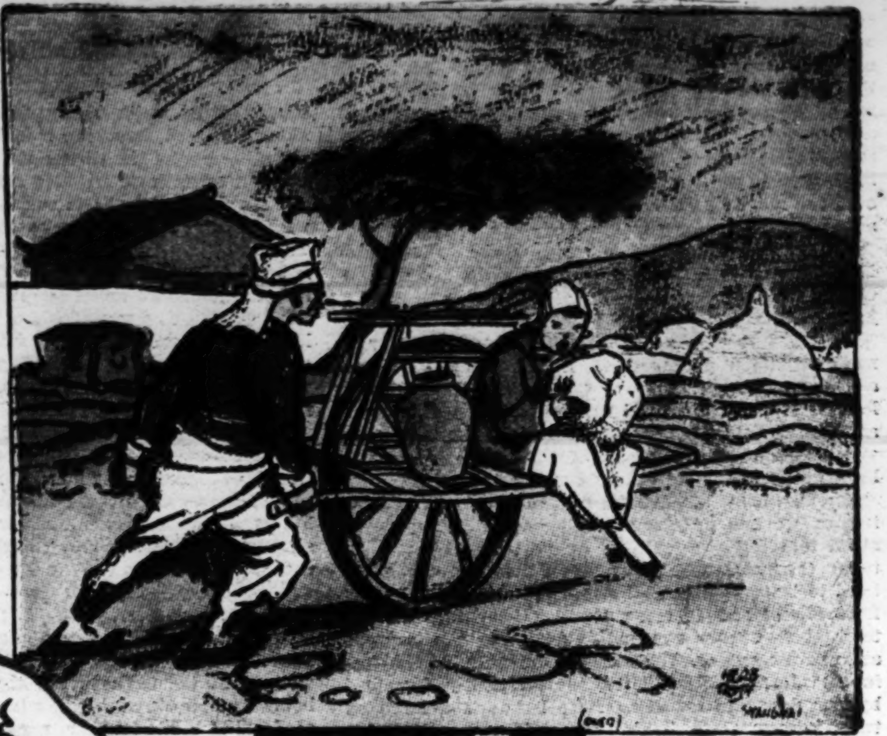
The Most Costly of Lace Bridal Caps

ANY ambitious June bride who has $3000 can rivet attention on her nuptials by investing in this filmy piece of point applique. A wealth of historical associations go with it. Louis XV was King of France when this cap first adorned the curls of the beautiful Duchesse de Berri as she held her famous levees surrounded by courtiers and even His Majesty. Ever since it has been in the possession of the De Berri family as one of its priceless heirlooms. Like so many others of the French aristocracy made poor by the war, her descendants have been compelled to offer this lovely adornment for sale to some New World heiress, and it is now in New York. It is so well preserved that it appears as fresh as when it came from the lace makers a little less than two centuries ago.

SO, THIS IS CHINA!

Second of illustrated letters from Herb Roth, Post-Dispatch Magazine staff artist voyaging in the Orient



DEAR READERS:

On Saturday we reached the Yellow Sea, an expanse of bright yellow water, through which we wallowed all day. By evening we had passed a thousand picturesque junks.

By morning we were running up the Yang Tse Kiang with the strong tide, and turned into the Yang Poo, up which we crawled for a dozen miles and made a good landing right up against the company's float at Shanghai.

B-r-r-r! It was cold—colder than St. Louis ever seems. The wind was blowing across China, through the Yang Tse Valley, direct from Siberia. Nothing to stop it on the way. The same Yang Tse Valley supplies all the nice yellow mud which the river carries down to the Pacific, forming the Yellow Sea.

Half of our passengers left the ship at Shanghai. They had friends waiting at the dock, the girls wearing the most gorgeous furs I ever saw.

We strolled through the gates and sauntered on up to the Astor Hotel, followed by a mob of yelling rickshaw boys and beggars filthy beyond description. Very few of these Chinks wear pigtails. Most that I saw had their hair sawed off, about six or eight inches long, and lank. Their clothes were—well, anything they could find; some so tattered it was a marvel how they could get into them. Nearly all were barefoot or with light grass sandals on.

At the Astor we called on Mr. Graham Barrow, author, actor, teacher, priest and ex-amateur lightweight champion of England, to whom we had a note. He has a fine apartment which he shares with a young parson—waited on by a Chinese boy. I'd like to have one just like him.

"Boy—a drink," was all you heard, and the boy mixed a cocktail called a "Pink Lady," which was worth the whole trip East.

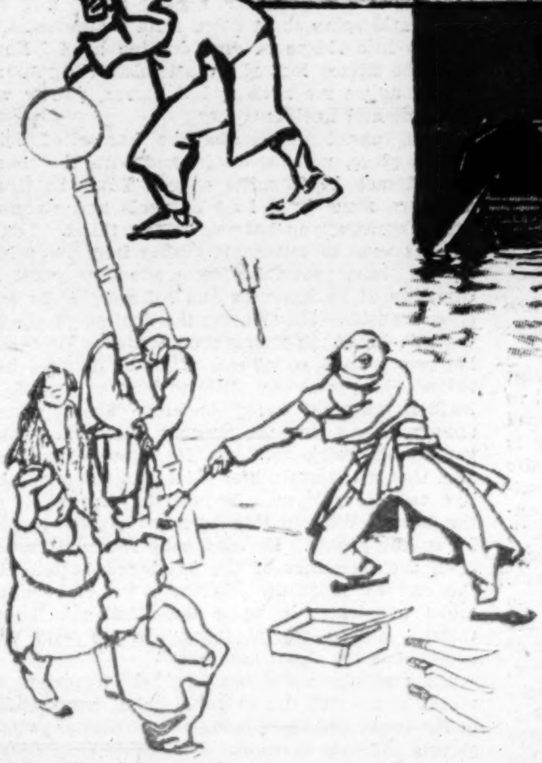
"Boy—a drink!" Oh, boy!

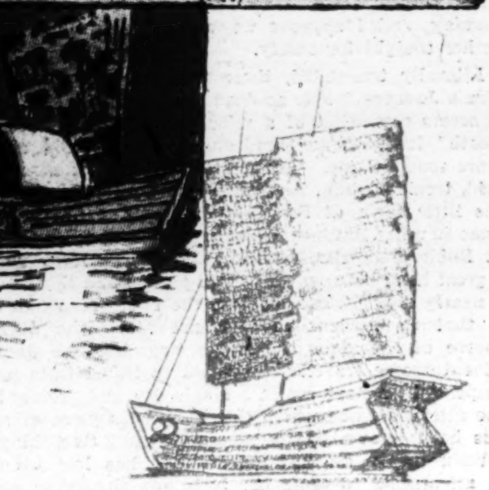
Soo Chow Creek to me was far the best, with its junks and sampans and straining coolies. I just sketch junks all day now. There are all kinds—fine, polished teakwood affairs; big houseboats and lowly cheap things, with sack sails patched with cobweb. The sampans are quite gaudy, and look like big wooden shoes, or very brightly colored gondolas, with blue, red and green paint, yellow mats and a staring eye at the bow. All junks have an eye painted on each side of the bow. "No can see, no can go."

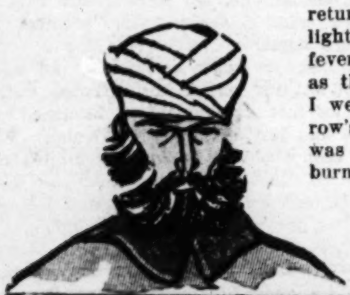
Junks, barges and sampans, with all their life going on board!

There seems nothing concealed in the home life of a Chinaman. They cook, eat, drink, gamble, have a colic and die out in the open—everything but wash. I did see one washing his feet.

On the road we passed rickshaws, horses and wheelbarrows. In the fields we saw graves, and coffins waiting for burial. By the time we returned to the hotel I was lightheaded with chills and fever, and a throat that felt as though it had been cut. I went up to Graham Barrow's room and a doctor was sent for—tonsilitis. He burned a flock of spots out of my throat with nitrate of silver, and I lay down and went to sleep.







"I woke up at tea time. From then on until 7 people would drop in for a smoke, a chat and a dish of tea. Some Americans—lots of English. George and I can't take a drink now without saying "Cheerio," or "Ra-aather, what?"

Well, there was a Pink Lady cocktail, fortified with a dash of brandy, that restored me, and I felt well enough to totter with the rest to the Carlton, Shanghai's classisest dancing place. A fine floor, good music and a corking dinner for 12, which cost $70, gold.

By midnight I went back to the ship. One of the girls and the aunt of another came with me. I had borrowed a dollar from George, which I gave to the coolies at the dock, and we three started for the ship. Wow! Our three rickshaw boys came screaming after us, and about 50 others, shoving at us with their filthy hands, jabbering in 60 dialects and generally raising hob. Personally, I felt so woozy that it all seemed kind of dreamy. I just stood and wondered what it was all about. The girl, however, fixed it up. George had given me a lead dollar—she gave them a good one.

On the dock side next morning, fakirs, jugglers and beggars swarmed. Most of the jugglers were mere kids. Cake and sweetmeat venders jostled about, and a trained-rat man, carved wood and ivory dealers, and money changers, clamored just across the bridge, where a barber had set up business, and a shoe mender. And all about were scores of ragged urchins, all of them laughing and having a good time. I like China, what little I have been able to see so far.

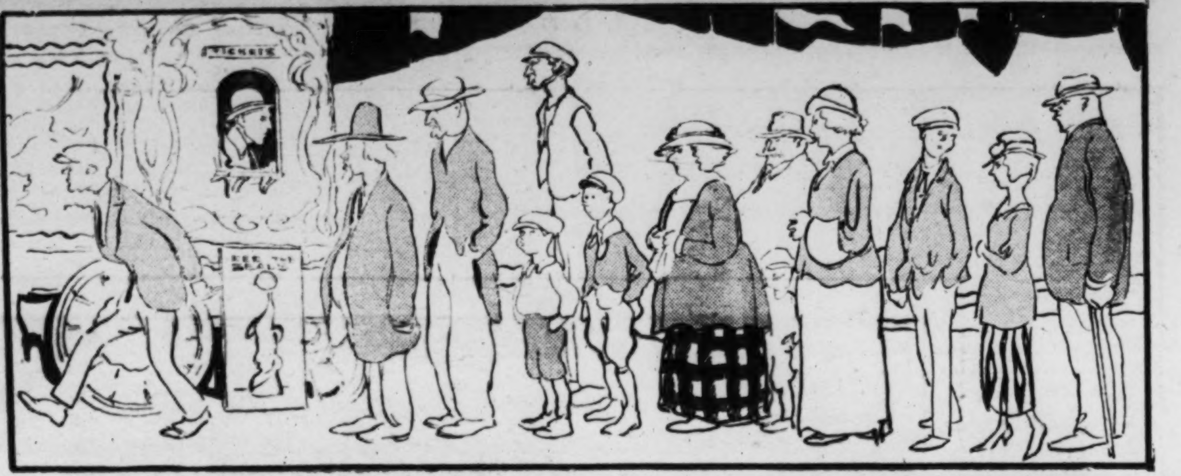
Fantastic Facts in Plain Business

Subtleties of human nature in every-day commercial transactions furnish more oddities than adventure or fiction :-: :-:



A certain number of people always forget their change at the circus ticket window.

CURIOUS facts have always stood first among things beguiling. Here is a curious fact about curious facts:

Merchants, clerical workers, salesmen and other people attached to the army of commerce are accustomed to find their marvels in reports of the latest profundities of science, in travelers' stories set far in the outlands, in the fantasies of fictionists, when some of the most curious facts to be told are found in the business of running a store, of selling shoes, of dressing show windows. This is the most striking oddity to be found in a recent collection of oddities, an ultra-modern treatise on the subtleties of commerce, "Human Nature in Business," by Fred C. Kelly (G. Putnam & Sons). The ancient thesis is upheld, that the most unheard-of things are to be found at home.

Restaurant men know that appetites are not the same on a dark, gloomy day as on a day that is bright and cheerful. The surprising thing is that people eat most on the day that is dark and dismal. On a cloudy day people just sit and eat.

Dentists know that people are slow to make and quick to break appointments on cloudy days. A cloudy day is depressing and patients lack the nerve to face the ordeal.

Windy days affect cigar sales.

But bad weather helps the physicians. Lowered spirits make people think they need the doctor.

Rainy days boost the mail order business. Because country people, obliged to remain indoors, drive away dull care by reading mail order catalogues.

Department store business is seriously hurt by rain in the forenoon, but rain in the early afternoon is a great help. Women refrain from starting on shopping tours in the first instance, in the second they are compelled to remain in the store, and they shop some more.

Most lines of business, however, bloom with sunshine. Architects, for instance, find that few people come in on gloomy days. It takes sunshine to fire the owner of a piece of ground with visions of a beautiful house standing thereon.

Still, a rainy June is highly profitable to a big awning concern, because of the extra number of awnings that must be erected for June weddings.

On the morning of Tuesday, April 3, 1917, men smoked more cigars than usual. The day was a record breaker for cigar sales all over the country. This was all the more surprising, because Tuesday ordinarily is the dullest day in the week for cigar sales. Men stock up Saturday for over Sunday, and replenish their stock again on Monday morning. This usually carries them over Tuesday. On Tuesday, April 3, 1917, more cigars were sold in New York City than on any other Tuesday in the city's history. Why?

On the night previous the President of the United States had appeared before Congress and asked for a declaration of war against Germany. When people read the papers the next morning, it made them extremely thoughtful. Men were inclined to gather and talk—and smoke.

A big parade on the main street of a town always reduces cigar sales that day. Men get interested in the goings on and forget to smoke.

When a grown man buys an ocharina or a tin whistle, he invariably says it's for somebody else.

Circus men know that a circus crowd will always contain a definite proportion of "walkaways," people who forget their change at the window. In an average circus crowd they are worth about $20 to the ticket seller. As the crowd grows the money thus left becomes larger at an increasing rate—because people are more tense in a big crowd, and are more likely to be forgetful.

An amusing thing about a circus crowd is this: Nine out of every 10 persons who talk to a circus man on the show grounds ask him exactly the same question: "Where do you go from here?" It is never, "What is your next town?" or the question in any other wording, but always and precisely, "Where do go from here?"

The wind counts: A windy day in New York City costs a great cigar concern about $4000. Many men do their smoking along the street, and it is not pleasant to smoke in a high wind.

More candy and soda are sold at 3 o'clock in the afternoon than at any other time of the day. The next best hour is 8 o'clock in the evening. Five women buy soda water to every four men. Women buy candy oftener than men, but men buy more at a time, so the sexes average equal as candy purchasers.

Hot weather is good for ice cream and soda sales, but only to a certain point. When the temperature gets above a certain figure, sales fall off. The weather is too hot for the exertion of walking to a soda fountain. From 72 to 90 degrees Fahrenheit seems to be the best for soda sales.

The shady side of the street is the busy side. It gets the greatest amount of pedestrian traffic. This is true not only in summer, but also in winter, when the sunlight might seem altogether acceptable. But the shade in the winter tends to prevent thawing, and the shady side is less slushy. It is the dry side.

Appointments with dentists are seldom kept on cloudy days.

The shady side of the street will, in general average 24 per cent over the sunny side, so far as traffic is concerned.

There is a street in Boston that is often so crowded on one side as to be almost impassable on that side, while the other side is wellnigh deserted.

The manager of the musical department of a big store says that most violin and guitar strings are sold on Saturday—for use on Sunday, obviously. But for some reason music teachers buy most of their sheet music on Monday.

Whenever a grown man buys a mouth organ, jewsharp, kazoo or tin fife, he almost invariably makes it a point to say that it is for his little boy, or somebody else.

A father who says not a word about paying $250 for a piano for his daughter, will dicker a long time when buying a violin for his son.

A large chain drug store corporation determined to investigate women's perfumery tastes. By offering free samples and talking to the women who accepted them, they learned that one woman out of 10 does not like perfume at all. One-fourth of all women customers desire a strong aromatic variety. Two-thirds want a scent that is very mild and delicate. These proportions were practically the same for New York stores and for stores in Iowa.

A number of years ago, when William Gillette was playing in "Sherlock Holmes," there was an increase in the sales of dressing gowns in every town where he appeared. The reason was that in one scene the great detective wore a dressing gown, and many men who went to see the play were filled with the idea of how clever and effective they themselves would look if they were to loll about in thoughtful, graceful attitudes, clad in a robe such as the great "Holmes" wore.

Sherlock Holmes booms dressing gowns.

A grocer tells that when the famous "Hand him a lemon" joke was going around, there was a noticeable falling off in lemon sales.

Department store keepers were perturbed when people began wearing the same weight of underwear all year around. But soon the merchants found that the change was in reality a great benefit for them. It greatly increased the total sale of underwear. There is small romance in a set of plain, unfrilled, old-fashioned woolen underwear; but the woman who sits before her dressing table preening herself is likely to feel pleased with her garments decked with laces and frills. And so long as the effect is gratifying to the eye, she proved willing to spend twice as much as she formerly did for articles that merely kept her warm.

Starvation for Diabetes Condemned

CONDEMNATION of the classic starvation treatment of diabetes is the feature of an article by Dr. Thomas W. Edgar in the New York Medical Journey. Dr. Edgard says that patients have been taught to dread sugar until the slightest evidence of it causes them the greatest mental agony and starvation is much more acceptable than sugar.

"I have one patient," he writes, "who existed for one year on two eggs, three leaves of lettuce, three slices of bacon with eight ounces of alcohol daily, and she taught school five days a week. She wondered why she was losing weight and becoming weaker."

As a result of his personal observation he calls starvation a dangerous procedure which should never be indulged without the supervision of a competent physician. For it results in such weakness that the patient is prone to take any infection, his system has lost its power of tolerance and so rebels instantly against the slightest indiscretion in diet.

A father who pays $250 for his daughter's piano will dicker a long time before buying a violin for his son.

By Wagon Trail From St. Louis to El Paso

here two and a half years ago. In coming from Craig to this ranch, then, one of our horses took sick, and all night long I kept doctoring him, and walking him to and fro We also got a miserable supper here, and were put into a damp room, which, however, was soon abandoned for a fire built outside the house. Stapleton, who generally is a clever, reasonable man, on this night was very drunk, and by his drunken antics made things much worse. As long as memory retains her power, that night can never be forgotten by those of our party. As the main road no longer runs close by his ranch, I saw the theater of our night's experience at a distance of several hundred yards, but well did I recognize the place. Soon after we passed Stapleton himself came riding along, and we had a talk about the eventful night. Drunk as he was then, he today remembered all the circumstances.

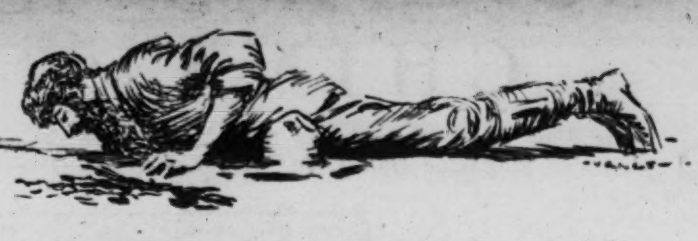
We camped for breakfast opposite the town of La Mesa, at the foot of the large mesa that overlooks Craig. When I came by here last there was only a jacal or two, and now there is a large town.

A little after 1 we again started out, intending to make what few purchases we needed at Craig and go a little further on. At Craig I found two New Holland letters. We could not find anything we wanted here and so we left and went across the river, close by which we made an early camp for the night, under two large cottonwoods to the right of the road.

Tuesday, Sept. 12.—We did not start early this morning, as we had only a few miles to go. A drive of about four miles brought us to the town of Fra Cristobal (Parraje) where, as usual, we unsuccessfully tried to buy provisions. I succeeded in getting a little fresh cheese and D. a few tortillas. We drove out of town about two or two and a half miles and here we are now encamped. This is the beginning of the far-famed "Jornado del Muerto," so frequently described by travelers and authors. Near by us is a large ox train in camp, which also starts in some time this evening, and I suppose we will travel and sleep together tonight for safety.

Literally translated, these words mean "The Dead Man's Journey," but, as dead men make no journeys, it seems somewhat of a misnomer. "The Journey of Death" is the freer rendering of the words and a more sensible one. This famous journey is across an arid, treeless plain, beginning on its northern edge at the little town of Fra Cristobal and running thence some 90 miles southward, again striking the Rio Grande at Roblero, in the Mesilla Valley. The river makes a great bend between these two places, and the road is a nearly straight cut between the two. Tradition has it that an ancient road wound along the devious course of the river the entire way, but one day an adventursome traveler attempted to travel from point to point by a near cut in a single day and perished in the attempt, since which this dangerous piece of road has been known by its present name. One thing is certain—many an ill-fated traveler has lost his life in attempting to cross it. It is not altogether destitute of water. About 20 miles from the northern entrance is the Laguna del Muerto ("Dead Man's Lake"), which is little else than a depression in the plain, which is filled with water during the rainy season, but is commonly dry during the summer. There is also the Ojo del Muerto ("Dead Man's Spring"), some six miles to the westward of the road, but in the heart of the very ugly hilly country between it and the river, and in a very dangerous Indian country, so that animals are seldom driven there for water. Half-way across is a water hole called the Aleman, where water is commonly to be had. In rainy weather the gulches also contain some, but in the dry season none of these watering places is to be relied on, and the traveler must rely on what he carries with him, while his animals must either share his supply or do without any.

A late writer thus relates his experiences and impressions while making this dreaded journey: "In two hours we reached the river crossing at Fra Cristobal. Here the road parts from the river and strikes into the waterless desert. We plunged through the shallow ford, coming out on the eastern bank. We filled our 'gauges'—gourds—with care, and, giving our animals as much as they would drink, we rode onward. We have not traveled far before we recognize the appropriate name of this terrible journey. Scattered along the path we see the bones of many animals. There are human bones, too. That white, spheroidal mass, with its grinning rows of serrated sutures—that is a human skull. It lies beside the skeleton of a horse. Horse and rider have fallen together. The wolves have stripped them at the same time. They have dropped down on the thirsty track, and perished in despair, although water, had they known it, was within reach of another effort. We see the skeleton of a mule with the alperaja still buckled around it, and an old blanket, flapped and tossed by many a whistling wind. Other objects that have been brought there by human aid strike the eye as we proceed. A broken canteen, the fragments of a glass bottle, an old hat, a piece of saddlecloth, a stirrup, red with rust, a broken strap, with many like symbols, are strewed along the path, speaking a melancholy language. We are still only on the border of the desert; we are fresh; how, when we have traveled over and neared the opposite side? Shall we leave such souvenirs? We are filled with painful forebodings as we look across the arid waste that stretches indefinitely before us. Nature is herself the enemy we fear. Taking the wagon tracks for our guide, we creep on. We grow silent, as if we were dumb. The mountains of Fra Cristobal sink behind us; we are almost out of sight of land; we can see the ridges of the Sierra Blanco away to the eastward, but before us, to the south, the eye encounters no mark or limit.



"I stretched myself on the brink for a draft."

"The sun grows hotter and hotter. I knew this would be the case when we started. It was one of those cool mornings, with fog on the river and in the air. The sun is climbing upwards, and every moment his rays become fiercer and more fervid. There is a strong wind blowing, but it does not fan us into coolness. On the contrary, it lifts the burning crystals and spits them painfully in our faces. We toil on through the yielding sand. For miles we see no trace of vegetation. We enter a plain covered with artemisia and clumps of the hideous greasewood. The warped and twisted branches impede our progress. For hours we ride through thickets of the bitter sage, and at length enter another region, sandy and rolling. Long, arid spurs shoot down from the mountains, and decline into ridges of dry, drifting sand. Now, not even the silvery leaf of the artemisia cheers our path. Before us we see nothing but barren, yellow waste—trackless and treeless.

"You cannot understand the horror of being in such a place, without water, and with the consciousness it may be 50 miles away. You who live in a Northern zone—in a land of pools and streams and limpid springs, you have never felt thirst. You know not the want of water. It gushes from every hillside, and you have grown fastidious about its quality. You complain of its hardness and softness, or its want of crystal purity. How unlike the denizen of the desert, the traveler of the prairie sea. Water is his chief care, his ever-present solicitude; it is the divinity he worships. Hunger he can stifle so long as a patch of his leathern garment hangs to him. Should game not appear he can trap the marmot, catch the lizard and gather the prairie crickets. He knows every root and seed that will sustain life. Give him water and he will live and struggle on. He will in time crawl out of the desert. Without this, he may chew the leaden bullet or the pebble. He may split spheroid cactus and open the intestines of the butchered buffalo, but in the end he must die. Without water, even in the midst of plenty, he must die. Ah! you know not thirst. It is a fearful thing. In the wild Western desert it is the thirst that kills."

The majordomo and nearly all the teamsters we expected to go with this evening, being drunk and down in the town, and there being a very slim show of their getting off this evening, we concluded to try it by ourselves. We made some coffee and took a little supper, took the animals to the river for a final watering, and after filling our keg and canteen, hitched up, and at a quarter of 5 in the evening started into the much-dreaded 90-mile trip. This jornado has two separate terrors for travelers. The first is the scarcity of water to be found on it, and, secondly, the Indians — Navajoes and Apaches—who infest it. As to water, there is nearly always water to be found in a laguna (lake) 25 miles from Fra Cristobal. Sometimes, however, as now, it is dry. There are, besides, three other places where, under favorable circumstances, water is found: First, five miles south of the laguna, in a low place or bottom called "Perria;" secondly, (going south), at a place known as the "Point of Rocks," about 2[illegible] miles from the Pierra; and, lastly, at a place known as the "Aleman," some 15 miles further on.

Well, we went slowly and steadily into the vast plain stretched out before us and continued going as fast as our animals could, and about 9:30 o'clock made camp. We tied the mules close to the wagons and D. went to bed. I gave the beasts their oats and stood guard until 12:15, when, being very cold, I woke him up and took his place in the blankets, while he took mine as guard until 3 o'clock, when we hitched up.

Wednesday, Sept. 13.—It was very cold as we drove out of camp this morning, and I put two coats and a blanket over me to keep warm. The animals traveled well and steadily and about 5:30 o'clock we came to what I think was the Perria, where we filled up our water vessels again, gave the animals water and then drove about four miles further to make camp and breakfast. We missed the lake in the dimness of the morning, but it was of no consequence, as there is no water in it now, as we took care to be posted on that point. On the Perria, which is a shallow pool of water several hundred yards long and half as wide I saw several birds, new to me.

At 3 o'clock we drove out again and went slowly for an hour, when I discovered water in an arroyo by the roadside. This was the water known as Aleman, but we were not aware of it at the time. I was never more rejoiced. The day had been intensely hot, and the animals had been going without water since early morning, so we concluded to camp again for several hours, let the mules drink and eat the fine grass close at hand, which we did.

I have said I never was more rejoiced than at finding this water, yet what water it was! The arroyo was broad and the water in it hardly an inch deep—the remaining relic of a rain that had fallen days, perhaps weeks before. The hot suns had slowly dried it up until what remained hardly deserved the name of water. It was literally swarming with living things. Creatures of unknown kinds and most repulsive in appearance were crawling in and through it. I stretched myself on the brink for a draft, but it was impossible to get at the shallow water without having the loathsome creatures creeping about the lips and even into the mouth. I had been driven by stress of circumstances often before to drink water that perhaps none of the readers of this could conceive drinkable, but this mixture of water, mud, green scum, insects and animalculae was even more than ever fell to my lot before. The only way was to close the eyes and commend yourself to Providence. Even the mules, thirsty beyond expression, could only be induced to touch it from their overpowering necessity; even then they would leave it, only to return and try the repulsive draft once more. It is at such times that one vows that when once well over their present experience they will never risk a similar one, but have a care that a spring of clear water shall be the necessary accompaniment of their future home.

At 6 in the evening, we again rolled out, our animals refreshed and all our vessels for carrying water full. Soon after we met a train which informed us the water hole we had just left was the Aleman. We continued going, and about 10 o'clock encamped on this side of Point of Rocks, 18 miles from the Aleman. As before, D. took a two hours' nap and I stood guard over the mules, picketed close to the wagons.

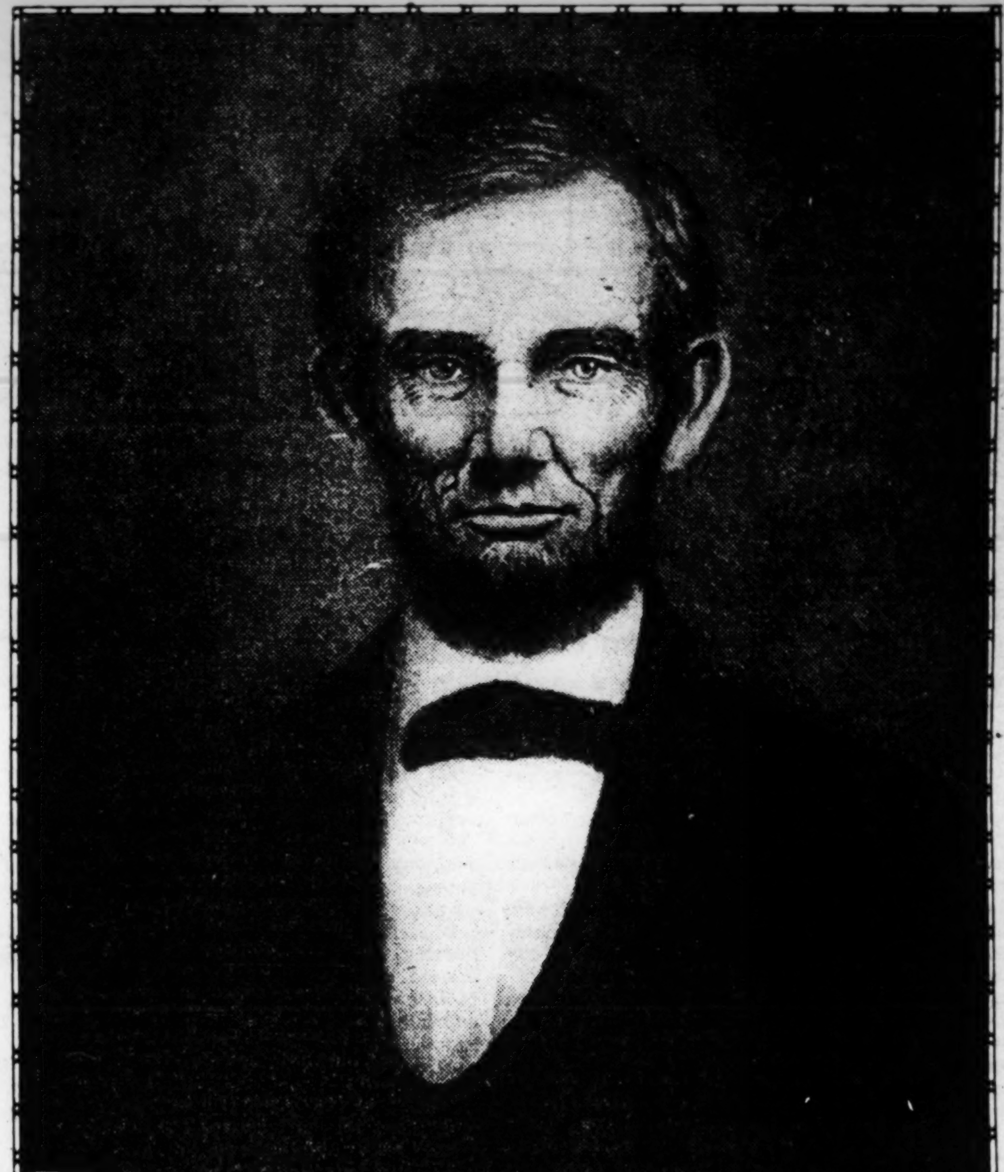
Women say La-may stays on better than any other face-powder.

Up to the present time it has been almost impossible to get a face powder to stay on longer than it takes to put it on. You powder your nose nicely, and the first gust of wind or the first puff of your handkerchief and away goes the powder, leaving your nose shiny and conspicuous, probably just when you would give anything to appear at your best. A specialist has perfected a pure powder that really stays on; that stays on until you wash it off. It does not contain white lead or starchy rice powder to make it stay on. This improved formula contains a medicinal powder doctors prescribe to improve the complexion. In fact, this powder helps to prevent and reduce enlarged pores and irritations. It is also astringent, discouraging flabbiness, crow's feet and wrinkles. This unusual powder is called La-may (French, Poudre L'Ame). Because La-may is so pure and because it stays on so well it is already used by over a million American women. All dealers carry the large sixty-cent box and many dealers also carry the generous thirty-cent size. When you use this harmless powder and see how beautifully it improves your complexion you will understand why La-may so quickly became the most popular beauty powder sold in New York. There is also a wonderful La-may Talcum which sells for only thirty cents. Herbert Roystone, 16 East 18th St., New York.

The "Official" Painting of Lincoln

Completed after lifetime of patient work by artist who made sketches of martyred President when a soldier in the war — Now to be hung in United States Senate, after acceptance by distinguished jury which included Lincoln's son



Photograph of the Thorp painting of Lincoln, made from the only sketches for which the President posed.

FIFTY-EIGHT years ago a lad of 17, with a natural bent for sketching, but with no schooling in art, made a pencil sketch of Abraham Lincoln. Just recently the Senate of the United States voted to pay the artist $2000 for an oil painting based on that sketch. The portrait will be hung in the corridor back of the Senate chamber, in a place of honor, with the likenesses of Washington, Jefferson, Adams and others of the nation's great.

The artist is Freeman Thorp, now 75 years old, of Hubert, Minn., and Washington, D. C. Completion of the Lincoln portrait only a short time ago marked the culmination of practically a lifetime of patient endeavor, directed toward the goal of producing a picture that would stand as a classic, like Stuart's Washington. Acceptance of the painting by the Senate, after its approval by Gen. Miles, Justice Day of the Supreme Court, Robert T. Lincoln, son of the President, and others who knew his kindly, rugged features in the flesh, is regarded by the artist as complete fulfillment of his life's ambition.

In 1871, Thorp relates, Senators who had been intimate with Lincoln began to cast about for a portrait of him that would be worthy of hanging at the Capitol. All the portraits in existence, it was found, had been made from photographs, none from original sketches. The Senators decided to wait for Thorp's portrait. To facilitate his work, they had a little studio built for him on the roof of the Senate wing of the Capitol, and there, as he found the opportunity, he worked for 20 years, from 1871 to 1891, when the studio was taken down. He was given the privilege of both the House and the Senate floor, so that he might freely talk to members of Congress who knew Lincoln and supplement his own impressions with theirs.

As the basis for his work, Thorp had not only the sketch he made when 17, but another dated three years later, when, as a soldier in the Union army, he was given leave to go to Gettysburg for the express purpose of drawing a picture of the President. On both occasions, he says, he stood close to the President and succeeded in getting on paper his animated expression in conversation.

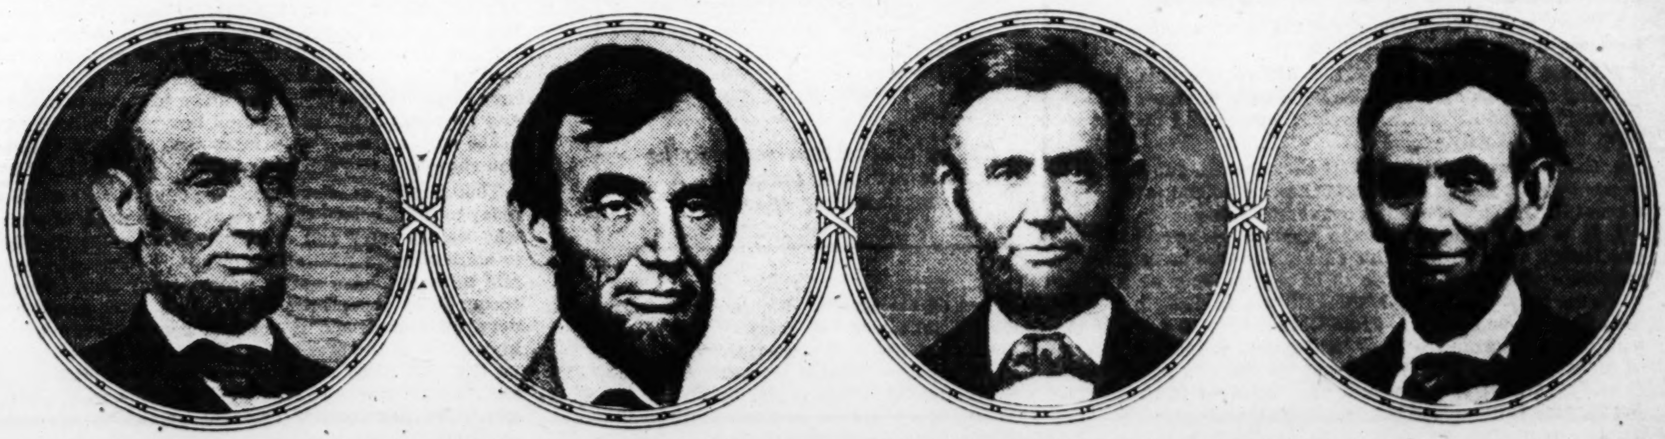
"You will notice," said Thorp, referring to the finished portrait, "that the expression is not so solemn as that recorded by most of the pictures of Licoln. That is because they were drawn from photographs, and a man usually has a bored expression when he sits before a camera. Especially was this so in Lincoln's day, when sitting to a photographer was a long and arduous task. The portrait I have made is the only one not drawn from a photograph. It portrays Lincoln's countenance as it was lighted up when he talked with his friends."

Thorp was told by the Senators of 1871 to make a thorough study of the life and character of Lincoln. This he did. He studied Lincoln as revealed in his speeches and writings; sought out persons in Washington and elsewhere who had known him; examined all the photographs and portraits he could find. He can today, he says, recite from memory practically all the more notable of Lincoln's addresses.

Freeman Thorp, the artist.

All this was the work of years. A parallel task was that of perfecting himself in the technique of portrait painting. Had he attempted to paint the portrait of Lincoln immediately after he made his pencil sketches, the result, as he says, would have been crude and unconvincing. He preferred to wait till he had gained a skill worthy of the subject.

Thorp's researches brought him into contact with many of the public men of the times and won him a distinguished clientele. He painted the portraits of Grant, Garfield, McKinley and Cleveland, of several speakers of the House, of Andrew Carnegie and other men of note in politics and business. Never losing sight of his great ambition, he studied, painted and repainted the portrait of Lincoln. Winters he lived in Washington and summers in Minnesota.



Four different photographs of Lincoln—None of these, Artist Thorp asserts, shows the genial, kindly character of the original, because, owing to the limitations of photography in those days, the sitter could rarely relax into a normal appearance.

Pours Gasoline on the Sea of Matrimony

d, and coughed loudly. Unconsciously, as if for a long and weary parting, he held out his hand, and as unconsciously Alice laid hers in it. Billy Logan palpitated. Overcome by his realization of the futility of life, and by the swaying measure of the music, and by the magnetism of the familiar moon, he suddenly lifted her fingers to his lips—and fled!

Alice stood in the moonlight, shaken with sympathy and merriment in equal quantities. All at once the blood froze in her veins. She was married! She held up that wicked hand, scrutinizing it in supreme disgust and horror, and then stooped and cleansed it on the pure, fresh grass. She loathed the impressionable Billy Logan—and she didn't understand him at all! Indignant and very lonely, she turned back to the cement settee and sat down to purge herself from the contagion of puppy love and at that moment she heard men's voices on the other side of the hedge of bridal wreath; and knew that George Graham was talking to Henry!

"Thought you weren't coming, old top," said Graham, with the broken diction that is corollary to the lighting of a cigarette.

"I wasn't," said Henry. "Thanks. What are they—Brakeman's Delight again? Well, I might as well smoke one as have you smoke one!" A second match scratched; through the hedge Alice could see the glow of the tiny frame. She held her breath.

"You're not looking fit, Henry. What's the trouble?"

"Oh, a little headache. I've had 'em for three or four days. That blamed light in the stockroom gives me the willies."

Alice repressed an intense desire to tear down that hedge of bridal wreath. And Billy Logan—silly, sentimental Billy Logan—had just told her that all there is to married life is the cultivation of an understanding heart! The tears came into her eyes as she thought how Henry must have suffered!

"No domestic problems—servants, or too much smoking"——

"Never have 'em!" lied Henry valiantly.

"I do—a million of 'em. But, old top, isn't it worth it?"

"You bet it is!" said Henry. "The longer I'm married the sorrier I am for the poor dubs who call it a failure. Why, I've been married eight months, and I ought to know by this time!"

"Same here; only make it five years Yes, it's a great institution—and you've got a great partner. By the way, you haven't told me how you happened to come up tonight. Shall I take Alice home, or are you going to stick it out?"

Henry chuckled. "Wife's here," he explained. "I couldn't stay away."

"She told me on the road about the party this noon," said Graham. "She and Roberta spent the whole morning fixing up things for you. Funny how women will break their necks to get up party eats, when they're for somebody else, isn't it? But you never caught one yet who'd take all that trouble just for herself. The girl's couldn't stand seeing that fancy line of groceries go to waste. I hear the Logans think Alice is quite a wonder."

Alice waited desperately for the answer—how could she know what Henry would say?

"Well, she is," he said; "she's more than that! Smoked your alfalfa yet? Want to go in?"

As noiselessly as she could, Alice crept out to the edge of the lawn, where she faced about and walked, humming loudly, toward the hedge.

"Oh, Henry!" she called.

"Hello, kitten!" said Henry enthusiastically. "Want to dance?"

* * * * * *

It was comparatively early when Henry and Mrs. Henry quitted the Henshaws and steered the course of the little runabout for home. Not for weeks had so many new and engaging topics of conversation suggested themselves with so little effort; not for days had either of them recalled what wealth of imagery and power of imagination the other possessed. And when brilliant generalities were disposed of to their mutual satisfaction, they reverted to the events of the past 24 hours with as much gusto as you see displayed on the pier when old friends meet after a long separation.

"George Graham got a set on me yesterday afternoon," related Henry ruefully. "I wouldn't make any excuses, you know, but I was thinking so hard about you I couldn't get my serves over"——

"Everybody knows you can beat him easily," agreed Alice. "Oh, Henry, I could have cried when I saw those odious Logan boys gobbling your stuffed tomatoes!"

"The Logans are all right; sort of young and raw"——

"That—reminds me"——

"Yes?" said Henry encouragingly.

"I—I always tell you everything"——

"Sure you do. What is it?"

"Billy—Billy Logan"——

"Billy's a sentimental little ape," characterized Henry. "He's absolutely certain to get off something or other. What was it this time?"

"He—he kissed my hand," said Alice in a hushed whisper. "I didn't know he was going to. Are you f-fearfully angry with me?"

"Not a bit," said Henry cheerily. "He usually tries something about as childish as that. His taste seems to be getting better, though."

"You won't—fight him or anything—will you?"

"Not much!" he assured her. "Some time, if he gets too fresh, I might spank him a little—but there wouldn't be any fight about it."

"I couldn't help it. Are you sorry you were cross to me?"

"I should say I am! Gee. It was a rotten day!"

It occurred to her that she had better use strategy with him instead of confessing that, quite innocently, she had sat on the other side of that hedge.

"I w-wondered if you were sick or anything"——

"Never felt better in my life," he stated. "I must have had a plain grouch!"

Nothing he could have said would have been more convincing than his deliberate refusal to hide behind the shield of indisposition. She knew then that he really cared—that he simply hadn't wanted her to worry about him—that he considered it a weakness to publish his minor ailments and to accept condolence for them.

"But—but I'm not sorry he did it, Henry."

"Hello! What's that?"

"No, I'm not—because, you see, I don't care a bit about Billy Logan, but when he—he did it—it made me realize how much I do care for you!"

"If that's the case," he promised, "we'll invite him to the house often."

"Don't!" She shuddered. "O, I was so sorry not to be there at breakfast'——

"It wouldn't have done you much good, anyway—I overslept so late that I had to catch a cup of coffee on the wing and run for it."

"I'm sorry I forgot the gasoline," she said penitently.

They had just drawn up to the curb before their house, and no one was in sight, so that there was nothing to prevent Henry from violating all conventions of Navarre by kissing her then and there.

"Don't waste time being sorry about another thing!" he ordered. "Just forget the whole business! I know you won't let it happen again—and next time I'll be more civilized about it."

"But I'm sorry about our ride last night."

"Say!" said Henry suddenly. "It isn't late, and there's a whale of a moon—let's have a little ride now!"

"All right! I'd love it! I don't care how late it is!"

Henry got out and went around to crank the engine. At the twentieth futile turn he straightened painfully and panted.

"She was working rather queerly on the hill," he puffed. "I half-way noticed it—only I was too busy talking to pay much attention. Is the gas all right? Spark?"

"They're all right, dear!"

"The tank's full, isn't it?"

He bent for the twenty-first turn. Alice, reaching for the little electric searchlight, investigated. Henry cranked again. Never another one of these misunderstandings, he said to himself. Never! He ought to have had sense enough to explain! He was so ashamed of himself that he blushed in the darkness.

"How does it look, kitten? Plenty?"

"Why, Henry!" she said, facing him in utter consteration and turning the flashlight on his speaking countenance. "Why, Henry! There isn't a drop!"

Henry grinned.

"Oh, well, what's the difference?" he deprecated. "Nickerson doesn't go to bed until late, anyway. And if he's asleep I'll just pussyfoot over and borrow a couple of quarts. It's only half a mile or so—you just wait a minute!"

It seems like they was 2 Peruvian bicycle receivers name Gus and Cracky. They came up here from So. Africa one Sunday and got in a brawl with a couple of Welsh prairie wolfs name Pat and Mike. Neither one of them win.

Now gentmen of the convention I am not a speech maker (Crys of yes and no) but I have just looked at my cuff and I am sorry it has got kind of smeared over but it looks like the name of my candidate was (insert my name).

That is the speech I have got wrote up for whoever I pick out to nominate me, gents, and as I say I have heard them all and wile you may not think it is the iota of speeches, why still and all, I will gamble that it evens up with the majority, and if it don't put me over for a landslide in Chicago, why it can't miss in San Francisco.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. OWNING A HUNTING DOG

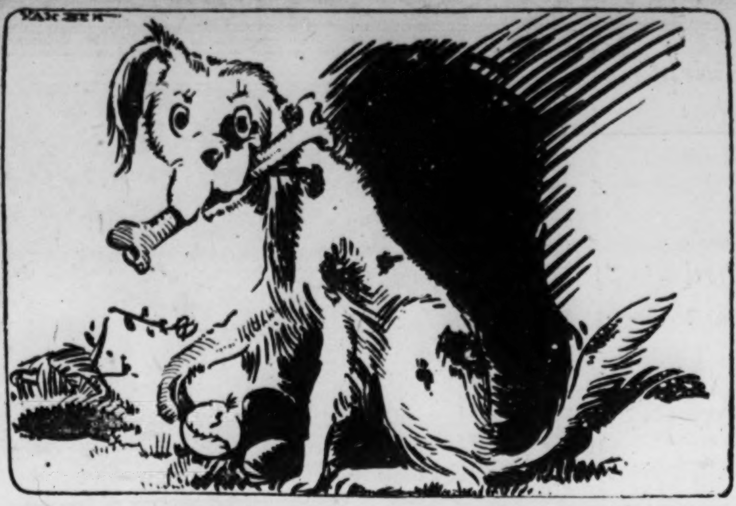
By JAMES J. MONTAGUE.



Under a rosebush he found a bone, making nothing of removing the rosebush in order to find it.

THE dog fever gets you in spring—like measles and marbles get small boys. Crafty people who own pups offer to give them to you. You look at the pups, notice how delightfully clumsy they are, and how they tumble all over themselves getting anywhere, and you fall.

Experience is an excellent teacher of certain branches of human knowledge. But it never teaches you anything about pups.

We parted with our bullterrier because of his views on protection. A bullterrier's views on protection have nothing to do with the tariff. His business, as he looks on it, is the protection of the children. He figures that children are never sufficiently protected until all the other dogs in the neighborhood are dead, and all human beings not members of the immediate family are kept, for fear of their lives, from entering the premises. After several hundred dollars' worth of dogs in the neighborhood had passed on, and after all our milk, groceries and mail were left for us half a block down the street, we paid a man to take the bullterrier away.

He is on a ship now, and probably keeps the crew mastheaded most of the time.

Nevertheless, the dog fever got us again a week or two ago.

"What you want," said a sportsman friend, "is a hunting dog. They are kind and intelligent and easily trained. I'll bring you round a pup tomorrow morning."

The pup was brought around. He was a very small pup, with a head that gave him considerable trouble to hold up, and legs that would have been an excellent fit for a dog several sizes larger.

Also, he had a way of looking at you that won you. When he arrived, he seemed unusually expanded amidships. He had eaten the breakfast of three of his brothers and sisters while they were chasing a cat.

This surfeit of food had left him lethargic. He lay in the grass and dozed, lulling us into a sense of false faith in him. We thought he would be a well behaved dog.

But gradually the effects of his unfilial greed wore off. A thoughtful look came into his eyes—the same look must have come into the eyes of the German soldiers when they smelled American bacon cooking in the trenches across No Man's Land.

Being a hunting dog, he began immediately to fulfill his mission in life.

He hunted from one end of the yard to another, using his sensitive nose as a guide. Under a rose bush he found a bone, making nothing of removing the rosebush in order to find it.

In the middle of the lawn he found a dead rat, which he exhumed, together with several square feet of new lawn.

Then, discovering that a door was left open, he went into the house and hunted down three pairs of slippers, a pillow and a new Official League Baseball, which had just cost its proud owner $2.50.

When we awakened to the realization that he was not merely taking his morning exercise, all of these things, except the bone and the rat were past all hope of recovery.

It seemed a shame to chastise a hunting dog for hunting, so we let him off with a reprimand. He seemed surprised and hurt at our manner, but decided to forgive us when we patted him on the head and admonished him to be a little more careful in the future.

After he had eaten the food we provided he lay down on the front porch and went peacefully to sleep. It was our own lunch time, so we left him there.

But the minute we were out of sight he awakened and asked us to come back. He asked quietly at first, but when we paid no heed he became insistent.

Now, the way to train a dog is to let him yap himself hoarse when he wants something he ought not to have. An ordinary dog will get tired after a while and subside.

But this was not an ordinary dog. In 10 minutes his whines became howls. In 20 minutes the neighbors called us on the telephone and told us that if we didn't stop abusing that puppy they would be compelled to call the police.

For half an hour the poor dumb animal could be heard as far away as Main street, and the kind-hearted old ladies were coming from every direction to find out what fiends in human form could wring such heartrending cries from man's most faithful friend.

We gave it up then, and took him in. He wagged his spike tail gratefully. As long as we remained close by his side he was good as gold, although now and then a bright idea would strike him and he would dart suddenly into the next room. The next instant there would be a riping sound and down would come one of the curtains.

Intelligence, as we understand it, consists of knowing how to get what one wants. Our pup was highly intelligent.

He got what he wanted, and got it easily. If he wanted the varnish on the legs of the piano, he got that, along with several splinters that stuck in his throat and had to be extracted while he sharpened his teeth for the next achievement on the wrist of the extractor.

If he wanted the hair brush on the dressing table of the head of the family, he got that. He employed a handy chair in getting it and brought down several bottles of perfumery in the operation. But he got it.

We are now sleeping in watches, like sailors, one member of the family being always told off to provide company for the dog, who sleeps lightly at best and not at all if he is left alone.

We hope to train him to endure solitude by and by, but in the interim we are growing old before our time.

If anyone asks you whether or not hunting dogs are intelligent, tell them "yes." If they doubt your word you can refer to us. And if they don't believe us we will give them the dog. He will prove it to them in the first quarter of an hour.

"Every Good Speech Needs Some Antidotes"

By Ring W. Lardner.

TO THE EDITOR:

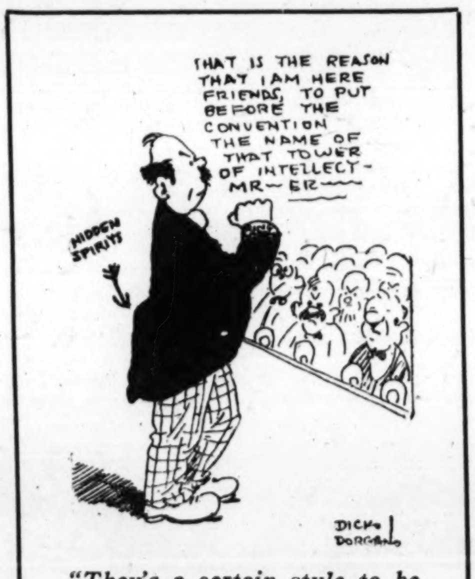
A great many admires has wrote in lately asking who was going to make my nominateing speech at the approaching conventions and what was they going to say. Well gents I haven't yet hired the men who will do the talking but I have wrote the speech according to the formula witch I memorized at the different conventions to witch I have attended at and I am setting the speech down here in the case that I can't get nobody to make it. In the 1st. place it wants to be understood that they's a certain style to be followed in makeing a nominateing speech and here is a few of the rules that has got to be followed or other wise the speech won't get acrost as a regular speech.

1. Every other few sentences has got to wind up with a preposition or a adverb.

2. When the speaker sees the different delegates yawning and nashing their teeth he has got to throw in a amusing antidote that will wake them up and make them laugh heartily.

3. Every 3 or 4 paragraphs the speaker is suppose to mention old glory and the stars and strips and make a scantling remark about the opposeing party.

4. It is a good idear for the speaker to have his candidate's name wrote on his cuff in the case he can't remember who he is suppose to be nominateing when it comes time. For fnst. I think it was in 1916 that Sen. Harding or somebody from Ohio got up to nominate somebody from the same, and talked so long that he forgot whom it was that he was up there in behalf of him, and most of the boys in the hall went to sleep and us kids in the press box was thinking about sending up a note with the name of the candidate wrote on it so as he would get through with his speech, but all of a sudden he remembered it himself and come to the terminus of his speech. Elapsed time 2 hrs, and the candidate got about 3.50 votes.



THAT IS THE REASON THAT I AM HERE FRIENDS, TO PUT BEFORE THE CONVENTION THE NAME OF THAT TOWER OF INTELLECT- MR—ER—— HIDDEN SPIRITS
DICK DORGAN

"They's a certain style to be followed in makeing a nominateing speech."

Well friends, here is the speech I have wrote for who ever it is I hire to place my name before the different conventions and it may not sound like it was a new speech, but when I am around at different places I generally always listen pretty close and this is the kind of a speech the other boys will make in behalf of my rivals, and you can't even begin to get nominated without it, so why try and get away from the regular formula.

Mr. Chairman and Mrs. Charwoman and gents of the convention: That reminds me of the story about the two weasel tenders in Peoria, Pat and Mike. They had just come over from the ould sod and was not yet use to the way Americans do things in. So one night Pat says to Mike, "Mose what do you think is the matter with?"

"Well," said Mike, "I don't know really."

Now gentlemen of the convention I guess I don't half to tell you that the country is on the verge of what it is on the verge of. Old glory and the stars and strips is faceing the greatest crisis of my career. Our friends the Democrats or Republicans (laughter) will be sorry if the next 4 yrs. don't see a business man at the head of this govt. I don't know what else to say in regards to.

That reminds me of a little story that maybe you have all heard it but I think it bears repeating it. It seems they was 2 Lithuanian pearl snatchers name Pat and Mike. One wk. they come over from the other side and got a rm. in a big hotel in N. Y. city. At the end of the first wk. Mike went down to the desk one day and they was a bill in his mail box. The bill was for $73.50 for one wk. Well Mike took the bill upstairs and showed it to Pat and Pat said, "Well, what of it?"

That is why, gentlemen of the convention, I am here today to place before the convention the name of a man who we all know and can't help from respecting him in spite of party affiliations or etc. I forget the name just now, but have got it wrote on my cuff and will spring it at the proper time. This man, gentlemen, never gets sick, and if nominated and elected to the high office of the president chair he is a man on whom we can call. You can examine into this man's record and find nothing. That is the kind of a man, gentlemen, who this country demands at this crisis in old glory and the stars and strips.

Our friends the Democrats or Republicans would dif-

IN DEFENSE OF BACHELORS

By Helen Rowland.

"SOMETIMES," remarked the Bachelor, apropos of nothing at all, "I think we aren't half appreciated."

The Widow followed his gaze to the far corner of the restaurant, where a pretty young thing in pink tulle and a well-set-up young man sat gazing absorbedly into each other's eyes.

"'We'? Who?" she inquired politely.

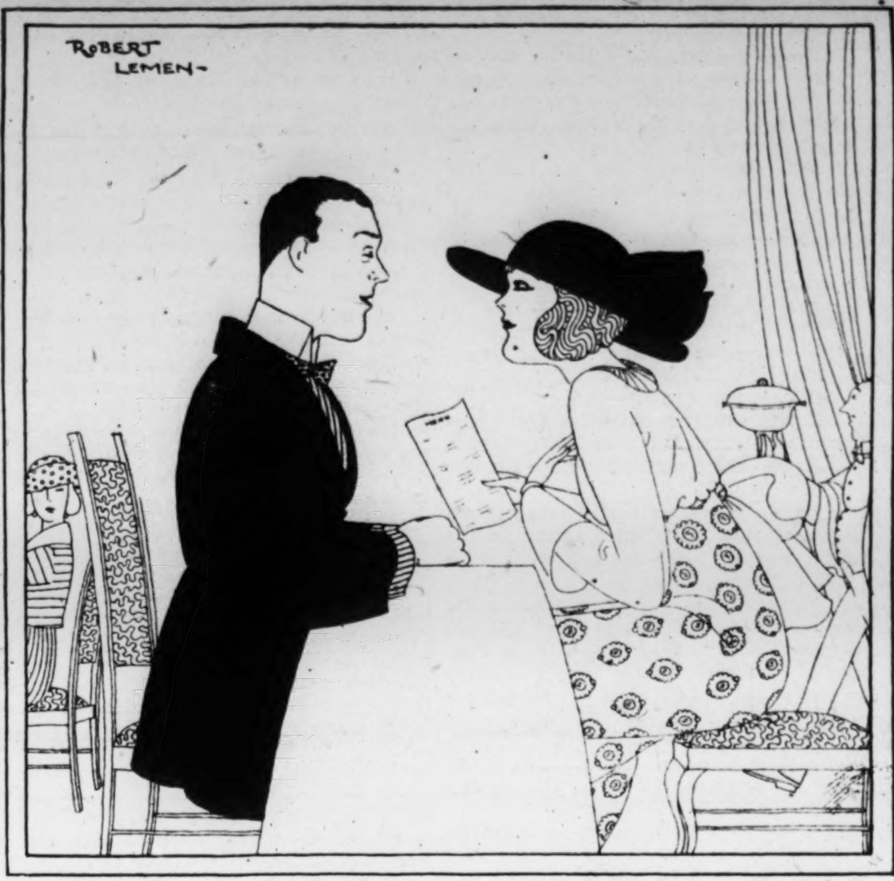
"We bachelors. Now there," and he indicated the girl in pink, "is an instance of base ingratitude! I educated that girl!"

"You—what?" The Widow laid down her salad fork in frank astonishment.

"Taught her all the new dance steps," explained the Bachelor hastily, "and how to order a luncheon, and to play golf, and what colors to wear and how to use her eyes, and—oh, all the really useful accomplishments. She was as verdant and uninteresting as that salad you are eating—and NOW look at her! Vamping a perfectly innocent youth—with ten thousand a year!"

"Do you mean to say that you actually instructed her"——

"Oh, no indeed!" broke in the Bachelor. "I flattered her—put in a word here and there, you know, at the psychological moment. Waked her up to her own charms and possibilities. Every girl has to be courted at least once before she becomes interesting. It brings her out and gives her eclat. It is a real charity—but they never see it that way, somehow." And the Bachelor sighed.



VAMPING A PERFECTLY INNOCENT YOUTH.

"I see." The Widow's voice was as smooth and chilly and sweet as a lemon ice. "But it isn't a charity—it's your duty. What else is a bachelor FOR?"

"What would the world do without us?" rejoined the Bachelor, with rash complacency. "Now you, for instance"——

"Oh, I always got along somehow, before I met you, Mr. Weatherby," the Widow murmured sweetly.

"Well YOU might," conceded the Bachelor, "but who would flatter the married women, and flirt with the debutantes? A bachelor's whole life is one long sweet sacrifice, in the education of other men's wives."

"Perhaps," suggested the Widow, "their own husbands might flatter the married women, and"——

"They might," admitted the Bachelor, "but they don't! I know, by the way in which a mild compliment always goes to a married woman's head and makes her positively dizzy. A woman can't expect a man to pay her bills and pay her little compliments and graceful attentions too—to hook her gowns up the back and then joyfully and gallantly get down on his knees to tie her shoe laces—to wait FOR her, and then to wait ON her. It isn't human nature. Bachelors are a necessity, I tell you—and a luxury. They are the shock absorbers on life; the trimmings on the dull edge of society; the hors d'oeuvres of the love feast"——

"The potted palm on life's piazza!" broke in the Widow, laughing mockingly. "They ARE nice to fill in with," she acknowledged, "at house parties and heterogeneous dinners. And when they get old and faded and passe"——

"What!"

"They are convenient to have about as dancing partners for the wall flowers and ushers at weddings and witnesses in divorces and godfathers at christenings"——

"And godsends at summer resorts," put in the Bachelor, with a grin. "I'll tell you, being a bachelor is a highly specialized vocation. It absorbs all a man's time and energy.

"What! Just the simple act of remaining single?" The Widow looked incredulous.

"That alone," returned the Bachelor with dignity, "is a life work requiring art, courage, talent and skill—if one is a sincere bachelor. A bachelor in the truest, highest sense is not merely a man who hasn't married—yet; he is a man who CAN marry, at any moment, but—but"——

"But won't!" snapped the Widow.

"But knows better," corrected the Bachelor. "A man who can afford to marry—but prefers to keep a motor car; who is personable enough to be popular with women, but not so fascinating as to be feared by men; decent enough to be trusted by chaperones and dowagers—yet not so 'trustworthy' that no girl finds it interesting to walk in the moonlight with him; impressionable enough to make the love game attractive—yet not so impressionable as to make it foolish or dangerous; fancy-free—but not a misogamist, a woman hater, or a cynic."

"Hear, hear!" cried the Widow, clapping her hands. "Clever enough to encourage match-making mammas—yet dexterous enough to escape their snares! Brave enough to flirt with a fascinating woman—yet cautious enough to keep at a safe distance. Game enough to hand a girl a rope and dare her to try to catch him—yet skillful enough to know how to propose without being accepted! A sentimental pirate, forever steering his bark between the Scylla of love and the Charybdis of matrimony! What an existence!"

"Oh, I'll tell you it's a sporting life—and requires the soul and the talents of a real sportsman!" declared the Bachelor. "And, after all, what does a chap get out of it? Nothing but contumely, reproach, pity and ingratitude!"

"He gets all he deserves—while it lasts," laughed the Widow. "He gets coddled and flattered and petted and invited everywhere, as long as he can keep the world guessing and hoping. But when it finds him OUT"——

"Finds out WHAT?" demanded the Bachelor in alarm.

"That his heart is encased in a coat of cement, and his conscience covered with a coat of mail, and all his emotions are insulated, and his sentiments preserved in alcohol—in short, that he is IMMUNE"——

"Don't say it!" pleaded the Bachelor. "I'll never get that way! I'll marry first! But when I think of all the perfect afternoons and moonlight evenings I wasted on that girl—of all the flowers and gasoline and graceful nothings and—and all that! And now she'll go and marry a crude young gawk, who won't half appreciate her"——

"Don't you dare call him a crude young gawk, Mr. Weatherby!" exclaimed the Widow, at the same moment flashing a dazzling smile at the young man with the girl in pink. He is quite worthy of her!"

"How do you know?" demanded the Bachelor.

The Widow flushed and bit her lip.

"I educated HIM," she admitted, with a sigh. "It IS sad to see how soon they get over it, isn't it?"

"Ingrates!" muttered the Bachelor, smiling into the Widow's eyes.

WIDOW-CISMS.

Love, like a balloon, is kept up mostly by hot air.

A stage setting after the lights are all out is not flatter nor duller than life without the star dust of dreams and the glamor of illusions.

At 20, the important thing to a woman is HOW she is loved; at 30, WHO loves her, and at 40, that SOMEBODY loves her.

The love making of a young man is purely inspirational; later, like a professional pianist, he becomes all "technique."

To transform a woman from a rank pessimist into a radiant optimist, all that is needed is a becoming hat and a brand-new flirtation.

Accidents Will Happen—But Here Are Some Odd Ones

ACCIDENT insurance, or insurance which pays benefits in case of temporary disability, is carried by a great many people. The claim agent whose business it is to investigate reported injuries often meets with amusing incidents. The following were furnished by an agent of a large insurance company.

"Some captive rattlesnakes in a restaurant escaped from a box in which they were confined and so frightened one of the patrons that in his haste to get out he fell in front of me, and in getting up, came up underneath me, tossing me over his head."

"I was in bed and dreamed that a burglar was bending over me. I struck him so hard that I was thrown on the floor with arm extended and broke my collarbone."

"Assisting a lady who had an umbrella under her arm, to board a car, the point of the umbrella was thrust into my left eye."

"I placed an electric fan beside my bed on a hot night. While asleep I stuck my foot in it."

"In a playful mood I kicked at my wife while barefooted and accidentally struck her on the knee, thereby spraining the big toe of my left foot."

"My arm encircled the neck of a young lady. I suddenly withdrew it and the thumb of my left hand came in contact with a brooch, penetrating the thumb almost to the bone."

"I was undressing for bed. In removing my union suit I fractured the second finger of my left hand."

"My wife was curling her hair. I ran against her and the hair curler struck my eye."

"I was embraced by a friend who playfully said that he could make me cry—fractured my rib."

"On a private yacht, I had just had a highball, got up, the boat gave a lurch and I sat down on the glass."

"Looking for a leak in a natural gas pipe with a lighted match—explosion followed."

"I missed my train and while walking on the country road I fell over a cow lying in the road. As I fell the cow got up, striking me, also stepping on my foot."

"Sitting in a chair in a barber shop and billiard parlor, a ball from a pool table nearby struck me on the nose, breaking nose and injuring my eye."

"I had been talking with another man, and as I started to walk along didn't notice a woman had pushed a baby carriage directly in front of me—fell over it."

"Was camping with a party in the mountains; someone placed a can of beans in the fire to heat, but forgot to ventilate the can. I was pulling them out when the can exploded, burning me severely."

"I was going down the walk in front of my house when an automobile wheel which had come off two blocks away rolled down the hill and struck me, fracturing both bones of the right leg."

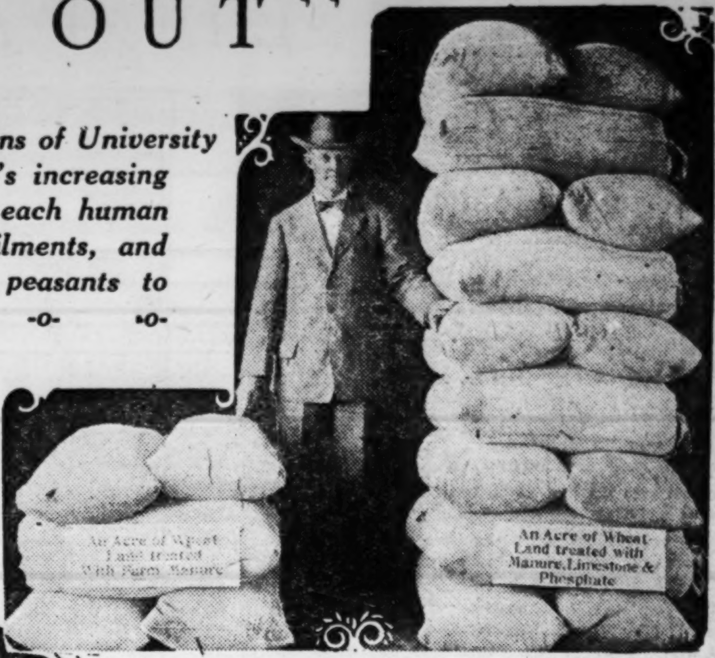
"I was riding in an automobile when it struck a hole in the road, causing my teeth to come together with such force that the lower jaw was fractured."

"I was looking for burglars, and was accidentally mistaken by one of my neighbors for the man we were looking for, and he shot me in the arm."

"I was getting my breakfast. My wife came out where I was standing and in a fit of anger picked up a coffee pot on the stove, filled with hot coffee, and jammed it into my face, breaking my glasses, one piece causing a deep cut over the eye, another piece cutting clear through the cartilage of the nose, so that by holding nose I could blow through the hole."

GUARANTEEING SOIL THAT WILL NEVER "WEAR OUT"

Permanent fertility was aim of life-work of late Prof. Cyril G. Hopkins of University of Illinois, who thus hoped to solve problem of feeding world's increasing population on ever diminishing acreage of tillable land—Like each human patient, every plot of soil must have individual diagnosis of ailments, and prescription of "medicine"—Died after work in Greece caused peasants to hail him as a "god"



An Acre of Wheat Land treated With Farm Manure
An Acre of Wheat Land treated with Manure, Limestone & Phosphate

Wheat from an acre of "Poorland Farm," when treated with farm manure only, and when limestone and phosphate were added.

TO BE hailed as a deity by the people of war-ridden Greece, to be honored with the highest decoration in the gift of their King, to be acclaimed for discoveries in soil fertility and corn breeding which, universally applied, will replenish permanently the depleted grain bins of the world, and which already are netting millions of dollars yearly to the farmers of Illinois—such was the achievement of a simple college professor, the late Dr. Cyril George Hopkins, head of the department of agronomy and professor of soil fertility at the University of Illinois.

But this is only a part of his claim to distinction. Though dead but a few months, his work is already perpetuated in perhaps the most unusual memorial organization in the world. The men to whom his labor of 25 years at the university was dedicated, the farmer folk of Illinois, have banded together, united in the resolution that his discoveries shall not die. A few weeks ago they incorporated the Hopkins Memorial Association under the laws of Illinois, through which they will spread his propaganda of permanent soil fertility throughout the length and breadth of the State.

Long known internationally as a soil expert, Prof. Hopkins died Oct. 6, 1919, at Gibraltar, on his return from a year spent in Greece as head of the Agricultural Division of the Red Cross Relief Commission. So vital was his work, so fundamental were his discoveries in solving the food problems of the day, that only a few weeks elapsed from the time of his death before a group of large land owners and far-sighted Illinois farmers, who had profited personally by his contributions to the science of agriculture, were organizing a society to transmit to future generations the secret of never-failing crops. It numbers in its personnel such influential men as Ralph Allen, Tazewell County, president; A. N. Abbott, Whiteside County, vice president; H. E. Young, Sangamon County, secretary, and C. A. Ewing, Decatur, treasurer. The directors are Dean Eugene Davenport of the College of Agriculture, Frank I. Mann of Iroquois County, H. G. Easterly, Jackson County, and J. C. B. Heaton, Johnson County.

The Hopkins (or Illinois) system of permanent soil fertility is, in fact, a practical solution of the problem of feeding the ever-increasing population of the world on an ever-diminishing acreage of tillable land. It is an insurance against drouth, storm and insect pests, through increasing the resistance of soil and crop. It assures the farmer yields many times greater than his present production. It guarantees that the soil will never "wear out."

"It is the business of every farmer," said Dr. Hopkins, "to reduce the fertility of the soil by removing the largest crops of which the soil is capable; but ultimate failure results for the land owner unless provision is made for restoring and maintaining production. Every land owner should adopt for his land a system of farming which is permanent—a system under which the land becomes better rather than worse."

Six elements, he considered, are necessary in crop production: The seed, a home for the plant, the food of which the plant is made, moisture, heat and light. Of these the most neglected is that of plant food, and it was to supply this need that his system was designed. Just as a human being, to remain in health, requires a varied diet, so a plant must be fed a balanced ration of mineral elements if it is to thrive. Many of these are present in abundance and need seldom give the farmer any concern.

There are five minerals, however—calcium (lime), magnesium, potassium (potash), phosphorous and nitrogen—which often appear in insufficient quantities in ordinary soil. So essential is each of these that should any one be completely lacking, the soil would become entirely barren. Without calcium, for example, the ground becomes acid, or sour, and plants sicken and die. Conversely, the addition of a single element to the soil sometimes doubles or trebles the crop.

"How, then, can depleted soils be restored?" Dr. Hopkins asked. "How can good soils be maintained without exhaustion? How can the average farmer know just what medicine his land needs? What is the cheapest way to maintain soil fertility?"

Being a trained chemist, he discovered that there are many distinct types of soil in the corn belt, each presenting its own individual problem. Accordingly, he set about establishing experimental fields on each variety of soil throughout the State. At first the land was loaned or leased to the university; later the tracts were given outright by individuals, municipalities or colleges. In the neighborhood of St. Louis there are University of Illinois experiment fields at Carlinville, donated by Blackburn College; at Lebanon, given by McKendree College through former Gov. Charles Deneen, and at Sparta, presented by the citizens of the town.

The late Prof. Cyril G. Hopkins.

Each tract is divided into a series of narrow strips. One is left untouched, one is treated with lime, one with potassium, one with phosphorous, one with nitrogen, one with farm manure, others with combinations of elements, and so on, every known variety of soil "medicine" being applied, in order to discover just which best agrees with that particular soil disease. A regular system crop rotation is followed. For example, in the first year, corn; in the second, oats, cowpeas or soy beans; third, wheat (with clover and grass); fourth, meadow for hay; fifth, meadow or pasture; sixth, pasture. In Southern Illinois wheat may also be grown the fifth year, and in the corn belt corn may be planted two years, as in the first and sixth.

By watching the results of such experiments during a series of years, Dr. Hopkins determined with scientific precision the kind of treatment needed by each type of soil. In the main, the problem narrowed to methods of obtaining sufficient quantities of nitrogen and phosphorous, the two elements found to be most generally lacking.

Nitrogen is an element which is associated with soils of rich black color; light soils are likely to be deficient in this essential plant food. Although it exists in unlimited quantities in the air, only the legumes (clover, alfalfa, cowpeas, beans) have the power to utilize it in this free form. The cheapest method of infusing the soil with nitrogen is consequently, to grow leguminous crops and to plow under the plants after the seeds have been removed, or to fertilize the ground with the manure produced by feeding the crop.

A stubborn obstacle to the success of this seemingly obvious plan presented itself. Acid soil—lacking calcium—will not grow legumes successfully. Such soils may be "sweetened" cheaply, Dr. Hopkins research showed, by the application of ground limestone, some soils requiring as much as two to six tons an acre and an additional amount, thereafter, every four or five years. Soil thus sweetened will grow legumes abundantly.

However, the mere growing of clover or similar crops on normal land does not enrich it. Even the nitrogen is not increased unless the entire clover crop is returned to the soil, either directly or in the form of farm manure. Clover, furthermore, takes up large amounts of calcium and phosphorous. The roots and stubble, contrary to popular opinion, contain no more nitrogen than the growing crop took from the earth.

"To increase or maintain the nitrogen or organic matter of the soil is the greatest practical problem in American agriculture," Dr. Hopkins wrote. "In an hour's time one can spread enough limestone or phosphate on an acre of land to provide for large crops of wheat, corn, oats and clover for 10 or 20 years. To supply the nitrogen for the same length of time would require from 20 to 40 tons of clover, or from 80 to 160 tons of farm manure, be added to the same acre of land, even though one of the crops harvested secured its nitrogen from the air."

"Present methods of agriculture are nothing more than 'skinning the land,' he declared. "From two-thirds to three-fourths of all the cultivated districts of Illinois are already in need of nitrogen and phosphorous, and the most of this vast area is deficient in limestone."

Phophorous, the second great essential for fertility, may be obtained from farm manure, bone meal, phosphate rock and basic slag phosphate.

An unending fight against the so-called "complete" commercial fertilizer was a necessary corollary to Dr. Hopkins' campaign for these simple and comparatively inexpensive methods of soil treatment. Just as there can be no universal patent medicine for all human ills, so, he argued, it is impossible to make an artificial fertilizer to cure all ailments of the soil. Each farm is like a human patient, he contended, with its own peculiar symptoms, which must be specially diagnosed, and the appropriate medicine prescribed. The commercial fertilizer is heavily weighted with sulphuric acid, he showed, which is needless and often harmful. The farmer, therefore, who invests in commercial fertilizer is sinking a large per centage of his money in profitless material.

From his years of intensive study Dr. Hopkins compiled the following figures comparing the value of various methods of fertilization:

"One hundred bushels of corn takes from the soil about 100 pounds of nitrogen, 17 pounds of phosphorous and 19 pounds of potassium in the grain and 48, 6 and 52 pounds of these respective elements in the stalks.

"One ton of fresh farm manure contains about 10 pounds of nitrogen, 2 pounds of phosphorous and 8 of potassium.

"One hundred pounds of complete fertilizer contain about 2 pounds of nitrogen, 4 of phosphorous and 2 of potassium.

"One ton of clover hay contains about 40 pounds of nitrogen, 5 of phosphorous and 30 of potassium.

"On the basis of 100 bushels of corn to the acre, the grain only being removed, common corn belt prairie land contains on the surface about enough nitrogen for 48 crops, phosphorous for 70 and potassium for 1790."

The conclusion he showed to be self-evident. Either the soil must be renewed or it will become exhausted, and the farms of the corn belt will ultimately have to be abandoned, just as the once fertile lands of New England and Virginia have been. On the other hand, if soils are well treated, he proved conclusively, good crops can be depended upon; bad seasons, even, will produce a profitable yield; and barren land can be restored to its original fertility.

Reducing his theories to practical terms, Prof. Hop-

"Before and after" wheat field had lime and phosphate added to its rations—Prof. Hopkins on the abandoned farm in Marion County, which he turned into one of the most prosperous holdings in southern Illinois.

kins outlined the following system for solving the problem of insufficient nitrogen:

"For the livestock farmer I would suggest a five-field system—a four-year rotation of corn, corn, oats and clover grown upon four fields for five years, while the fifth field is kept in alfalfa. At the end of the fifth year the alfalfa field is brought into the rotation and one of the four fields seeded to alfalfa for another five-year period, and so on.

"If the crop yields are 50 bushels each of corn and oats, 2 tons of clover and 3 tons of alfalfa; if the straw and half the corn stalks are used for bedding and all other produce for feed, and if 60 per cent of the nitrogen in the manure is used for the production of crops, then a system is provided which will permanently maintain the supply of nitrogen.

"For the farmer who sells grain and hay, a 25-bushel wheat crop may well be substituted for the first corn crop, clover being seeded on the wheat for plowing under the next year before planting corn. If the fall and spring growths of this clover aggregate 1 1-2 tons and if only the grain and clover seed and the alfalfa hay are sold, all clover, stalks and straw being returned to the land, this also provides a system for the permanent maintenance of nitrogen.

"If the crop yields are all increased by 50 per cent, or even by 100 per cent, these systems still provide for the nitrogen supply, unless with the larger yields on richer land a somewhat greater amount is likely to be lost by leaching than is added in the rain.

"While these systems are distinctly for livestock farming or for grain and hay farming, they should be considered as only suggesting the basis for solving the nitrogen problem. In diversified farming a combination of these systems will often be preferred to either one alone. The important point is that the land owner should know the essential facts and base his practice upon them in order to provide for permanent fertility with respect to both nitrogen, phosphorous and limestone."

In order that every farmer, every owner of as little as five acres of land, might be able to diagnose his own soil, Dr. Hopkins instituted a State-wide soil survey. That was 18 years ago, and several years will yet be required to cover the 32 remaining counties.

The process is unique. Four soil experts are detailed to a section, which they traverse within communication distance of each other. As they go they make their soil maps, plotting every soil type and indicating areas even of five acres. When the county has been thus fully combed, the university puts out a colored soil map. All then that a farmer living in that county has to do, is to ascertain the range and section of his land, and he can determine exactly the kind of soil found on his farm.

But Prof. Hopkins was more than a servant of mankind. He was a slave of conscience. To show that he believed in his own theories, he went into debt to buy a worn-out farm in one of the poorest districts of Southern Illinois. Into "Poorland Farm," a 320-acre tract of exhausted clay soil in Marion County, he sank his savings of years. Deeper and deeper he went into debt during the tedious process of building up the soil. The story of the gradual restoration of those barren acres into a flourishing and profitable farm is one of the marvels of modern agriculture. Dr. Hopkins had literally made bread from stones, for at the time of his death "Poorland" was yielding 30 bushels of wheat to the acre and other crops in accordance.

With a vision of similarly restoring the waste lands of the Old World, Dr. Hopkins answered the call of the Red Cross in the autumn of 1918. Fired with the spirit of the crusaders of old, but armed with the weapons of twentiteh century science, he turned toward the birthplace of civilization, worn with a thousand years of tillage, to carry the gospel of permanent soil fertility. When this task was done, he looked beyond Greece to the depleted lands of Asia and Africa, with the hope that they, too, might be renewed, so that there should never be hunger or famine in the world any more.

Up and down the tiny length of Greece he traveled. When the Government offered him a private car, when Mayors and Governors requested to be informed of his coming, in order that they might entertain him with ceremony, he refused, prefering to go about in a simple American way, to make his investigations, and to depart without formality. Having collected and analyzed 3000 single soil samples, he embodied his findings in a book, which was translated and spread broadcast among the Greek farmers. In it he outlined systems by which they could produce infinitely better crops year after year without fail.

Is it any wonder, then, that the Greek people, whose impoverished land, to produce even its scanty yield, must lie fallow every alternate year, hailed him as a god, bringing hope of plenty for themselves, their children and their children's children to the remotest generation?

Wearing the Order of Our Savior, the highest Greek decoration of merit, Prof. Hopkins sailed for America on Oct. 1, last. He became ill on shipboard and died of congestion of the brain, with malarial complications, in a British hospital at Gibraltar, at the age of 53. He had unquestionably laid down his life in the service of humanity.

which have engaged the brains of the bearded scholars of the Koranic schools for a thousand years. The mosque has come to America. The mosque comes to bring religious liberalism to America.

The dominant aim of the Bahaism of today is the fusion of all religions. Moses, Christ, Mahomet, Confucius, Zoroaster; the Decalogue, the Gospels, the Koran, the Annals, the Zend-Avesta; all are divinely inspired. Before this major equalization minor differences vanish. In the United States the immediate aim is to unite all of the many various Christian sects through fusion with Bahaistic Mohammedanism. The Bahais have no ritual, no organization. The devotees worship in their respective churches.

The projected nine-sided temple, with the ancient prophet Abdul Baha sitting in its pontiff's chair, is designed to be the instrument of the unification. The Bahais see visions of Methodists, Baptists, Catholics, Jews, etc., loving one another, along with Moslems, Buddhists, Shintoists, Confucianists, etc., and all making pilgrimages to the great white temple in Chicago to hearken to counsel and exhortation of the prophet, Abdul Baha Abbas.

A Few Cold Facts About Refrigerators

ARE you running your refrigerator with the maximum of efficiency and the minimum of waste? Are you doing this with a thorough knowledge of the principles of refrigeration, or are you following slipshod methods and wondering why your ice melts so rapidly, why eggs spoil and why the butter is so soft?

Many people believe that the place nearest the ice in a refrigerator is the coolest. This is not true. The coldest place is at the bottom of the refrigerator. Hot air rises and air that is not being constantly purified by circulation around the blocks of ice soon becomes unfit to come in contact with food. When the warm air in the refrigerator rises, it carries with it impurities and moisture absorbed from the surface of the food, and which, if allowed to remain in the air, spoil food. The air, which is warmed by passing over the food, comes in contact with the ice, where the moisture is condensed upon the surface and the impurities are carried off by the melting ice. The air is thus dried, cooled and purified.

Then the cooled air immediately descends to gather up more moisture and impurities and thus the process is repeated continually. Anything placed directly on or around the ice tends to interfere with the circulation of the air.

You may have been told that wrapping your ice in newspapers tends to keep it from melting. You will note that this practice is bad, because it prevents the free circulation of air around the ice, and that in turn prevents the purification of the air. The whole surface of the ice is needed to purify the air properly.

In addition to the necessity of having a circulation of cold, dry air, it is important that, as near as possible, a uniform temperature be maintained. For this reason, refrigerator doors should fit tight, be closed tight, and not opened more often that is positively necessary, because every time the doors are opened the cold air pours out and the warm air that takes its place is cooled at the expense of the ice.

It is advisable to allow heated food to cool off before placing it in the refrigerator. If put in warm, it raises the temperature of the refrigerator higher than it should go and melts the ice unnecessarily.

The trap door through which the meltage of the ice flows off should be kept closed, otherwise it lets in a constant stream of warm air.

A refrigerator should be kept scrupulously clean. It should be wiped out daily with a dry cloth, and once a week should be thoroughly cleaned with a solution of bicarbonate of soda and cold water. Hot water should not be used in washing out a refrigerator as it unnecessarily raises the temperature.

BY WAGON TRAIN FROM ST. LOUIS -- TO EL PASO IN 1865 --

Weary travelers at last come in sight of the Rio Grande, and greet the river as joyously as Xenophon's Greeks hailed the sea—They labor on through beds of heavy sand, almost destitute of grass—Narrow escape from band of Indian marauders, who killed several women on the Bonito :: ::

Edited by Mary M. Diffenderffer,

(Niece of Author of Diary, F. R. Diffenderffer.)

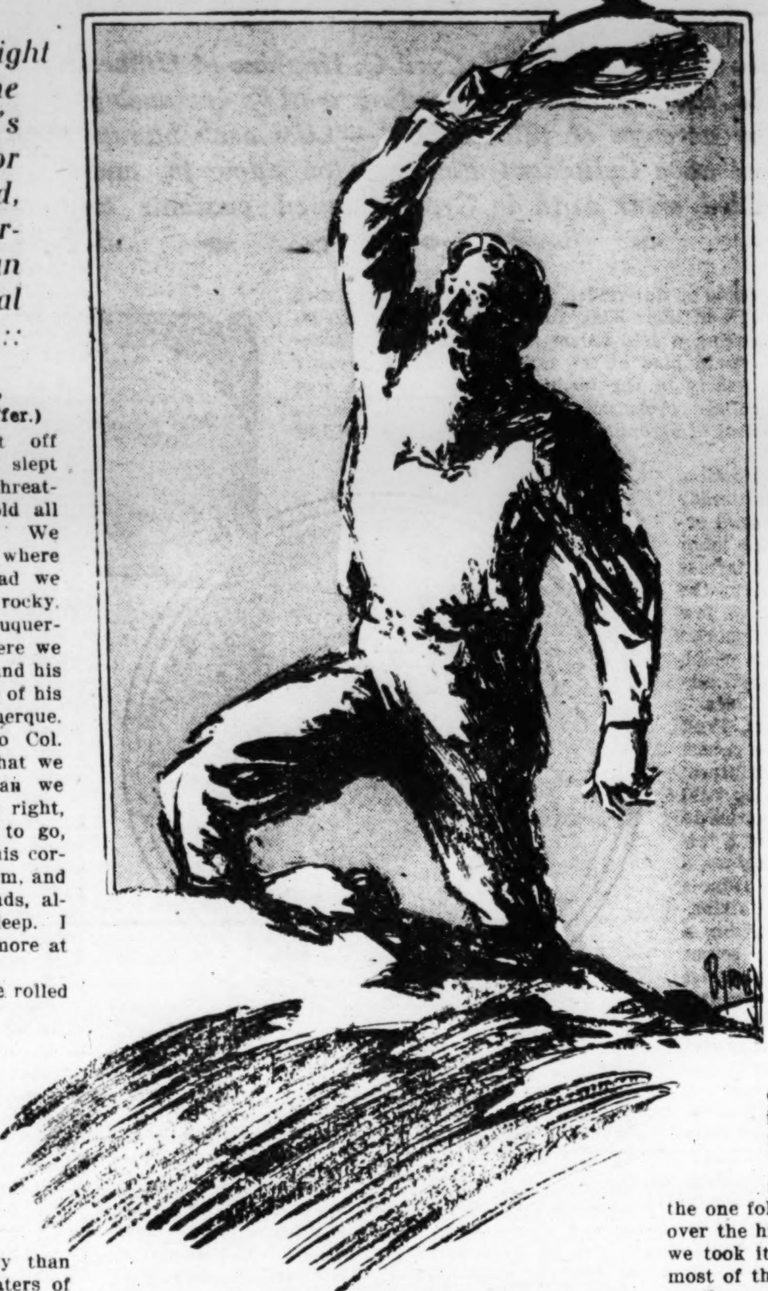
TUESDAY, Sept. 5.—We did not get off until 5:30 this morning. Although we slept in the carriage last night (because it threatened a thunderstorm), we were very cold all night, and particularly so in the morning. We passed Johnson's Ranch and some others, where we were made to pay well for the little bread we wanted. The roads were terribly rough and rocky. We made camp right on Cuesta, where the Albuquerque road turns off from the Santa Fe road. Here we met our old friend, Francisco Arimijo y Perrea, and his wagons, who left our train at Cold Spring. Some of his wagons go on to Santa Fe and the rest to Albuquerque.

We started out this afternoon to drive to Col. Pinto's ranch, but it was not until after dark that we got there, it being considerably further than we thought, and besides, we took the road to the right, which, although it took us where we wanted to go, was a roundabout way. We put our mules in his corral and bought them hay instead of grazing them, and they, being in a secure place and off our minds, allowed us to indulge in a good, long, sound sleep. I am now on ground I have been over and feel more at home.

Wednesday, Sept. 6.—At 5:15 this morning we rolled out and traveled until 10:30 over a very rough and uneven road, made unusually so by recent rains. There was also a great deal of mud, that made hard pulling. While sand and steep hills were plenty, grass and water were correspondingly scarce, and we could make no camp; this accounts for our driving several hours longer than is our wont. For this reason we were obliged to drive until we reached San Tellipe, the first town on the Rio Grande. The 10,000 Greeks under Xenophon did not shout "Thalatta!" "Thalatta!" more joyously than did I, when, from an elevation, the yellow waters of the Rio Grande Bravo first burst into view, some three or four miles away. It washes the fields and vineyards of my future home, and I follow its course continually until I get there, and it seems like greeting an old friend to see it. I took a good long drink of its turbid water and it seemed to me as though it were the best water in the world. There are several Indian towns close to San Telippe, Santa Anna and others, whose names I do not know. About a hundred yards from camp are some Indian women pulling beans, with no article of dress on save a chemise, and that so short as to fail to answer the end for which skirts were intended.

We were lucky enough to get a few unripe peaches and melons at this place, which eat very well in spite of their quality. At 4 in the afternoon we drove out to Algodones, which place is not very far off. In due time we reached there, but it appears to be a very poor place. I could not buy any grain for the animals, no salt and no lariat, so we drove on to reach Bernalillo, which is the next town, and decidedly the handsomest in New Mexico, as well as the richest. The town is divided into two parts and separated by a vega. In this vega we made camp, as it was getting dark. One Nicanor, an old friend of ours, who lives here, came to our camp with his wife and sat talking an hour. D. afterwards went over to their house a while. The Perreas all live about here and own the entire town, almost, as well as the lands adjoining, which are the finest I have so far seen. Francisco Perrea lives here, and yesterday was elected to Congress. The corn is magnificent and the amount planted very large.

Thursday, Sept. 7.—We got off about 5 o'clock this morning and traveled over a road all sand, and in places very heavy, until we reached Las Alamos, where we made camp by the side of a house, the owner of which was a very clever fellow. We have shade, good grass and the esecquia only a few yards off. I forgot to say they grow a great many grapes at Bernalillo, and we got some. I also bought some water and musk melons on the road and we had a big dinner in consequence—green corn, leg of mutton with onions, chile, coffee, water and muskmelons, and fresh goat cheese. I wrote two letters. I was surprised as we came along this morning at the magnificent crop of corn in the fields we passed. It would have honored the State.



"The 10,000 Greeks under Xenophon did not shout 'Thalatta!' more joyously than did I when the Rio Grande burst into view."

About 2 o'clock we drove out of camp, over a tolerable road and through a country covered with ranches. Everywhere we tried to buy corn or barley, but could not find a grain. About 4 o'clock we went into Albuquerque, where, of course, I hunted up Bill Strachan, the only other Lancaster boy in all this country. He is sutler here for the troops. When I came home several years ago I stopped and he gave me a letter to his father in Lancaster. I know his father and brother; the latter sent a message with me to his brother here. Strachan was very clever and wanted us to stay over a day; but we bought some bread, sugar, crackers, etc., and rolled on. He gave me several copies of the Lancaster Intelligencer and Mariettian. We drove on until we reached Blair's Ranch, where we made camp, quite near the spot where we encamped three years ago.

Friday, Sept. 8.—Early this morning we rolled out, and for a while we had a good road, but it soon became very sandy and continued so until we reached the river at Peralto. Opposite the town of Isletta the road runs over some very high, sandy bluffs, and was, all in all, decidedly the worst we have had. We walked nearly all the way. Los Pinos is where Gov. Connelly lives, and there is also a military post here. He has several thousand acres of the finest meadow land I have seen in this country. Between Los Pinos and Peralto the country is equally handsome. We passed through both places without stopping, and also through Valencia, a town one mile this side of Peralto, and came to the river. I rode in it a while, hunting a ford, which I found at last, and we crossed over safely and made camp at Las Lunes.

The grass being of a poor quality here, we took breakfast, and after leaving our animals rest about one and a half hours, we hitched up and went about a mile and a half further and again stopped to let the animals graze. Our corn has now given out, and as there is none in the country, and no barley or oats, we will have to be very careful with the mules or they will not get to El Paso with us.

At 3 in the afternoon we again rolled out, hoping to reach Belen for the night. We could travel but slowly; first, because of our tired-out mules, and, second, for the bad road. About 5 o'clock we came to a small town, which we found, to our surprise, to be Belen. We made camp here for the night, and found pretty good grass. We also succeeded in buying a few eggs and onions. While in camp here Rosenbaum came riding by. It seems he came here several days ago and is hunting a place for his goods. Fritz Williams we found here practicing medicine, and, better than all, we found a fanega of oats for the animals. Although the oats were so dirty we had to work several hours cleaning them, we had to give $8 for them.

Saturday, Sept. 9.—We made an early start this morning and drove more than four hours until we reached Sabinal for camp. Nearly every inch of the way was very heavy sand, through which the mules could hardly pull the carriage, although we were both out of it sometimes. I walked nearly all the way, no easy matter, by the way, when the sand into which I sank nearly ankle deep at every step, is considered. We have no good grass here. Our fire was made and our breakfast eaten in an esecquia.

We left Sabinal about 3 in the afternoon. Our next town is Almillo, but as it is 19 miles off, we did not expect to go so far; but when we came to the crossing of the Rio Poerco—a name, by the way, which the stream merits (dirty river), the road divided, the one following the river bottom and the other going over the hills. Concluding the latter to be the nearest, we took it. It soon got very sandy and continued so most of the way. There was, unfortunately, no water on the road and we were obliged to drive on until we reached Almillo, at 8:30 o'clock at night. The last six miles were, I think, the heaviest sand we have met. I walked through it all, and the greater part of the afternoon besides, 12 miles at least. We found good grass right on the river bank.

Sunday, Sept. 10.—We left camp at 5:30 this morning and soon overtook a train which had camped close by us last night, but started this morning before we got up. As we jogged on behind, someone popped out his head and said, "How are you, doctor?" and it proved to be Pink Tulley, from Las Cruzes. We drove through Polvidera and Simitar, where I tried to get cheese, corn, bread and milk, but could only find the latter. We passed on and made camp on the Socorro esecquia on fine grass. Last night we learned at Almillo that 25 Indians—Navajoes, who are all fast running away from the reservation at Bosque Rodondo—crossed the Puerco where we did, at the mail ranch the day before, and that they killed some women on the Bonito. We were lucky in missing them.

We left at 2:30 and soon found ourselves in the town of Socorro, where we stopped just long enough to try and buy a melon or two, and then drove on. It was after sundown when we reached San Antonio, having passed eight miles from Socorro, the little town of San Lopez. Here we were so lucky as to meet two Mexicans who were in the train with us, and had they not given us a few tortillas and melons, our supper, in our lonely camp at 8 o'clock tonight, would not have been quite as complete as it was. They pressed us to remain at their houses overnight, but our animals needed grass very much and we wish also to reach Fort Craig betimes tomorrow.

Monday, Sept. 11.—An hour before sunrise this morning we were on our way towards Fort Craig. Much to our satisfaction, about five miles of our road was good and hard, and destitute of the dreadful sand that has so tired down our animals, and we made right good speed and about 7:30 came to Stapleton's Ranch, a place I vividly remember, because of a night I passed strode away to his superintendency without the condiment of wifely action.

Regardless of yesterday's trials, Alice recognized that this was today, and at the very outset of their mutual difficulties she had failed in her one rigid purpose, which was to make Henry so thoroughly comfortable that he simply couldn't be cross with her, no matter if he got indigestion, and was discharged from the factory, and his bank failed, and the house burned down, all at the same time!

"Well," drowsed Roberta, opening one eye somewhat unwillingly, "we must have missed it."

"Missed what?"

"Henry's breakfast. Did we?"

"Y-yes—by an hour!"

"A' right—let's have another nap."

"Oh, I can't! I've got to go back and plan!"

"Plan for what, darling?"

"Henry's lunch," said Alice resolutely.

"My dear child! Don't you think of anything but grub? It won't take you two seconds to shake up something for Henry. In summer he's mostly herbivorous, anyway!"

"It was the f-first time!" groaned Alice. "You don't understand, Roberta—you're not married yet! I've got to have a wonderful lunch ready for him!"

"I may not be married yet," acknowledged Henry's sister; "but I've got some sense. You're absolutely spoiling that boy!"

"Of course I am! That's part of the f-fun!"

"Well, all right. I'd better go along, too—I know a raft of stuff Henry likes."

Accordingly they spent the morning concocting delicacies to tickle the palate of the unwary Henry, and they succeeded in arranging a menu which, if set down in cold type, would cause some of our leading metropolitan hostelries to tremble for their reputations. They even scouted for table decorations and risked the permanent dissatisfaction of the new maid by ordering ice cream frozen on Tuesday. They laid diplomatic pitfalls at every step.

At 11:45 Henry telephoned briefly that he was too busy to come home to lunch. He assured Alice that he wasn't cross, resentful or ill—he didn't tell her about the headache, which had disappeared as soon as George Graham beat him the first set—and he reminded her in monosyllables of Mrs. Henshaw's dance which they were to grace with their presence that evening. He hoped she would be ready on time, because he had to come home early to figure cost sheets.

"Oh, let's not go," begged Alice. "Let's stay home"——

"We've got to go," said Henry. "George's cousin from St. Paul is coming this afternoon, and I swore we'd be there to help her have a good time. She's a queen—you'll like her."

"You ought not to be so anxious to go," protested Alice, with another attempt at playfulness, for she reasoned that Henry's most vulnerable point was his sense of humor. "Now I know she's pretty!"

"Well—I may be married," said Henry, "but I'm hanged if I'm blind. She is!"

"There was a long silence, during which Central inquired solicitously if the line were busy.

"Well—good-by," murmured Alice, with a rising inflection.

"Good-by," responded Henry, hanging up the receiver with great alacrity and lending his attention to the seven employes who had been standing around his desk awaiting instructions.

Back to Roberta went the disconsolate young wife, and together they surveyed the banquet which was to have celebrated a lifelong reconciliation.

"It's a shame to waste all that party on a couple of girls," mused Roberta, moving the vase of pink roses a quarter inch to the right. "Isn't there somebody we can ask over here?"

"N-nobody I can think of"——

"We could make it a regular picnic—why not? I'll tell you—let's ask the Logans! They're perfectly good fun"——

"Oh, no! Let's not!"

"Why not? We've got to ask somebody!"

"They—they couldn't come," objected Alice. "They—they work in the electric light office."

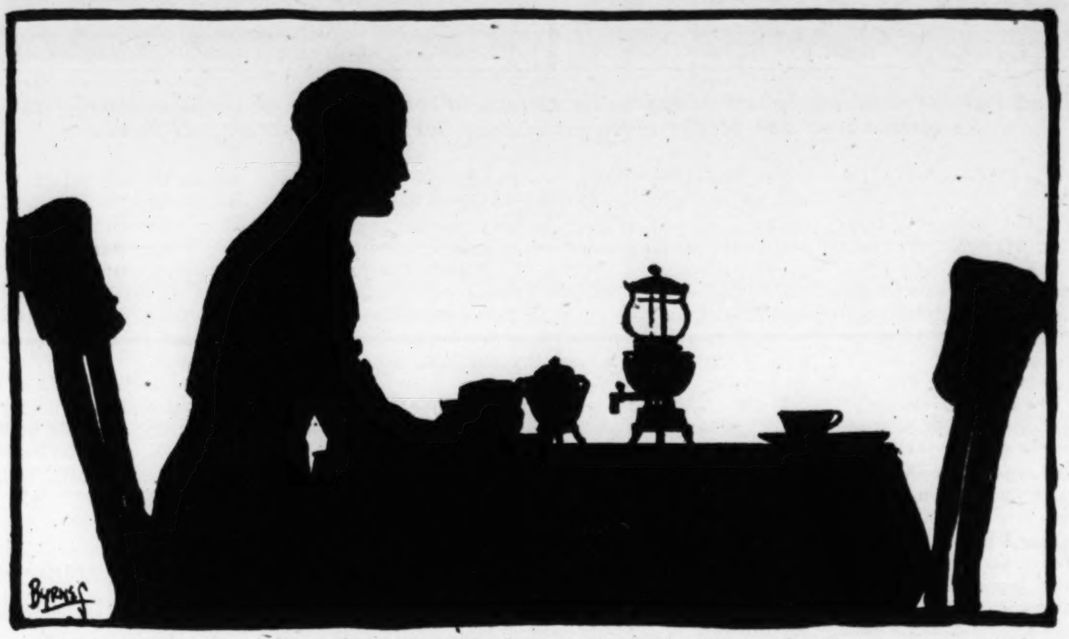
"It's a pity they can't have time for lunch, when their father's president of the company," said Roberta witheringly. "The trouble with you is that you hate to see anybody but Henry eat this party! Well, Tommy Logan's a regular demon on stuffed tomatoes—you'll make a big hit with him! And Billy's a perfect cave when it comes to deviled eggs! They'll like it, and we'll like it, and it'll be a nice thing to do, and Henry won't care, and all the food'll spoil if we don't, and I'm not awfully keen on working all one whole morning for nothing, and"——

"I don't care," asked Alice forlornly. "It's your party, Roberta—you can ask anybody you like."

The hands of the living-room clock hadn't yet reached the hour of 2 when Henry, in search of efficiency data he had left in his study, sprinted up the front walk and halted in amazement at the sound of revelry by noon. The Logan boys, whom Henry had known for 20 out of his 23 years, were innocently demolishing Henry's deviled eggs. Roberta was rapidly putting a stuffed tomato out of its misery and Alice was lugubriously decanting seltzer lemonade, Henry's favorite summer beverage, from a silver pitcher. It looked very sprightly and cheerful, and Henry wouldn't have minded it in the least if he'd known about it beforehand.

"Hello, old top!" said the Logan boys. "Want a handout? Why didn't you come home?"

"Come on in," invited Roberta. "Not that there's anything left to eat—just to be sociable."



And for the first time since last November, he had contemplated an empty chair across the table.

"How do you do?" said Henry to them all. "No, thanks—I'm in a hurry." He smiled mechanically. "Enjoy yourself while you're young," said Henry, "because when you're old you can't!" He hesitated on the threshold and turned back. "Oh, Alice," he told her, "I've got so much work to do tonight that I don't see how I can get away for that dance. George'll look after you—he's coming at 8 to take you over in our car. I don't think I'll be able to get there at all."

He walked away whistling, and only Alice detected the significant fact that it was off the key. The Logan boys looked at each other uncomfortably.

"He isn't peeved, is he?" asked Tommy, the elder.

"If he is, he'll soon get over it," declared Roberta.

"Henry's never peeved!" said Alice loyally, as she touched her handkerchief to her eyes.

In her heart, however, was a great aching pain; for once she had been silly enough to hope that they would be happy together for at least a year.

* * * * * * * *

While her hands were busy in the art of dressing, Alice kept her mind occupied with conjectures as to what her mother would probably do under similar circumstances. The conception was difficult, for she couldn't imagine her father ever causing the necessity of taking definite action. All the contemporary English authors had indirectly warned her against this very danger, this practical certainty of misunderstanding and estrangement; but in her unsophistication she had thought to avert the danger by ceasing to read the books. The heart of man, say the Proverbs, is to be reached through the digestive apparatus; but if the writer of Proverbs spoke the truth, she had affected only the Logan boys and left Henry unscathed. One day of this misery was tragic, and if she had merely the average span of life to accomplish, there were still 44 years of 365 1-4 days each—and, even omitting the multiplication, it was a long time. For the present—well, for the present she might as well enjoy the vacuous pleasures of society, and no one must penetrate the mask of her soul and know how forced was her gaiety, nor how her graciousness cloaked her utter despair.

She didn't in the least want to go to the Henshaws, but, rather than give Henry the satisfaction of knowing it, she allowed George Graham to convoy her there, and danced the first three dances with Billy Logan, who was just 20 years old and felt horribly devilish to be the partner of such a young and pretty married woman. At the conclusion of the third onestep they instinctively made for the sunken garden behind the Henshaws' house, and found a settee of reinforced concrete that tempted them. There they talked for a moment of the glassiness of the floor and the beauty of the hired palms. All around them were other couples likewise praising the scenery. It was beautifully conventional, but Billy Logan was just 20 years old and felt like a daring bohemian.

"What a bully thing life is!" he said, contemplating the moon with the air of an expert. "Doesn't it ever strike you so?"

"Why—I don't know."

"It sure is," confirmed Billy. "That was corking of you to have us up to lunch today. I liked it a lot. Roberta's a scream, isn't she?"

"Oh, yes! I'm glad you liked it."

"I liked every minute of it. Gee! It's lucky for Henry you didn't come out here two or three years ago."

"Why?"

"Henry wouldn't have had a ghost of a chance," said the 20-year-old, wriggling his toes in his pumps. He breathed stertorously and cocked his ear to the music of the orchestra. "That's some band, don't you think? Or maybe you don't care for this floozy stuff?"

"It's very nice," said Alice, wondering what Henry was doing.

"Music like that," said Billy Logan jerkily, "always makes me feel what a lot I've missed. Funny, isn't it?"

"What's funny?"

"Oh—the whole thing. Being married." He broke off half laughingly. "We bachelors get to thinking about that, you know. Band ripping off some light stuff, and plenty of moon"——

"Oh, I don't think it's funny at all!"

He looked at her questioningly.

"Well—I'll never marry, anyway," prophesied Billy Logan.

"Why, how ridiculous!"

"No. In the first place, somebody married the only girl I could ever see; and in the next place, the girls around here think I'm too—I don't know. I don't think I'm very speedy. Of course, I like good clothes and exciting times. But I guess I'll have to go it alone!" His features were cast as the features of those who die with fortitude because their cause is right.

"Oh, I'm sorry!" said Alice compassionately. "But there's lots of girls, Billy"——

"There's only one of you!" he retorted. "I mean it! Nobody understands me but you—nobody ever has! I get red in the face explaining and explaining; you always know just what I'm talking about! You haven't lived here a year, and you know me better than—anybody! My family all think they do. But it's awful! I wish I'd married you myself!"

Mrs. Chalmers, stunned at first by the overwhelming frankness of the boy, gradually found her tongue.

"Why," she stammered, "you don't think—all there is to being married—is to understand, do you?"

"Well," he retorted, "what else is there?"

Apparently there was nothing for her to say.

"No," continued Billy Logan; "just to understand—and not get all huffed up about little things; sort of swap ideas, that's all. Most people don't understand anybody. Most of 'em don't even try. But you never had to try. You just understood, and that was all there was about it. I wish Henry hadn't been so blamed early," he lamented. "That's just like him, anyway—he's always about one jump ahead of anybody else!"

"Don't you like George's cousin? People say I'm very much like her."

"Oh, yes—she's a pippin!" He came to himself with a violent start and leaped to his feet. "For the love of Mike!" he exclaimed. "I had this dance with her! She'll think I'm a hayseed all right. Coming?"

"N-no—I think I'll stay out here just a minute."

The young romanticist—who, of course, didn't know yet that he was scheduled by the fates to fall in love with the Grahams' cousin and marry her a year from next February—wavered between duty and inclination,

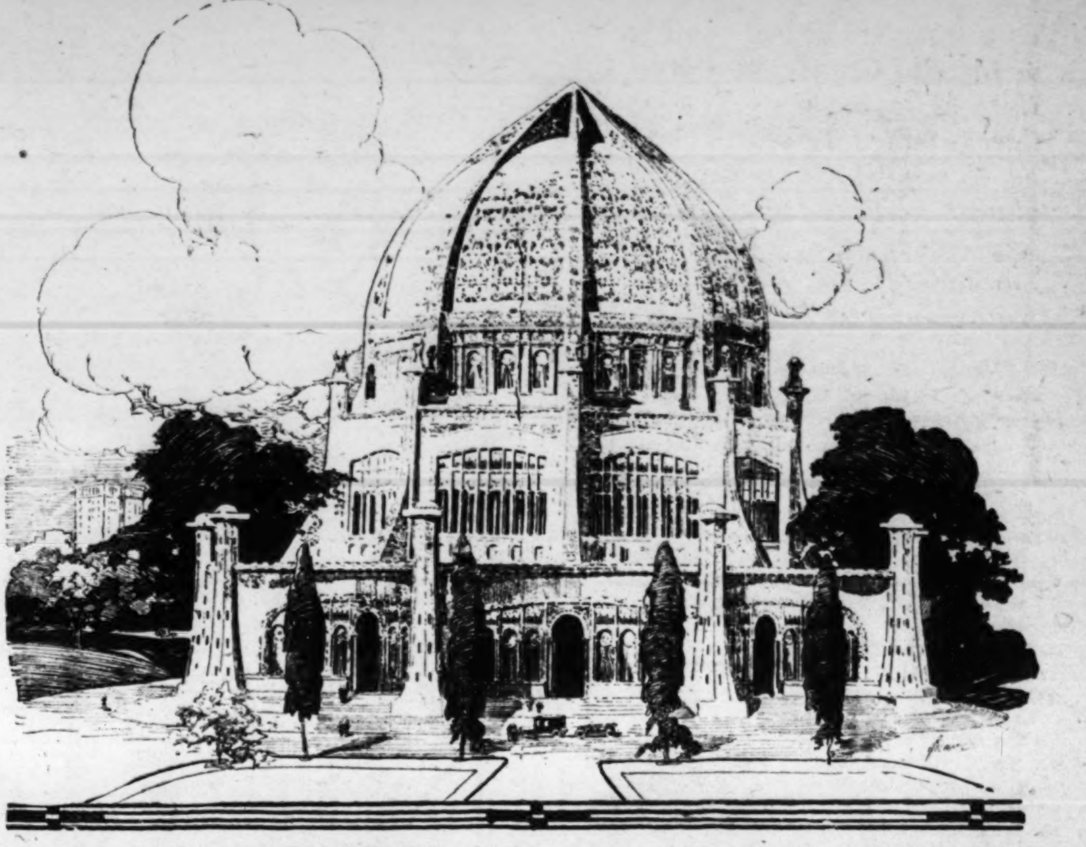
MECCA OF ORIENTAL CULT TO BE ESTABLISHED ON LAKE MICHIGAN

Great domed temple with nine sides, to be erected there as world's central shrine of Bahaism—Abdul Baba Abbas, pontiff of the sect, invited to make sane his residence—Aim of new faith, which has many adherents in America, is to reconcile all religions, and institute reign of universal love :: :: ::



Accepted design for great Bahai Temple of white stone, which is to be erected in Chicago.

IN THE spring eight years ago the prophet Abdul Baba Abbas came to America to visit his new disciples here, and to gain new disciples. He was an old man of middle heights, emaciated, ascetic. His face was long, very thin and very pale, and was seamed with innumerable fine wrinkles. His beard was long and voluminous, and seemed of the texture of gossamer—a nebulous cloud of gleaming white. He wore a brown habit, the gown of the Mohammedan scholar, and a white turban. He moved slowly and with great dignity, and wore a constant air of profound inwardness and meditation. In every manner the prophet Abdul Baba was an idealized picture of the Eastern sage, of the venerable ancient who has followed the way of ascetic abnegation for more years than men are accustomed to live, and who has endured all the trials of torment, prison and imminent death which prophets and devotees have always had to endure.

The American tour of Abdul Baba drew much note. It was obvious that here was a beautiful figure, a man of infinite romance and Eastern fantasies. His religion had made some progress in this country, and he had come to crystallize the movement here and drive it into full course. This he did, and today the strange, turbaned, white-bearded figure of the prophet stands the central figure in one of the romances of the season.

The other week there was a five-day convention of American Bahai. Delegates attended from all part of the country. They reported great progress. Communities of the new religion were thriving in almost every sizable American city. In New York a Bahaist library was an influential center whence the teachings of the prophet were dispensed. A chain of vegetarian Bahaist restaurants was being operated for the rescue of the derelict. But the central purpose of the convention was to arrange for the erection of a great temple, to be a world cathedral of Bahaism.

At the Engineering Building, on West Thirty-ninth street, New York City, an assembly room was lined with drawings of exotic buildings. Some were Arabic, like the Mosque of Omar; some were in the Moorish vein of the ruined Alhambra; some resembled the Taj Mahal of Hindustan; all had the curious beauty and poetry of Moslem architecture. On a table at one end of the room stood a white temple in miniature. Its cast, too, was Oriental, Islamic. It had nine sides and was crowned with a great dome. It was covered with intertwined carvings of decorative figures, Arabic symbols and the number "9," the sacred number of Bahaism.

The exhibits were attentively examined by a throng of men and women. They were well dressed and were evidently of affluent social circles. They were Bahaist delegates bent on choosing a design for the projected temple. A meeting was held, addresses were made and a vote taken. The white model was selected, and its designer, Louis Bourgoise of New York, received congratulations, the fervor of which bespoke the ardent religiosity of the American Bahais, and the almost mystical importance which they attach to the strange edifice they are about to erect.

It is to stand in Chicago, and will cost between two and three million dollars. It will not only be the temple, but also the academy of Bahaism. It will house teachers and pupils, will provide lecture rooms, libraries, offices. It will be the Sorbonne of Bahaism, as well as its St. Peter's—it will also be its Vatican.

"Will Abdul Baha come to America?" a reporter for the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine asked a prominent Bahai.

"We have sent a message," was the reply, "asking the master to come and live among us. He has replied in these words: 'Perhaps, if you love one another well enough, I will come and live among you.' We are sure he will come. We are building the temple for him."

The Bahais, then, are building a great white temple, with nine sides, for the reception of their prophet. Chicago is to be the Mecca of the new cult, the Mecca to which all of America is to journey. The Bahaist leaders believe that the erection of their temple and the residence of the venerable prophet in it will result in the speedy conversion of all America to Bahaism. What is the nature of this new religion which has such ambitious expectations, and which, to be sure, has already made extraordinary progress in this country and throughout the Western world? A fragment of little-known history will answer this.

Seventy-odd years ago, in the town of Tabriz, in Persia, a young prophet was placed against the granite wall of the arg, the citadel, and was shot to death by Persian soldiery. He was a youth of Shiraz, who had announced, half a dozen years before, that he had received divine manifestations. He had called himself the "Bab" or "gateway of true religion," and had speedily collected a group of enthusiasts about him. His teachings dealt with metaphysical intricacies. At the bottom was a great vein of Islamic liberalism. The Bab had proclaimed the equality of all sages, prophets and revelations, and the brotherhood of all religions. He had decried the hatred of the true believer for the Giaour, and had rated the Christian as good as a follower of the Prophet. No longer, he had exhorted, should a pious Moslem break the dish out of which a Christian had eaten, and no longer was the killing of an infidel Frank a deed pleasing to Allah.

This strange doctrine quite inevitably aroused the wrath of the Moslem masses, and the young prophet expiated his liberalism with his blood. His followers were subjected to some of the most savage persecutions known to history. The massacres of the Eastern Babists stand high as examples of the ferocity of religious hatred on one side and of the fortitude of devoted sectaries on the other. The endurance of the Christian martyrs of the first three centuries A. D. was matched in these sanguinary episodes. The cult of the Babi, however, endured.

The Bab was succeeded by a young disciple who took the name of Subh-i-Ezel, or Morning of Eternity. This second pontiff escaped from Persia to Bagdad, where he lived in retirement and confided the direction of the new religion to his half-brother, Baha'o'llah, or Splendor of God, who, in 1863, proclaimed himself head of the religion, which now became known as Bahaism. It was Baha'o'llah who addressed a letter to the potentates of Europe in which he foretold the coming of a vast international war. This, interpreted as a direct prophecy of the world war, is held in great store by the Bahaists. Baha'o'llah died in 1892, and was succeeded by his son, the present Abdul Baba Abbas.

Bahaism continued its spread through Islam and presently invaded Christendom. The Bahais tell of a noted English scholar who, having heard of a great philosopher teaching in the East, had sought him out. The philosopher was Abdul Baba, and the scholar returned homeward full of his teaching. This, they say, was the beginning of Bahaism in the West. The first Bahaist apostle to America was Ibrahim George Kharu'llah, who began his teaching at the Chicago World's Fair in 1892.

It is a curious and colorful thing, the spread in this Western land of a liberalist movement from Islam. Bahaism is essentially Mohammedan in its tone. Arabic stands as the sacred theological language among the Bahais. These, in general, know a few Arabic terms and display them. The cryptical speculations for the ambitious Bahais to unriddle are descended from the subtle doctrine of the Shi'a, the thorny metaphysical perplexities

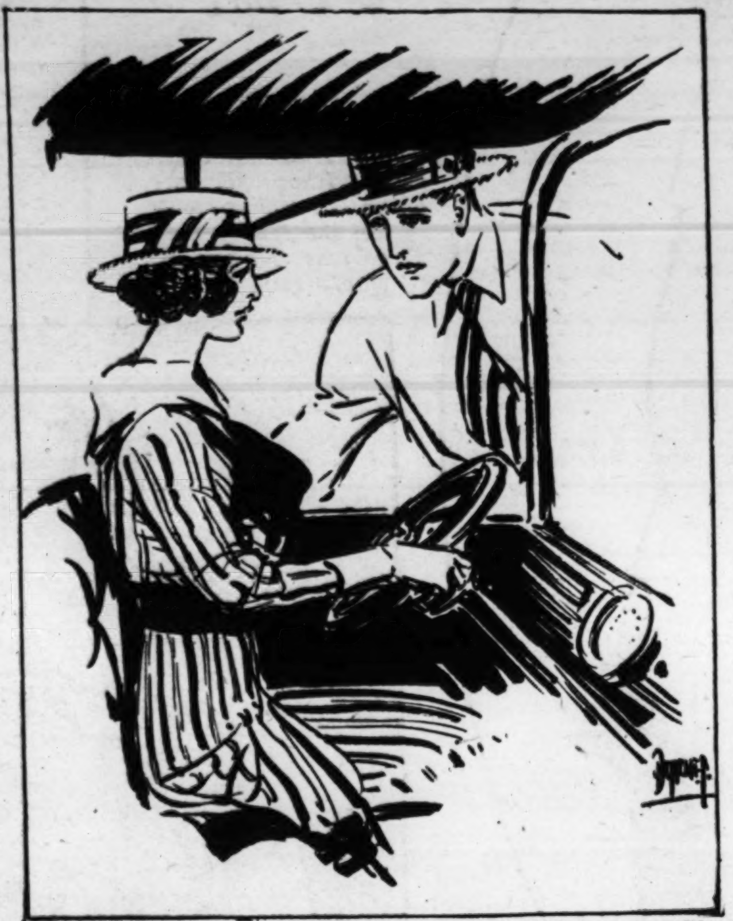
Henry Pours Gasoline on the Sea of Matrimony

By HOLWORTHY HALL

ON PLEASANT summer afternoons the right-minded youth of Navarre plays tennis at the Country Club, with unquestioned benefit to health and disposition and no small profit to the Navarre Steam Laundry, which looks with official approval upon the picturesque turf courts and makes a special rate for grass-stained flannels. Thus it was Henry Chalmers' invariable custom—unless alienated by foul weather—to appear on Oak street shortly after 5 in the afternoon and to sound the horn of the new runabout until Alice ran down from the house, dressed for play. From that point forward the procedure was in the way of routine; for it was inevitable that, when Henry returned to his native heath from Boston, he should resume his pre-eminence on the local courts and demonstrate to our set that some practical advantage lies in a college education.

He played tennis remarkably well, and this fact alone would have preserved his status in that young, hero-worshiping community; but when he drove Alice (none of the other men of his age were yet married) out to the club in his new runabout (none of them yet owned a motor, although some of them owned fathers who did) after a meeting of the Board of Education (none of his friends had even scratched the soil of politics), and when he carelessly threw his H sweater over his shoulder (there wasn't another yard of 'Varsity wool in Navarre!) before he went out to practice a few backhand lawfords (nobody else played a very good forehand!) Henry Chalmers occupied the position that might comparatively be granted to a composite entity of Sir Galahad, Andrew Carnegie, Theodore Roosevelt, Tyrus R. Cobb and the Kaiser—only, in the calm and unprejudiced opinion of Navarre, Henry would still have seemed a bit superior to the combination.



"It's getting a little monotonous. Please think it over while I'm gone."

It is generally admitted, however, that one exception proves any rule you care to name; and the exception on the present occasion was that Henry appeared on foot, for the simple reason that Alice had requisitioned the tiny car for social purposes, and left 14 cards in a single afternoon, thereby establishing a new competitive record for the vicinity and wiping out her debit account on the page of human intercourse.

He came on foot, and ploddingly, because the day of confinement in the factory had worn upon him and a frontal headache was beginning to corrugate his forehead into unbecoming little wrinkles. The sight of the faithful runabout standing at the curbstone warmed his heart and quickened his steps; for already he saw in prospect an invigorating match with George Graham, who now and then could force even Henry to a 'vantage set—and he also saw a long, tinkling glass of iced coffee on the club veranda, and a cold shower in that portion of the clubhouse to such hygienic purposes duly consecrated.

Proudly he approached his juggernaut, and proudly he depressed the bulb, causing the horn to emit a series of piteous moans which were capable of deflecting the busiest traffic on Main street out of sheer sympathy. Down from the house dashed Alice, radiant and happy, tying a white felt hat over her head as she came. She climbed to the seat and waited expectantly. Henry, clearing his forehead of corrugations by great exertion of will power, went to the bow and began to turn the crank. The proverb distinctly states that one good turn deserves another; but at the twentieth revolution Alice was moved to a startled exclamation.

"Oh, Henry!" she said. "I don't believe there's any gasoline! And, if there is, it's full of dirt!"

"What!" panted Henry, rising patiently from his labor.

"N-no. I remember now—I forgot to stop downtown to get some. I's awfully sorry, dear. I'll see if there's any left—but I'm quite sure there isn't a drop! I just barely got up the hill. I—I meant to tell you before you cranked," she finished apologetically.

While Henry leaned against a convenient tree, she made a hurried inspection of the tank under the seat.

"No," she reported dolefully; "there isn't a drop!"

Henry removed the evidences of honest toil from his brow and came slowly to Alice's side. She wasn't yet advised of his headache, or of the cause, so that she naturally expected the same course of action as on three previous incidents of the same nature. Henry would grin, remark that if motors could be run by explosions of laughter it wouldn't cost him anything to keep half a dozen, and depart with a large tin pail for the nearest plutocrat among their neighbors, distant five blocks. She was smiling deprecatingly down at him when she observed that Henry wasn't smiling at all. He looked about as cheerful as a dyspeptic at a lodge banquet, which is superlative.

"Alice," he said, "if you insist on milking this animal perfectly dry every time you take it out, I wish you could manage to do it when I don't have to walk a mile on a hot day"——

"The worst of it is," he added, "that I have to borrow juice from Nickerson, and he never lets me pay it back, so I've gouged him for about 10 gallons already. It's getting a little montonous. Please think it over while I'm gone."

"I meant to stop," began Alice feebly. But he stalked away in the direction of the Nickersons, who cherished a hogshead of the precious fluid behind the barn.

She sat dazed and baffled until he was out of sight. Then she drew a long sigh and winked desperately. Well! So the books were right, after all! So the honeymoon was over and the gray pall of martyrdom had already begun to drape itself over her shoulders! All those modern English authors say it's sure to come sooner or later—and it had—sooner than she had expected! Henry—her Henry—had reached the crossroads and failed her. Well, the pessimists were right, then. She shivered. Somehow, she'd thought her marriage would be different. Of course, there might be extenuating circumstances—she seemed to remember hearing Henry mention the dentist only a few days ago. Still, on second thought, she recalled that Henry had visited him at that time, and returned to her plus immense relief and minus lower 7 of his molars. There could be no legitimate excuse, then, and the nominations were closed. Man is but mortal, and—she sighed—forgiveness may be divine and all that, but it grows tiresome when reduced to the level of a habit. And the books say that soon after the first disillusionment you begin to quarrel!

"There!" said Henry, dumping gasoline into the yawning tank. "Same old story, Alice—glad to oblige me and all that sort of rot. It's pretty embarrassing—I hope it won't happen again. We're off!"

"That's nice," murmured Alice, trying to be conciliating.

Henry, starting the motor, bestowed upon her a swift glance, in which weariness, headache and the failure to catch her remark were the chief ingredients; but she saw only wrath and displeasure, and her gentle heart sank disconcertingly, raising her own resentment in equal measure, as if it had been the other balance of a pair of scales.

"Henry! You m-mustn't look at me that way!"

"How did I look at you?" he demanded, dropping into his seat and letting in the clutch.

"You looked—fierce! I never saw you look that way before!"

"Well," he conceded in the vernacular of the period, "I feel fierce, and I don't know that I ever happened to feel this way before."

"Oh!"

They were half way to the Country Club before she regained sufficient composure to address another remark to him.

"You don't seem to like me very much today, Henry."

"I don't like anybody today," he said, with an effort at smiling humorously.

It was unfortunate that he assumed the cynical grimace of a gargoyle and that Alice again misunderstood him. It flashed upon her that she was only 1500 miles from her loving parents—you change at Buffalo and make it in 36 hours on the limited—and that it was many, many years since she had been a girl in whose presence men shunned the laconic forms of speech and tried to propitiate her. She longed suddenly for the companionship of another woman—of Roberta, of Helen Graham, of almost anybody—and she knew that she couldn't bring herself to play mixed doubles as Henry's partner while he was in this terrible mood. She would be nervous and apprehensive and play badly, and that would further trouble him, because he knew how well she could generally play. Still less could she bear to contest against him.

"If you don't mind, Henry, I think I won't play today. I'll sit on the lawn and w-watch"——

"Just as you like," said Henry, meaning to be thoughtful. "As a matter of fact, I had a date with George anyway."

He turned up the drive and stopped at the porte-cochere.

Alice was out of the runabout and across the veranda before he could turn the battery switch. She fell upon the astonished Roberta and dragged her aside.

"Oh, Roberta!" she faltered. "I'm so glad to see you!"

Roberta, avoiding the obvious remark that she hadn't changed since they last met, which was at dinner last night, looked at Henry and patted Alice's spine maternally.

"You need a rest," said Roberta grimly. "Henry's all right, but you can't expect him to have any sense—he's only a man! You come over and stay with me tonight. I'll fix you up! I'll bet you're homesick!"

Through Alice's mind ran the not unfeminine thought that Henry, if left in solitude for an evening, would repent lavishly, and that if she seized the opportunity at floodtide they might yet live happily ever after. Yes; one of the books had mentioned such a remote possibility, and she wanted to give Henry every inducement to reform. She completely forgot that he had set apart this evening for a moonlight ride to Britannia with her, and that he was unusually eager for it because lately he had been rather too busy to devote an entire evening to motoring. She observed Henry, with glowering eye and wrinkled forehead, aiming for the lockers.

"All right," said Alice tremulously. "I'll come. But—but, Roberta, dear—I've got to be home for breakfast!"

* * * * * * * *

It was nearly 8 o'clock when Alice wakened to the fearful realization that she had overslept. Her first impulse was to scurry down to the telephone and tell Henry to wait for her; but her second thought sent her into an agony of self-blame and repentance. She recollected now that only yesterday morning he had commented upon the dismal necessity of stock taking or stock watering or one of those ponderously technical details, and had expressly stipulated for coffee, cereal and toast at 7 sharp. He was already at the factory. And for the first time since last November, he had contemplated an empty chair across the table and

First photograph from sky to reveal the magnificent shrine on the crest of Mt. Girnar, up whose precipitous slopes tens of thousands of Hindu pilgrims toil each year to pay their devotions. This resplendent city of worship, with its minarets, domes and ornate turrets, was built several centuries ago. The larger structures are temples; the smaller ones are tombs of nabobs who were governors of vast areas under the Moguls. Devotees travel long distances to visit the fane; after the ascent of its difficult trails, under the blazing tropical sun, they need give no further evidence of their religious zeal.

This with an entirely new method. A toilet accessory as dainty and exquisite, from name to setting, as ever graced one's vanity table!

THE NEW WAY

The name is PRIM. It is a preventative. A lotion colorless and odorless; harmless alike to skin or sheerest fabric.

Containing a certain volatile element, which distinguishes it from all other preparations of similar purpose,

—Prim is so mild that one could safely use it as a wash for the mouth. Yet, so positive a corrective that a single application "lasts" for days; curbing the moisture of perspiration itself, and making even a suggestion of its attendant evils impossible.

HOW PRIM ACTS

The object of PRIM is underarm dryness and personal freshness --- scientifically effected. This in accord with thoroughly approved prophylactic methods, which, by correcting the cause, obviate the distressing effects of perspiration.

Pronounced harmless by prominent doctors, Prim may be used without hesitancy as non-injurious to the most delicate skin or complexion.

HOW TO USE PRIM

Apply it just as you would a toilet water, twice a week regularly. And then banish all thought of perspiration annoyance! With the cause removed, your gowns cannot be stained. Nor your poise disturbed by fear of an "obviousness" not even remotely possible!

ALREADY THE ACCEPTED METHOD

Although a mere debutante, Prim is already the accepted method of the discriminating. Dainty and refreshing, it comes as a charming proof that even so trying a problem as perspiration can be solved —exquisitely.

WHERE TO OBTAIN PRIM

At department stores and druggists. Price 50c. If you cannot obtain it at your dealers, mail the coupon below with 50c. In St. Louis you will find Prim at Famous Barr, Vandervoort's, Grand Leader, Nugents, Wolff-Wilson, Judge & Dolph toilet departments, or any druggist will supply you.

PRIM
Non-Perspirant

So that the lingerie she loves be kept safe from the ravages of perspiration; Madame makes twice a week applications of PRIM a part of her creed.

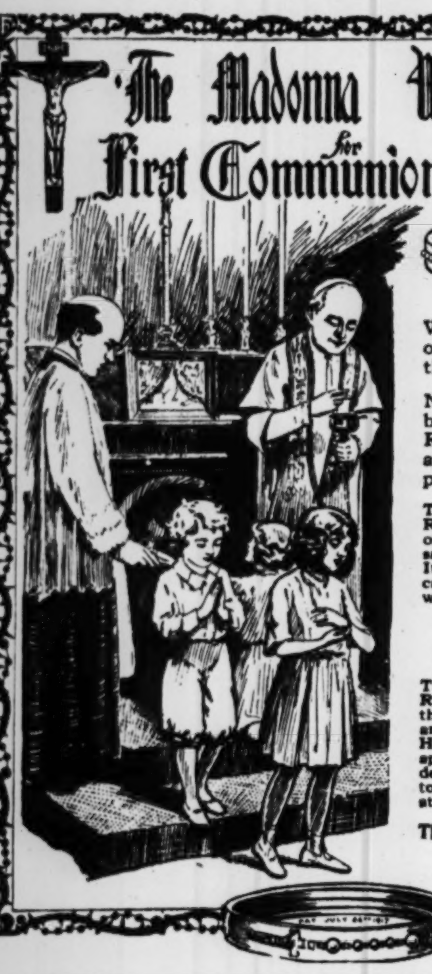
The Madonna Wrist Rosary for First Communion Gifts



Will be a sweet reminder of children's duty toward the Blessed Mother.

Never has the need of the beautiful devotion of the Rosary been more imperative among our young people than today.

The MADONNA WRIST ROSARY is made of one piece of metal, with complete Rosary embossed on its outer side. It opens and clasps easily, and can be put on and taken off without trouble.

Prices range from $2.00 to $200.00

For Sale at ALL Dealers

The MADONNA WRIST ROSARY was submitted to the proper Church authorities, and on June 21, 1918, his Holiness Pope Benedict XV, approved it as an article of devotion, permitting the Apostolic Indulgence to be attached thereto.

NESTLÉ'S MILK FOOD

ALICE WOLF

Brooklyn, N. Y.

Nestlés Food Co.:

My baby, Alice Wolf, has been raised exclusively on Nestlés Food since she was four months old. She has been awarded the first prize by the Department of Health of New York City for the most perfect child between the ages of two and six years. I found it necessary to give her an artificial food, and after trying several someone told me to try Nestlé's. Your food agreed perfectly from the first feeding with the above result. Yours sincerely,

Mrs. Frances Wolf
1613-15 Eastern Parkway

NESTLE'S is pure milk in powder form, already modified, and does not require additional milk. Always pure and safe, always uniform, and free from the difficulties of home modification, Nestlé's has stood the test of three generations and has today the largest sale of any baby food in the world.

Free to Mothers
A trial package—enough for 12 feedings—and a valuable book for mothers.

These Keds oxfords are just right for street shoes. Slender lines, military heels—of fine even canvas.

The most popular sport shoes the country over. These Keds are being worn at all the fashionable resorts. Snugly fitting ankle, light and springy. Also low oxford models.

Pumps that are correct with the dressiest frocks. These Keds have half Louis heels, long, graceful vamps.

How to select the right shoes for your summer gowns

Various new models and the costumes with which they are correct

IF you would be correctly dressed this season, you must select shoes that will be right with each gown.

For muslins, organdies and fluffy summer frocks, there are various trim pumps. Oxfords are correct for street wear and shopping. Sport shoes are to be worn more generally than before, but only with tailored costumes.

The most popular fabric for shoes this season is canvas. Keds represent a whole family of canvas rubber soled shoes with all the newest lasts and styles, and the various types of heel that are most seen: the half Louis, the military, and the low athletic type.

Well-dressed women say they can find Keds that are appropriate for every gown. And so very reasonable are they that it is possible to have a wide variety of models in your summer wardrobe.

Some of the latest Keds models are made on entirely new lines and have leather shoe construction, welt construction soles and the reinforcements that give a shoe body. This makes a canvas rubber soled shoe that is just as dignified and as dressy as many of the most expensive leather shoes.

There are Keds for everyone—models for men and boys and many different kinds of children. Keds are made only by the United States Rubber Company. They have spent many years developing a line of stylish practical canvas shoes.

Your dealer will show you Keds. The appearance, the fit and the price will delight you. Look for the name Keds on the sole. For men and women, $1.50 to $7.00. Children, $1.15 to $4.50.

The shoe the children love. The wide last is just right for growing feet. Suitable for dress-up or for playtime. A similar model is popular with women and girls.

Cocoanut Oil Shampoo

Coconol

Coconol is a delightfully mild, refreshing shampoo, made from purest imported cocoanut oil, especially for shampooing the hair. It cleanses the scalp and oil ducts, removes excess oil, dust, dandruff and impurities. Coconol will not split, discolor or injure the hair in any way. The mild, soothing, creamy foam penetrates the hair ducts, cleanses them thoroughly, and nourishes the roots of the hair, promoting a long, thick growth of lustrous, beautiful hair.

Only 25 Cents a Box—At All Dealers

The large box contains 12 snow-white cubes of pure, mild Coconol, and only costs 25 cents. Each cube is sufficient for a shampoo. Simply dissolve it in hot water. It makes a rich, thick foam that cleanses the hair and scalp quickly, and without injury. Try this perfect shampoo, that not only cleanses but invigorates the roots of the hair and promotes a thick growth.

Send Coupon and 4 Cents for Trial Size Box

If your dealer has not received his supply of Coconol, mail us the coupon with four cents in stamps and we will send you a liberal Trial Size Box—together with booklet which tells how to take care of the hair

Faces Made Young

The secret of a youthful face will be sent to any woman whose appearance shows that time or illness or any other cause is stealing from her the charm of girlhood beauty. It will show how without cosmetics, creams, massage, masks, plasters, straps, vibrators, "beauty" treatments or other artificial means, she can remove the traces of age from her countenance. Every woman, young or middle aged, who has a single facial defect should know about the remarkable which remove lines and "crow's feet" and wrinkles; fill up hollows; give roundness to scrawny necks; lift up sagging corners of the mouth; and clear up muddy or sallow skins. It will show how five minutes daily with Kathryn Murray's simple facial exercises will work wonders. This information is free to all who ask for it.

Results Guaranteed

HEAVENS! - HAWKSHAW'S CLOTHES ALL STREWN ABOUT! THERE'S BEEN VIOLENCE DONE HIM AT LAST, BY THOSE VILLAINS!
PARDON ME, - CAN YOU TELL ME WHERE I CAN FIND HAWKSHAW?
- THAT'S WHAT I WANT TO KNOW! - LOOKS LIKE FOUL PLAY HERE! - YOU'RE THE OLD GENTLEMAN I SEE EVERY EVENING, VIEWING THE SCENERY OUT ON THE BLUFF, OVER-LOOKING THE LAKE?
YES, AND I NEED HAWKSHAW AT ONCE! - - WON'T YOU PLEASE COME WITH ME AND HELP ME?
I REALLY OUGHT TO LOOK FOR HAWKSHAW FIRST - BUT IF YOU'RE IN DANGER, LEAD THE WAY - I'LL GO!
WHEN YOU SEE A RUFFIAN WITH SIDE-WHISKERS AND GLASSES (HIS NAME IS TOBY) RUNNING DOWN THROUGH THESE TREES, FROM THE BLUFF, HOLD HIM UP, AND FETCH HIM DOWN TO WHERE I SHALL BE AT THE DOCK, WILL YOU!
ALL RIGHT - I KNOW TOBY - I'D LIKE TO SEE HIM MYSELF!
I REALLY OUGHT TO GO BACK AND SEARCH FOR HAWKSHAW - BUT I'LL SEE THIS OLD GENTLEMAN'S CASE THROUGH FIRST - BESIDES, TOBY MAY HAVE HAD A HAND IN HAWKSHAW'S DISAPPEARANCE!
THERE'S THE RICH OLD CODGER NOW - REG'LAR AS CLOCK-WOIK - I'LL SNEAK UP, AN' WHEN I 'EARS YOU STRIKE YER OAR ON THE BOAT I'LL JOLLY WELL PUSH 'IM OVER THE BLOOMIN' BLUFF!!
YES, AN' THEN BEAT IT AWAY, THROUGH THE TREES, LIKE I TOLD YER - SO NOBODY KNOWS YOU HAD ANYTHING TER DO WITH IT, SEE?
TOBY MUST BE UP THERE BY THIS TIME - I'LL GIVE THE SIGNAL!
KNOCK! KNOCK!
HERE COMES MY MEAT!
I'LL SAVE YER, MISTER!
